The Chicago Tribune

is a newspaper for bright and intelligent people. It is made up to attract people who think

Is not neutral or colorless, constantly trimming in an endeavor to please both sides, but it is independent in the best sense of the word.

It has pronounced opinions and is fearless in expressing them, but it is always fair to its opponents.

Matters of national or vital public interest get more space in THE TRIBUNE than in any other paper in the West.

For these reasons it is the newspaper you should read during the forthcoming political campaign.

THE TRIBUNE'S financial columns never mislead the public

Its facilities for gathering news, both local and foreign, are far superior to those of any other newspaper in the West.

It presents the news in as fair a way as possible, and lets its readers form their opinions.

While it publishes the most comprehensive articles on all news features, if you are busy the "Summary of THE DAILY TRIBUNE" published daily on the first page gives you briefly all the news of the day within one column.

Its sporting news is always the best, and its Sunday Pink Sporting Section is better than any sporting paper in the country.

It is the "cleanest" daily printed in the West.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! A WONDERFUL KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY, And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

I. A. HOPKINS.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 63 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 407 Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

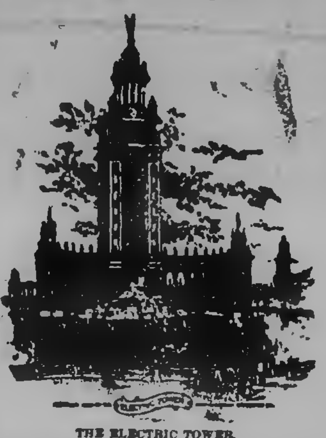
BRILLIANT IN COLORS

PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION WILL GLOW WITH WONDERFUL RADIANCE.

Electrical Illuminations and Other Features In Which Buffalo's Fair Will Excel All Former Enterprises of This Description.

Even the Buffalonian cannot comprehend the exquisite character of the great Exposition he is building. Is it any wonder, then, that the distant native still asks what it is to be? Indeed it is to be everything that is graceful, harmonious and beautiful. Form and color will join their wonderful forces to please the eye and delight the sense.



THE ELECTRIC TOWER.

"Magnificent" is not too strong a word to express the character of the completed work. He is a man of dull imagination who, now visiting the grounds, cannot picture in some degree the comeliness and stateliness of the finished enterprise.

The Pan-American Exposition is intended to be in every way an artistic triumph. From the very beginning it has been the purpose of those who have been intrusted with the making of this Exposition to present to the world the most artistic creation ever conceived for a like purpose. The arrangement of the buildings, the style of architecture, the decorative work, the embellishment of the grounds and the electrical illumination are some of the features that will stand out prominently in the Exposition picture. There are 33 acres in the courts around which stand the principal Exposition buildings. While the whole Exposition plot of 350 acres will be as beautiful as nature, with the artistic help of man, can make it, the several courts will be the particular center for formal decorative work. The courts are arranged in the form of a cross, the north and south courts bearing the names of Court of Fountains, Plaza, Fore Court and Approach and being nearly 3,000 feet in extreme length. The Transverse Court is known as the Esplanade and is 1,700 feet from east to west. Two subordinate courts open into the Esplanade, known as the Court of Lilies and Court of Cypresses. The combined area of these courts is approximately two and a half times the area of the courts at the World's Columbian Exposition and for this reason gives a far greater opportunity for artistic treatment.

It has been said of this Exposition that it would outrival all former enterprises in a number of important features. The first of these is in the court settings just described. The second is in the plastic ornamentation of buildings and the elaborate use of sculpture for decorative purposes. As a third may be mentioned the hydraulic and fountain effects. These are of a most elaborate character and are to be seen in all of the courts. A fourth feature is the horticultural decorative work. Sunken gardens and formal floral ornamentation will be employed at every point where the bright colors of foliage and flowers will add to the beauty of the scene. As a fifth feature may be noted the color decoration of the buildings. This is a very elaborate undertaking, the result of mature study upon the part of the best mural painters of the world. Considered a very difficult, if not embarrassing, problem at first, it has been worked out by patient study until results very pleasing and happy have been achieved. A sixth point of excellence will be the electrical illumination of all the courts. Then the brilliance of the gardens and the radiant beauty of the buildings will be heightened by the glow of 200,000 electric lamps arranged with artistic conception and illuminating with fantastic hues the numberless fountains and pools and turning the scene into one of unrivaled splendor.

The style of architecture is what is described as a free adaptation of the Spanish renaissance. It is particularly appropriate for the purposes of an Exposition since it gives opportunity for the employment of many architectural features of a festive character. Thus the visitor may see many lofty towers and lanterns, graceful domes and minarets, airy pavilions and other decorative work that will produce a sky line free from any suggestions of monotony or severity.

The Electric Tower, standing in a broad pool between the Court of Fountains and the Plaza, is to be the centerpiece for electrical illumination. This tower is 80 feet square and 375 feet high, with circular wings curving from the east and west sides to the southward and forming a semicircular space in which are to be many beautiful fountain features. From the southern face of the Tower a cascade will gush from a niche, 70 feet from the ground, and fall upon a terraced base. At night this cascade and the fountains and pools will be illuminated in fantastic colors. Floating lights upon all the pools will form an interesting feature of the general scheme of illumination.

Some 30 or more American sculptors of renown are at work upon the decorative groups which are to have a place at this Exposition. These are to be nearly all original productions under the master direction of Karl Bitter. It will be the most elaborate use of decorative sculpture ever undertaken at an Exposition, there being more than 125 groups. These will adorn the fountains, bridges, entrances to buildings and other salient points.

Besides the pools and fountains, within the several courts will be a grand and stately canal which will surround the entire group of buildings. In the southern reaches of this canal are artificial bodies of water known as the Mirror Lakes, from which lagoons extend in several directions, thickly set with aquatic plants of rare species.

In addition to the sunken gardens and other floral features of the courts will be the horticultural exhibits in the southern part of the grounds. These will consist of several acres of beds of the finest productions of the best nurseries and greenhouses of the western world. The competition for supremacy will be very keen and the lover of flowers will have a rare opportunity to make a comparison of the merits of the productions of competing growers.

MARK BENNITT.

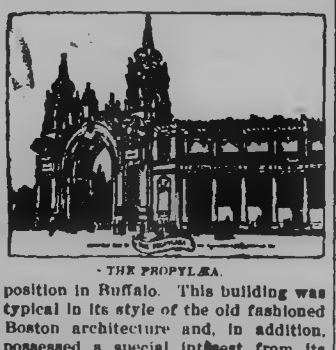
BAY STATE AT BUFFALO.

Fine Historical Exhibit Will Be Made by Massachusetts.

The historic commonwealth of Massachusetts will have a most interesting exhibit at the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo.

It is being collected through the cooperation of various societies, such as the Sons of the Revolution, Daughters of the Revolution, Sons of the American Revolution, Daughters of the American Revolution, the Society of the War of 1812 and kindred organizations. The chairman of the Massachusetts Pan-American commission, Mr. Walter Gilman Page, is a leading spirit in these societies and is anxious that the wealth of historic material possessed by Massachusetts should be adequately represented at the Pan-American Exposition.

The matter of a building has not yet been definitely decided, but it is probable that the old Providence House, which was one of the historic buildings of Boston, will be reproduced as a home for Massachusetts exhibits at the Exposition in Buffalo. This building was typical in its style of the old fashioned Boston architecture and, in addition, possessed a special interest from its historic associations. It formerly stood on the Washington street end of Providence court, partly on the site of what is now Clark's Tavern.



THE PROPYLÆA.

One of the members of the Massachusetts commission to the Paris Exposition, who recently returned from the French fair, secured there about 450 valuable exhibits, which will be transferred to the Pan-American at Buffalo. Ex-Mayor Frederick Fosdick of Fitchburg and City Treasurer E. T. Tifft of Springfield returned recently from a visit of a few days in Buffalo very enthusiastic over the prospects for the success of the Exposition and are anxious to have the good old Bay State well represented there.

Buildings Going Up.

The magnificent buildings which are to house the exhibits of the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo next summer are fast progressing toward completion and will soon be ready for the collections which are on the way from all quarters of the American continent. The scene upon the grounds of the Exposition, in the northern part of the city, including part of the famous Delaware Park, is a busy one, and every day sees some definite progress made in the construction work. Conditions have been very favorable to rapid work, and the Pan-American Exposition bids fair to break the record in the matter of swift construction of Exposition buildings and their entire completion before the time arrives to open the gates to the general public.

Connecticut at Pan-American.

The state of Connecticut is getting together a large display that will represent her farm, fruit and dairy interests at the Pan-American Exposition next year. Benjamin H. Lee of Hartford is the commissioner in charge of the work, and he is assisted by a committee composed of N. S. Platt, chairman, New Haven; Professor C. S. Phelps, secretary, agricultural station, Storrs; J. A. Dubon, Poquonock; Professor A. G. Gulley, Agricultural college, Storrs; E. H. Jenkins, agricultural station, New Haven; J. B. Noble, dairy commissioner, Hartford; B. C. Patterson, master of state grange, Torrington.

The Government's Building.

The Government buildings at the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo are being built by Rasmussen & Strehlow of Omaha. The contract calls for a group of three buildings connected by curved arcades. The main structure is to be 400 by 130 feet, with a dome 250 feet high, and the smaller buildings each 150 feet square. All departments of the government will make up to date exhibits, which the members of the Government board are now busy collecting and getting into shape.

How Are Your Nerves?

If you are weak and you feel nervous and easily "flustrated," can't sleep, and rise in the morning unrefreshed, your blood is poor. Strong nerves depend upon rich, nourishing blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the nerves strong by enriching and vitalizing the blood. It gives sweet, refreshing sleep and completely cures nervous troubles. Begin taking it to-day.

Nausea, indigestion are cured by Hood's Pills.

Greater Than Royalty.

When Robert T. Stewart was governor of Missouri it was in the days when everybody drank whiskey, and the governor was no exception to the rule. Years ago, when the Prince of Wales was on a visit to this country, they gave a grand ball in his honor in St. Louis. Governor Stewart came down from Jefferson City to honor the event with his presence. In the course of the evening the enthusiastic governor drank rather too much. He became exceedingly happy, as well as proud and enthusiastic. He and the prince were seated on the platform, while the beauty and aristocracy of St. Louis swept past them in gorgeous review. Stewart's feelings and bosom swelled. Eventually, in a mighty impulse of glow and glory, he administered a tremendous slap upon the prince's back, exclaiming with intense animation:

"Say, prince, don't you wish you were governor of Missouri?"

England's heir took it all in good part, and laughed, and paid no further attention to the governor's familiarity, otherwise his dignity might have sustained a severe shock.—Harry Norman in the St. Louis Republican.

Sucked the Poison From 18 Wounded Men

One of the stories of history which is always of interest to the young is that of Queen Eleanor sucking the poison from King Henry's wound after that monarch had been stabbed with a poisoned dagger. The Queen's devotion saved the life of the King, according to the story which the more austere historians look upon as apocryphal. But here is a modern instance which proves that the story is probably true:

In the recent fighting around Limu, in Nigeria, in West Africa, a detachment of British were ambushed by a force of natives, who poured in a showed of poisoned arrows upon them. Colonel Lowry-Cole and Captains Abadie and Bryan, three officers out of the four commanding the detachment, were hit by arrows. The poison which the natives use for their arrows has been known to prove fatal in a few minutes.

Dr. Thompson, the surgeon of the expedition, as soon as the officers were hit, sucked the blood from the wounds and with it the poison. As soon as he had attended to the officers he looked after the men, and found that fifteen had been hit. He gave the same treatment to them. All recovered. The doctor experienced no ill effects from his action.

Opera House Last Night

Marks Bros'. Dramatic Company appeared last night before a good audience, in their play of "The Irish Hero," which was well presented. The cast was strong and the costumes and scenery appropriate.

Early Morning Blaze

Yesterday morning at seven o'clock a fire alarm was sent in. It was found that a small shed across the C.P.R. track from the Oxford House was in flames. It was in a short while consumed but did not constitute much of a loss. The fire is supposed to have originated from hot ashes.

Passed Away

Yesterday morning little Annie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Rutherford, Simcoe street, passed away, after an illness extending over eight months, which the little sufferer bore with great bravery and fortitude. The Times extends its sincere sympathy to the afflicted parents. The funeral will take place at three o'clock this afternoon from the family residence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

Sent to the Reformatory

Eric Kimmo, a lad of fourteen years of age, was up in the Police Court yesterday morning charged with stealing money from the Crown Hotel. He was found guilty and sentenced to an indefinite term not exceeding five years in the Penetang Reformatory. Young Kimmo wept bitterly as he was taken back to the cells, but it was no use, his previous character was bad, and he will have to pay the penalty.

JUST RECEIVED

Fresh Butter-Cups in six flavours, Hoarhound Candy, Cough Drops, Mint Lozenges, etc., manufactured daily at Bates' Confectionery, opposite Oriental. Also Mince Pies, Cream Puffs and Tea Cakes.

How it Works.

The editor of this g. f. j. received the following touching lines yesterday by mail, with a request that it be given a prominent place in these columns. We cheerfully comply. Here goes.

As they speeded along on their honeymoon tour to her side like a plaster he stuck;
Kept the train boy in action, e'en on the keen jump, bringing candies and things to his duck.
Scarce a moment would he from her side move away, and he whispered full oft in her ear
All the honeyed expressions the newly-made bride in her dreamings so well loves to hear.
In a couple of weeks on their homeward return all alone in the seat sat the bride.
And where was the hubby who snuggled so close but a few days before to her side?
Back there in the smoking compartment he sat playing poker and swallowing beer
With some whiskey house drummers and acting as sane as if he'd been married a year.

THE ENGINEERING CLUB

A Very Interesting Programme at the Meeting Last Night

There was a fair attendance last night at the Engineering Club's meeting, and very interesting papers were read.

Mr. Fessenden gave a review of interesting articles by prominent electricians on the subjects, "Electricity in the Coming Century," "Electrical Energy Direct From Carbon," "Electrical Theories," and "Light Without Heat."

Mr. C. E. Brown gave a general review of the condition of the electrical industries at the close of the 19th century, including the subject of long distance transmission of electrical energy. Mr. McGill showed the progress in Mechanical Engineering, more particularly that pertaining to the steam engine. Mr. Fife considered in a well written paper, the recent advances made in Electro-Chemistry, also unsolved problems with which the chemist will have to deal in the future.

DEATH OF MICHAEL COLLINS

An Old Resident of Ennismore Passes Away in Ottawa

The many friends of Mr. Michael Collins, of the Post Office Department, Ottawa, will be sorry to hear of his death, which occurred on Feb. 1st.

Mr. Collins was born in Ennismore, and received his education in the local public schools and the Peterborough Collegiate Institute. He taught for several years in Ennismore, during which time his ability as a teacher was recognized. He afterwards became engaged as bookkeeper for railway contractors during the construction of the Nipissing Division, the Ontario and Quebec Division of the C.P.R., and for William Davis & Sons in and around Montreal. He entered the Civil Service in 1868.

Mr. Collins, who had been in ill-health for some time past, though not confined to his bed until a short time before his death was a respected resident of Ottawa and being of a kind and generous disposition, he made friends without number, all of whom will regret to hear of his death.

He was a model husband and a loving father, and leaves a widow and four sons and two daughters, also an aged father and mother, four brothers, and one sister, to mourn his loss, all of whom have the sympathy of those who know them. The deceased was attended in his last hours by his cousin, Rev. Dr. O'Boyle, of the Ottawa University.

"My first suspicion that coffee was slowly killing me came from reading in the newspaper the experience of a person suffering from the poison contained in coffee, and how he had been relieved by leaving off coffee and taking Postum Food Coffee.

I had, for a long time, suffered from palpitation of the heart, indigestion, biliousness, and intense headaches and neuralgia.

If I did leave off coffee for one hour beyond the usual time in the morning, I had the most excruciating headache for the rest of the day, but I made the change from coffee to Postum without the slightest inconvenience, by first having the Postum prepared with a little coffee mixed in it, then the next day a little less and the next day a little less, until in less than a month I was having the Postum Simon Pure, and the cook got so she could make it so strong and delicious that I enjoyed my Postum better than I had ever enjoyed the old fashioned coffee that had been undermining my health and rendering life a burden.

One by one, and day by day, all the old symptoms disappeared. A feeling of tranquil strength and even temper replaced the former unnatural conditions. Sleep was complete and restful.

The change was so complete and radical that I could not doubt the cause, which lay simply in the withdrawal of the poison, and the addition to my diet of a nourishing, healthgiving, liquid food, Postum.

I can give the names of many persons who have been benefitted by the change from coffee to Postum, and am never tired of making converts.

How many times we hear people complain of this and that obscure symptom of disease, and wonder what can be the matter with them. In nine cases out of ten it is due to nothing in the world but coffee poisoning. I am sure if all those who have ails of one kind or another, serious or trifling, would try the experiment that I did, there would result an enormous aggregate of improvement in health, and coffee would take its proper place among the other poisons."

It is well for people to know that cooks who first undertake to make Postum boil it too little and therefore do not extract the flavor and food value. It is delicious if prepared according to directions, (and that is easy).

This letter is from the cashier of one of the largest insurance companies in the world, who requests that his name be withheld from print, given to enquirers by the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., at Battle Creek, Mich.

DIARY OF A PEDESTRIAN.

Feb. 12.—Had a good day, for me. Fell down only six times. The last time it was my own fault, for I was fool enough to walk over the icy pavement in front of the Police Station. As I was crawling around the Post Office corner I heard a man say, "Have something!" I started, lost my footing, and connected with the pavement. "Blast your hide," said I, (meaning the man who had scraped the snow all off, down to the slippery pavement.) "Don't," said Bob Jackson, "it isn't worth blasting powder." I scrambled over to the Crown Hotel with a friend, and as I was closing the door behind me, heard Bob Leary exclaim: "A foal for luck!"

O, THE SNOW, THE BEAUTIFUL SNOW

[By this g. f. j.'s special poet.]

O, the snow, the beautiful snow!
Filling the sky and the earth below,
Singular that it should happen so,
But that is the way that such things go.

O, the snow the beautiful snow!
Watch it tomorrow, and see it go!
Such is the fate of all things below
And things above, too, for aught we know.

O, the snow the beautiful snow!
Filling the earth and the sky below
Things will happen that way, you know;
And as long as they must—why, let it go.

A PRETTY WEDDING.

(Belated despatch)—Hymen's bells rang happily today, when Duke Henry of Mecklenburg-Schwerin and Queen Wilhelmina were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The ceremony occurred at high noon at the Dutch Reformed Church, the Rev. Dr. Van der Vlier officiating. The bride looked pretty in white; the groom wore the conventional uniform of a Dutch Admiral. The happy couple stood beneath a floral wedding bell while the solemn words uniting them were spoken. After the ceremony a bounteous repast was spread at the home of the bride, following which the happy couple left on the afternoon train for a short wedding tour. The bride is well and favorably known as a Christian young lady, and the groom has made many friends during his short stay in our village. The wedding gifts were numerous and costly. Mr. and Mrs. Mecklenburg-Schwerin will be "at home" after March 1.

"Evil Dispositions Are Early Shown."

Just so evil in the blood comes out in shape of scrofula, pimples, etc., in children and young people. Taken in time it can be eradicated by using Hood's Sarsaparilla. In older people, the aftermath of irregular living shows itself in bilious conditions, a heavy head, a foul mouth, a general bad feeling.

It is the blood, the impure blood, friends, which is the real cause. Purify that with Hood's Sarsaparilla and happiness will reign in your family.

Blood Poison—"I lived in a bed of fire for years owing to blood poisoning that followed small pox. It broke out all over my body, itching intensely. Tried doctors and hospitals in vain. I tried Hood's Sarsaparilla. It helped. I kept at it and was entirely cured. I could go on the housetops and shout about it." MRS. J. T. WILLIAMS, Carbondale, Pa.

Scrofula Sores—"My baby at two months had scrofula sores on cheek and arm. Local applications and physicians' medicine did little or no good. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured him permanently. He is now four, with smooth fair skin." MRS. S. S. WROTEN, Farmington, Del.

All the Sunday schools in both townships were well represented. Tea was served in the Orange Hall from 4 to 7 to all who were in attendance. The meeting was both interesting and instructive.

—A painful accident happened at the residence of Mr. J. J. Heron, one mile south of this village, by which Master Jay Lang, the 11 year old son of Mr. Robert Lang of Centreville, got his leg broken. It appears that Jay came to spend the day with Master Lloyd Heron, son of Mr. J. J. Heron. The two boys, with Mossie Loomis, of Peterborough, were coasting down the hill on a hand sleigh, when in some unaccountable way the sleigh upset and threw the occupants violently to the ground. When they came to get up it was found that little Jay's leg was broken. Dr. Montgomery set the fractured leg, and the little sufferer is doing well.

PLAYED BEFORE THE QUEEN.

Visit of the Old Canadian Lacrosse Team to Great Britain in 1876.

H. W. Becket, treasurer of the old Canadian lacrosse team, in a letter to the Montreal Star, says: Lamenting the loss of the able pen of the late Dr. W. George Ross (captain of the team) to express and place upon record, with the warmth which characterized the loyal sentiments he breathed with every respiration, it falls to my lot to express the heartfelt sympathy the Lacrosse Team of 1876 feels in the removal by death of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen.

During the visit of the team to Great Britain in 1876, Her Majesty was pleased to command our presence at Windsor Castle, to give an exhibition of Canada's national game—allowing the members the special privilege of viewing the interior of the castle—a privilege rarely granted to even titled applicants whilst Her Majesty is in residence.

The game was played, and so interested did Her Majesty become, that instead of the half hour ordered, fully an hour elapsed before Her Majesty withdrew.

Previous to the match, the teams were presented to Her Majesty by Col. Ponsonby, after which the Canadian team was presented individually, each member receiving from her gracious hand, a cabinet photo of herself, with "auto" attached. The Indian team was likewise honored, after which they presented an address in Iroquois and English, written upon birch bark, setting forth in the most loyal terms, their devotion to the British Crown. This was read by Big John Canadian, who afterwards presented a chip work basket to Her Majesty. After the match the teams were entertained at luncheon in the orangery, where were present H. R. H. the late Prince Leopold, Prince Christian, with other members of the household, as well as several prominent Canadians, then on a visit to London.

On the trip back to London, the members in discussing the events of the memorable day could hardly bring themselves to believe that the greatest sovereign the world has ever seen, received them in such a graceful, kindly way. The memory of the trip and the kind reception accorded, are remembrances that will only die with the last breath of the participants.

STOP LOSING MONEY

You Cannot Guess Winners

Horse races are "MIGHTY UNCERTAIN" things to bet on, if you depend on a GUESS to win, a thousand miles from the scene. Thousands have tried before you and have failed. The chances are a thousand to one you will fail too.

You Cannot Handicap Winners

Horses are not machines. They rarely repeat performances. Many of them look at the odds in the betting ring before they go to the post—that is, their owners do it for them. Horses do not always "try." They run for the benefit of their owners, not the public.

Be Advised by Experts on the Spot

Do what the plungers do. "Stand in." Get the best inside information direct from the track every morning that a shrewd combine of horsemen can secure for you. That is what is given its subscribers daily by the

LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE

The LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE is a combination of horse owners and trainers, now racing horses at the New Orleans race track, who have united for the purpose of profiting by the exclusive information at their command. The syndicate aims to send to its subscribers by telegraph every morning the names of two or three horses that are entered in the day's races, which will win, barring accidents alone.

THIS BEATS ALL

Among our many winners recently were SARILLA, 50 to 1, Jan. 8; CALLEUR, 10 to 1, Jan. 14; and AZIA, 10 to 1, Jan. 15.

Within a week our subscribers won more money following us than they did for six months prior following their own selections, if indeed they were not heavy losers before they joined our army of winners.

Cut this out and use it as authority on the manager of the Postal Telegraph office, No 146 W. 42d Street, New York, to examine copy of our telegrams to subscribers filed each day this month at noon. Verify our Statement!

We hope this will convince all turfites that our subscribers are getting money, and that our sources of information are second to none in point of accuracy and reliability. We average two selections per day. Anything we send can be bet on with confidence that the horse will "try" and that the owner is betting on him.

GIGANTIC AMERICAN RAILWAY TRUST MENACES CANADA'S VITAL INTERESTS

Gallant Fight of the Canadian Pacific Railway Against the Great American Octopus Which Threatens to Overwhelm Us.

The Canadian Parliament Should Be True to Their Country and to Themselves and Stand By Our Canadian Railways.

There is a big battle now on between the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and the great American Octopus, composed of Messrs. Hill, Vanderbilt, Rockefeller and Morgan, for the control of the magnificent coal fields of British Columbia. The Canadian people are not aware of the great interests involved in the struggle, or the nature of the fight which the Canadian Pacific has to put up to retain possession of our coal. Nor is this the worst of it; the combination is after our railways as well, and are endeavoring to dominate transportation, an thus be able to turn the whole tide of trade from native points to points in the United States. A great fact which is transpiring in the United States today is that all the railway mileage of that country, all the railways of the country, are passing into the hands of this powerful syndicate. Six men today control all the railways of the United States, and not one line of railway but will be controlled by them. This syndicate controls over $2,000,000,000 of railway capital. They control the banking institutions of New York. They control the coal fields of the United States. They control the Standard Oil Company, and only last week they got control of the entire iron production of the United States. There was a statement in the Montreal Star this week as follows:—"It would not be very difficult for the financial interests which Mr, Hill represents to secure a majority of the common stock of the C. P. R."

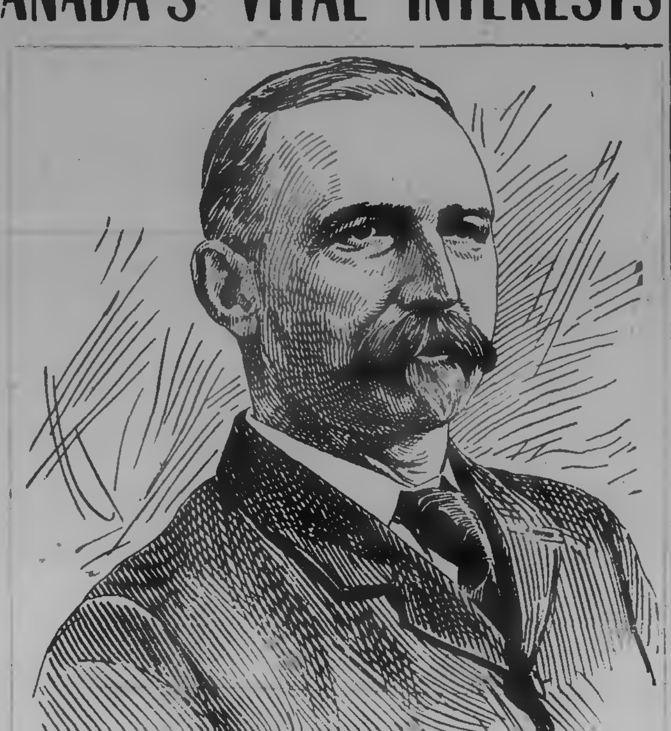
The matter was brought to the attention of the House of Commons on Tuesday night by Mr. Maclean, who, amongst other things, said:—"These men who have obtained control of the railways of the United States are in a position today to capture control of both the G. T. R. and the C. P. R. I can go further. I believe that tracers are out today after the stock of these two railways in order that Messrs. Morgan, Rockefeller and the men associated with them may, if they think it necessary, get the control of these two roads.

"I call the attention of the people of this country to this fact, that less than $50,000,000 put on the stock market today would secure the control of the C. P. R. Did this country put all the money that has been put into the C. P. R. and the G. T. R., in order to build railways which might pass any day from the control of this country to the control of the United States?"

Mr. Maclean's attitude in stating that our two great railways are a menace to Canada, is not justified by facts. Has not the C. P. R. always been thoroughly Canadian in everything? Did not that great company put up the biggest kind of a fight only a few years ago against the encroachment of American railways on Canadian business, and hasn't it always been victorious?

The duty of Parliament is to stand by our railways and protect them. It would be a sad day for Canada should the control of our steel highways, or of our western coal fields pass into the hands of this great and powerful American combination.

While we regard it as absurd to talk about State ownership of railways, as suggested by Mr. Maclean, the country will look to Parliament to protect our railways from these American cormorants. The Government should refuse to let Mr. Hill into British Columbia on any terms, as this simply means entering the thin edge of the wedge.



T. G SHAUGHNESSY, C. P. R. PRESIDENT

IT'S HER LIFE WORK.

Carrie Nation Says the Lord Ordered Her.

To Smash Saloons—Appeared to Her in a Dream—Blood May Flow, She Says—A Pledge.

New York, Feb. 14.—For two weeks Mrs. Carrie Nation has been wrecking the saloons of Kansas. She has been twice arrested, but has been released, and is now carrying on her work. She believes that the saloon evil has reached a point where woman must fight it with physical force. She urges all American women to rise up and wreck saloons. She has already organized a league of saloon-wreckers in Kansas. A thousand women have joined it. They are filled with fury and the spirit of martyrs. The movement is spreading to other States.

Mrs. Nation and her followers have already destroyed $100,000 worth of property in wrecking saloons.

While in jail at Wichita Mrs. Nation dictated to the correspondent of the Journal the following statement of her plans.—

I have begun a fight that I intend to keep up just as long as there is one murder shop called a saloon anywhere in the world that I can get at to smash I expect an army of women to go at this, and we advise those in the business to get out as soon as possible, and if they cannot find any position of trust for characters so debased as they are, they can at least elevate their business by murdering by the assassin's knife, or stealing or any other class of criminal action. We are the mothers and woe to any party that will injure our own! our heart! our life! Every step we take is but an impulse to go further.

The women are ready and willing and there may be expected uprising and outbreaks at any time. Too long, alas! have we suffered, groaned, and prayed. Now is the time for action—simultaneous action. Let us do with our might what our hands find to do.

After I have thoroughly reformed Kansas I shall go to New York and clean up that degraded city by force.

God Appeared to Her in a Dream.

This work is the work of God carried on through a lot of us women. I take no credit upon myself for having started the crusade. God told me to do it when my husband died of drink twenty-life years ago. He appeared to me in a dream on the night my husband lay a corpse in my room and said that unless I went into the work of saving souls from a drunkard's grave I would be damned everlastingly.

I am a believer in fate. I think that if I had not obeyed that mandate of God I would have been dead long ere this, and here I am, you see, having passed through many battles, endured a life of hardship on the plains, and yet I am a pretty well preserved woman of fifty-four. There are not many women who have the strength in their right arm that I have in this.

Well, when my first husband died of drink I started at once to follow the dictations of God. I came to Kansas then a wilderness of murder shops and saloons, which are all the same thing to me. I started the W. C. T. U. in many towns on the plains and helped the society to get started right.

Finally, I got started to David Nation, a rich old lawyer and farmer, an older man than I, but an ardent believer in temperance. I did not marry him for love of himself, but merely because he was a great temperance man and promised to help me in all my trouble, and you see how he has stuck to me in this trouble, while other men have threatened to sue their wives for divorce even if they mention going on a tour with me.

It Takes a Woman to Scare a Man.

I tell you it takes a woman to scare a man. A man may be brave enough to face a cannon, but he will not face a woman with an apronful of rocks. I have found that out. I have made as brave men as I ever heard of, that is, bad man-killers, take water and run when they saw me coming.

Once in Medicine Lodge I had been going about praying among the saloons for several days, when Bill Dalton, the famount outlaw, came to town. He told the boys that if I came round to him and knocked a glass of liquor out of his hand, as I had done the other boys, he would shoot me dead. This news was brought to me and I made it a point to find him, and knock a glass of liquor right from his lips. He drew his pistol to shoot, but I looked him square in the eyes, and he turned and left the room.

I have raided two saloons in Medicine Lodge, two at Kiowa, and three in Wichita, and the lawyers have not sent me to prison or had me adjudged insane yet, although they have tried hard enough to, I am not afraid of the whole outfit.

Take Governor Stanley. He was elected by the prohibition vote, and I helped to get men to vote for him because I thought he would knock out the saloons of Kansas. But he has done nothing, and allows the law to be violated openly. I have heard that he went into the saloons and drank himself. I am going to appeal to the Legislature to have him impeached if he does not take our part in this fight.

This is the wickedest town in Kansas, with its sixteen open saloons and a den of shame for the young men and boys to grow up in. The Bible teaches us that each person must do their duty and I am doing mine. I have four hundred women in this State located at various towns who have signed a pledge to help me smash these joints. This is the pledge.—

"I, a member of —— Society, of the W.C.T.U., agree to help and subject myself to the call of Carrie Nation, in wrecking the murder shops (joints) of Kansas. I sign this pledge and hope that I may never see the Kingdom of God if I fail to fulfil my promise."

Thousands of these pledges have been printed and I am taking them around with me as I get the opportunity and can keep out of jail. It seems like every time I strike this town I get into jail. I tell you this is a wicked hole, and I will get even with the county officers here who have prosecuted me.

The plan of our organization is to hav ea large corps of courageous women whom I can rely upon and who will go to smashing saloons at a moment's notice. They will not be paid for their work other than expenses. Whenever I send the word to strike I will have three women so well drilled that they will know just what to do and what saloons in each town to raid. There are so many in the larger towns I expect it will take us a great many months to get entirely rid of them. Here I have been three weeks in Wichita and have only had a chance to demolish three, while there are sixteen in running order now.

Streets May Run Red With Blood.

It is a hard job, but we will get through with it in a year, I think. I am willing to work at it for the rest of my life, but I think a year's smashing will be enough for the saloon keepers, and they will close their doors. I do not know where I will strike next or when, and if I did it would not be good policy for me to give it out to the news papers. I want to say to the people of the whole country that I will accept for the good of the cause small contributions to help us hire lawyers to pay for the expenses of trials of any women who may be locked up for saloon smashing. I know that we will finally come out all right, but you see it takes time and money. I am making all I can in lecturing and paying my own expenses that way, but these other women who went with me the other day will have to hire lawyers and so will the other women who will strike later.

I will say that we will give Kansas the hottest fight ever known in the history of temperance crusade. The streets may run red with our blood before it is over, but we will fight until the last one is dead. I expect some of the saloon men will get drunk and take shots at us, but it will only be the worse for them in the end. I will not shoot any one, but I will smash up any saloon I get a chance at, and I know the other women will do the same. I expect to get three thousand women to sign the pledge. That will be enough to run demon rum from the plains of sunny Kansas.

THEY TOOK REVENGE ON THE CONDUCTOR.

Connecticut Workmen adopt Novel Plan to get Even with a Stubborn Street car Conductor.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 12.—Some of the employes of the Griest Manufacturing Company, in Westville, have been having a lot of fun with the conductors of the Fair Haven and Westville road. One night last week about fifty of the workmen boarded this particular car to come to the city. The conductor thought some fresh air was needed in the car and he opened the ventilators at the side of the car roof. The workmen protested on account of the extra cold drafts. But the conductor wouldn't budge and the ventilators remained open into the centre of the town. There was a council of war in the Westville manufactory the next noon and there was a smile that night on every man when he boarded that particular conductor's car.

Open went the ventilators with a bang as the car started for the city. There was not a whisper of opposition. If the conductor had pushed up the roof of the car those men would not have objected. The conductor started to collect the fares. The first one of the workmen handed him five pennies. Pennies generally come from women. The second men gave the conductor five pennies. The conductor looked at him for the second and bang went the indicator. The third workman planked down five pennies. So it went on down through the list, every man of the fifty or more contributing his five pennies for the ride.

That conductor got over $2.50 in pennies on that trip. The next night it was a case of history repeating itself. So it has been every night since. The amount varies from $2.50 to $3 each night.

HOW AMERICANS OUTBID BRITISH COMPETITORS.

Parliamentary Paper Gives Somewhat Startling Statistics Regarding Uganda Railroad Bridges.

London, Feb 12.—A Parliamentary paper complies with the House of Commons request of December 14 for the American and British bids for thirty bridges on the Uganda railroad. An American company agreed to erect the bridges in 46 weeks. The lowest English bid for the delivery of the material on board ship at London was sixty weeks. The American company offered to lay down the material at any British port for five guineas less than the average price of the British companies delivery in London. The American company agreed to erect the bridges for £18 per ton, only £12 10s. more than the average British price for delivery in London.

PIET DEWET TRYING TO ESTABLISH PEACE

Boers Lose 40 Killed and 200 Prisoners in an Engagement With General French

Cape Town, Feb. 13.

Piet De Wet, who arrived in Cape Town yesterday to engage the Afrikanders in the peace movement, has an appointment Friday or Saturday with Mr. Theron, President of the Afrikander Bund, who is coming here for the special purpose of discussing peace possibilities. Mr. De Wet on behalf of the Boer peace committee, desires the Afrikanders Bund to announce clearly that the invaders can expect no aid from the Cape Dutch and to send a deputation to Mr. Steyn and General De Wet to ask them to surrender. He says he is confident Commandant General Louis Botha will surrender if Steyn and De Wet would do so, and the surrender would be practically without conditions.

Cape Town, Feb. 13.

Another death from Bubonic plague occurred to-day, and two fresh cases are officially reported.

Durban, Natal, Feb. 13.

The Boer losses when they were attacked by Gen. French, at Ermelo, last week, are said to have been forty men killed, and two hundred made prisoners.

GORGEOUS APPAREL FOR KING EDWARD

Robes of Velvet and Ermine for the Opening of Parliament

London, Feb. 13.—Peeresses have secured seats in the House of Lords for the next Royal function, and smart society is struggling to get in. Bishops, judges, and diplomats are accorded limited representation, and Peers are excluded from seats in their own chamber. Space before the bar is reserved for perhaps sixty Commoners.

An anomalous feature of this State function is the power exercised by two officials whose privileges are hereditary. These are the Marquis of Cholmondeley, who as Hereditary Great Chamberlain is responsible for all the arrangements at Westminster, and the Duke of Norfolk, who as Earl Marshal supervises the parade outside, with assistance from the Duke of Portland, Master of the Horse. In consequence of hereditary rights these two officials and the Peeresses will hear the King's speech, the Commons will be crowded out and the masses outside, under the strenuous discipline of the military and police, will be lucky if they catch a glimpse of the chariot of George III. with the eight Flemish horses.

The pressure from the smart sets for entrance into the House of Lords is tremendous, but the Peeresses are safe, though the heavens fall. The Commons, who will vote the civil list for the new reign, are represented by the Speaker and Macebearer. There are two curious points in connection with the ceremonies that will be observed at Westminster to-morrow. The Sword of State will be carried by the Postmaster-General, and Lord Salisbury will walk in the procession as Lord Privy Seal, not as Prime Minister, which is an office as yet unrecognized by Court etiquette.

In the apartment of the Palace of Westminster known as the Queen's robing-room the King will for the first time assume his regal robes of crimson silk velvet, edged with rows of gold lace and powdered ermine. The rich lace is from a design which is the work only of Royal personages. The robe is lined throughout with ermine, and surmounted with a deep cape of the same fur. The cape and lining are composed of hundreds of carefully selected skins adorned by several thousand spots of black fur. The train is some yards in length, and fastened at the neck by a gold cord finished with bullion tassels.

King Edward has sanctioned the official program of the ceremonial. The great officers of State and others will assemble at the entrance of the House of Lords. The King will alight from the State carriage and the procession will move to the robing-room.

After the King is robed, with the Duke of Devonshire, Lord President of the Council, carrying the Imperial crown, the procession will advance into the House of Peers, the cap of maintenance being borne before the King on the right hand of the Sword of State.

When the King is seated on the throne, the Duke of Devonshire, bearing the cap of maintenance, will stand on the steps of the throne. On the right of the King will be the Marquis of Londonderry, with the Sword of State, on the left will be the Lord Steward. The other officers of the household will arrange themselves on each side of the throne, in the rear of the great officers of State. When the King retires the procession will return to the robing-room and thence to the State carriage in the same order.

PORTUGAL TO AID ENGLAND.

The Alliance of two Nations to be Solemnly Reaffirmed at an Early Date.

London, Feb. 13.—A solemn re-affirmation of the Anglo-Portuguese alliance is pending, I am informed," says the Lisbon correspondent of the Daily Mail, "and England will request Portugal to send Portuguese troops to guard certain points in South Africa in order to enable the British employed at those points to join the fighting columns."

BRITISH FREE TRADE RECEIVES A BLOW

President of Glasgow Chamber of Commerce Protests Against it.

London, Feb 13.—Indications are not wanting that a movement is beginning in Great Britain with the object of modifying those free trade conditions which have so long prevailed. The loss of trade owing to American and German competition is the chief reason of the feeling which is being created. Free trade doctrines received a body blow the other day when the President of the Glasgow Chamber of Commerce declared that Great Britain had lost her pre-eminence among the nations of the world in export trade, and that the first place was now held by the United States. "There is no gainsaying the logic of events," he said, "and the argument against free trade supplied by the latest figures is irrefutable." After showing that the percentage of the increase for the last five years is 47 for the United States, 21 for Great Britain, and 25 for Germany, he predicted that the day would come when Great Britain would realize that it was not her duty to maintain the principle of the "open door" throughout all the sections of the globe under her control merely because she was standing for it in China. "Are we to sacrifice ourselves any longer," he asked, "for the benefit of foreigners, who will never reciprocate?"

That a desire for retaliation against foreigners is growing was shown at a recent meeting of the Sheffield Chamber of Commerce, which recently discussed, with every symptom of alarm, an agitation in Germany for a greatly increased duty on steel, the sample product of the town. The Chamber received with approval a letter from Sir. Fitzalan Hope, M.P., who wrote that the German Government would make a great mistake if they thought they could do what they like with English imports without danger of retaliatory measures.

REBEL COMMANDO IS HARD PRESSED

British Forces Uniting Under General French

London, Feb. 13.—A despatch from Pretoria states that the Boers besieged the Lydenburg garrison, but were repulsed. They fired "Long Tom" shells, and are said to have a 4.7 gun.

The Chronicle says that the Speaker of the House of Commons has declined to grant the request of Messrs. Sauer and Merriman, ex-Ministers of the Cape Colony, that they be given a hearing at the bar of the House.

Cape Town despatches say that it is believed that De Wet is well supplied with ammunition and good horses.

East London has been defended with trenches.

The circulation of Mr. Stead's Review of Reviews has been prohibited in the districts where martial law ha sbeen proclaimed.

Twenty-seven Australians, Cape police, and dragoons were captured by Kritzinger's commando near Italiaspruit, Feb. 6, after a fight in which three British and five Boers were killed. The British were afterwards released.

Two hundred Boers are raiding the Prince Albert district.

Seven British Yeomanry were captured by a commando near Vryburg.

British columns are converging under Gen. French, and the eastern commando of the Boer raiders are being hard pressed. Col. Henry captured 45 prisoners and 50 wagons.

WILL SEEK PROOF OF FRAUD.

Commission to Visit Europe to Learn Fact About Shipments of Grain.

Ottawa, Feb. 13.—Canada's commission to investigate the alleged fraudulent methods of shipping grain to Europe practically has completed its labors, so far as Canada's shipping ports are concerned. The commissioners probably will proceed next to England to secure evidence bearing on the alleged differences between the quantities and grades of grain as shipped and as delivered. The commission then will visit New York, Chicago, and Boston to examine the methods followed at the elevators and in shipping grain with the object recommending any improvements found desirable in Canadian methods. The government attaches great importance to the work of this commission in connection with the efforts are being put forth to increase transatlantic shipments.

WEATHER NOTES.

Probs: To-day: Fair with rising temperature.

The storm which is still centered to the eastward of Nova Scotia has increased in energy and gales with snow are prevalent in the Maritime Provinces. The temperature in Ontario and Quebec ranged from about zero in the more southern portions of the provinces to ten or fifteen below in northern portions. Decidedly milder weather has set in over the Northwest Territories, and a temperature of 54 degrees was recorded at Edmonton.

TERRIFIC WEATHER AT SEA.

Queenstown, Feb. 11. —Incoming steamers report having encountered terrific weather and adverse gales on the Antlantic. The Wilson line steamer Toronto, which left New York, January 28 for Hull, has put in here short of coal, water and food.. The Red Star Line steamer Rhynland from Philadelphia, January 26, for Liverpool, has not yet been signalled, and her delay is attributed to the boisterous weather prevailing.

BURDENED WOMEN.

We look in amazement at the burdens some women carry upon their heads. Yet how light they are compared with the burdens some women carry upon their hearts. There are childless women whose hearts ache ceaselessly because of the childless home. That burden of childlessness has been lifted from the heart of many a woman by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Many of the obstacles to maternity are removable. Such obstacles are entirely removed by "Favorite Prescription." It contains no alcohol nor narcotic.

Married Six Years and Childless.

"I have never written you how grateful I am to you for your help in securing good health and one of the sweetest, dearest, thirteen pound girls that ever came into a home," writes Mrs. M. Vastine, of 647 South Liberty Street, Galesburg, Ill. "I took six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, four of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and four vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Before I had taken four bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' I was a new woman, I cannot make pen describe my heartfelt gratitude, so will close by saying if any one disputes the value of Dr. Pierce's medicines I will be pleased to confirm the truth of all I say if they will enclose stamped envelope for reply."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a ladies' laxative. No medicine equals them for gentleness and thoroughness.

The Chicago Tribune

is a newspaper for bright and intelligent people. It is made up to attract people who think.

Is not neutral or colorless, constantly trimming in an endeavor to please both sides, but it is independent in the best sense of the word.

It has pronounced opinions and is fearless in expressing them, but it is always fair to its opponents.

Matters of national or vital public interest get more space in THE TRIBUNE than in any other paper in the West.

For these reasons it is the newspaper you should read during the forthcoming political campaign.

THE TRIBUNE'S financial columns never mislead the public.

Its facilities for gathering news, both local and foreign, are far superior to those of any other newspaper in the West.

It presents the news in as fair a way as possible, and lets its readers form their opinions.

While it publishes the most comprehensive articles on all news features, if you are busy the "Summary of THE DAILY TRIBUNE" published daily on the first page gives you briefly all the news of the day within one column.

Its sporting news is always the best, and its Sunday Pink Sporting Section is better than any sporting paper in the country.

It is the "cleanest" daily printed in the West.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. A WONDERFUL
KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

I. A. HOPKINS.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,

And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 53 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.
Respectfully yours,
I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. This case goes entirely FREE.

LIFE'S TRIAL.

Ever lurking, trying facing,
On my way;
Pleasant visions all erasing,
Joy disturbing, quiet chasing,
Fondest selfish schemes defacing
Day by day—

What's the use of trying, daring,
In this life?
Trials waylay, with spite unsparing
Baffling, slighting, paining, wearing
Every peaceful thought ensnaring
Into strife.

Would I rest, then cares assailing
Banish peace;
Triumphing but leads to failing;
Sudden joy is turned to wailing;
Ease of mind begets but ailing;
Cares ne'er cease.

What's the end of all this toiling,
Troubles scene—
Where no sense is free from soiling,
Where belief but breeds embroiling,
Where no rest from planning, moiling
E'er is seen?

This I know, when trials defiant
Rise forlorn,
For the conflict, strong, reliant,
Wakes the soul, like sleeping giant,
To whose sinews, suple, pliant,
Strength is born.

This I know, that brave endeavor
Sinks in rust
If from trials we rest us ever;
Vain from courage trial to sever;
Toil and conflict draw us never
Into lust.

Each endeavor, true and earnest,
Leads to strength;
If from hope thou never turnest,
If, for higher deeds thou yearnest,
Peace and joy, tho' late, thou learnest
Come at length.

Welcome trials, hidden blessings,
Sent from God;
Wooing not with soft caressings,
Teaching not in doubtful guessings,
Curing all our weak confessings
With thy rod.

A MYSTERY.

During my sojourn in Egypt," said Walton, removing his hookah from his burnt black beard, "I became interested in the horse; and desirous of possessing an Arabian of high quality, sought guidance of our local consul as to the best way of going about obtaining one. He gave me a letter to a certain camel and horse breeder of renown, located near Samana. Bedouin sheik, Hassam Moakbar by name. The sheik, he informed me, had reason to feel under obligations to him, which would insure me a pleasant reception I took with me only a small escort—the consul's letter, in the Arabian tongue, being a sort of passport and affording me immunity from the toll gathering customary among the desert tribes. Arriving at the encampment at twilight, a scene of great beauty burst upon me. The stars were beginning to blaze forth with unusual size and brilliancy through the wonderful rare atmosphere. Threads of smoke rose perpendicularly from fires which sparkled among the long, low, wide tents, where preparations for the evening meal were going on.

"Negro slaves were roasting coffee, which gave forth a perfume only 'Araby the Blest' could yield. Round about parties of Arabs were exercising the horses—such creatures!—with manes flowing like the tresses of Princess Badroulbadour.

"Sehik Hassam, a man of noble appearance, met me, and after reading the letter, at once relaxed the stern dignity of his countenance, and the supper being now ready, bade me partake of the same tray with himself. The meal consisted of kid's flesh roasted delicately with certain condiments, of the nature of eau de cologne, and washed down with mare's milk. A noble cup of coffee, however atoned for the singularity of this repast, and lighting cheroots of a strong, sweet flavor, we strolled among the horses much of whose beauty and fine points were observable in the moonlight, for that luminary had now risen above the horizon. For reasons of his own, the sheik certainly did his best to get me what I wanted, and out of fifty, every one of which seemed to possess some different charm. I chose one, and regretted I had not chosen all the others. I was loath to leave so romantic a spot, and, though duty called, lingered some days, the guest of the sheik, who seemed equally unwilling to have me go, and plied me with rare tobacco and still rarer legends, dusky happenings of desert land, which had come within his kin, and revealed to few. I began to feel as if I had chewed the lotus buds, and did not care greatly whether I returned to my native land or not.

"One evening (that before the day set for my departure) while strolling and smoking, as usual, in the moonlight, at some distance from the encampment, our footsteps, whether by accident or the sheik's design, were directed toward a dark ridge of rocks which created a great rise of sand on the horizon and shone jagged against the rising moon.

"'That forbidding pile,' said Sheik Hassam, with a wave of his long arm, causing a metoric effect with the glowing end of his cheroot, 'formed once the centre of an oasis, discovered by myself and tribe while seeking an unfrequented portion of the desert for the purpose of establishing ourselves for the favorable pursuit of our business.

"'This oasis seemed the portal of paradise when, in the splendor of the noontide, we halted, after days of travel beneath a copper sky, before its waving palms and luxuriant shade among which gurgled hidden spring of water, blessed water, and the songs of birds echoed among the foliage.

"'"Allah be praised! We shall prosper here!'" I cried aloud, and once them set up the tents, which were not few and dig a cistern, which was filled from the springs amid the groves. The heat diminished not, but rather intensified from day to day, so that the outer springs became dry, and we had to force our way inward (for the oasis was wide and of densest growth) to obtain supplies of water.

"'Here and there we encountered beaten paths, which struck us as being rather singular, as we had seen no living thing save birds. Possibly, we argued, they were made by the jackals, which howled about in the day time and went there for water after dark although on one occasion I could have sworn that a vague imprint in the sandy pathway was that of a beast of prey.

"'I kept a sharp lookout and sentinels even on watch about the horses, camels and goats tethered a short distance from the camp beneath leafy sheds. Nothing of note transpired for several days, except slight additional proofs from time to time that some living creature inhabited the place. The heat seemed to increase daily, and the sky assumed that reddish tinge which bodes no good to the dweller of the desert. At rare intervals across the yellow hillocks would some pirouetting diabolical little spirals of sand moved by puffs of wind, like breaths from a furnace.

"'On the morning of the fifth day Hamed my Circassian slave, a man of rare courage and singulr personal beauty, disappeared into the depths of the oasis in quest of fresh water, that in the cistern being used for the beasts only, and, from the length of time elapsing, must have penetrated further than usual. Suddenly we perceived him at the edge of the jungle, wildly gesticulating. The Arabs' rifles were at their shoulders in an instant, but there was a mingled scream and roar, a flash of tawny finks, and Hamed, dragged down from behind, disappeared into the wood.

"'The riflemen who had been earest to him fell upon their faces, paralysed with some awful fear, and could not be induced to stir. What they had seen I knew not. Drawing my simitar and grasping my pistol I bade a huge black, under threat of instant death, follow with a lance, and plunged into the tangled wood at the spot where Hamed had disappeared. White fragments of cloth upon the broken twigs, borne down by what must have been a creature of unusual size and ponderous strength, guided us onward. Panting with the heat, bruised with falling and now feeling giddy with a strange odor which began to prevade the air, we proceeded with the utmost caution along a path grown steep and rocky.

"'The terrible ordor had grown almost stifling, and mingling with it came a low, whining purr, apparently at no great distance now.

"'Crouching behind a ragged mass of rock which seemed to have been split by the heat (the black calling incessantly upon Allah with chattering teeth) I peered through the crevice in to the space beyond. Soul of Mohammed! What a sight met my gaze!

"'Sprawled upon its belly at the entrance to a cavern, the lithe tail beating the ground, was a creature, the sight of which caused my scimitar to fall from my nerveless grasp. Out of a tangled red mane, rose a white neck of columnar strength, surmounted by a countenance of awful beauty. Beneath netted eyebrows glowed eyes like burnished brass, human in all save the slit pupils. The lips were a venemous red arch, through which flashed long canine teeth.

"'Before her, slightly propped against a bowlder, lay Hamed, white and limp, but conscious and fascinated Ever and anon the great furry paw was thrust forward caressingly (the claws sheathed), and the eyes of the dread creature became narrow and tender, and the purring sound was repeated.

"'Streaming with sweat, I had managed to level my pistol across a projection, when a shadow fell over us which deepened, and a murmur broke upon our ears, increasing to a roar. Springing to its feet, its eyes blazing greenly in the gathering gloom, the Thing seized the shoulder of Hamed's garments in its teeth, and with a horrid screaming snarl leaped past us, as the simoon in all its fury burst upon us.

"'The black had already clambered to the highest rock and lay clasping the base of a large palm, face down, enveloped in his burnous. I did likewise, and after a period of unconsciousness, awoke, and painfully drawing myself up to a sitting posture against what remained of the palm stree, gazed about me. The black lay rigid at my side, stifled.

"'Around about among the rocks and trees and across the plain were great drifts and billows of sand, but of all my faithful people and valuable beasts there was no trace. A tent pole, with a fragment of canvas here and there, marked their graves.

"'I was rescued in a delirious condition by my partner, who came weekly to visit the encampment.

"'That I am stopping in this vicinity is owing to an irrestible fascination the spot has for me, and to its being in the direct road to the market town, whither I go at intervals to trade. The mystery that yonder sand heaps envelop will never be revealed until the desert and the sea give up their dead.'"

"How did you and George get along at the seashore?" asked her best friend. "Swimmingly," was the reply.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Feb. 12.— This morning George Laird, who is a boarder at the hotel in Leonidas, was burned by carbolic acid thrown in his face by Miss Denell Neddo. Elgin Scott and Miss Neddo went to the hotel and Miss Neddo called upon Mr. Laird (in his room. He was lying on a cot, and after a few words, she threw carbolic acid in his face. It is expected he will lose the sight of both eyes. After Miss Neddo had accomplished her purpose she and her escort drove away. Miss Neddo's action is said to have been inspired by jealous rage.

Confession of Crime By Hypnotism

Public interest has been aroused recently on this question by the exortion of a confession from a thief by means of hypnotism.

A confession of crime obtained in this way may or may not be a valid one. It is not necessarily infallible, any more than a voluntary confession would be. It would have to be verified by other evidence before it could be seriously considered.

Hypnotism will not make a liar instantaneously veracious. It is a very common opinion that a hypnotist can completely capture the mind of his patient without his consent, and discover all the secrets of his past life.

Hypnotism only gives us a means whereby we can the more readily get at the divine man within. It is not so much a key to the door of a man's mind as a more effectual way of ringing the door-bell and conversing with the occupant.

Generally speaking, a strong-willed man may still keep his criminal secret in spite of all influences, hypnotic or otherwise. As a rule criminals are very hard to hypnotize, because they set their whole nature against the hypnotist, and when a man is under the influence of liquor it is impossible to do anything with him.

There is no doubt that hypnotism can and will be used to detect crime. But we are only on the threshold of knowledge in this direction, and no one can set limits to the future of hypnotism in overcoming the obstinacy of criminals. The time may come when the old, ineffectual methods of regenerating the moral nature will be superseded by hypnotic treatment. The astonishing results already attained prove this beyond question.

By hypnotism we can reach people who are moral imbeciles, and by no other power known to man can you do this.

We can discover the sense of right and wrong where none seemed to exist. We can overcome evil habits and awaken the higher self which never completely dies in any man or woman.

Where every other influence has failed to restore a man to moral sanity, hypnotism has succeeded. So I would say that if it fails to extract a confession from a criminal no other means can be used with success.

There is such a thing as compulsory hypnotism, which can be applied to any person without his consent. It is possible to shatter a human will as you might break a china vase against a rock. But this is a new and almost undeveloped field, about which little can be said at present."

Not So Bad

The fire at the Peat Company's Works at Kirkfield turns out to be not as bad as reported. Mr. A. L. Davis returned yesterday, and stated that the building used for treating the peat in the last stages, with presses, was completely destroyed, but the valuable machinery was uninjured, by reason of the fact that the different buildings have all been fitted with steam fire extinguishing jets, that can be put in operation at a moment's notice. It will take about a month to erect a new building. The one destroyed was fully insured. The most vexatious thing about the occurrance was the fact that the perfected machinery, as patented by Mr. Davis and Dr. Gray, had just been placed in position, and it was calculated that the plant would be in full operation on Monday, and be in a position to place the finished product on the market immediately. In fact about ten tons of the peat was in process of being pressed at the time of the fire.

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY.

Sentiment of the Old Custom on the Increase

"Don't be fringtened, have no fear,
It's only a valentine, my dear."

Some one said that the observance of St. Valentine's Day was dying out. The Times is not of that opinion. It is rather on the increase of late.

A traveller, representing a large wholesale house, told The Times yesterday that he sold more valentines this year than last, and more last than the year before. He believed that this trade was on the increase.

Prices of the souvenirs range from one cent to five dollars. There is a large scope in design and style. The old lace valentines are holding their plac ein popular favor, but the sales are mostly in the novelty line, cupids and hearts, denoting in form as well as in words the tender feelings of the sender. The vulgar so-called comic valentines are to be found in the smaller shops only. The higher priced creations are usually in sachet or muchwa case form, magnificent inventions hand painted on satin. As our informant said, 'When a fellow buys this kind you know he's got it bad."

The custom of sending books with an enclosed card is becoming more and more popular. Books of poems are the favorites. If the volume contains "Because I Love You" it is sure of a sale. Then there are "chap books," in which a young woman may record the name of each man who calls upon her with a mental portrait.

Pictures, copies of the great art master-pieces, are an innovation as valentines. These also should be accompanied by the sender's card.

PADDING SKELETONS,

One Pound of Grape Nuts Makes more Flesh than Many Pounds of Ordinary Food.

It is worth while to find a food that will put two pounds a day on the frame of an invalid that has been reduced to a skeleton. A lady in Middletown, Ind., says: "For more than fifteen years I have been more or less of an invalid. The doctors said general debility was the trouble brought on by overtaxing the nervous system and the digestive organs. Then finally lagrippe and pleurisy set in, lasting about ten weeks, and I was reduced to a skeleton of less then seventy pounds in weight, notwithstanding I was being fed on meat and ordinary food.

"My relatives were telegraphed to come quickly if they would see me alive. At this time I was put on Grape-Nuts food, and found I could eat it and that it suited my taste and I began at once to gain strength and weight. My weight increased two pounds per day. I reached about one hundred pounds which is higher than I had weighed for more than fifteen years.

"Friends who saw me on the street stared at me as though I had risen from the dead. I shall always be grateful for the good Grape-Nuts food has done for me. I shrink from having my name published if you should use this letter, but am willing to write to any one concerning these statements, if in that way I can benefit suffering humanity in the slightest." Name will be given by Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

PURE MILK AGITATION.

A Meeting to be Held this Evening in the Council Chamber.

A meeting is called for this evening, by invitation, to discuss the milk question. The gentlemen who are moving in the matter will have the support of the citizens, one and all. It is expected that the outcome will be the formation of a dairy company, who will supply milk under thoroughly sanitary conditions. The milk supply of Peterborough is perhaps not behind that of any other town or city, and yet the conditions surrounding its production, collection, storage and disstruction are such as could not possibly be approved of by any person taking the trouble to investigate for themselves the existing conditions and surroundings of the industry. The milk is at present delivered from cans exposed to the dust and dirt of the streets and alleys, and to contagion, if there be any. There is no article of food which enters so largely into the diets of invalids, and children particularly, as milk, and therefore a special reason why it should be produced and delivered under the best and most sanitary conditions. It is a well known fact that no article of food is more affected by exposure and susceptible to injury from its surroundings than milk, and yet no article of food is more exposed than the milk suppiy of Peterborough, handled as it now is.

The medical gentlemen who are at the front of the present agitation will have all the help the Times can give them in efforts to secure pure milk for the people.

A POSTAL CHANGE.

Heretofore the work was done by a clerk in the Post office, for which $200 was allowed. There are two collectors each day, taking about three hours time.

The appointment of Mr. Cameron will please everybody. He is an old and highly esteemed citizen, and has the good will of everybody. Mr. J. H. McClellan, who was instrumental in having the change made, will be heartily commended for his action.

SOMETHING SHOULD BE DONE.

By Peterborough to Induce Visitors to Come Here.

Commodore Calcutt, who is always seeking to promote the interests of the town, suggested to The Times yesterday that something should be done by our Board of Trade and Council to induce strangers visiting the Pan American Exhibition this year to come to Peterborough and see our inland lakes.

Toronto expects to be filled during the summer by strangers, some of the papers of that city going so far as to say that a million dollars will be left in the city as a result of the Buffalo fair.

Would it not, therefore be a wise move to follow Toronto's example and reach for a share of this business. A little folder, setting forth the beauty of our town and how to get here from Toronto, distributed amongst the guests of the leading Toronto hotels daily, during the fair would, we think result in inducing large crowds to come here. The Times will be glad to have its readers make suggestions in this regard.

A LOYAL RESOLUTION

Passed by the Local Branch of Ancient Order of United Workmen

At the regular meeting of Peterborough Lodge 135, A.O.U.W., held Tuesday night, the following resolution was passed:

The death of our Sovereign Lady the Queen, on the 22nd day of January last, is an event of such importance and a cause of so great sorrow, that this Lodge would have inscribed on its minutes a record of the mournful event and an expression of our profound grief. The majority of living Britons nave never known any Sovereign save Victoria, that great Queen who will be known in history as the wise and good Queen who ruled her people in purity, gentleness and love, who recognized all their constitutional rights and never sought to infringe upon them, whose purity and virtue elevated her people to higher and purer life, and by her example as wife and mother and by her profound sympathy in the lives of her people, made herself one in every household throughout her vast Empire. We mourn her death. We rejoice in the living thought that she was our Queen, and to her son, Edward the Seventh, we tender our homage, and from our hearts cry: God Save the King.

Malt Breakfast Food

Continue to Like It."

So Says Mr. Walter Paul a Prominent Montreal Grocer.

The success of Malt Breakfast Food in the Grocery trade of Canada has been phenomenal. No other grain breakfast food has ever taken such a hold on the public. The reasons are plain and simple. Malt Breakfast Food is a true health food, delicious, appetizing, and furnishes more sustaining and energizing nutriment than any other food.

Mr. Walter Paul, one of the most prominent Montreal Grocers says:—

"I have pleasure in stating that among all the Breakfast Cereals I handle, (and I keep in stock all that are worth having), none of them have taken such a hold on my patrons generally as your Malt Breakfast Food. The desire for something new in this line is so presistent as to become almost a nuisance, but I am glad to find that those who begin to use Malt Breakfast Food, continue to like it."

Convention of Liberal Clubs.

The Times is in receipt of a circular letter from Mr. Stewart Lyon, Secretary of the Ontario Federation of Liberal Clubs, Toronto, announcing that a convention of the federated clubs will be held in that city on March 13th and 14th to which all Liberal Clubs and Associations constituted upon a popular basis are cordially invited to send delegates and to assist in making the Convention a success. In view of the approaching provincial elections, it is thought, by the leaders of the Liberal party a wise move to get things in good shape for the struggle.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES

HOCKEY.

It is now coming pretty near the end of the Hockey season and Peterborough can congratulate themselves on their record for the year. The Intermediate team have only met defeat once during the series and that game was played with extraordinary odds against them. To-night they will journey to Lindsay, when the final game of the group will be played with Port Hope. Captain Glover has the boys in the pink of condition and expects to give the "Port" the beating they so richly deserve. The Club are running a special train, when it is expected that 200 or more enthusiasts will accompany them.

The Peterborough Colts, otherwise known as Peterborough's Pets will play their next game with Barrie here to-morrow night. The O.H.A. so notified the local executive last night. The return game will be played in Barrie on Tuesday next.

Mr. Hugh Jack, who will referee tonight's game is the most popular man in the referee business this year. He has officiated at 16 games this season and that is only about half that he was requested to preside over. He will also attend to the game here on Friday night.

We understand that a Hockey Match will be played shortly between the Pig Irons and the Druggists. The former are in training for the ordeal that they have to go through.

What a lot of kicking the Kingston papers are making about Peterborough rink. We admit that our rink is not the size it should be for Hockey. But Kingston should remember that their rink has its faults for Hockey as well as Peterborough's. A poor excuse is better than none and Manager Sutherland knows that the Colts can beat the Frontenacs on any rink for fun, money or marbles.

The Trent Valley League finals promise to be interesting. It will likely end in a tie between Norwood and Fenelon Falls. You can pick the winner, but it will be run for the money.

The Examiner says that Referee English has suggested that Campbellford be allowed to play the winners of the final marches under rule. This is a good idea and should meet with approval from the Executive. It was a hard matter to decide that protest with equal fairness.

CURLING.

Peterborough Thistles went to Toronto on Monday to curl for the Ontario Tankard and we regret to say were defeated by Paris. Yesterday they played for the Governor General's Cup and won the first game but no further news has yet reached us as to the finals

STOP LOSING MONEY

You Cannot Guess Winners

Horse races are "MIGHTY UNCERTAIN" things to bet on, if you depend on a GUESS to win, a thousand miles from the scene. Thousands have tried before you and have failed. The chances are a thousand to one you will fail too.

You Cannot Handicap Winners

Horses are not machines. They rarely repeat performances. Many of them look at the odds in the betting ring before they go to the post—that is, their owners do it for them. Horses do not always "try." They run for the benefit of their owners, not the public.

The LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE is a combination of horse owners and trainers, now racing horses at the New Orleans race track, who have united for the purpose of profiting by the exclusive information at their command. The syndicate aims to send to its subscribers by telegraph every morning the names of two or three horses that are entered in the day's races, which will win, barring accidents alone.

THIS BEATS ALL

Among our many winners recently were SARILLA, 50 to 1, Jan. 8; CALLEUR, 10 to 1, Jan. 14; and AZIA, 10 to 1, Jan. 15.

Within a week our subscribers won more money following us than they did for six months prior following their own selections, if indeed they were not heavy losers before they joined our army of winners.

Cut this out and use it as authority on the manager of the Postal Telegraph office, No 146 W. 42d Street, New York, to examine copy of our telegrams to subscribers filed each day this month at noon. Verify our Statement!

We hope this will convince all turfites that our subscribers are getting money, and that our sources of information are second to none in point of accuracy and reliability. We average two selections per day. Anything we send can be bet on with confidence that the horse will "try" and that the owner is betting on him.

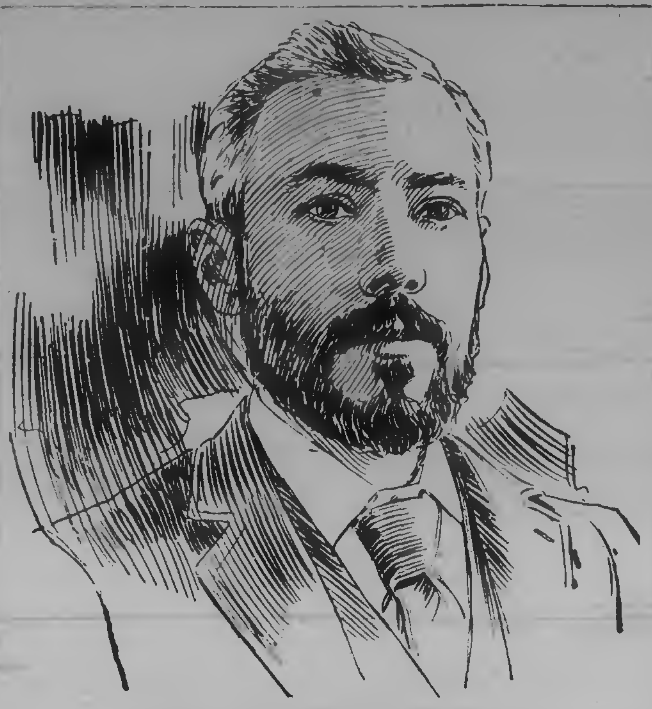
CHARTERING OF CROW'S NEST RAILWAY IS NOW THE BURNING QUESTION OF THE DAY

The Country Being Thoroughly Aroused on the Subject of Letting the American Railways into Canada.

There Has Probably Been No Question Since Confederation of Such Vital Import to the People.



D McNichol, General Manager C. P. R.

*The leading topic to-day through*out the country amongst men of thought is, will Parliament grant a charter to Hill and his associates in the United States, for a railway into the British Columbia coal fields? There are few thinking men but who believe that such a privilege would be the beginning of the end, and that our great Canadian railways, of which every resident of the country is justly proud, would pass into the hands of the big American trust, of which Mr. Hill is the head.

Mr. John Huston, ex-Mayor of Nelson, B. C., who is in Montreal, was recently interviewed by a Star reporter, and amongst other things said:

"The acquiring of the Crow's Nest coal lands by Mr. James J. Hill and the capitalists behind him, is simply the first step in securing the control of the Canadian Pacific Railway. That statement looks like a bit of romance but it would not be very difficult for the powerful financial interests which Mr. Hill represents to secure a majority of the common stock of the Great Canadian Railway. I think time has come when every Canadian should oppose Mr. Hill and the interests he represents securing a foothold in Canada. Mr. Hill and his associates should be made to keep to themselves and to the other side of the line. As a resident of B. C. I am opposed to Mr. Hill securing control of the Crow's Nest Coal lands and I think for the Dominion Parliament to grant a charter to construct a line of railway from the coal fields south to the boundary, would be nothing short of suicide to the interests of British Columbia. It would mean the wiping out at once of the Canadian smelting interests. It would mean the smelting and treating of British Columbia ores in the United States. It would be the most suicidal thing the people of British Columbia ever did, to allow Parliament at Ottawa—which by the way knows as much about the interests of the Pacific province as it knows about China—to do this.

"With the Crow's Nest coal areas in the hands of United States capitalists what smelter could do business in Canada if Mr. Hill did not want it to do so? The chief factor in the cost of smelting any ore is the price of coke. The control of the coal means the control of the prices for smelting.'

"What about the charges which have been made that the rates charged for smelting and treating ores at the Canadian Pacific smelter at Trail are exorbitant?"

"Well of course that is a subject upon which there is a great deal of difference of opinion. The mine owners, of course, want the lowest rate on smelting and freight that they can get, but a glance at the prices which were charged for smelting at Trail a few years ago, is enough to convince the most sceptical that very great reductions have been made in the charges. For instance, on the first 750,000 tons of LeRoi ore shipped to Trail, when those works were owned by Mr. Heinze, the freight and treatment charges were $11 per ton, and from the Government investigation at Rossland of the LeRoi taxes it was shown that since the starting of the Northport smelter, the rate charged the LeRoi mine for smelting and treatment has been and still is $8.75 per ton, or $4.00 per ton more than the Trail smelter offered to handle the outputs from Rossland, and $2.75 per ton more than the Trail smelter is now charging the mines in that district. When it is considered that the average profits on some of the greatest copper producers in the world is within three dollars per ton of ore, the value to the country of the reduction of $4.50 per ton in smelting rates which has taken place within the last three years at Trail is important. Nor do I think the limit of cheap smelting in British Columbia has yet been reached. Considering these facts, I think it would be a serious mistake to allow the Crow's Nest coal areas to fall into the hands of men whose interests are to have Canadian ore smelted in the United States.

"When I left the Kootenay country about two weeks ago the mine owners were led to believe by the American Smelting and Refining Company that the reason why they intended to withdraw from the Kootenay market was that the Canadian Pacific freight rates were too high. At the instigation of the American Smelting and Refining Company a meeting of the mine owners was called at Sandon. A representative of the Company was present at this meeting. It was then discovered that the statements made by the American Smelting and Refining Company as to freight rates were untrue and that on the contrary all the freight rates from East Kootenay, as well as the Slocan district have been reduced a dollar a ton, and that the American Smelting and Refining Company, in*stead of being willing* to offer a corresponding reduction in their freight and treatment charges, were unwilling to quote any treatment rates whatsoever even though the Kootenay lead miners were willing to undertake the delivery of their lead ores to any of the American Company's works that might be designated. Upon my arrival in Montreal, I found that several very large and influential mine owners had telegraphed direct to the head offices of the American Smelting and Refining Company, asking them to quote treatment rates at their different works, leaving the mine owners to deliver and arrange their own freight rates. The reply received to this request was that the Company was not in the market for British Columbia lead ores. I also learned since coming east, that this company had previously raised refining rates on the bullion reduced by Canadian smelters $2.00 a ton.

"Some see a conspiracy. With all these facts now known, it does not take a very brilliant person to see and understand the conspiracy which is under way at Ottawa, by which a powerful combination of United States trusts, including the American Smelting and Refining Co., which controls practically every smelter in the United States, Mr. James J. Hill, Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan and others intend to quietly capture the smelting and refining interest in Canada and place the valuable mines of the Kootenay country in the hands of a single man, who will control its coal field through which he will be able to crush out Canadian smelting industries and favor rival industries in the United States, which are now located and established on his numerous lines of railway. Now, for instance, let us look for a moment at the different moves in this big game which is being played with all the skill and insidious determination for which Mr. Hill is noted in his own country.

"First. The American Smelting and Refining Company, some of whose directors are the heads of the great Standard Oil Trust, raise the rates for refining the product of Canadian smelters, with a view to removing the competition of Canadian smelters in the purchase of Canadian ores.

"Second. This same company announces its intention of withdrawing from the British Columbia lead market, although it is well known that these ores are the best smelting ores in the world.

"Third. The purchase by Mr. Hill, who was associated with Standard Oil Company magnates in the recent manipulations by which he sought to secure control of large railway interests and property in the United States, of the Crow's Nest coal areas which contain the only available coking coal in Canada.

"Fourth. The application, through the Crow's Nest Coal Company for a charter for the construction of a line of railways from these coal fields to the international boundary and on to Montana, where even the present owners of the coal fields are supplying consumers at a lower rate than is quoted in British Columbia. The whole question to my mind, is a good deal more than merely a fight between Mr. Hill and the interests he represents and the Canadian Pacific Railway. It is really a struggle on the part of the people of British Columbia—and all Canada for that matter—against the operations of one of the most powerful and relentless combinations of capital the United States has ever seen. The object sought is clear to me. Mr. James J. Hill wants an opportunity to squeeze Canada, as one would squeeze a sponge and as that same gentleman has squeezed the Western States of the American Union for years. The fight is going to be a hot one, and it will centre round the application, made through the present Crow's Nest Coal Company to the Dominion Parliament for a charter to construct a line of railway south from the coal fields to the international boundary. The people of the province of British Columbia are going to take part in that fight at Ottawa, and an important part too, unless I am very much mistaken. In this instance there is only one patriotic course to pursue, and that is to see that Mr. Jim Hill and his crowd are kept to the south of the International boundary line."

YAQUI INDIANS CAUSE TROUBLE

Attempt of General Torres to Corner Them Meets with Failures.

Tucson, Ariz., Feb. 14.—Ignacio Caxialo, a prominent rancher, has been ambushed and killed by Yaqui Indians at Siris, near Hermocillo. Gen. Torres made an effort to secure a large number of Yaqui Indians to take them to the interior of the republic, the Government hoping to stop the Yaqui warfare by this plan. He brought the Indians to Hermocilla after the soldiers had killed Verde, and old chief of the Yaquis, at Hermocillo.

The Indians broke away from 500 Federal troops under General Torres, who guarded them. At Siris they ravaged ranches, stole horses and provisions and fled to the Yaqui River. Several prominent ranches were killed by the Yaquis. Soldiers pursued the Indians, but only caught a few.

People are excited at Hermocillo, and advices received by tucson merchants warn Americans against going into the mountains. It is believed here that Yaqui warfare has just begun in earnest as a large number of hitherto peaceful Yaquis have joined the warriors.

MOB LYNCHED A NEGRO.

Hanged From Iron Arch Leading to the Court House.

Paris Ky., Febuary. 14.—George Carter, a negro, in jail here charged with having assaulted Mrs. W. E Board three weeks ago, was lynched by a mob early this morning.

The jailor was overpowered, the keys secured and in less than five minutes Carter was in the hands of the mob.

It was only the work of a minute to place a rop around his neck and he was then half dragged to the entrance of the Court House. The rope was thrown over the iron arch leading to the entrance, and, while several pulled the rope, the others lifted his body. He died by strangulation. The mob then quickly dispersed.

DR. EAKINS' DEAD.

Medical Officer of Deaf and Dumb Institution Dead.

Belleville, Feb, 14.—Dr Eakins, superintending Medical Health Officer of the institution for the deaf and dumb, Belleville, died here this morning.

Dr. Eakins was one of the prominent medical men of the country, and his demise will be universally deplored. There will be a big fight for the position, which is the gift of the Ontario Government.

Reason of Success

Mr. J. W. Pearson, the Montreal horse buyer, who gets more horses in this locality than all the other horse buyers combined, attributes his success largely to the fact that he uses the Times as a means of announcing his visits. He advertises in no other paper, as he says the Times fills the bill, and reaches all the good farmers and horse raisers for many miles around. Such evidence as this needs no comment.

PETERBOROUGH'S MILK SUPPLY

Important Meeting Held Last Night

NEED OF A SANITARY DAIRY

A Strong Committee Appointed to Look Into the Matter

On the invitation of Dr. Halliday, acting on behalf of the medical profession of the town, about forty business men met in the Council Chamber last night to discuss the question of forming a dairy company in Peterborough.

Mayor Denne was called to the chair and without preliminary, asked Dr. Halliday to explain the project.

Dr. Halliday said that the question of milk supply had engaged his attention for a long time. It was frequently brought before him by nurses attending the sick, the mothers of bottle-fed babies, and others. Patients could not always get fresh milk; sometimes they complained that it smelt or even tasted of the stable. Milk is the most essential form of nourishment in many diseases, especially typhoid and other fevers. In Bright's disease it is important. Consumption, the disease responsible for more deaths than any other, may be transmitted from tuberculous cows. Dairy companies have been formed in other places, which obtain their milk from a number of producers, and subject it to a process of pasteurization or sterilization. Prevention is better than cure; we should go to the root of the matter and produce pure milk. What is hoped for is that some steps may be taken by the practical business men of the town to form a company to supply pure milk. A farm would be required to begin with. Next, proper buildings—large, airy, well-lighted and well-ventilated stables. The milking rooms should be separate from the stables. The men employed to milk should be taught to be clean. They should be free from any disease themselves and kept as far as possible from disease in their families. Before milking their hands and finger nails should be thoroughly cleaned. The utensils should be sterilized, the milk should be delivered in closed bottles, the latter being sterilized before receiving their contents. The herd of cows should be carefully selected and subjected to the tuberculine test, and they should be fed and groomed and cared for with as much attention as is bestowed upon race horses. Dr. Halliday resumed his seat amid applause and Dr. Boucher was called upon.

Dr. Boucher said that Dr. Halliday had covered the ground pretty fully, and he concurred in what he had said. As showing the importance of pure milk, he cited an outbreak of fever in a town in Pennsylvania, traced to the cattle having drunk from a river in which sewage was discharged, and a similar outbreak in a New Jersey town, due to the milk-men having washed their cans in water from a polluted well.

Mr. R. S. Davidson was asked to express himself on the business aspect of the undertaking. He said that he had gone into the matter with Mr. H. P. Kennedy and they had come to the conclusion that the undertaking would be a financial success. He asked Mr. Kennedy to state their conclusions.

Mr. Kennedy said that his conclusions were based on the ordinary milk supply, and they would hardly be adapted to a supply such as the medical men desired. However, the dairy is the most profitable part of the farm. Speaking as a man in the business, he saw no reason why a dairy such as the one proposed could not be made profitable.

Asked whether sweet milk could be

Asked whether such milk could be said the people should be willing to pay a cent a quart extra for the extra quality.

Mr. Beck spoke of the matter of water supply. As milk is 87 per cent. water, its importance is obvious.

Mr. A. P. Poussette said that it could be easily seen that the cost under the projected system would be quite different from what it is under the present, but as the undertaking is more or less philanthropic, financial considerations should be secondary. The dairy should be as near town as possible, so as to get water from the waterworks. He suggested that a committee be named to enquire into the matter.

Mr. John Nagle was impressed with the desirability of a sanitary dairy and believed the undertaking was practicable. He moved that a committee of seven be named by the meeting.

Mr. Adam Dawson asked how the people were to escape danger from the present milk supply.

Dr. Halliday said that a temperature of 267 degrees was required for thorough sterilization. This temperature cannot be reached by ordinary means, but immersion of the milk vessel in boiling water for 20 or 30 minutes will render germs inert.

Mr. F. H. Dobbin said it was undoubtedly desirable that we should have pure milk. At present there is paid for milk in Peterborough $30,000 to $40,000 a year, divided among 20 to 23 milkmen or dealers. The expense of delivery at any rate ought to be reduced by a single organization.

Mr. W. H. Moore said that he and others had already taken steps to organize a company. They wished to work in harmony with the present movement. It would take 475 cows to supply the town, rather too many for one farm.

The motion that a committee of seven be appointed was carried, and the Mayor was asked to name the committee. He named Dr. Halliday, R. H. Jamieson, F. H. Dobbin, J. Carnegie (chairman), H. P. Kennedy, W. H. Moore and A. P. Poussette.

Mr. G. M. Roger said the meeting should disabuse the mind of anyone who thought doctors were not interested in keeping people well. He moved a vote of thanks to the physicians for taking the matter up. The motion was carried unanimously and the meeting adjourned.

DEMANDS OF FILPINOS.

Senor Lopez Declares Independence Alone Will Serve to End Present Strife.

Boston, February. 15.—Senor Sixto Lopez has forwarded to Robert T. Paine, president of the American Peace Society, a letter in which he outlines the attitude of the Filipinos on the question of bringing the war to a close. "The Filipinos," he writes, "will never accept American sovereignty in the sense in which that word is generally understood. Whether they would accept suzerainty would also depend upon the definition of the word and the power which it implied.

"If the administration will say to the Filipinos: 'We will not deny you the one right which you claim and which we enjoy. We will grant you your independence, but we reserve the right to take such steps as are necessary to enable us to fulfill our obligations and conserve our rights'—, the Filipinos will lay down their arms at once.

"If the acceptance of this offer entailed some definitely defined form of suzerainty, or it is necessitated joint action in foreign affairs, the retention of American troops, or the appointment of a customs commissioner, the Filipinos would raise no objection, provided that these conditions were not to be made prepetual. These and all such questions are matters of detail and could be included in a treaty.

"I do not think I could more clearly define the nature and degree of independence demanded by the Filipinos. As to whether this definition would mean absolute independence or limited independence is a more matter of terminology. The Filipinos are interested in the fact, not in the name. Nevertheless, since words are the symbols of things, there should be no shrinking from the fact that the Filipinos do demand independence as defined above. And there can be no hope od ending this war until that independence is granted to them."

Loss of Appetite

A person that has lost appetite has lost something besides—vitality, vigor, tone.

The way to recover appetite and all that goes with it is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla—that strengthens the stomach, perfects digestion and makes eating a pleasure.

Thousands take it for spring loss of appetite and every body says there's nothing else so good as Hood's.

YOUR STOMACH IS A CHURN

Sweet butter can't be made in a sour churn. The stomach is a churn. A foul stomach fouls the food put into it. When the food is fouled the blood made from it is fouled also. Foul blood means disease. Cleanse the churn and you have sweet butter. Cleanse the stomach and you have pure blood. The far reaching action of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is due to its effect on the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases that begin in the stomach are cured through the stomach.

"Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has proved a great blessing to me," writes Mrs. Ellen E. Bacon, of Shutesbury, Franklin Co., Mass. "Prior to September, 1897, I had doctored for my stomach trouble for several years, going through a course of treatment without any real benefit. In September, 1896, I had very sick spells and grew worse; could eat but little. I commenced to take Dr. Pierce's medicine and in a short time I could eat and work. I have gained twenty pounds in two months."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for paper-bound volume, or 50 stamps for cloth binding, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Application to Parliament

Notice is hereby given that an application will be made by the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough and the Corporation of the Village of Ashburnham to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at its next session for an act to validate and confirm By-law Number 912 of the said Corporation of the Town of Peterborough entited "A By-law to fix the assessment of certain lands in the Town of Peterborough" passed the 3rd day of December 1900, and By-law Number 262 of the Corporation of the Village of Ashburnham entitled "A By-law to fix the assessment of certain lands in the Village of Ashburnham" passed the 3rd day of December, 1900, and to repeal Section 2 of the Act of the Province of Ontario 63 Vict. The Chicago Tribune is a newspaper for bright and intelligent people. It is made up to attract people who think.

Is not neutral or colorless, constantly trimming in an endeavor to please both sides, but it is independent in the best sense of the word

It has pronounced opinions and is fearless in expressing them, but it is always fair to its opponents.

Matters of national or vital public interest get more space in THE TRIBUNE than in any other paper in the West.

For these reasons it is the newspaper you should read during the forthcoming political campaign.

THE TRIBUNE'S financial columns never mislead the public.

Its facilities for gathering news, both local and foreign, are far superior to those of any other newspaper in the West.

It presents the news in as fair a way as possible, and lets its readers form their opinions.

While it publishes the most comprehensive articles on all news features, if you are busy the "Summary of THE DAILY TRIBUNE" published daily on the first page gives you briefly all the news of the day within one column.

Its sporting news is always the best, and its Sunday Pink Sporting Section is better than any sporting paper in the country.

It is the "cleanest" daily printed in the West.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. A WONDERFUL
KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

I. A. HOPKINS.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY, And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 58 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.
Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 368 Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

RETIRED.

The strong tide breaks upon the narrow pier,
The ships go by; and one who knew them well
Sits at the close of day, and sits alone

Captain no more! But he remembers yet
The little town in dear old Maryland
Where first he learned by star and wind and tide
The track of the ocean, and the way of war,
Upon the wave that smote his native land.

Now all is done: a warship rides the bay,
With shining hull and blackened funnels high,
And his old heart leaps at its prisoned side,
For that his boy is there! He minds the time
When little arms were twined upon his neck,
And ears bent low to hear the thrilling tale
Of ships that fought in battles long ago.

He thinks of her who stood beside him then
With shining eyes—the light-house of his heart—
And outward passed, like to a little sail,
That, rocking in the mist, returns no more.

So comes the dusk; he hears the booming gun,
He sees the lowered flag, the night-lamps set;
And watching on the pier he falls asleep,
And dreams of golden anchors far away.

MY DOUBLE DILEMMA.

Thoroughly tired of the pier, the esplanade, and the tennis-court, one afternoon, during my stay at the seaside, I took a solitary ramble round the coast.

With the tall cliffs on one side of me and a vast expanse of ocean on the other, I made my way over sand and shingle, careless of everything save the appearance of my immaculate flannel trousers, until the town of Brinybay was hidden by a chalk promontory, and I found myself alone, or apparently alone, with Nature.

As, however, I approached an irregular mass of rock lying together at the foot of the cliff, a scarlet object appearing above them attracted my attention, and, on nearing the spot, I discovered it was a parasol shading one of the most bewitching girls I had ever beheld in my life—and I have seen a good many.

Comfortably seated on a mossy boulder and deep in the perusal of a yellow-backed volume, she was becomingly attired in a dress of pale pink, and as I passed her I fancied she peeped at me from beneath her shady straw hat; but young men always think that girls notice them, especially when like myself, they are Oxford undergraduates with their college arms emblazoned on the breast of their blue serge jackets.

I had not left this siren very far behind when my progress was suddenly brought to a stop by the sea, which had covered the beach and was lashing the base of the cliff. I at once realised the unpleasant fact that the tide was flowing, and that if I did not speedily retrace my steps, my return to Brinybay would be prevented in the same manner as my advance.

Hastening back, and passing the maiden in pink, who was reading as unconcernedly as ever, I again found my path barred by a sheet of water several yards in width. I was completely shut off from the mainland.

To scale the cliff was utterly impossible, and although I might have resumed my homeward course after wading through the water, I could not have deserted the fair girl near me, who was evidently unconscious of her critical situation. The waves were rapidly advancing towards the rocks among which she was seated, and the seaweed clinging to them told me that at high water they were totally submerged.

Approaching the parasol, I coughed.

"Excuse me," I said, "but the tide is coming in very fast, and, I am afraid, will soon be up here."

"Oh, dear!" she exclaimed, blushing, and hurriedly looking around her. "Oh, dear, how very stupid of me not to notice it; whatever shall I do?"

"The only possible way of getting back," I remarked, as she slowly closed her book and left her seat, "is across this piece of water, but it is rather deep."

In silence she followed me to the spot, and after gazing upon the fast-widening barrier, looked up at me and smiled.

"I think I know how we can overcome the difficulty," I said, "but I hope you won't be offended at my suggestion."

"Oh, no, no," she exclaimed, with a little laugh; "anything as long as I can get out of this horrid fix."

"Then, I believe I could manage to carry you across, if you wouldn't object," I said, after some hesitation.

Another smile illumined her fair countenance, and she replied in tones of the deepest sincerity—

"Oh, thank you, thank you; I should feel so grateful if you would, so very much obliged."

Throwing off my shoes and socks, and tucking up my immaculate ones, I put the yellow-covered book into one of my capacious pockets, deposited my stick with the scarlet parasol on the beach and gently lifting its fair owner in my arms, in another moment had forded the water and deposited her on [illegible] terra firma.

She returned with me to Brinybay. Her thanks were overwhelming, and ere long we were chatting together like a couple of old friends.

A proposal I made for taking her mother for a sail in my yacht pleased her more than ever, and when I parted with her near the pier—though ignorant of her name and connection—I thought she was the most charming girl I had met with for a long time.

On arriving at my apartments I found that the yellow-covered volume which she had entrusted to my care was still in my pocket. I opened it and found on the title-page the following: "Bessie Cragg, Sea View Villa, Brinybay."

Not displeased at my discovery, I penned a polite little note to "Miss Cragg"—who was evidently the bewitching possessor of the scarlet parasol—in which, after briefly referring to her book, I had the boldness to fix a day for the proposed yatching expedition.

Neatly enclosing the epistle with the volume, I left the parcel that evening at Sea View Villa.

Next morning I was told that a gentleman desired to speak to me in private. I ordered my landlady to show the visitor in, and forthwith a black-looking man, of middle age, entered my parlor.

"Mr. Lyon, I presume?" he began, eyeing me unpleasantly.

"I am Mr. Lyon; what is it?" I said, annoyed at the stranger's manner.

"What is it?" he sneered; "what is it, indeed young man! What do you mean by sending my wife such stuff as this, and by asking her to accompany you in a yacht, etc., you impertinent fellow?" and he threw my little note to Bessie Cragg on to the table.

"Your wife?" I exclaimed in confusion, "your wife, sir? I think you are in error; I think that you have made a mistake, sir."

"Mistake!" cried the stranger fiercely; "mistake—fiddlesticks. I am Mr. Joseph Cragg, young man, and if ever I catch you insulting my wife with another such billet doux it's ten to one you won't have a chance of repeating the offense!"

With this terrible threat, my visitor left the house.

I threw myself into a chair and groaned aloud—a pretty ending, forsooth, to the romantic incident of the preceding day.

During the next week I had little bliss; it made me miserable to think that fair and frolicsome Bessie was bound for life to such a wolfish monster as Joseph Cragg.

On reflection, I wondered why she hadn't informed her husband of her adventure by the seaside (for I presumed he was unaware of it,) and why, when she was with me, she had appeared so eager to accept my invitation.

I met Mrs. Cragg several times alone in the town and on the pier, but always passed her without any token of recognition. On one occasion I fancied she smiled faintly at me, but taking no notice of her familiarity, I thought, for a married person, that her behaviour was extremely improper.

Just a week after my eventful ramble round the coast, while strolling listlessly on the esplande, I was surprised on being accosted by a pleasant-looking old lady who, grasping my hand, exclaimed—

"Are you the gentleman that saved my dear little Marie from being drowned when almost caught by the tide some days ago?"

I was absolutely bewildered, nor was it until I was seated in the gushing old lady's drawing-room conversing with her and her fair grand-daughter Marie—the identical possessor of the scarlet parasol—that an explanation of the whole affair took place.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cragg was a friend of Marie's and had lent her the yellow-backed volume which, on being returned to its original owner, had fallen in to the hands of Mr. Cragg.

Without showing either the book or the note to his wife, this gentleman had opened the letter with the above recorded unpleasant result.

It may interest the reader to know that Marie and I took our yachting trip as proposed, and thoroughly enjoyed it, too; but beyond the information contained in the appending newspaper cutting, I cannot furnish further particulars of the consequences of my eventful ramble when, although I eluded the clutches of Neptune, I fell a victim to the snares of Cupid.

How to Read the Tongue.

The perfect tongue is clean, moist, lies loosely in the mouth, is round at the edge and has no prominent papilae.

The tongue may be furred from local cause or from sympathy with the stomach, intestines or liver.

The dry tongue occurs most frequently in fever and indicates a nervous prostration or depression.

A white tongue is diagnostic simply of the feverish condition, with perhaps a sour stomach. When it is moist and yellowish brown it shows disordered digestion. Dry and brown indicates a low state of the system, possibly typhoid.

When the tongue is dry and red and smooth, look out for inflammation, gastic or intestinal.

When the papilae on the end of the tongue are raised and very red it is called a strawberry tongue, and that means scarlet fever.

Sharp pointed red tongue will hint of brain irritation or inflammation, and a yellow coating indicates liver derangement.

The world contains an oversupply of average man.

WEATHER NOTES.

The storm which is still centered to the eastward of Nova Scotia has increased in energy and gales with snow are prevalent in the Maritime Provinces. The temperature in Ontario and Quebec ranged from about zero in the more southern portions of the provinces to ten or fifteen below in northern portions. Decidedly milder weather has set in over the North west Territories, and a temperature of 44 degrees was recorded at Edmonton.

Greater Than Royalty.

When Robert T. Stewart was governor of Missouri it was in the days when everybody drank whiskey, and the governor was no exception to the rule. Years ago, when the Prince of Wales was on a visit to this country, they gave a grand ball in his honor in St. Louis. Governor Stewart came down from Jefferson City to honor the event with his presence. In the course of the evening the enthusiastic governor drank rather too much. He became exceedingly happy, as well as proud and enthusiastic. He and the prince were seated on the platform, while the beauty and aristocracy of St. Louis swept past them in gorgeous review. Stewart's feelings and bosom swelled. Eventually, in a mighty impulse of glow and glory, he administered a tremendous slap upon the prince's back, exclaiming with intense animation:

"Say, prince, don't you wish you were governor of Missouri?"

England's heir took it all in good part, and laughed, and paid no further attention to the governor's familiarity, otherwise his dignity might have sustained a severe shock.—Harry Norman in the St. Louis Republican.

Sucked the Poison From 18 Wounded Men.

One of the stories of history which is always of interest to the young is that of Queen Eleanor sucking the poison from King Henry's wound after that monarch had been stabbed with a poisoned dagger. The Queen's devotion saved the life of the King, according to the story which the more austere historians look upon as apocryphal. But here is a modern instance which proves that the story is probably true:

In the recent fighting around Limu, in Nigeria, in West Africa, a detachment of British were ambushed by a force of natives, who poured in a showed of poisoned arrows upon them. Colonel Lowry-Cole and Captains Abadie and Bryan, three officers out of the four commanding the detachment, were hit by arrows. The poison which the natives use for their arrows has been known to prove fatal in a few minutes.

Dr. Thompson, the surgeon of the expedition, as soon as the officers were hit, sucked the blood from the wounds and with it the poison. As soon as he had attended to the officers he looked after the men, and found that fifteen had been hit. He gave the same treatment to them. All recovered. The doctor experienced no ill effects from his action.

A Pretty Wedding

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the residence of Mrs. Fries, Bonacord street on Wednesday evening, when Mr. John Robertson was united in marriage to Miss Agnes Madill, by the Rev. W. W. Wagg. The groom was assisted by his brother, Hugh Robertson, and the bride by her sister, Miss Etta Madill, of Toronto. The bride was charmingly attired in fawn silk trimmed with pearls and white silk. Her hair was tastily arranged and adorned with smilax and carnations. The bridesmaid was similarly attired. Only the immediate relatives were present. The presents were numerous, most beautiful and costly. After the ceremony the party sat down to a sumptuous dinner, after which the health and happiness of the newly wedded couple were proposed in felicitous language, and duly acknowledged by the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Robertson will reside at 415 Rubidge street.

Wedding Bells

A very quiet wedding took place, at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Walter Paterson, Hunter street, when her youngest daughter, Miss Euphemia, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Robert Baird Williamson, of Scranton, Pa. and formerly of the Canadian General Electric Works, town. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Torrance in the presence of a very few friends and relatives. The bride was attired in a costume of white taffeta silk and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was assisted by Miss Grace Parker, of Toronto, who was gowned in white organdie and carried a bouquet of violets. Mr J. Harry Chins, of Reading, Pa., supported the groom. The happy couple will take up their permanent residence in Scranton. Mr. and Mrs. Williamson have the hearty good wishes of a large circle of friends.

The Toronto Mail and Empire says "The tea given in honor of Mrs. J. R. Stratton, yesterday afternoon, by Mrs. McIntyre, of Huron street, was a delightful one. Pink was the predominating color of the decorations, and pink roses, carnations, and hyacinths were in profusion everywhere, while the table was daintily arranged with a soft center of pink tulle over pink satin, pink satin ribbons intertwining, with vases of pink roses, and pink candles and pink shades. The hostess wore a dress of green silk, the corsage finished with white chiffon, and green velvet bebe ribbons. Mrs. Stratton wore a gown of black silk, richly embroidered with jet, the corsage finished with old point lace, and a black picture hat. Mrs. Howard MacIntyre, of St. Mary's, received with the hostess, dressed in black silk, the corsage finished with white lace and touches of black velvet. A MUCH NEEDED CHANGE.

Slaughter of Deer in the Water Likely to Stop.

The proposal to have the slaughter of deer in the water put a stop to, does not come a moment too soon. It is said that the Legislature will so amend the game laws during the present session. Speaking on this subject the Globe forcibly puts it.

"While the game laws of Ontario are undergoing their annual amendment the Legislature should put an end to the practice of killing deer in the water. It is not sport to be paddled up to a deer that has been hounded into water and to kill the poor brute with a rifle, club or butcher-knife. It may gratify our Anglo-Saxon love of killing but the most abundant charity cannot regard it as sport. Last year the express companies carried 2,032 carcasses of deer. There were 3,559 deer-hunting licenses issued, and 2,065 settlers took out permits to hunt deer. Incomplete returns published in the Game Commission's report show that there were 5,600 deer-hunters in the woods during the fifteen day's open season. A rough estimate, made on the assumption that the laws were generally regarded, places the number of deer killed at 6,500, but there are many who hold that a round ten thousand would be nearer the actual number. The figures are sufficiently alarming to warrant some radical change in the law to prevent depletion. The prohibition of hounding has been suggested. That would be retaliation for the settlers, who feel that the laws have been changed from time to time for the benefit of city sports. The average hunter from the city, whose feet entangle in fallen limbs, and who cannot see a deer till it jumps, would stand a poor chance of killing one in fifteen days, or even fifteen weeks, still-hunting. There is a special clause in the game law applicable to the Indian peninsula of Bruce County, making it illegal to kill deer in the water or immediately after they have landed. This law should be made applicable to the entire Province. Much can be said in favor of genuine sport, but buchery should not be encouraged as a pastime. The tendency to substitute the camera for the rifle is growing, and is worthy of all commendation."

WHY NOT PETERBOROUGH!

The Bell Piano and Organ Company Looking for Location.

The Bell Piano and Organ Company, of Guelph, is looking for new quarters. Its business has grown so large that the company has about decided to move from Guelph, to some place on the main line of the two great railways, where power is to obtained at reasonable rates.

Peterborough just fills the bill. In addition to cheap power, Peterborough is on the Trent Canal, which is in itself a big advantage over other places.

The Times would suggest that the Council or Board of Trade, or both, invite the company's officers to come and look over the ground.

SNOW BLOCKADE

Trains on the C.P.R. Badly Snowbound Yesterday

Yesterday the trains on the C.P.R. were badly blocked on account of the storm. There was no train yesterday nor was the line open at a late hour last night.

The line will probably open to-day, as a large force of men are at work clearing the deep cuts near Myrtle that are filled with snow.

VICTORIA DAY

The 24th of May Likely to be Made a Public Holiday

It is altogether probable that the 24tn of May will be made a public holiday throughout the British Empire, and will be known as "Victoria Day." This will be regarded with favor by the people of Peterborough as well as every other portion of our vast country. Never again will the colors be trooped in celebration of the "Queen's Birthday," but we cannot let Victoria Day slip out of the calendar.

"What better reminder could we all have than an annual holiday of rejoicing in remembrance of her who did so much for our nation and Empire?" says the London Express, commending the Canadian project.

In England, it seems, May 24 might possibly be thought too close in many years to Whitsuntide. However, the Express thinks the idea, like that of the memorial in stone, does not stand or fall by details. In England Victoria's Accession Day, or the anniversary of the Diamond Jubilee, would be free from the objection to the Queen's Birthday, which has practically never been observed in the Old Country, as it has been with us. Yet these dates would come too close to Dominion Day to suit Canada.

It would be much more significant, however, if every portion of that vast aggregation of nations, which in the Victorian era was united into that mighty power we call the British Empire, were to select one and the same day to celebrate. We must say, too, that all things considered, the late Queen's Birthday seems the most suitable time. If the people of Great Britain have not been observing it in the past, there is still room for improvement. We hope yet to see "Victoria Day" become a national holiday.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES

HOCKEY LAST NIGHT.

The Intermediates went up to Lindsay last night on a special, accompanied by a goodly number of rooters to play the draw-off, which the O.H.A. had ordered to be played there. The score at half-time stood 3-2 in Peterborough's favor and it looked as if things were coming our way. In the second-half, however, misfortune befell Peterborough and Port Hope scored 4 while Peterborough only secured 1, making the score 6-4 in Port Hope's favor, putting our team out of the race. The game was free from roughness, considering the interest taken by both teams in the match.

STOP LOSING MONEY

You Cannot Guess Winners

Horse races are "MIGHTY UNCERTAIN" things to bet on, if you depend on a GUESS to win, a thousand miles from the scene. Thousands have tried before you and have failed. The chances are a thousand to one you will fail too.

You Cannot Handicap Winners

Horses are not machines. They rarely repeat performances. Many of them look at the odds in the betting ring before they go to the post—that is, their owners do it for them. Horses do not always "try." They run for the benefit of their owners, not the public.

Be Advised by Experts on the Spot

Do what the plungers do. "Stand in." Get the best inside information direct from the track every morning that a shrewd combine of horsemen can secure for you. That is what is given its subscribers daily by the

LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE

The LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE is a combination of horse owners and trainers, now racing horses at the New Orleans race track, who have united for the purpose of profiting by the exclusive information at their command. The syndicate aims to send to its subscribers by telegraph every morning the names of two or three horses that are entered in the day's races, which will win, barring accidents alone.

THIS BEATS ALL

Among our many winners recently were SARILLA, 50 to 1, Jan. 8; CALLEUR, 10 to 1, Jan. 14; and AZIA, 10 to 1, Jan. 15.

Within a week our subscribers won more money following us than they did for six months prior following their own selections, if indeed they were not heavy losers before they joined our army of winners.

Cut this out and use it as authority on the manager of the Postal Telegraph office, No 144 W. 42d street, New York, to examine copy of our telegrams to subscribers filed each day this month at noon. Verify our statement!

We hope this will convince all turfites that our subscribers are getting money, and that our sources of information are second to none in point of accuracy and reliability. We average two selections per day. Anything we send can be bet on with confidence that the horse will "try" and that the owner is betting on him.

GERMAN TROOPS 'NOT LEAVING CHINA

Count' Von Waldersee Publishes a Formal Denial of the Published Statement

Cape Town, Feb. 15.

For a month Lord Methuen has been scouring the country between Kurman and the Transvaal bringing in women and children, cattle and food from all the farms. Fifty women and one hundred children, together with a few men, he has sent to Vryburg. On one occasion, while he was pursuing a commando, the Boers sent off their wagons in charge of women and girls in one direction and went themselves in another. The women were such expert drivers that the British had considerable difficulty in catching the convoy. General Smith-Dorrien occupied Amsterdam and Taungis February 9.

Tien Tsin, Feb. 15.

It is reported here that seven nations to-day declared war against China.

Tien Tsin, Feb. 15.

It is asserted here that the real reason for the deadlock in Pekin, is a difference of opinion between the foreign envoys, and the military authorities, the former favoring a withdrawal of the troops to Tien Tsin, and the latter urging a forward movement. It is regarded as possible that a certain power may advance independently, should the deadlock continue.

Pekin, Feb. 15.

The Chinese peace plenipotentiaries have replied to the latest telegram from the Imperial court, that the decision of the foreign envoys with respect to the punishment of the guilty is irrevocable although the sentence upon Gen. Tung Fu Hsiang can be suspended until such time as it comes within the power of the Court to place him in restraint, when his death will be demanded, although there have been no official communications on the subject between the envoys and the Chinese plenipotentiaries there have been long unofficial consultations between the latter and M. De Giers and Sir Ernest Satow, the Russian and British Ministers. A definite reply from the Court is not expected before the end of the New Year celebrations, at least ten days off, but the Envoys believe that the Court must yield.

Count Von Waldersee has issued a formal denial of the published statement that the German troops are leaving China. He says that he could not move without instructions from Berlin, and that these have not been received.

St. Johnsburg, Vermont, Feb. 15.

William Godfrey, of this place, was found dead to-day with a bullet hole through his brain. A revolver lay beside the body. The woman from whom Godfrey rented his room says that Godfrey was much disturbed and swore considerably yesterday over a watch trade.

London, Feb. 15.

The colors presented to Strathcona's Horse, is a silken standard with a silver plate on the staff bearing inscription showing the King presented to the corps.

A STATE DOCUMENT FROM SOUTH AFRICA

A Relic From the Transvaal Secured by a Guelph Man

Guelph, Feb. 15.—A relic of the South African campaign which Mr. James Cormack brought home with him, in a State document of the Transvaal, appointing Mr. John Baikie, of Pieterspoort, to the position of Curator of Waterworks. It bears the signature of Paul Kruger, the ex-President, and Dr. Leyds, ex-Secretary of State of the former so-called Republic. Mr. Baikie had been 27 years in South Africa, and when the war broke out occupied three other positions under the Boer Government, which his British loyalty would then allow him to hold no longer. On throwing them up he became manager of the five million acre farm of farm of Samuel Marks, the second richest man in South Africa.

Mr. Baikie is a native of Wick, Caithness—which he is no wabout revisiting after an absence of 27 years—and knew of the Cormacks, Bruces, and other Guelph people who originally cmae from the Scottish shire. This cause led to the formation of a strong and lasting friendship between Mr. Baikie and Pte. Cormack. The latter tells, with agood deal of relish, th ecircumstances of their first meeting He was doing sentry duty on the veldt one night when Mr. Baikie come along on horseback. "Who goes there," shouted the watchful soldier, "John Baikie," came the response, "I'm a Scotchman." "Any fool could tell that," said Cormack. The broad accent of the intruder and its ready recognition by the soldier formed a favorable introduction. Mr. Cormack has had the Transvaal instrument of the appointment of his friend framed for preservation, and at present it is on view in the window of D. E. Macdonald & Bro.'s store.

Board of Trade

Col. H. C. Rogers, Vice-Chairman, called a meeting of the Manufacturer's Committee of the Board of Trade last night, to discuss important matters in regard to industries. There is a fair chance of getting several big industries to locate in Peterborough during the present year, and it was for the purpose of determining the best way to go about it, that the meeting was called.

IN MEMORY.

Of the Late John Flood, of Ennismore, who died on Friday, January 1st. 1901.

Father, father, thou has left us,
Thy toils and cares are o'er,
In heaven we hope at last to meet thee
But on earth, alas! no more.

A precious one from us is gone,
A voice we loved is still'd,
A space so vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.

Our guiding star through life's broad ocean,
Our only hope in grief or woe;
Father, father, canst thou hear us,
Still for comfort to thee we go.

No pleasure thine unless we shared it,
No sorrow ours but pierced they heart;
Ah, can it be that death so cruel
Should will it thus that we should part.

Alone through life we now must wander.
Thy loving voice no more we hear;
Alas! our home is sad and lonely,
No father's form lingers near.

Yet must we bow in meek submission
To each decree of Hiss Holy will;
In heaven thou rest, on earth we mourn thee
In dreams, dear father, we see thee still.

Thy hands are clasped upon thy breast,
We have kissed thy marble brow,
And in our aching hearts we know
We have no father now.
From His Ever Loving Children.

ABOUT COLD STORAGE

Some of the Advantages it Will Afford

PETERBORO SHOULD MOVE

AND SECURE THIS GREAT BOOM WHILE THERE IS A CHANCE.

What has Become of the Board of Trade?—This Body Should not go to Sleep.

The Times believe that Peterborough can secure cold storage if it is gone about in the proper way. Our Board of Trade does not, however, appear to be alert on matters of this kind. Its members met and expend considerable wind, but they do not appear to accomplish anything worthy of note. Some few days ago we pointed out some of the advantages that would accure to the town were we to have a properly constructed cold storage warehouse, but the matter appears to have ended there.

The possibilities of refrigerating processes seem to be endless. These processes are influencing more and more the methods of trade in perishable goods. Butchers and poulterers are no longer afraid to buy in large quantities. If they have a surplus stock on hand they have only to put it in cold storage to await a demand. This practice is coming widely into vogue in Great Britain. Such cities as Birmingham and many smaller ones now have cold storage plants of large extent. Of the 14,000,000 rabbitsn ow annually received in England from Australasia scores of thousands are constantly in the freezing chambers awaiting their turn to get into the retail market. Many of the animals now in cold storage were placed there fully six months ago.

Wholesale meat dealers are not afraid they will lose their investment if they bring to market a shipload of meat at a time. It is asserted in England that the quality of Canadian turkeys and fowls is actually improved by the lapse of considerable time between killing and marketing. They are delivered alive at such centres as Toronto and Montreal. Then they are killed, plucked and hung for a day in cold chambers. At the end of this time each bird is wrapped in parchment paper and packed in cases containing a dozen birds each, which are carried to the ports and placed in cold air chambers on board ship. The temperature is maintained just about the freezing point, for the birds are never frozen, but are kept in the chilled state, and as the quality of beef and venison is said to be improved by hanging several days in the larder, so also, it is asserted by the Birmingham Daily Post, the quality of the Canadian birds placed on British markets within fourteen days of being killed is quite as good as that of birds killed and marketed in the ordinary way in England.

The great development of cold storage is in Great Britain, because so many million dollars' worth of the meat supply is brought thousands of miles from America and Australia. Vast quantities are sometimes received within a few days and placed in cold storage till needed for the market. In Birmingham, for example, as one of the local newspapers asserts, over a million persons are now regularly supplied with food from the city markets. The cold storage plant established thirteen years ago is large and additional works are building. These cold stores always contain many thousands of quarters of American beef. In one room are thousands of carcasses of sheep in cotton coverings forwarded from Australia, New Zealand and South America. They are piled one on top of another like bricks. Thirty thousand sheep carcasses may be stored and the new rooms now building will increase the capacity to 100,000 sheep. One of the newer importations is chilled pork from this country, which is said to be of high quality and rich flavor and cheaper than England pork.

Canadian eggs and Danish and Siberian butter are also preserved in these stores and large consignments of British Columbia salmon. Special storage rooms are set apart for the reception of fish and fruit. The midwinter steamers from Cape Colony and Australia are quite certain to bring many fresh grapes, which are placed in the cold rooms until they are wanted. Just as refrigeration has lengthened the killing season at Chicago to twelve months a year so it has also made it possible to enjoy fresh grapes, peaches and other fruit the year round by bringing them from one or another part of the world; for somewhere or another they are always ripening.

Though the trade in chilled and frozen meats is constantly growing there is still considerable prejudice against it. In Germany, for instance, very little refrigerated meat is sold, for most people believe it is distinctly inferior to fresh meat. A similar prejudice exists in England, though in a lesser degree. For a long time the public there could not be persuaded that frozen meat was palatable, but cheapness and improved quality finally made many converts. It is not eaten yet by those who can afford to pay high prices for meat; but for some years the frozen mutton of Australia and New Zealand and the frozen beef of America have been the staple meat supply of the laboring classes.

Cold storage is having no more important effect upon any branch of the meat trade than upon the commerce in poultry. Until within a few years Great Britain has depended largely upon northern France to make good her deficiency in poultry. To-day France is losing a considerable part of this part, while Canadian poultry is reaching the British market in large quantities.

FELL DEAD AT THE STATION.

Wm. Ramsay, of Mariposa had Expired a Lindsay station.

Lindsay, Feb 15.—Mr. Wm. Ramsay, a highly respected and well-known resident of the township of Mariposa, expired suddenly in the G.T.R. waiting room Thursday morning about 9.05 o'clock.

Mr. Ramsay had been spending a few days in town with his son, Mr. George Ramsay, of Cambridge-st., a breakeman on the G.T.R. running out of Lindsay. He went to the station to see his grandchild, a Miss Noble, who was going to Mariposa Station, and he suddenly fell over and expired just as the Port Hope train, No. 21, had pulled into the station.

Dr. Gillespie was immediately sent for, but life had been extinct several minutes when the physician arrived. Heart failure was undoubtedly the cause of the old gentleman's death, as he was under treatment for that trouble for several years. It is supposed that a hurried walk to the station brought on the attack. Mr. Ramsay was in his 82nd year. Mr T. H. Noble, a well-known Mariposa farmer, is a son-in-law of the deceased. Dr. Poole deemed an inquest unnecessary.

The Cathedral Choir

The members of St. Peter's Cathedral choir were entertained at the presbytery on Thursday evening by Ven. Archdeacon Casey. After supper was served the gathering repaired to the palace, where a very enjoyable time was spent.

TO CROSS OCEAN UNDER WATER.

French Expert Says Problem of Submarine Navigation has been Solved by his Nation.

A Story with Moral.

Paris, Feb 15.—Professor D'Arsonval, who questions the claims of Professor Tripler regarding the utility of liquid air, said in an interview today:

"I don't wish to give the details, but I affirm that the problem of submarine boats has been resolved by French engineers. Before the end of the year they will have a new apparatus rendering independent of coast defanses or battleships. These boats will be able to cross the ocean under water without emerging for the entire distance."

Regarding liquid air, Professor D'Arsonval said

"I know that apparatuses have been constructed in America, and I have models of them at home; but I continue to assert that liquid air cannot be utilized in running motors because they produce only 5 per cent of the force spent in producing liquid air.

"Such motors can only be used in laboratories or in floating companies to drain the money of silly people, or for submarine boats, where expense is of no consequence.

"Regarding the utility of liquid air, the German savant Linde shares my views. Mr. Tripler's alleged discoveries are mere fables."

THE BLOCKADE RAISED

The Snow Blockade on the C. P. R. is Now at an End

The snow blockade on the C.P.R. is at an end, the track having been cleaned Thursday night. The train that left Toronto Wednesday evening, and which had on board two rinks of Peterborough curlers, was stuck in the drift for thirty hours. They reached home early yesterday morning.

Mr. Dickson Davidson, one of the passengers on the belated train, told the Times yesterday of some of the experiences of the party. They got stuck in an immense drift at Burston, and could not back out. Indeed, it took two heavy engines to pull the cars out, one at a time, the snow was so solid and closely packed.

The passengers were provided with scant food by the farmers living in the vicinity. The snow plow brought from Toronto a quantity of biscuits, cheese, canned salmon, etc., which was very acceptable. It was a long, doleful wait, but the entire party on board bore their sufferings without complaint. The railway did everything in their power for the comfort of the passengers.

The Company had a force of 50 men working in from each end.

A HEAVY SENTENCE

William Northcut Gets 14 Years by P. M. Dumble

Wm. Northcut, who was arrested a few days ago, appeared in Police Court yesterday to answer to five charges, viz: one of forgery, two burglary and two arson.

The readers of The Times will remember that Northcut was arrested last week on a charge of having tried to pass a forged cheque at the Bank of Toronto. Subsequent investigation pointed strongly to the accused as the person who had broken into Mr. J. Giles' store, George street, who set fire to Mr. Giles' barn, and who set fire to and burglarized Gough Bros.' store, all on the one night.

At the Police Court the prisoner looked downcast and sullen, and showed evidence of weak intellect. He elected to be tried summarily, and pleaded guilty to having forged J. Giles' name to a check for $28. He would not admit burglary, however, but after several witnesses were examined, as well as the prisoner, he was promptly adjudged guilty.

The prisoner subsequently pleaded guilty to all the charges, and was sentenced to 14 years in the penitentiary.

GOOD QUEEN VICTORIA.

An Incident Which has Never Found its Way into Print.

Mr. Alf. Jackson, the well known representative of the Dominion Brewery Company, was in town yesterday, and dropped into the Times office for a friendly chat. In speaking of the death of the Queen, Mr. Jackson unbuttoned his coat and showed two medals, which had been pinned on the breast of 200 odd Egyptain Soldiers, himself amongst the number, by the Queen herself. Mr. Jackson served with Eleventh Hussars, and has seen considerable service. The men thus honored had just returned, and had undergone great hardships. The good Queen sympathized with the men, who were mostly ill and very sick. Tears were in her eyes and streaming down her cheeks during the ceremony.

Mr. Jackson was born and educated at Windsor, and saw the Queen when a lad almost daily. On one occasion, of which Mr. Jackson was an eye witness, the Queen was being driven out of the Royal grounds, at the gate of which there is a sentry stationed, and a sentry box for use in stormy days. On the occasion referred to the sentry was absent from his post, a circumstance which Her majesty quickly noticed. She was seated alone in her carriage, with driver in front and her servant, John Brown, being. The carriage was stopped and Brown stepped into the sentry house to see what was the matter. He found the soldier lying on the floor in a faint. The Queen on being told, at once had the man lifted into the carriage beside her, and with motherly instinct and love, held him in her arms till he was driven to the hospital.

By the people of Windsor the Queen was adored. As is also the new King.

MAY MEAN AMPUTATION

Mr. R. H. Fortye's Feet and Hands Badly Frozen

It is with regret that we announce the serious accident which befel Mr. R. H. Fortye, a few days ago, while driving out to a branch store belonging to the Campbellford firm, where he is employed.

It seems that the night was bitterly cold and stormy, and the cutter upset in the drifts, throwing Mr. Fortye out. The team got away, and Mr. Fortye was recovered in an unconscious condition at about three o'clock in the morning. His hands and feet were so badly frostbitten that it is feared amputation may be necessary.

KING EDWARD SEES STRATHCONA'S OWN

Rough Riders Paraded at Buckingham Palace

COL. STEELE PRESENTED

The Queen, Lord Roberts and Buller in the Royal Party

London, Feb. 15.—King Edward, accompanied by Queen Alexandra, this morning inspected at Buckingham Palace 350 officers and men of Strathcona's Horse. His Majesty presented the regiment with the King's color and gave medals to the men. A detachment of Guards held the lawn of the west terrace, and the Canadians were drawn up in front of the terrace.

The company present included Lord Roberts, in full uniform; General Buller, the Duke of Connaught, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, the Secretary of State for the Colonies; Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal who organized Strathcona's Horse, and many army and Court officers.

The Royal standard was hoisted over the palace as the King, wearing a Field Marshal's uniform, and the Queen, in deep mourning, appeared on the terrace, accompanied by the Duke and Duchess of Argyll, Prince Charles of Denmark, and the Duke of Cambridge.

His Majesty shook hands with Lord Roberts and General Buller, and the band of the Coldstream Guards played "God Save the King."

Colonel Samuel B. Steele of Strathcona's Horse was presented to King Edward, who proceeded to inspect the regiment.

Returning to the terrace the King handed a medal to Colonel Steele. Then the officers and men filed past a table, the King presenting each of them with a medal.

The King's color was brought by an escort of Grenadier Guards to the foot of the steps, and His Majesty presented it to the Canadian cavalrymen, saying it had been the intention of his mother to present it to the regimet, and that he now did it so in her name and in his own.

The color was borne to the regiment, the band playing "God Save the King." Afterwards the Canadians marched past, and the King, accompanied by Lord Strathcona, advanced and addressed the troopers as follows:

"Colonel Steele, officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates: I welcome you here to our shores on your return from active service in South Africa. I know it would have been the urgent wish of my beloved mother, our revered Queen, to welcome you. Alas, that was not to be. But be assured, she deeply appreciated the services you have rendered, as I do. I feel sure that in entrusting the King's color to you, Colonel Steele, and those under you, you will always defend it and do your duty, as you have done during the past year in South Africa, and will do so on all future occasions. I am glad Lord Strathcona is here to-day as it is owing to him that this magnificent force was equipped and sent out. I can only hope your short sojourn in England will be agreeable, and that you will return safely to your homes, friends and relations. Be assured that neither In or the British nation will ever foget the valuable services you have rendered in South Africa."

Colonel Steele, thanking the King, in behalf of the regiment, assured him that the people of Canada would always do as well as Strathcona's Horse if not better, and added that they were "always ready to defend the flag, the King, and the rights of the British Empire."

After three cheers for the King the officers were presented to His Majesty, who shook hands with and thanked each of them.

FRENCH CAPTURES LARGE BOER FORCE

Unconfirmed Despatch From Lorenzo Marquez

London, Feb. 15.—A despatch from Lorenzo Marques says that General French has captured a large Boer force in the Ermelo district. If this should turn out to be correct a severe blow has been struck at the Boer campaign under General Botha, which has been waged for some weeks in the country south of the Delagoa-Pretoria line, and which was commenced by a Boer concentration of 3,000 men along the road from Natal to Lydenburg. General French, with other leaders in co-operation, has been driving the enemy towards the Swaziland border for some time, the object being to so hem them in that they will be obliged to surrender. According to the despatch this object has been accomplished, and the supposition of course is that General Botha's force of 3,000 men, or what remains of it, has been captured, thus placing another laurel on the brow of General French. However, until officially confirmed by Lord Kitchener, the report must be viewed with reserve.

BOERS OCCUPY MURRAYSBURG.

Cape Town, Feb. 16.—The Boers occupied Murraysburg, Cape Colony, Feb. 7. Mr. Albert Cartwright, editor of the South African News, who was arrested February 7th, charged with seditious and defamatory libel in having published in his paper a statement saying that the British Commander-in-Chief had secretly instructed his troops to take no prisoners, was held yesterday for trial. Bail was fixed at 12,000.

A CANADIAN SCOUT WOUNDED.

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—The following cable was given out by the Militia Department this morning:

"Cape Town, Feb. 12.—Sergeant Craddock, Canadian Scouts, wounded; place unknown, 4th February. (Signed) Milner."

Craddock cannot be identified.

THE CALF PATH.

Respectfully Dedicated to the old Pioneers of Peterborough, by a Times Poet.

One day, through the primeval wood
A calf walked home, as good calves should;
But made a trail all bent askew,
A crooked trail, as all calves do.
Since then two hundred years have fled,
And, I infer, the calf is dead.
But still he left behind his trail,
And thereby hangs my moral tale.

The trail was taken up next day
By a lone dog that passed that way;
And then a wise bell-wether sheep
Pursued the trail o'er vale and steep,
And drew the flock behind him, too,
As good bell-wethers always do.

And from that day o'er hill and grade
Through those old woods a path was made;
And many men wound in and out,
And dodged, and turned, and bent about,
And uttered words of righteous wrath
Because 'twas such a crooked path.
But still they followed—do not laugh—
The first migrations of that calf,
And through this winding woodway stalked,
Because he wabbled when he walked.
This forest path because a lane,
That bent, and turned, and turned again.
This crooked lane because a road,
Where many a poor horse with his load,
Toiled on beneath the burning sun,
And traveled some three miles in one.
And thus, a century and a half
They trod the footsteps of that calf.

The years passed on in swiftness fleet,
The road because a village street;
And this, before men were aware,
A city's crowded thoroughfare;
And soon the central street was this
Of a renowned metropolis.
And men, two centuries and a half,
Trod in the footsteps of that calf.

Each day a hundred thousand rout
Followed the zigzag calf about;
And o'er his crooked journey went
The traffic of a continent.
A hundred thousand men were led
By one calf near three centuries dead
They followed still his crooked way,
And lost one hundred years a day;
For such reverence is lent
To well established president.

A moral lesson this might teach
Were I ordained and called to preach
For men are prone to go it blind
Along the calf-paths of the mind,
And work away from sun to sun
To do what other men have done.

They followed in the beaten track,
And out, and in, and forth and back,
And still their devious course pursue,
To keep the path that others do.
But how the wise old wood-gods laugh
Who saw the first primeval calf!
Ah! many things this tale might teach
But I am not ordained to preach.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANAdians at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 68 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts (none free); four for 80 cts; $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.25; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00 Write to day for a dozen and make money. A WONDERFUL

KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

I. A. HOPKINS.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,

And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 58 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours,
I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, College, Tregoto, Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 503 Fourth Av., New York. Please mention this paper.

THEIR SILVER WEDDING.

Only Three Things Wrong About His Story.

They were celebrating their silver wedding and the friends were admiring them as people always do other people when they are getting a lot of presents. You have noticed, of course, how people always look at you when you show them something somebody has given you. They are surprised and they envy you. They always wonder, however, in themselves what on earth any one could see in you to give you anything so handsome. That is unless it is your husband. Then they smile and wonder what he has been doing that his conscience needs rest. But if you'll notice you'll find that persons who get many presents have many friends. You may have many friends but get precious few presents. Presents make friends; friends don't make presents. Married people increase the circle of their friends with every anniversary of their wedding, because the presents get handsomer and more expensive. You can work this paradox out for yourselves, I haven't time.

They were celebrating their silver wedding, and of course the couple were very happy and very affectionate.

"Yes," said the husband, "this is the only woman I ever loved. I shall never forget the first time I proposed to her."

"How did you do it?" burst out a young man who had been squeezing a pretty girl's hand in a corner. They all laughed and he blushed; but the girl carried it off bravely.

"Well, I remember as well as if it were yesterday. It was away back in Maine. We had been out to a picnic, and she and I got wandering alone together. Don't you remember, my dear?"

The wife nodded and smiled.

"We sat on the trunk of an old tree. You haven't forgotten have you love?"

The wife nodded and smiled again.

"She began writing in the dust with the point of her parasol. You recall it sweet, don't you?"

The same old smile and nod.

"She wrote her name 'Minnie,' and I said, 'let me put the other name to it.' And I took the parasol and wrote my name—Smith—after it."

"How lovely," broke out a little maid who was beaming in a suspicious way on a tall chap with a blonde mustache.

"And she took back the parasol and wrote below it, 'No I won't.' And we went home. You remember it darling I see you do."

Then he kissed her and the company murmured, "How nice."

The guests had all departed and the happy couple were left alone.

"Wasn't it nice, Minnie, to see all our friends around us and so happy."

"Yes it was. But John, that reminiscence."

"Ah, it seems as if it was only yesterday."

"Yes, dear; there are only three things you're wrong about in that story."

"Wrong? Oh, no!"

"John, I'm sorry you told that story because I never went to a picnic with you before our marriage; I was never in Maine in my life and I never went through that parasol business with you."

"My darling, you are wrong."

"I'm not wrong. You know I have an excellent memory. We have been married twenty-five years but I never knew about that minx Minnie. You never told me of her before."

I guess that she'll forgive, but it is doubtful if she forgets.

He Needed the Money.

A local real estate dealer tells this story:

Some time ago he had an allotment on the market and one day a foreign-looking individual walked into his office and said he wanted to inquire about the lots. He looked over the plat and finally picked out one that suited him.

"Vot's der price?" he asked when the location was decided upon.

"Eight hundred dollars."

"I give you six houndred cash."

"Very well," said the dealer, "you can have it."

Then the customer lowered his voice.

"I vant der price of dot lot seex houndred to me, but eight houndred to effrybody else. You understand?"

"Yes," said the dealer. "That will be all right."

"Vell, you see, it's like dees—I'm goin' to get married. I've got der girl picked out, und she has money. You see you vill sell der lot to her for $800. Den you vill motion to me, und ve vill go into der next room und you will pay me dot $200. See?"

"You want the $200 for a commission?" said the dealer. "That will be all right, too."

The customer looked relieved.

"It's choost this way," he said. "I must have dot two hundred or I can't get married."

"You shall have it," said the dealer.

A few days later the future bride her mother and the coming bridegroom entered the office. The papers were quickly prepared and signed, and the mother from the intricacies of her skirts produced a wad of bills, which proved to be the necessary $800.

Then the bridegroom lingered behind as the bride and her mother passed into the hall. The dealer hastily counted off the $200 and thrust it into the bridegroom's hand.

"I have to have it," whispered the latter.

"All right," said the dealer.

"I couldn't get married without it."

"I understand," said the dealer.

The man with the two hundred paused, with his hand on the door-knob.

"I have to have it," he hoarsely murmured, "it is for my first wife's funeral expenses."

THE REMEDY FAILED.

How a Helpful Wife Did Not Cure Her Husband of the Tobacco Habit.

"It will only be necessary for you to drop about half a teaspoonful of the mixture into this cup of coffee each morning," the circular said, "and the taste for tobacco will gradually depart from him. He may not cease the use of tobacco immediately, but within a week he will begin to abhor tobacco if the mixture is given to him faithfully every morning."

And so the young wife sent her little $2 on and got a flagon of the tobacco cure.

"Pretty bum coffee this morning," he remarked dryly the first time she dropped the half-teaspoonful of the mixture into the cup.

"It's the same as we've been using right along," she replied, craftily.

Now, lo and behold! he was a pretty smooth proposition himself, and he had, unbeknownst to her, seen the package holding the flagon of agin tobacco mixture when it was delivered.

So after dinner that evening he produced a large bulky package of fine-cut tobacco from his pocket and took therefrom a plenteous chew of tobacco. It was the first chew he had ever taken in her presence, and she marvelled thereat, but she determined to persist with the "treatment."

"Dead rank chickory again this morning, isn't it?" he inquired at breakfast the next morning.

"Im sure it tastes the same to me," she replied.

That evening after dinner he produced a short, black clay pipe and a package of a new kind of tobacco that was as black as the ground work of a Jolly Roger.

"Thought I'd bring this old dudeen up from the office," he explained cheerfully. "It's as sweet as a nut."

Whereupon he filled the house with the aroma of punk that was strong enough to break rock.

"This grocery person who gets all of my wages is certainly doing us on the coffee game," he remarked when he tasted his cup next morning.

"Really," she said, gazing innocently at the ten-cent bunch of asters in the middle of the table, "I can't detect any difference."

"And yet there are low foreheads who don't believe that all women are actresses," said he to himself on the way to his office that morning.

That evening he brought home a box of auction stogies, and after he had smoked one of them after dinner all of the people in the neighboring flats stuffed cotton in the hall door keyholes and closed the hall transoms.

"I must persist though," thought his baffled little wife, gloomily.

"Coffee tastes like stewed gunnysack again this morning," he remarked at the next breakfast. She felt a bit sorry for him, but she was determined to use up that flagon of "agin-tobacco" if she had to chloroform him and pour it down his throat.

That evening, however her resolution deserted her. After dinner, for the first time to her knowledge, he pulled out a package of cigarettes, lit one and began to smoke it.

She went upstairs, poured out the remaining portion of her $2 worth of agin-tobacco and carefully hid the bottle.

"Coffee's all right this morning," said he at breakfast the next day.

"Yes?" she inquired, absently.

When he had finished his dinner that evening he lighted one of his usual brand of good cigars.

"Men are mysterious to me," she thought, regarding him out of the tail of her eye.

"Women only think they're foxy," he thought, blowing smoke rings into the Swiss curtains.—Bangor Commercial.

A Competent Witness.

United States District Judge Williams, now holding court in Topeka tells a funny story. Years ago he was a district judge in Arkansas. At a certain term of court a murder trial came before him, and the most important witness for the prosecution was a colored boy only ten years old. The lawyers for the defence set out to show that the boy was too young to understand the nature of an oath, and therefore was not competent as a witness.

"Boy," said one of them severely "do you know what would happen if you swore to a lie?"

"Yes, sah. Mammy would lick me."

"Would anything else happen?"

"Deed dey would, case de devil would git me."

At this point Judge Williams leaned over his desk and said with pretended sternness: "Don't you know, boy that I would get you, too?"

"Yes, sah. Dat's what I jus' said."—Kansas City Journal.

Two Points of View.

A farmer drifted into a hardware store at Mulhall and was asked by the manager. "Don't you want to buy a bicycle to ride around your farm on? They're cheap now. Can give you one for $35."

"I'd sooner put $35 into a cow," said the farmer.

"But think," said the manager, "how foolish you would look riding around town on a cow."

"Oh, I don't know" said the farmer, "no more foolish, perhaps, than I would milking a bicycle."

Out of the Ordinary.

The two old friends, as has been narrated before met again, after years of separation.

"By the way, Gagster," said Throggins, "do you remember that snub nosed, cross-eyed little Tilbury girl, with a face on her that would ditch an express train? She used to live somewhere in your neighborhood, I thing."

"Oh, yes, I remember her perfectly," replied Gagster.

"What ever became of her?"

"I am sorry to disappoint you, Throggins"—here is where the variation comes in—"but I have not the slightest idea. I didn't marry her."

Wonderfully Made.

Sister—When you called—to see George was he wearing those slippers I made him for Christmas?

Brother—No. He was using one of them as a laundry bag.

The Longford Lumber Co. no longer exists, a deal having been consummated last week whereby the Standard Lumber Co. of Orillia succeeds them. The latter company consists of Messrs. Wm. Thompson, George Thompson, J. B. Tudhope, of Orillia, A. Craig, of Longford, and W. Penchen, of Toronto. They have purchased the mills, quarries, Longford township timber limits, and the licenses held by the Longford Lumber Co. to cut timber in Digby and several other townships. The new company have applied for letters of incorporation.

The hot flush of fever on your darling's face, the strangely restless tossings and piteous moanings are all evidences of disease. All diseases are caused by germs. The delicate organs of a child are particularly susceptible to their attack. Do not aggravate the little one's distress by giving vile-tasting drugs and harshly-acting nostrums. Take

Powley's Liquified Ozone

Nature's method of curing disease. The concentrated oxygen produces a healthy condition of the body, in which disease germs cannot exist. No matter how grave may be the disorder, good results will follow the use of "the new system of curing disease." Not unpleasant tasting. Powley's Liquified Ozone is of especial value in curing Coughs, Colds, Croup and Diphtheria.

DEAR SIRS,—We are pleased to say to you we have found OZONE a blessing in saving what we believe a number of our family from death. My husband and three children contracted a bad type of diphtheria; having a bottle of Ozone in the house, and reading on the directions it was good for diphtheria, we used it pretty freely, and was glad to know when the doctor came it was entirely mastered. All the family except the baby used Ozone; we could not get the child to take it, or anything else. The child's throat soon closed up, mortification set in and the child soon died. Could we have got the Ozone on the diseased throat, we are positive the child would have been saved. Have used your remedy for other complaints in the family, and found it excellent.

Wishing you success, I am, yours truly,
MRS. W. MARSHALL, 35 Manning Avenue.

You can get Powley's Liquified Ozone at all druggists' for $1.00 large size bottle, 50c small size, or from the laboratories of the Ozone Co. of Toronto, Limited, 48 Colborne street, Toronto, Canada.

Humors.

Come to the surface in the spring as in no other season. It's a pity they don't run themselves all off that way, but in spite of pimples and other eruptions, they mostly remain in the system. That's bad.

Hood's Sarsaparilla removes them and cures all the painful and disfiguring troubles they cause. Nothing else cleanses the system and clears the complexion like Hood's.

Beet Sugar Industry

The Ontario Beet Sugar Association have sent out notices calling a convention at the Walker House in Toronto, for the 6th and 7th inst., when the question of the Government aid, which they have been seeking for some time past, both at Toronto, and at Ottawa, will be brought up for consideration and probable action. It is expected that a deputation will wait on the government and urge that any assistance be of a substantial character by way of bounty.

Equitation Certificates

Lt.-Col. Edwards received the certificates for the officers of the 57th, who passed the recent examination in Equitation held before a Board composed of Lt.-Col. H. C. Rogers, and Capt. A great deal of credit is due Major Miller for the pains he took in instructing the class. Lieut Bradburn also kindly gave the members the benefit of his experience.

Smallpox is Prevalent.

The Ontario Health Board, which adjourned so suddenly last week, on receipt of news of another smallpox outbreak, held an emergency meeting yesterday in consequence of the various new cases which have been reported in the press during the past few days. A special circular to arouse dormant local health officers was ordered to be sent out immediately. The Sudbury people are severely censured for allowing a man suffering from smallpox to stay at an hotel without any precaution being taken. The man who waited on table at the hotel there is now ill with the disease. Cases are also known at Chelmsford, Dianworth, London, Bracebridge, Ottawa and Sault Ste. Marie.

STRAIGHT FROM CHINA.

Were Eight Chinamen who Went West on C. P. R.

Eight Chinamen, right from the old sod, arrived at the C. P. R. station Wednesday. Seven of them were on their way to Windsor. one was for Woodstock. Each Chink was labelled.

The Woodstock Chink's label read.—"Sam Lee Hing. Market Square, Woodstock."

Bon Ton—that is supposed to be his name.—looked mighty glad that his journey was nearly ended. He had been travelling for weeks to get to Canada. He couldn't speak a word of English, not having been out of the Celestial empire before in his life, but another Chinaman assured the reporter that Bon Ton had not been mixed up in any of the Boxer rampages. They also took pains to tell the scribe that Bon Ton was not a prince who had skipped out to save his head. He was only a common, ordinary washee, washee man, with no more ambition in him than to look at pretty white girls and have his bones sent back to China to be buried with his ancestors when he dies.

He'll get Canadianized after a while, though, like his compatriots, wear civilized clothes and be a dude.

Wedding Bells

On Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 13 a quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. M. W. Matchett, sister of the bride, Sophia St., Ashburnham, when Rev. C. L. Thompson, pastor of Mark St. Church, united in the holy bonds of matrimony, Miss Ada H. youngest daughter of Mr. Roger Gist, of Canton, and Mr. Arthur Edwards, of Dummer, in the presence of the immediate relatives.

The bride looked charming in a dress of light cream taffeta silk, trimmed with net sequence lace.

After partaking of the wedding repast the newly-married couple drove to their new home, near Warsaw, where about 50 guests had assembled to welcome them, at a reception tendered by Mrs. Joseph Edwards, mother of the groom. A very enjoyable evening was spent in the usual way, and all united in tendering to Mr. and Mrs. Edwards their best wishes for a long and happy wedded life.

The numerous handsome and costly presents received from friends in Canton, Dummer, Lethbridge, Warsaw. Ashburnham, Lakefield, Peterboro, and elsewhere, testified to the high esteem in which the bride was held.

"SWEET" EATERS.

Way to Correct Children's Taste.

Sometimes children become willful and refuse nourishing food, demanding sweets, candy, ice cream, etc. much to their detriment. It is a great help in such cases to have a food that is naturally sweet and attractive. A case in Phila. will illustrate.

The daughter of Mrs. M. E. Searles, living at 1330 Mifflin St., was a delicate child from infancy and had been indulged in many things. She gradually got thinner and more fretful daily, refusing food other than sweet, etc., finally contracting whooping cough which undermined her health to such an extent that her attending physicians agreed that her cough had developed into bronchial catarrh, and that only a short time would ensue before consumption would relieve her sufferings.

In despair, the child's aunt was sent for, and knowing the wonderful nutritive value of Grape-Nuts food, she prepared some and induced the little one to eat it. At the first taste she said: "Oh auntie, this is so nice, I want some more.' From that time the child acquired an appetite and began to improve. She was fed on Grape-Nuts steadily until now she is a perfectly healthy, strong child, attends the Girl's Grammer School, and is a bright and apt pupil.

Sir,—To secure a supply of milk absolutely free from bacteria and impurities of every kind is of the utmost importance. Toronto and Montreal have adopted the new system, and the success of the experiment so far is highly spoken of. Ottawa and Peterborough are discussing the same question and it is hoped that at no distant date they too will succeed.

All philanthrophists who value the lives of children and of the weaker members of the race, will aid in this laudable enterprise.

Many towns at present issue a license to the dairy man and in the license there is a provision which gives the council or the board of health power to send an officer to inspect the dairy, and also to see that there is no infectious disease in the family or in those who handle the milk. Any method which will place the purity of milk beyond a doubt will, no doubt, be heartily endorsed by the public.

In the semi-final match last night between Peterborough and Barrie Juniors, the latter were defeated by a score at half time of 10-0 and finally 21-0. The Barrie goal was well kept, but the Colts were too fast and this enabled them to conclude the game with the above high score.

STOP LOSING MONEY

You Cannot Guess Winners

Horse races are "MIGHTY UNCERTAIN" things to bet on, if you depend on a GUESS to win, a thousand miles from the scene. Thousands have tried before you and have failed. The chances are a thousand to one you will fail too.

You Cannot Handicap Winners

Horses are not machines. They rarely repeat performances. Many of them look at the odds in the betting ring before they go to the post—that is, their owners do it for them. Horses do not always "try." They run for the benefit of their owners, not the public.

Be Advised by Experts on the Spot

Do what the plungers do. "Stand in." Get the best inside information direct from the track every morning that a shrewd combine of horsemen can secure for you. That is what is given its subscribers daily by the

LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE

The LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE is a combination of horse owners and trainers, now racing horses at the New Orleans race track, who have united for the purpose of profiting by the exclusive information at their command. The syndicate aims to send to its subscribers by telegraph every morning the names of two or three horses that are entered in the day's races, which will win, barring accidents alone.

THIS BEATS ALL

Among our many winners recently were SARILLA, 10 to 1, Jan. 8; CALLEUR, 10 to 1, Jan. 14; and AZIA, 10 to 1, Jan. 15.

Within a week our subscribers won more money following us than they did for six months prior following their own selections, if indeed they were not heavy losers before they joined our army of winners.

Cut this out and use it as authority on the manager of the Postal Telegraph office. No. 146 W. 42d street, New York, to examine copy of our telegrams to subscribers filed each day this month at noon. Verify our statement!

We hope this will convince all turfites that our subscribers are getting money, and that our sources of information are second to none in point of accuracy and reliability. We average two selections per day. Anything we send can be bet on with confidence that the horse will "try" and that the owner is betting on him.

AN 8 DAYS' EXPEDITION AGAINST THE CHINESE

Count Von Waldersee Asks the Powers to Co-operate in the Operations

Pekin, Feb. 17.

A few days ago Count Von Waldersee wrote the generals under his supervision notifying them to have all the available troops ready in two weeks for an expedition lasting eight days.

To-day General Chaffee and General Voyref, the French commander, received letters asking for their co-operation and expressing a desire to know what forces they can spare. In commencing his letter to Gen. Chaffee, Count Von Waldersee says: Owing to the unsatisfactory nature of the negotiations for peace, also to circumstances rendering such a course desirable, it will probably be necessary to resume military operations on a large scale, especially toward the west. It is not thought likely that General Chaffee will agree to such a plan without instructions from Washington. The French commander, however, is expected to do so.

Count Von Waldersee contemplates offering the command of the expedition in the first instance to Sir Alfred Gasalee, the British commander. But it is believed that in view of his recent illness General Gasalec will inform Count Von Waldersee that he is unable to accept the command. In that event it will be offered to General Voyron, provided the French fall in with the arrangement, which Count Von Waldersee believes will be the case. Such an offer to General Voyron would have the effect, it is thought, of overcoming the differences which have existed between the French and Germans, because it would be a demonstration of Count Von Waldersee's confidence in the military ability of the French contingent.

An announcement is expected that the destination of the proposed expedition is Sian Fu. The foreign envoys believe it's object is to compel the Chinese to accept the terms of the Powers. It is thought that when it becomes known that the expedition has started, the Imperial Court will hasten to comply immediately with all the demands of the Joint Note.

The military are much elated at the prospect of active service. Many believe that the Chinese army will strive to the utmost to protect the Province of Shen Si against invasions.

Brussels, Feb. 17.

Dr. Leyds, the Transvaal Diplomatic Agent, returned last evening from The Hague. His baggage was placed for a moment in the vestibule of his residence and shortly afterwards it was ascertained that thieves had entered the house by false keys and stolen a valise containing diplomatic papers. The police are investigating the matter.

CARRIE NATION CLUB CAUSED SOME TROUBLE

Indiana Towns More Stubborn Than Kansas Iowns

Crawfordsville, Ind., Feb. 16.—The members of the Carrie Nation Club became so excited that they decided to do some saloon smashing.

Enthusiasm ran high and every hatchet, axe, club, and brick in the neighborhood was collected speedily. With Mrs Snyder in the lead the women advanced to the nearby saloon of Dan Grimes, who had just opened a new place with "all modern improvements." Without warning half a hundred bricks were hurled against the glass front, and before the astonished proprietor realized what was wrong the front of the saloon looked as if a cyclone had struck it. The inmates scrambled through the back door.

Meanwhile the women had gained the inside, and demolished the large mirror and emptied all the bottles upon the floor. Faucets in whiskey barrels were turned open and the liquor and wines were several inches deep. Grimes, realizing that his assailants were the newly organized Nation Club, rushed into the saloon and choked Mrs. Snyder almost into insensibility and dragged her from the place. Her friends were quickly to the rescue, however, and with clubs and what bricks were left beat him almost to death.

A large crowd soon gathered upon the scene, and a free-for-all fight ensued between the saloon element and the sympathizers of the women. Grimes was knocked down and kicked insensible by the husband of Mrs. Snyder. Mrs. Stephen Garret was struck in the face by a beer bottle, and her head mashed. Meantime the women took to their heels and left the fight between the enraged combatants. The police were powerless and the fight lasted half an hour.

The condition of Grimes is serious, and he may not recover from his injuries. Mrs. Snyder is also in a critical condition. The three saloons have closed, and will not attempt to open till order and law is restored.

OTONABEE.

The death occurred Thursday afternoon of Mrs. Patrick C. Crowley, an old and highly esteemed resident of Otonabee. Death came after only a very short illness, and was not anticipated. On Friday last she was taken ill with an attack of pneumonia, but her condition did not cause serious apprehension. Thursday, however, heart weakness developed and death came very suddenly.

The deceased, whose maiden name was Mary Guiry, was born 72 years ago in Limerick county, Ireland, and when a girl of about twelve years came to Canada with her parents, who settled in Emily. Here she remained until she was married some thirty-seven years ago to Mr. Patrick C. Crowley, who predeceased her twenty-five years ago. Three sons, Michael and Maurice, of Otonabee, and John, of the C.P.R., are left to mourn her loss. In religion she was a Roman Catholic, and a lady highly esteemed by a large circle of friends.

NORTH HARVEY.

The storm and heavy fall of snow on Saturday caused a lull in the forest operations at Squaw River and some visiting was done among the camps. It so happened that at Foreman Brisbois' camp one of the best violinists in the country came that day and when he got his fiddle tuned up and drew his bow over the strings with intent to stir the souls of his hearers, the men just got up and stepped off a measure that would have done the heart of any man good to see. The music was tuneful and the time perfect. It is many a year since Allen Irwin did a step but the music filled every muscle in his body with a vibration that set him tingling from his toes to the top of his head, and stepping out on the floor forent Charley Kelly, be dad, sir, the two of them did a piece of stepping that the like of has not been seen for many a day. The boys sat around keeping time, and watching every motion, and sure the lamps were not needed for the pleasure glistening from the boys' eyes lit up the whole camp.

A MAXIM AND TWENTY WAGONS

Three British Forces After Gen. Dewet

HE IS CLOSELY FOLLOWED

And Colonel Plumer Captured the Gun and Wagons

London, Feb. 16.—General De Wet is struggling towards the Carnarvon district of Cape Colony with three British forces at his heels, and Lord Kitchener himself has come down from Pretoria and is now at De Aar within sound of the running fight which is being waged. The Boer leader has crossed the railway from Cape Town to Kimberley north of De Aar, having previously taken the precaution to cut the line above and below his point of passage so as to keep back armored trains which are being employed. That the pursuit is close is evidenced by the fact that the fleeing Boers have lost 20 wags, a maxim, with many prisoners and horses. A supreme effort is being made to capture De Wet, and if two such veterans as Plumer of Mafeking fame and Crabbe count for anything this will be accomplished. The fact that Lord Kitchener has arrived on the scene in person indicates sufficiently that the operations are highly important and that every effort will be made to prevent De Wet from reaching the disaffected district or of affecting a junction with the commandoes already far to the south. The result of these operations will be watched with breathless interest.

London, Feb. 16.—General Kitchener, telegraphing from De Aar, Cape Colony, under to-day's date, says:

De Wet's force crossed the railway at Boartmon's Siding, north of here before daylight, Feb. 15th, closely followed by Plumber, Crabbe and armored trains. They engaged the enemy while crossing. The Boers, however, cut the lines north and south of the place of crossing.

We captured over twenty waggons, many of which were loaded with ammunition, and also a maxim, twenty prisoners and over one hundred horses. The troops are still in hope pursuit.

DE WET'S INVASION UNCHECKED.

London, Feb. 16.—A Cape Town despatch says: Gen. De Wet is rapidly descending into the Cape Colony to the south-west. He has crossed the railroad above De Aar, exploding two culverts. He has 1,200 men and several guns. Colonels Plumer, Henniker and Crabbe, with separate columns, are pursuing him.

It is reported that Col. Plumer has captured a great part of De Wet's ammunition train.

During a four days' fight he captured a Maxim gun.

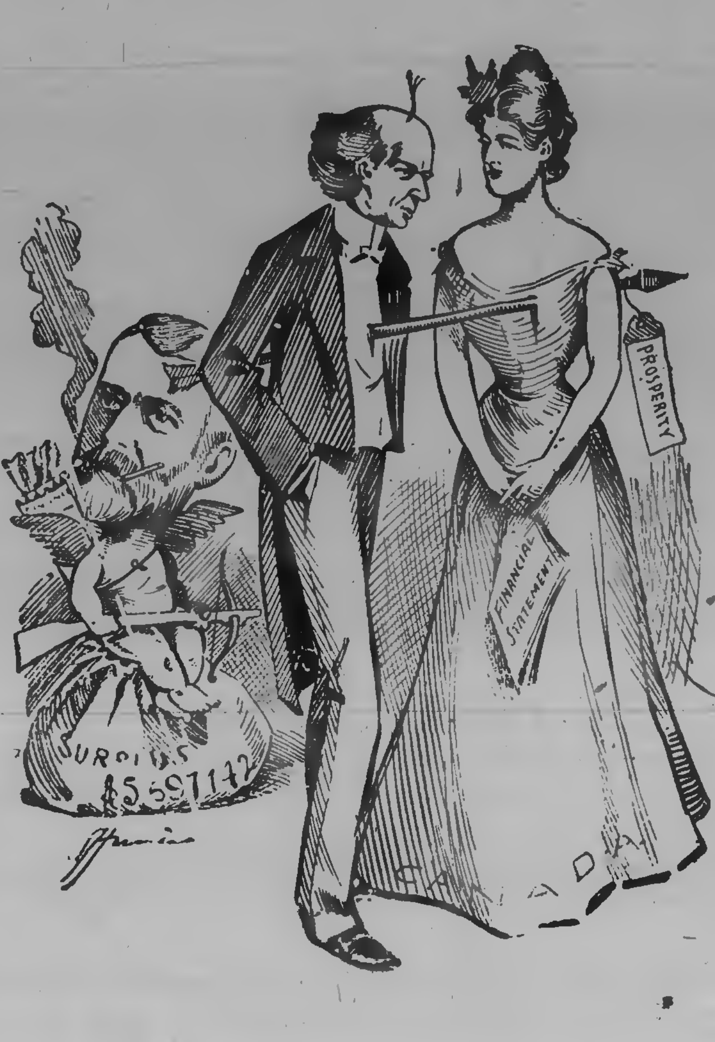
ENGAGEMENT AT COLESBERG.

A Colesberg despatch says: Plumer's column engaged De Wet's between Colesberg and Philipstown, Feb. 13, and gradually pushed back the Boers. The British had a battery of field artillery. The sharpnel burst splendidly. Ten of the British were wounded during the many hours' fighting. An occasional dead Boer was found. The engagement is being continued to-day. All the males at Grasfonteip have been arrested. There is plenty of evidence that they were assisting the Boers.

ESCAPED FROM CEYLON.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 16.—Five Boer prisoners who escaped from the Island of Ceylon, have arrived at a Crimean port on board the Russian steamer to which they swam while in the harbor of Colombo. Among them is a nephew of President Steyn and a brother-in-law of General Botha, the Boer Commander-in-Chief.

A ST. VALENTINE'S DAY INCIDENT



Or, a successful shot by Cupid Fielding.

SOME MINOR ATTACKS.

Smut's and Meyer's commandoes attacked the railway near Bank, and destroyed a culvert. Cunningham's force dispersed the Boers, inflicting a loss of three killed and 23 wounded. Other minor attacks have been made upon the railway in different directions.

220 AGAINST 1,800.

Details have reached London of the capture by the Boers on January 30 of the British post at Moddersfontein, to the south of Krugersdorp. The enemy were in strong force, their number being estimated at 1,800, while the post was held by but 220 British troops. The night was pitch dark, and when the Boers attacked torrents of rain were falling. Thus assisted, the advance of the Boers was not discovered until the garrison had been practically taken by surprise, and when it was impossible to make special preparations for defence. Although taken at a disadvantage, the British made a splendid defence. The Boers, however, made a series of desperate assaults, and being in overwhelming numbers, crushed the defence of the garrison.

FIGHT NEAR JACOBSDAL.

A despatch from Kimberley states that a column which arrived there recently, consisting of Dennison's Scots, Irish Yeomanry, Somersets, Cape Police, and Royal Artillery, encountered en route a commando of 300 Boers, fifteen miles southeast of Jacobsdal. The fight commenced at daybreak, and lasted till nine in the morning. The enemy lost three killed, four wounded and one taken prisoner, while our casualties were three men slightly wounded.

DEATH OF MR. CLUXTON

One of Peterborough's Oldest and Best Known Citizens Dead

It is with the greatest sorrow that we are obliged to announce the death of Mr. William Cluxton, one of Peterborough's oldest and most respected citizens, which sad event occurred on Saturday last at noon, in the 82nd year of his age.

Mr. Cluxton has been intimately identified with Peterborough since the time it was a small village, and no one did more to promote its interests and develop the resources of the town and surrounding district than he. He was universally beloved and esteemed, and thousands will sincerely regret his demise.

Two weeks ago to-day Mr. Cluxton attended the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Lock Manufacturing Company. When he returned home, however, it became apparent that he had over taxed his energies, for since that time he was unable to leave his residence and failed rapidly, passing away, as stated above.

Mr. Cluxton leaves behind him the following children: Mrs. Angel, Harriston, Pa.; William Henry, of town; Mrs. Fred Burnham, of Morden, Man., Mrs. Carlon, Toronto; Sidney, of Syracuse; Dr. Fred of Minnesota, and Mrs. Boughton, of Buffalo.

The deceased gentleman was a self made man. He was born March 31st, 1819, in Dundalk, County Louth, Ireland. He lost his father and mother when a mere child. The family was then scattered among relations, and William went to live with a kind aunt and uncle, who lived in Cootehill, County Cavan. He afterwards came to Peterborough, Canada, where he obtained a situation with Hall & Chambers' grocery and bakery establishment on Charlotte street. In 1835 he entered the dry goods store of John B. Benson, and subsequently became manager of what was called "The Yellow Store," on Aylmer street. Here, after the cares of business, Mr. Cluxton devoted himself to the cultivation of music and literature, attaining great proficiency in the latter. In 1836 he left Peterborough to take charge of a store at Port Hope, belonging to the late John Crawford. But his stay in Port Hope was only one month's duration. He returned to Peterborough and took charge of a branch business which Mr. Crawford had established here. So successful was his management of the business that at the expiration of three years he became the sole buyer for all of Mr. Crawford's establishments. On the death of his employer he was appointed by the trustees to wind up the business, which he did in ten months, to the satisfaction of all parties. In 1842 Mr. Cluxton purchased a stock of general goods and established in Peterborough a business for himself. From that year forward his success was most marked. In 1872, having acquired a considerable fortune, he retired from the dry goods business, and disposed of his Peterborough business to his two sons and a clerk. He however, continued in the grain, cheese and produce trade, in which he was largely concerned. For many years he moved the principal part of the grain along the line of railway from Lindsay to the lake front, his transactions amounting to half a million dollars annually. In 1852 Mr. Cluxton became manager of the Peterborough branch of the Commercial Bank of Canada, a position which he resigned after eight years' faithful service. In 1862, accompanied by his wife, and a portion of his family, he visited Europe. Mr. Cluxton has held many important public trusts. He was President of the Midland Railway Company, President of the Marmora Mining Company, President of the Little Lake Cemetery Company, President of the Peterborough and Port Hope Gravel Road Company, President of the Lake Huron and Quebec Railway Company, and President of the Peterborough Water Works Company. He was a magistrate of many years standing, and was a captain in the militia. He was in both the Town and County Councils, and represented one of the Peterborough ridings in the House of Commons.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, corner of Charlotte and Park streets, to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock.

LARGEST POKER GAME.

Arrest Ends Session at Indianapolis Which Lasts Nearly a Week.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 18.—The appearance in police court this morning of a batch of twenty-one poker-players, arrested in the Thompson-Owsley gambling-house at Kentucky avenue and Washington street, one of the principal down-town corners, developed the fact that the police had broken up the longest continuous poker game ever held in Indianapolis.

The game began last Monday at noon and continued night and day without a break until last night. Play continued for 150 hours and the widespread talk about the unusual affair led to the police raiding the game.

"Tee" Thompson broke the record for the longest continuous play. He played solidly for three days with the exception of a couple of hours' sleep. The "kitty" was fed at the rate of $10 an hour, and from this one table the rake-off was $1,500 for the week. The case in police court was continued. Many of the players looked like ghosts when brought into court this morning. The limit of the game was $5, and one of the largest sums won was $400.

DENMARK READY TO SELL.

Definite Reply to the United States to be Made Within a Few Days.

Copenhagen, Feb. 18.—It is said in well-informed circles that the Foreign office is about ready to send a definitive and favorable reply to the United States in reference to the sale of the Danish West Indies. King Christian, it is understood, gave assurances that while he preferred the islands to remain Danish, if the circumstances could be improved, he would do nothing to prevent their transfer.

The Rigsdag has apparently concluded that enough sacrifices have already been made for the West Indians, so it is unwilling to give the further appropriations necessary to retain their possession.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—It is said that the government is taking no active part in the negotiations in progress at Copenhagen respecting the sale of the Danish West Indian Islands to the United States; It is said there is no expectation that the United States government will acquire these islands in the immediate future.

ENTOMBED BY A COAL MINE

Sixty Two Miners Buried by an Explosion

LITTLE HOPE OF RESCUE

Fire and Gas Prevent the Rescue Parties From Reaching Them

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 16.—Sixty lives are supposed to have been lost by the explosion in a mine owned by the Wellington Colliery Company, in the village of Cumberland. Telegraphic communication is meagre. The principal shareholder in the company is James Dunsmuir, Premier of the province.

As near as can be gathered the explosion occurred about 11 o'clock yesterday morning in No. 6 shaft. There were sixty men working there at the time and not one of them has yet managed to escape. The explosion ignited the mine, wrecking the shaft from about half way down to the bottom and filling it with a solid mass of rock, earth and timber. Several minor explosions followed the first, and the huge volumes of smoke which are ascending from vast holes indicate that fire has set in on its destructive work.

As soon as it was possible to organize assistance the men of No. 8 shaft started a rescue party at work. No. 5 shaft is about a mile distant from No. 6 but the two workings are connected under ground, and through this tunnel an attemp was made to reach the imprisoned men. The rescue party had not proceeded far in cutting their way through the debris before they encountered fire, and were forced to desist from their undertaking.

The failure of this hazardous undertaking was communicated to those above ground by telephone. On the surface the friends and relatives of the imprisoned men were anxiously awaiting news and the terrible idea at last became implanted in their minds that hope had disappeared. The men of No. 8 shaft made another attempt, but were again driven back by flames and gas fumes, and they had to resort to No. 4 shaft. At last, however, the fire in No. 5 abated somewhat, and renewed efforts were made in that direction.

Later on the fans were started and work in removing the material which choked No. 6 shaft had proceeded so far that it was possible to lower the cage to a depth of 175 feet. But there is little hope that the work of rescue will result in recovering any of the miners alive. The scene at the top of the floor of No. 6 is one of indescribable devastation. Iron and woodwork is twisted and splintered out of all semblance of shape. Some of the material was blown up clear from the bottom of the shaft. All is covered with a thick black smudge, as if a pall.

Another attempt to penetrate to where the men were working was made from No. 5 shaft, but the men were withdrawn, as a second explosion is anticipated.

Immediately on the arrival of the news here a special train was made up and started for Nanaimo at 1.15 o'clock. Mr. Dunsmuir is at Ottawa, but his confidential representative, E. E. Lindsay, his son, Robert Dunsmuir, Mr. Little, superintendent of the mine and Inspector of Mines Morgan left for the scene of the tragedy on the special. At Nanaimo Mr. Dunsmuir's steamer Joan awaited them, and on her they will proceed sixty miles to Union Bay, which is connected with Cumberland by six miles of railroad.

The last report of the Inspector of Mines pronounces that the shaft was in good shape, the regulations governing coal mines having been complied with in every particular.

GEMS

The native music of aboriginal tribe is regarded as of great importance in anthropology, and the recent British expedition to the Torres straits and New Guinea have taken steps to preserve some of them. Some of the songs heard on Murray island are already obsolete, and will, it is believed, die out with the old men of the tribes. "In savage life," says one of the members of the expedition, "the songs of a tribe are its chief heritage."

Brimingham, England, is the only place in which manufacturing crowns is an industry that may be said to flourish. The trade is principally with Africa, where the numerous kings have come to regard a crown as a far more elegant emblem of royalty than the stovepipe hat which they formerly affected. A servicable crown, gaudily decorated with imitation precious stones, may be purchased for quite a small sum.

The Japanese apply one of their many pretty ways to the launching of ships. They use no wine but hang over the ship's prow a large pasteboard cage full of birds. The moment the ship is afloat a man pulls a string, when the cage opens, and the birds fly away, making the air alive with music and the whirr of wings. The idea is that the birds thus welcome the ship as she begins her career as a thing of life.

The monster telescope at the Paris Exposition which will, it is said, bring the moon within thirty-six miles, is three times the length of the largest of its predecessors, the Yerkes telescope at Chicago. It is 197 feet long, 5 feet in diameter and weighs twenty-one tons. The lenses, the largest in existence, measure over 49 inches in diameter and weigh 1,320 pounds.

The English people think that the proposed new nine-penny coin will enable them to get the better of the French, who, it is assumed, will accept the coin as the equivalent of a franc. At present, when John Bull visits Paris, he frequently has to surrender a shilling in exchange for an article the value of which is a franc.

A True Story

A man who is too economical to subscribe for The Times sent his little boy to borrow a copy of this g.f.j. from his neighbor. In his haste the boy ran over a four-dollar stand of bees, and in ten minutes looked like a warty squash. His cries reached his father who ran to his assistance, and failing to notice a barbed wire fence ran into that, breaking it down, cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy and ruining a four dollar pair of pants. The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and got into the cornfield and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the racket, the wife ran, upset a five-gallon churn full of rich cream into a basket of chickens, drowning the whole flock. In the hurry she dropped a seven-dollar set of false teeth. The baby left alone, crawled through the spilled milk and into the parlor, ruining a brand new twenty dollar carpet. During the excitement the oldest daughter ran away with the hired man, the dog broke up eleven setting hens and the calves got out and chewed the tails off four fine shirts. This is a true story; if you don't believe it ask Dan Burritt.

PORTRAITS OF THE PRESIDENTS

With Biographical Sketches by General Charles H. Grosvenor—Title Page Designed by Tiffany.

This Inaugural year, when the public mind is aroused over Presidential questions, is a fitting time to issue General Grosvenor's book. Its sale is already tremendous, and will perhaps exceed that of General Grant's Personal Memoirs.

Every patriotic American desires to read what General Grosvenor has to say of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, President McKinley and the other Chief Executives of the Nation. Everybody desires to read what General Grosvenor, the staunch old Republican leader in Congress, will say of that staunch old Democrat, Andrew Jackson, the Father of the Democratic Party. General Grosvenor has thrown into his sketch of Jackson all the fire and energy of his nature. The biography of Thomas Jefferson is grand. The biography of Lincoln is as beautiful as a sunrise over the hilltops. General Grosvenor has personally known all the Presidents since the time of James Buchanan. The General's book will therefore contain history which has never before been published, written from his own personal observation of these great men. General Grosvenor has served in Congress for nearly twenty years, and he has served his country in war and in Congress for nearly forty years. The book contains twenty-four large Photogravure Etchings as fine as Steel Plates, printed by hand, on heavy plate paper made especially to order. These 24 Photogravure Etchings are in different tints, and are well worth $2 each. These Portraits are made from the Paintings endorsed by the family and near relatives of the Presidents. Two years' time and a fortune have been expended in securing these reproductions. The complete book is well worth $50, but the price has been placed so low that the most humble American citizen can own it. The biographical sketches are printed in large open type in two colors; the work is so beautiful that when people see it they want it. The advance sale is very large. President McKinley was the first subscriber. There is one edition known as The President Edition de Grand Luxe, initial letters hand painted, Portraits hand colored, title page hand illuminated, registered and numbered; subscription price, $500. Orders and applications for territory are coming in rapidly. A high class man or woman of good social standing can soon make a small fortune taking orders in this community. Send references and apply for terms quick, as the territory will all be assigned soon.

"If I were sick and wanted to get well, I'd find out how some one else got well who had the same sort of sickness as mine."

If your sickness is like hers, Mrs. Jacobs' story will interest you.

"I was very sick indeed," writes Mrs. Mollie Jacobs, of Felton, Kent Co., Delaware, "and our family doctor said I had consumption. I thought I must die soon for I felt so awful bad. Had a bad cough, spit blood, was very short of breath, had pains in my chest and right lung, and also had dyspepsia. Before I took your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' I was so weak I could not sweep a room, and now I can do a small washing, and I feel like a new person. I believe that the Lord and your medicine have saved my life. I was sick over two years. I took 13 bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and four vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets."

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 68 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts (none free); four for 80 cts; $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.25; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00 Write to day for a dozen and make money. A WONDERFUL

KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

I. A. HOPKINS.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY, And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 53 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pain in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 503 Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

SHE NEVER WAS A BOY.

When I came home the other night
With an ugly looking eye
That I had got into a fight
Poor ma commenced to cry.
But when I told pa how it was
He clapped his hands for joy
And told ma I'd done bully, 'cause
Once he had been a boy.

"Boys will be boys." I heard him say;
"They won't be otherwise,
And the one that learns to fight his way
Is the one that wins the prize;
When I was his age fightin' was
My greatest earthly joy—'
But ma, she kept on cryin', cause
She never was a boy.

My golly, but I'd hate to be
A girl with fluffy hair,
And always prime as A. B. C.,
With clothes too clean to wear!
When ma was small I s'pose she was
Red cheeked and sweet and coy—
But, oh, the fun that missed her, 'cause
She never was a boy.

PAYING OFF.

I'll pay him off! I'll pay him off first chance I get, if 'tisn't till I'm old as Methuselum, now!"

Tony's two brown fists came together with a thump. His eyes flashed and his face was like a flame. Mamma looked up, surprised and grieved at the outburst, but she didn't say a word; she only waited for what would come next.

"I will!" cried Tony. "I'll have to, mamma! He's the worst boy that ever lived! He's—he's—I'd like to pound him all black and blue, so!"

Whack! came his fists together again, poor Tony; and the fire in his eyes was all at once put out by tears. Mamma spoke then.

"Tell mother all about it," said she.

And Tony sat down on a little cricket at mamma's feet, and laid his head against mamma's knee, and told: which was just what he wanted to do.

"He's kept plaguing me even since I began to go to school, mamma Johnny Spratt has and he's the biggest too. I wouldn't plague a boy littler than I was would you mamma?"

"No, dear; I don't think I would."

"But he does, and calls names, too," Tony went on, beginning to grow rosy again. He calls me 'Tony George' because I always lift my hat to old aunty Dinsmore—and that's right, isn't it, mamma?" as he thought he saw a little twinkle in mamma's eye.

"Quite right, Tony," she answered, quietly.

"'Cause it pleases her so much, you know. And sometimes I carry her basket for her ways.' And he makes fun. And this morning"—Tony's breath came fast and he doubled his fists—"this morning I was the least bit late to school, and when I went in they all commenced to laugh, easy, of course, so Mr. Blake wouldn't hear, and look at the blackboard. And I looked, too; and there was a picture of a boy lifting a hat bigger'n he was and bowing real low—an awful-looking boy, mamma, and 'Tony George' was right under it. I knew who made it quick enough, and my face got hot as fire; and just then Mr. Blake saw it too, and he said, 'John, rub that thing out!' cross as anything. He knew who made it, too, you see. Mamma, if I was big enough I'd—I'd thrash him all to pieces. I'd just like to pay him off so he'd stay paid one while Mamma!"

Mamma didn't even smile. She felt that this was a serious matter.

"I don't blame you a bit," she said soberly, "I think I would want to pay him off if I were you. I think, dear, I would kill him."

Tony jumped from his cricket, he was so astonished.

"Why, mamma Walters!" he cried "Why—mamma—Walters!"

Mamma smiled then—she couldn't help it. But she was quite in earnest.

"It would be a great deal better than thrashing him all to pieces, Tony," she said; and Tony hung his head and blushed. "Suppose you try it."

"I don't know how," said Tony.

"I think you can guess, dear. And now we won't say another word about it for a week."

"I s'pose," said Tony, slowly, with his face puckered into a dozen wrinkles over this new idea. "I 'spose, mamma, you mean the way that old Quaker man did that grandpa used to tell about. But I can't be kind to Johnny Spratt, mamma—how can I after the way he's acted? 'Sides, I wouldn't have any chance."

"Make one," said mamma. "Now—no more for a week, my son, and then——"

Tony knew what that meant. It meant that at the end of the week he would be expected to tell mamma just how much he had done toward killing Johnny Spratt with kindness.

"I'm 'fraid it won't be much," he thought, with a little discontented pucker between his eyes. "It'll be pretty hard, I s'pose."

And so it was. Why, it did seem as if Johnny Spratt grew worse every day. Tony had to bite his tongue hard a good many times to keep from telling tales out of school about him. And as for being kind to him—that seemed quite out of the question, though Tony honestly did his best and didn't get angry more times than he could help.

At the end of the week his birthday was coming, and Washington's; and the night before, he rushed home from school all out of breath with his hurry and delight.

"O mamma!" he cried, eagerly. "We're going to have the best time, to-morrow! We're all—all of our class you know—going to put in twenty-five cents apiece and hire Mr. Baker's great big cutter, and Mr. Blake's going to take us to—to some kind of a lake that the last of it's 'guntic,' and his sister lives right close side of it, and we're going to skate, and fire at a mark, with just arrows, you know, mamma, and eat dinner at his sister's house. And we've got to meet at the schoolhouse real early, and—won't it be grand, mamma?"

Mamma smiled, and kissed both glowing cheeks; for though Tony was a good deal more than half past nine, as he would have told you, he hadn't grown away from his mother's kisses, yet

"I hope you will have a very nice time," she said.

She said it again, next morning, when she had helped him into his ulster, and tied his muffler carefully, and settled his fur cap on his brown head.

"And now, Tony," she said, looking down into his clear, brown eyes, "I want you to remember whose birthday this is—and all about it, dear."

"Yes'm. I'll try," said Tony. And then he darted off to join the merry little crowd at the schoolhouse.

Johnny Spratt was there, too, but somehow he didn't look so merry as the rest. His eyes looked almost as though he had been crying.

But before Tony had time to wonder much about this, Mr. Baker's big, four-seated cutter was at the door, the bells jingling and the horses breathing out little puffs of steam on the clear, frosty air. Then what a scramble there was! It didn't seem longer than a minute before all of the laughing, merry company had piled in, and were tucking the robes around themselves.

Not quite all. There was one lonely little figure left on the platform.

"Come Johnny!" called Mr. Blake, kindly.

But Johnny Spratt shook his head and looked down at his feet. There were tears in his eyes, and he didn't want to cry before them all—a great big boy, almost eleven years old!

"I—I ain't going," he said. "I only came to see you off. I ain't got no—no twenty-five cents."

There was a stir in Tony Walters' heart just then, and he felt a funny little warm rush all over him. He thought of mamma—he remembered whose birthday it was. His cheeks grew cherry-red and his eyes grew misty. In a flash he was out of the cutter, pressing his silver quarter into Johnny Spratt's hand.

"Here, Johnny, take this," he cried. "You—you want to go more'n I do."

Poor Johnny Spratt! He looked at Tony and then at the sleigh-load of boys, and then at Tony again, and his face turned very red.

"I—I'd look pretty," he said, "a-taking your money after I've—— O Tony Walters! I won't!"

But the more he wouldn't, the more Tony insisted.

"Because it's my birthday as well as George Washington's, you know," he said, with a little laugh; "and I'd 'most as lieves stay to home with my mother. Come, Johnny!"

And then Mr. Blake, who understood all about it, said, "Come, Johnny, jump in," and Johnny obeyed, nearer to crying now than he had been before.

But all at once there came a voice from the driver's seat.

"Crowd in yourself, little chap," it said. "I don't believe you'll weigh half of twenty-five cents' worth. All aboard, now! Off we go-o!"

And off Tony went with the rest—if he hadn't I think I couldn't have told the story with half so good grace. And he never was so happy, and never had so good a time in all his life before as he had that day. It was a good time all around, and as for Johnny Spratt——

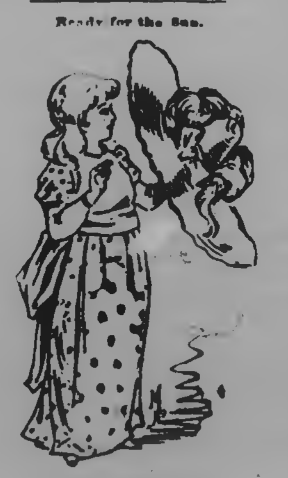
"Why, mamma," cried Tony, when he told his mother the story of the day's fun, "I b'lieve he's going to be one of the very best boys you ever saw—one of the very best ones!"

Bismarck and the French.

Bismarck had no great opinion of the French. He believed that they are too easily swayed by popular catchwords. "Talk to a Frenchman about liberty, equality and fraternity, tell him that his nation is the greatest in the world, and you can do anything with him. You can impress the French more than any other people if you tell them it is done in the name of freedom."

Asked his opinion in the case of a certain French spy, he said: "It's a sad case. You've got to hang him, but do it with the utmost politeness, so as not to hurt his feelings."

Ready for the Sea.



An Unexpected Answer.

Parent—Who is the laziest boy in your class, Johnny.

Johnny—I dunno.

"I should think you would know. When all the others are industriously writing or studying their lessons, who is he that sits in his seat and watches the rest, instead of working himself?"

"Why, the teacher."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Beet Sugar Industry.

The Ontario Beet Sugar Association have sent out notices calling a convention at the Walker House in Toronto, for the 6th and 7th inst., when the question of the Government aid, which they have been seeking for some time past, both at Toronto, and at Ottawa, will be brought up for consideration and probable action. It is expected that a deputation will wait on the government and urge that any assistance be of a substantial character by way of bounty.

Root and Branch.

Sarah, Duchess of Marlborough, was accustomed to make an annual feast, to which she invited all her relations. At one of these family meetings she drank their health, adding, "What a glorious sight it is to see such a number of branches flourishing from one root!" But observing Jack Spencer laugh, she insisted on knowing what had occasioned his mirth, and promised to forgive him, be it what it would.

"Why, then, madam," said he, "I was thinking how much more the branches would flourish if the root were under ground."

Drink Plenty of Water and Be Healthy.

There is no doubt that we do not drink enough. Our bodies consist largely of water, and the average man needs to drink from four to six pints of water daily in order to maintain health. This is the amount of water eliminated from the body by means of the kidneys, the skin and lungs. It is evident that a fresh supply is constantly needed to replenish this lost aid in the process of digestion and carry away matter.

If the amount of water imbibed is not sufficient for all this the health must suffer. Air, water and food are the essentials of life in the order given.

As a usual thing, women are the ones who suffer the most from an insufficiency of water. Mothers should see to it that their children have plenty of water to drink.

There is no doubt that hot water quenches thirst in most instances better than cold. Taken regularly at the rate of one glassful half an hour before meals it promotes digestion, and in catarrhal conditions of the stomach is recommended by physicians. It has also been tried as a remedy for insomnia.

Many nervous troubles would be greatly benefited by increasing the amount of water consumed, and constipation is largely the result of an inadequate supply of water.

One of the reasons people thrive at mineral springs is that outside of any medicinal properties the springs possess they drink much more water than at home.

Generally speaking, the theory advocated by the best phsicians now-a-days is to drink often and much. It cleans the system, increases circulation and helps to make a clear complexion. Therefore, ye men and women, especially the latter, drink. Take clear, pure, sterilized water, and be thankful so simple a remedy of nature is near at hand.—Katherine Louise Smith, in Table Talk.

The Famous Monitor.

Two dismantled hulks, the remnants of two of the old monitors which did such effective service during the civil war, lie on the shore of the Delaware river at Pennsgrove, on the New Jersey side. They are all that is left of the Passaic and the Ajax, both of which had proud records during the days of '61.

The Ajax cost $750,000 to build in 1862, the Passaic $600,000. Both were sold for $50,000 to Henry A. Hitner's Sons, contractors, who bought them for the old iron in them. It is proposed to sell this old iron for the purpose of making steel, and the metal may be a part, in the future, of some new terror of the sea.

Both the vessels were at one time convoys of the Monitor, and it was a curious coincidence that the Passaic, which was bought at the Pensacola navy yard in Florida, came within an ace of sinking when off Cape Hatteras, where the old Monitor was lost in a gale.

So far only the crowbar and the sledge hammer have been used in dismantling the famous old-timers, but now the contractors expect to be compelled to use dynamite on the vessels.

During the war the Passaic took part in many engagements and was put out of commission at Philadelphia June 16, 1865. Her most noted contest was in Charleston Harbor, off Fort Sumter, in 1862, when she was struck thirty-six times, had her turret turned and had to go out of action.

Grip.

For Children—You should exercise the greatest caution when your children take the Grip. The disease is not over when the fever goes down—not much. There is this peculiarity about Grip; it seems to leave the system entirely open to the attack of a great number of very serious sicknesses, such as pneumonia and consumption. Now after the attack use Powley's Liquified Ozone. The Condensed Oxygen builds up the system, strengthens it to ward off disease; its antiseptic properties cure the sickness at any stage. THE COLORADO COPPER MINING COMPANY

LOCATION OF OUR MINES

THE COLORADO COPPER MINING COMPANY is fortunate in being the possessor of five splendid showing properties in the great Salida copper belt, the principal copper producing region of this portion of the rockies. All of our claims have been more or less developed and it is our purpose to put the same on a paying basis at once.

Our Company owns, clear of incumbrances the following claims,—The Sedalia Extension, the Sedalia Extension No. 2, which property adjoins the great Sedalia mine, which has been a big producer for upwards of seventeen years; the Copper King of Colorado, which immediately adjoins the above; the Copper Queen of Salida, a very promising property, only a few steps from the depot in Salida. This claim occupies an imposing position on a mountain just north of the city; and last, but by no means least, the Sunshine, located two miles east of Salida at Cleora station, on the main Trunk line of the great Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, also on the Arkansas river, which in length is one of America's greatest streams.

A Serious Accident

Mr. Wm. Helm received word a few days ago that his sister, who resides in Cobourg, had met with a painful accident, having fallen and broken her thigh bone. The unfortunate lady is 87 years of age, being the oldest of the Helm family, Mr. Wm. Helm, of Peterborough, being the fifth.

Special Services

Special meetings have been conducted Saturday evening and yesterday in the Salvation Army barracks, by Staff Capt. Burditt. This evening he will give a lecture entitled "Half Way Round the World," in connection with which cake and coffee will be served. The Staff Capt. is well known to many of the people of this town, having been stationed at the local corps.

Quietly Wedded

A quiet wedding took place last Monday evening, when Miss Ina McElwain, daughter of Mr. Matthew McElwain, Stewart street north, was united in marriage to Mr. Stanley Bates, formerly of town and now of Buffalo, N. Y. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. P. Wilson, of George Street Methodist Church. The newly married couple will take up their residence in Buffalo.

Mr. Fortye's Accident

A letter received from Mrs. R. H. Fortye to a friend in town states that Mr. Forty's accident may not be as serious as first supposed. It appears that Mr. Fortye was driving in the country and got caught in a bad storm. Fuller particulars show that the horse fell in going through the drifts and had to be detached from the cutter. Mr. Fortye's companion drove the horse on and the two men became separated. Sitting down to rest Mr. Fortye became drowsy and lapsed into unconsciousness. He was found by a farmer and driven into Meaford, where he was cared for, subsequently being removed to Collingwood.

Algoma Mission

Geo. Buskin of the Algoma and Northwest Colportage Mission is making his 18th annual visit to Peterborough in behalf of the work of Evangelization, which commenced there in 1875 and has been publicly sustained since 1884. Its work of dispensing the Holy Scriptures and Biblical literature is well known and its effect for good wide spreading and stimulating to Christian activity. It is a practical undenominational home mission work. The recorded number of Bibles and Scriptural books supplied by its agency to December last was 23,000 copies, in 20 languages and many additional thousands of which no account have been kept. Also 40 various editions of books and tracts have been published by the Mission for its work in 5 languages, and many of them have gone from the Western shores and across the seas to other lands. The proposed 10 acre agricultural homestead and dwelling for the industrious poor, so long advocated by the Mission, will be entered on as soon as means are at hand to do so. $33.00 were contributed in Peterborough last year for the work, which the missionary gratefully acknowledges and again seeks renewed support from all interested in the progress of Christ's cause.

NO NIBBLER.

An Old Fish Knows Good Bait From Poor.

A good old family Doctor down in Edenburg, Miss., says he is not afraid to tell the truth about coffee and its effect on him, and the remarkable change produced by leaving off and taking Postum Food Coffee in its place.

He used coffee for many years, and says,"Of late years I have been so nervous that I dreaded to perform an operation, and my eyesight had bothered me a considerable. I think about two years ago I first heard of Postum Food Coffee, and gave it a trial. I am not quick to bite at humbugs, but the change in my physical condition brought about by leaving off coffee and taking Postum Food Coffee was a complete surprise. I began to eat well, sleep well, and in just three months my eyesight was restored, my nerves strong, headaches disappeared, and my chronic catarrh of thirteen years standing was cured with little or no treatment except the change in coffee.

I am today stout, erect, and weigh 20 pounds more than I did before giving up coffee. I have an extensive practice and have had very satisfactory results among my patients where I have induced them to leave off coffee and take Postum in its place.

Coffee is ruining and destroying thousands of our young Americans, and it is a pleasure to know of a nutritious and palatable breakfast beverage that rebuilds the nervous system rather than tears it down, as the old coffee does.

It may interest you to know that we had much the same experience as many others when we first began to prepare Postum. We boiled it in a desultory sort of way, for a few minutes and the product was not satisfactory. Turning to the directions we discovered the fault and from that time we have followed those directions which are simple enough, with the most satisfactory results in point of flavor and food value.

With my best wishes for your continued success." Dr A. G. Alston.

Bowel Trouble—"My mother, Mrs. John Ried, suffered with bowel trouble for four years and tried different doctors, but obtained no relief until she began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. Three bottles of this medicine entirely cured her." Lizzie Reid, Tracy Station, N. B.

The Sixteenth Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company was held at the Head Office of the Company, No. 437 George Street, Peterborough, on Thursday, February 14th. 1901, at 2 o'clock P. M.

AUDITORS' CERTIFICATE

We hereby certify that we have carefully audited the books and accounts of The Toronto Savings and Loan Company for the year ending 31st December, 1900. All disbursements have been properly vouched for, and the postings and balances of the Company's ledgers have been checked and found correct. The above statements of Assets and Liabilities shows the position of the Company on the 31st December, 1900, and the Profit and Loss Account is a correct showing of the operations of the Company for the year ending on that day. We have also examined the securities and find everything in order.

JAMES A. HALL,
F. W. BAILLIE,
Auditors.

Peterborough, 1st Feb. 1901.

The Chairman, in moving the adoption of the Report said:—

Gentlemen: I have much pleasure in presenting for your approval the Sixteenth annual Statement of this Company, printed copies of which have for some days been in the hands of the Shareholders, and from which you will be pleased to learn that the results of the years' business have enabled your Directors to pay the usual half-yearly Dividend at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum amounting to $36,000.00, to transfer $15,000.00 to the Reserve Fund which now stands at the handsome figure of $135,000.00 or equal to 22 1-2 per cent. of the paid up Capital and to carry forward to Profit & Loss Account the sum of $2,591.20. At the time of the removal of the Head Office from Toronto to Peterborough in the year 1896, the total Assets of the Company were $1,546,359.50, the deposits and debentures $818,429.80, the Reserve Fund $105,000.00; The total Assets now amount $1,803,472.53, deposits and debentures $1,047,784.85, Reserve Fund $135.000.00. By comparing these items you will notice that the steady progress being made each year is very satisfactory indeed.

The Report now before you indicates the increasing popularity and the increasing stability of the Company, and must I am sure be highly satisfactory not only to the Shareholders but to the Debenture holders and Depositors. I am particularly gratified to find that the deposits and Currency debentures now amount to the very large sum of $1,040,484.85, thus showing the confidence enjoyed by the Company from those who are best able to judge as to its standing, and when we consider that the surplus of Invested Funds and uncalled Capital over our total liabilities to the public is $1,155,591.20. it shows that the security offered to Depositors and Debenture Holders is simply unquestionable.

As a member of the Board and a regular attendant at its meetings, I am in a position to state that the Directors exercise great caution in the selection of Loans and follow what has already been the custum of this Company, the practise of having all securities inspected by the Company's Inspector.

I now move, seconded by Mr. Hamilton, the adoption of the Report and the statement herewith submitted, and that they be printed for circulation amongst the Shareholders, Depositors and Debenture Holders of the Company. Before asking your assent to this resolution, I shall be glad to answer any question or furnish any information that may be desired by any person present.

The Report was unanimously adopted.

On motion of Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr LeFevre, Messrs James A. Hall and F. W. Baillie were appointed Auditors for the year 1901

The election of Directors was then proceeded with and the following gentlemen were declared elected for the enusing year;—Hon. Geo. A. Cox Richard Hall, Peter Hamilton, Wm. Cluxton, A. L. Davis, H. J. LaFevre, D. W. Dumble, A. A. Cox and James Stevenson.

At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Hon. Geo. A. Cox was reelected President, and Messrs Richard Hall and A. A. Cox, Vice-President.

STOP LOSING MONEY

You Cannot Guess Winners

Horse races are "MIGHTY UNCERTAIN" things to bet on, if you depend on a GUESS to win, a thousand miles from the scene. Thousands have tried before you and have failed. The chances are a thousand to one you will fail too.

You Cannot Handicap Winners

Horses are not machines. They rarely repeat performances. Many of them look at the odds in the betting ring before they go to the post—that is, their owners do it for them. Horses do not always "try." They run for the benefit of their owners, not the public.

Be Advised by Experts on the Spot

Do what the plungers do. "Stand in." Get the best inside information direct from the track every morning that a shrewd combine of horsemen can secure for you. That is what is given its subscribers daily by the

LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE

The LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE is a combination of horse owners and trainers, now racing horses at the New Orleans race track, who have united for the purpose of profiting by the exclusive information at their command. The syndicate aims to send to its subscribers by telegraph every morning the names of two or three horses that are entered in the day's races, which will win, barring accidents alone.

THIS BEATS ALL

Among our many winners recently were SARILLA, 50 to 1, Jan. 8; CALLEUR, 10 to 1, Jan. 14; and AZIA, 10 to 1, Jan. 15.

Within a week our subscribers won more money following us than they did for six months prior following their own selections, if indeed they were not heavy losers before they joined our army of winners.

Cut this out and use it as authority on the manager of the Postal Telegraph office, No 146 W. 42d Street, New York, to examine copy of our telegrams to subscribers filed each day this month at noon. Verify our Statement!

We hope this will convince all turfites that our subscribers are getting money, and that our sources of information are second to none in point of accuracy and reliability. We average two selections per day. Anything we send can be bet on with confidence that the horse will "try" and that the owner is betting on him.

TO PURCHASE THE WATERWORKS

The Town Takes the First Step in That Direction

AN INFORMAL DISCUSSION

A Special Committee of the Council Wait on the Water Company

Yesterday the Town took the first step towards purchasing the Water Works. The Civic Committee, consisting of Ald. Best, Chairman; Mayor Denne and Aldermen Roger, Rush and Shortly, attended at the office of the Peterborough Water Company, where the directors met them, and discussed in an informal way, the purchase of the Water Works by the town.

The Directors present were, Messrs R. A. Morrow, President; Geo. W. Hatton, Secretary-Treasurer; R. B. McKee, W. H Hill and E. H. D. Hall.

Ald. Best opened the proceedings by formally stating the object of the visit of the Committee of the Council. He thought that the Water Works could be taken over without much difficulty or expense, if both parties would exercise common sense.

After some further discussion of an informal nature, it was decided that the town should employ a competent valuator, to put a price on the entire Water Works plant.

President Morrow promised that his Company would give the valuator access to their books, and afford every assistance possible to enable him to arrive at a proper conclusion.

It is understood that the best man on the continent for the purpose is to be secured.

PORTRAITS OF THE PRESIDENTS

With Biographical Sketches by General Charles H. Grosvenor—Title Page Designed by Tiffany.

This Inaugural year, when the public mind is aroused over Presidential questions, is a fitting time to issue General Grosvenor's book. Its sale is already tremendous, and will perhaps exceed that of General Grant's Personal Memoirs.

Every patriotic American desires to read what General Grosvenor has to say of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, President McKinley and the other Chief Executives of the Nation. Everybody desires to read what General Grosvenor, the staunch old Republican leader in Congress, will say of that staunch old Democrat, Andrew Jackson, the Father of the Democratic Party. General Grosvenor has thrown into his sketch of Jackson all the fire and energy of his nature. The biography of Thomas Jefferson is grand. The biography of Lincoln is as beautiful as a sunrise over the hilltops. General Grosvenor has personally known all the Presidents since the time of James Buchanan. The General's book will therefore contain history which has never before been published, written from his own personal observation of these great men. General Grosvenor has served in Congress for nearly twenty years, and he has served his country in war and in Congress for nearly forty years. The book contains twenty-four large Photogravure Etchings as fine as Steel Plates, printed by hand, on heavy plate paper made especially to order. These 24 Photogravure Etchings are in different tints, and are well worth $2 each. These Portraits are made from the Paintings endorsed by the family and near relatives of the Presidents. Two years' time and a fortune have been expended in securing these reproductions. The complete book is well worth $50, but the price has been placed so low, that the most humble American citizen can own it. The biographical sketches are printed in large open type in two colors; the work is so beautiful, that when people see it they want it. The advance sale is very large. President McKinley was the first subscriber. There is one edition known as The President Edition de Grand Luxe, initial letters hand painted, Portraits hand colored, title page hand illuminated, registered and numbered; subscription price, $500. Orders and applications for territory are coming in rapidly. A high class man or woman of good social standing can soon make a small fortune taking orders in this community. Send references and apply for terms quick, as the territory will all be assigned soon.

GRAND JURY MUST GO

Many Councils in the Province in Favor of a Change

Many County Councils throughout the Province have passed resolutions favoring the abolition of the Grand Jury, and there seems to be a general movement against the old form. It is considered that a grand jury is nothing more or less than an unnecessary bill of expense with nothing to recommend the expenditure. The defendant in a criminal case does not receive consideration when his case is before the body referred to; he is not present in person or represented by counsel. The crown has everything its own way, presenting its side only and as strongly as possible, in the hope that a true bill will be returned. If there is the slightest circumstantial evidence it is made the most of, and in fact everything unfavorable to the defendant is given and everything favorable kept in the background. Statistics show that over seventy-five per cent. of the cases on which true bills have been reported failed, when the defence was heard before a petit jury. The cost to each county is quite a figure, and there is not value received except in that the jury inspects all public institutions. That, of course, is an important factor, but that duty could be transferred to the men equally as intelligent as those selected for the higher jury.

A PLEASING INCIDENT

How a Peterboro Girl Secured a Programme of Memorial Services

A pleasing little incident, trival though it was, was the result of the memorial service for the late Queen in New York. A young woman wished to get a programme, but failing to do so attended old Trinity Church the next Sunday, in the hope of gratifying her wish. When she expressed her wish to an usher he said that every programme had been taken from the church and she was only one of many who had gone away disappointed. In the pew in which she sat, however, was a gentleman of such distinguished bearing that she thought he might be an official of the church. Accordingly at the close of the service the young woman screwed up her courage to ask him if he could help her. She told him she was a nurse in a city hospital, that her relations lived in Peterborough, Canada, and were subjects of the Queen, and it was for their sake she was so anxious. The gentleman replied that he had a programme at his home which he would be very glad to give her. When he learned that she was a nurse in a hospital he said that he would gladly call with it on the following day. He was true to his word, and made the Canadian nurse very happy. The gentleman who put himself to so much trouble to do this little courtesy was Sir Percy Sanderson, the British Consul-General in New York.

GOOD NEWS FOR VETERANS.

The Ontario Government Proposes to Reward Them.

It will be good news to the many veterans in Peterborough and elsewhere to learn that their services during the Fenian raid is to be recognized and rewarded.

In the Ontario Legislature the Hon. Mr. Davis, Minister of Crown Lands, gave notice of motion for a bill for the appropriation of certain land for the active militia who served on the frontier in 1866. This being a Government measure, it is sure to pass the House.

PLUMER HARD PRESSING DEWET

London Times Confirms the Statement of His Peril

London, Feb. 18.—The Times correspondent at De Aar confirms the report that De Wet's commando is "extremely exhausted" and "harassed on all sides."

THE FOX LOSES HIS TAIL.

London, Feb. 18.—A despatch from Pretoria confirms the report of the capture of De Wet's ammunition train. The guerilla chief had crossed the Orange River with a large convoy of ammunition, when Col Plumer's column gave chase to him, and routed his commando at Philipstown. The Boers retired in confusion at night through rain and mud. They narrowly escaped capture, Col. Crabbe, with a force of Guards, was sent with an armored train to cut off Gen. De Wet's retreat at Hout Kraal. He captured 50 prisoners and twenty wagons containing practically all of Gen De Wet's supplies 500,000 rounds of ammunition, 600 shells and a Maxim gun. The Boers dispersed over the veldt in the direction of Britishtown with the exception of the Carolina commando, which managed to break through the British lines and retreated westward

PRISONERS IN RAGS.

The prisoners captured by Col. Crabbe are represented as having been in the most deplorable condition. Many of them were ragged and without shoes. Gen. De Wet, according to correspondents, is obliged frequently to resort to force to keep his men in band. Many have deserted since they crossed the Orange River. His horses are exhausted and underfed. It is reported from trustworthy sources that when entering the Cape Colony he forbade looting. Nevertheless, the Dutch farmers are said to be receiving him unwillingly, maintaining that his coming means their ruin. There is increasing evidence that the commandoes in the Colony are hastening to join him. One correspondent says that the disposition of the British forces will prevent this. Several Boer patrols have been seen retreating past Hout Kraal, towards the Orange River.

A COMPANION COURT

Established Here in Connection With the Ancient Foresters

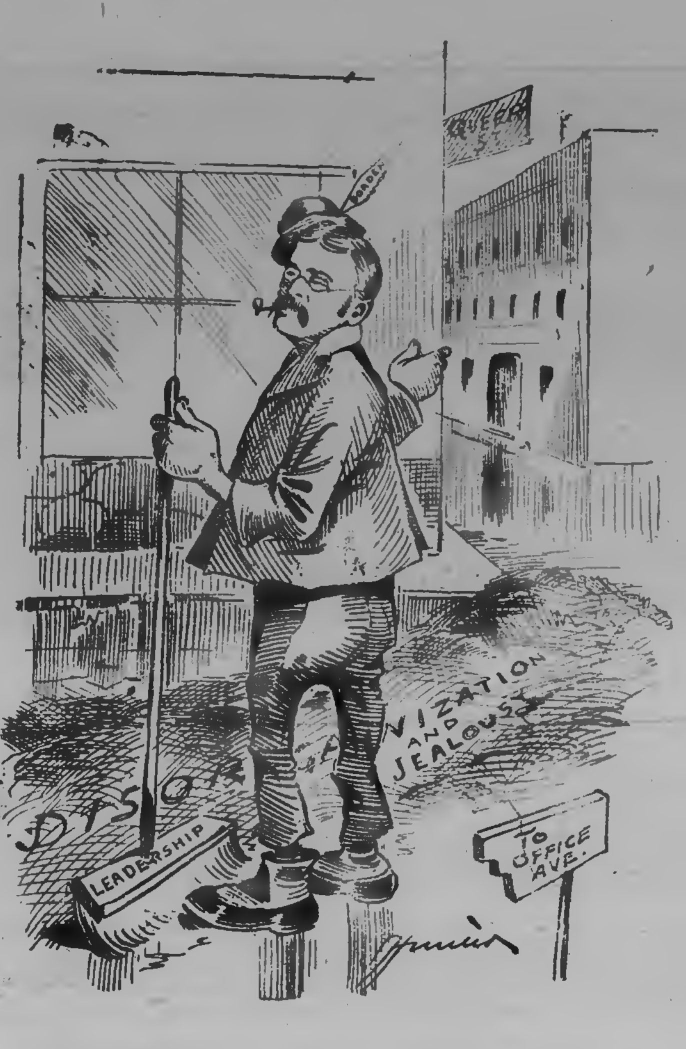
The Ancient Order of Foresters is making great progress here this past week or two. It has added over sixty new members to Court Stanley and at its last regular meeting on Tuesday, it was decided to form a Companion Court of Lady Foresters and on Friday evening they installed Queen Alexandra Court with a good charter list. After initiation and installation of the officers, the bachelors of Court Stanley invited them to supper. After that speeches and songs were the order of the evening. The Misses Smith gave some fine instrumental selections on the violin with Mrs. Cunningham accompanying them on the piano. Special mention might be made of our baby member, Miss Harriet Parker, who gave a fine recitation in first class style. The speakers all expressed themselves as highly pleased that a Companion Court had been established. The following is the efficient staff of officers:

Mrs. Loyd	Chief Companion
Miss Maggie Smith	Sub-Chief
Miss Annie Edmondson	Fin Secy
Miss Mary McWha	Treasurer
Georgina Appleyard	Senior Woodward
Mrs. Eliza Smith	Junior Woodward
Dr. Jessie Burnie	Physician
Mrs. W Head	Chaplain
Miss Harriet Parker	Senior Beadle
Mrs. Cunningham	Organist
Miss Hannah Smith	Past Chief Companion

Good Roads

Hon. F. R. Latchford announced at a good roads convention in Ottawa the other day that the Ontario Government intended to spend a million dollars on improving our highways, and that Mr. Campbell, the Provincial Road Instructor, was to become Deputy Minister. If this is true, the County of Peterborough should not be overlooked, nor is it likely to be, with Messrs. Stratton and Blezard to look after our interests. The money will probably be distributed to the County municipalities, under conditions that will ensure its being expended on certain highways.

A DIRTY CROSSING



MR. BORDEN—I'm goin' to have a hard time cleanin' it.

THE GENTLE ART OF WAITING ON TABLE

The Gentlemen Waiters on the Continent Must go to College

Vienna, Feb. 18.—Quite a revolution has been inaugurated amongst the "gentlemen waiters" in this city of late. A thoroughly equipped training school with a competent staff of instructors has been opened, and here the art of table-waiting is taught. Instruction is two-fold—theoretical and practical. First the professors tell them what they should do, and then they show them how to do it, and finally they test them in order to see if they can do it themselves.

This final testing is interesting. Four persons, two gentlemen and two ladies, who are posing as guests for the occasion, enter the schoolroom, which is arranged as a cafe, and order a light meal. A waiter approaches and serves them, while at a little distance the professors watch his very motion. If he blunders in the smallest detail a black mark is set against him in their notebook, and he is obliged to study a little longer before he can obtain his diploma.

Indeed, terribly strict these professors are, as may be judged from the fact that at a recent examination one of the waiters was disqualified because when uncorking a bottle of Rhine wine he used an ordinary corkscrew instead of an automatic one, as is the general custom.

From the very start this school has been popular, and it now has several hundred pupils. Some of the old time waiters, who have learned what they know through experience, are disposed to sneer at it, but the younger men, whose ambition in life is to serve deftly and skilfully in the cafes, which are such a popular institution in Europe, regard it with high favor and with a few exceptions claim that only those who have obtained diplomas from it are entitled to be considered members of their honourable profession.

THE PROVINCE WINS THE SCOTTON CASE

The Judgment Given Places $45,240 in the Exchequer

Toronto, Feb. 18.—The Province of Ontario has scored a great success in its suit to recover succession from the Daniel Scotton estate, judgment in which was handed out by the Court of Appeal this morning. The decision is worth $45,240 to the Local Government, without taking into consideration the fact that a very large amount is at stake in other cases which must be governed by it. There is little doubt that the mater will finally reach the Privy Council.

Daniel Scotton was a Detroit tobacco manufacturer who died on March 3rd, 1899. Two months prior to his death he sold some valuable property in his residental city, and deposited $900,000 of the proceeds in Canadian banks at Windsor and London. On this amount the executors of the estate refused to pay succession duties, and the authorities put their claim in court. In December, 1899, Chancellor Boyd decided that as the deposits in the banks could only be collected in Ontario, and by a local administrator, succession duties upon this amount should be paid. In this opinion the Court of Appeal concurs. The defendants were A. A. Newman, the United States Administrator, and Oscar E. Fleming, the Canadian administrator.

The text of Chief Justice Armour's judgment is agreed to by the other four judges in the court, and is as follows:

THE JUDGMENT.

"The debts due by the several banks to the deceased were represented by deposit receipts of the several banks held by him at his domicile in the city of Detroit at the time of his death. These receipts were not in form negotiable and it was expressly stated therein that they were not transferrable and the money payable thereby, was payable after a prescribed notice had been given, and only upon surrender of the deposit receipts.

"The money payable by these receipts was, in my opinion, only properly demandable at the branches of the several banks at which the deposits represented by the receipts had been made. It cannot be denied that these debts were for the purpose of administration properly situated within Ontario, for payment of them could be enforced only in Ontario and by an administrator only duly appointed by the proper Surrogate Court in Ontario.

"It is plain, in my opinion, from the provisions of the Succession Duties Act, that the payment of the duty thereby imposed is based upon administration, and that no property which can only be properly administered in Ontario is properly situated within Ontario, according to the meaning which ought to be attributed to those words in the act.

"The provisions that the duty is to be paid for the use of the province over and above the fees payable under the Surrogate Court Act, which fees are payable on every grant of probate or administration according to the amount of property devolving, and the provisions of the act are consistent only with the view that the duty imposed is based upon administration.

"In my judgment, the appeal should be dismissed with costs."

AMERICA'S COMMERCE ATTACKED BY RUSSIA

Thirty Per Cent. Duty Imposed on Iron and Steel

St. Petersburg, Feb. 18.—Russia has thrown down the gauntlet to the United States, and commenced a tariff war. A short time ago the United States Government imposed a discriminating duty against Russian sugar. In return Russia has imposed a discriminating duty of 30 per cent. on all American imports of iron and steel. Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador at Washington has notified the State Department that the increase will go into effect on March 2.

DOES NOT WANT A TARIFF WAR.

New York, Feb. 18.—Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador, is quoted in a Washington despatch to The Herald as saying of the present American-Russian tariff situation:

"Russia does not want nor has she any intention of engaging in a tariff war with the United States. The application of maximum rates to American cast iron, and steel manufactures machinery and tools, was not dictated by any desire to embark upon a policy of vengeance because of the decision of the Secretary of the Treasury to collect the countervailing duty on Russian sugar. I am sure that my Government and the Russian people regret deeply that it was necessary to impose the maximum rates."

HOPE FOR AMICABLE ARRANGEMENTS.

London, Feb. 18.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Times, who describes the action of M. Dewitte in raising the duty on all the principal imports from the United States as "reprisal strikingly disproportionate to America's duty on sugar," says:

"If any official negotiations have been going on, they must have been entirely conducted at Washington. Russians here have been taken by surprise and the Russian papers, which are always well disposed toward the United States, express great regret at the 'unfortunate incident,' and hope that some amicable arrangement may be reached."

THE TRADE CANNOT CONTINUE

New York, Feb. 18. — Mr. Charles Strong Guthrie, president of the American Steel Hoop Company a corporation with a capital of $33,000,000, said: "The tariff Russia imposes upon steel and iron imports is already the highest in the world. If this additional duty is imposed upon our products it does not seem possible that our trade in steel and iron with the Russians can continue.

More Careful in Future.

There is no use in denying it, this great family journal will have to be more careful in future in regard to its advice. The other day we published an article in which we said that liquor was an evil, and its sale should be greatly restricted, when straightway Mrs. Carrie Nation proceeded to demolish saloons galore. In future this g.f.j., will endeavor to be more careful of its utterances.

Opera House Last Night.

A splendid audience greeted the second appearance in Peterborough of the Boston Ladies Symphony Orchestra last night. Nearly every seat in the hall had been sold in advance, so that even standing room was at a premium. The music was all that could be desired, being of the highest order.

ALL HOPE OF SAVING MINERS ABANDONED

Rescue of Cumberland Mine Victims Despaired of Victoria, B. C., Feb. 18.—The officials on the coal mine at Cumberland where the explosion occurred on Friday last, hope to be able to reach the bodies of the imprisoned miners to-day. All hope of any of them remaining alive has been given up. As far as can be made out the victims number 20 whites, 9 Japanese and 32 Chinese. It is predicted that the bodies will be burned and mutilated beyond all means of recognition by concussion, fire and flood.

FIGHTING THE FIRE.

The fire continued to ravage the underground galleries with unbated fury Friday night and Saturday, and huge volumes of smoke ascended from the mouth of No. 6 shaft. On Saturday it was decided that the only way to check the conflagration was to flood the ruined workings, and the water from an eight-inch main has been pouring in ever since.

An attempt was made to descend No. 5 shaft, although this was deemed impracticable. The air fans were started, however, and after an hour's operations the surprising discovery was made that the shaft was free of gas. The air pressure was increased and the gas and coal damp forced into the galleries while a searching party was enabled to penetrate two hundred yards further towards the wrecked shaft. The advance, however, is not great, as there remains half a mile to cover before the spot of the fatality is reached.

LOCAL NEWS LETTERS

DRUMMOND'S, OTONABEE.

On Friday evening last a large number of young people from town drove out to the residence of Mr. James Powers, of the 9th line, Otonabee, near Drummonds Station, in response to an invitation to partake of his hospitality. After surmounting the many snow drifts that blockade the roads, to say nothing of the toss-outs that occurred, Mr. Powers commodious residence was reached at an early hour. The house was thrown open to about 125 guests from town and surrounding country, and to say that they all enjoyed themselves is but expressing it mildly. Amusements of different kinds was the order of the evening (as well as an excellent supper) and the lovers of the light fantastic had many an opportunity to trip the heal and toe. The gathering broke up at early morning, but before departing the young people voted Jim "all right" and a jolly good fellow in every respect.

Should Churches be Taxed?

Should churches be taxed? We see no good reason why they should not. In this country where there is no state church, where all denominations should be on an equal footing, there should be no serious objections against all church buildings being taxed. One thing is pretty clear, that if church property were taxed the question or problem of tax exemptions would be solved. As long as church buildings and church schools retain their present freedom from municipal taxation so long will there be claimants for the exemption of other property from the tax collector's warrant.

Mr. Fortye's Accident

Mr. J. H. Roper returned from Collingwood Saturday night, where he hastened as soon as he heard of the accident to his son-in-law, Mr. R. H. Fortye. He says that one of Mr. Fortye's hands was badly frozen, and may have to be amputated, as is also one of his feet. Mr. Fortye will arrive in town this evening, and will at once be taken to the hospital, where he will have every care. It is hoped that with skillful treatment he will soon be all right.

BEER DRINKING AND THE ARSENICAL WALK

Physicians Say That the Arsenic in Beer Causes a Peculiar Walk

New York, Feb. 18.—Beer drinking has been held responsible for many of the maladies with which man is inflicted. But the very latest addition to an already large list, according to eminent New York physicians, is the "arsenical walk" incidentally, it is also the newest of gaits. In the manufacture of glucose, which is used in making beer, cheap chemicals, containing more than a mere trace of arsenic, are employed.

The arsenic is absorbed gradually into the system of beer-drinkers, with the result that the soles of the feet and muscles of the legs become hardened, inducing the peculiar gait which has become common to those who drink beer in large quantities. Chemists and scientists have observed the similarity of gait between the English beer drinkers and employes of American breweries, and have attributed it to arsenical poisoning, resulting from over-indulgence in beer.

WEATHER NOTES.

Probs: Westerly and north-westerly winds, fair with a little lower temperature.

The weather is fair and temperature very much the same from Lake Superior to the Gulf of St. Lawrence. A fairly pronounced cold wave appeared in the Northwest Territories and is likely to be felt in Ontario. The lowest temperature reported is 12 below at Edmonton and Qu'Appelle.

A New Food

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Professor Byron Tyler, raw food advocate, will establish a number of restaurants in Chicago. Nothing on his menu is cooked. The steak is prepared like Hamburger, being chopped fine and mixed with minced celery and onions. The crackers a little milk and pressed hard. are made of cracked wheat, mixed with Professor Tyler was a physical wreck when he began eating raw food. Now he has robust health. His theory is that if a seed cannot grow after being boiled or baked it is valueless for food.

To be Tried in March

Hubert, the man whom County Constable Cochrane arrested as the party who, it is alleged, committed several acts of depredation throughout the county, such as stealing livery rigs, robbing butter factories, etc., will be brought here in March to stand trial. As a thief he was condemned at Belleville to a term in the Central, and a writ of habeas corpus having been served by the authorities here, Hubert will have a chance in March prior to the sittings of the High Court, to elect how he shall be tried.

Lecture on Rome

In St. Peter's T.A.S rooms this evening, Rev. Dr. O'Brien will continue his series of illustrated lectures on Italy. The subject for this evening will be "St. Peter's and the Vatican," views of the greatest of churches and of the largest of places will be shown. The Pope will be seen in daily life and in St. Peter's. The treasures of the Vatican will be seen, together with views of the Pontificial army and court. The programme will be varied by local talent.

BLOOD FOR THE BOXER BUTCHERIES

Blood is part of the price to be exacted for Boxer butcheries. The envoys first demanded a dozen decapitations, but they are now disposed to be content with ten, conditional upon the banishment of Duke Lan and Prince Tual. They are striking at high game. The list of the doomed includes men of high rank in China. Not a few of them have reflected the majesty and might of the Empress, whose word has so long been law in the great empire and from whose sentences there has been no appeal. Power of life and death presumes capacity to protect as well as to kill. The Empress would if she could drive every foreign devil into the sea. She has been a Boxer in everything but active participation. She has sanctioned murder almost as directly as though every life taken had been sacrificed by her express command. The more merciless the butcher the shorter was his cut to imperial favor. Certain it is, that had the triumph of the Boxers been complete, the very men who are to lose their heads would now be in the higher places. Events have ordered otherwise. They are to go to the block instead of to promotion. They can be saved not even by the Empress. The crowning humiliation of it is that the dowager, potent in the past, must practically sign the death warrants. She must consent to retribution for what? For what the foreign devil calls a crime, but for what she regarded as devotion to China, to the Chinese and to the first lady in the Flowery Land. The most patriotic of her patriots, the Chinamen dearest to her heart of hearts, are to be slaughtered with her acquiescence, making might a masquerade and majesty a mockery.

The envoys are making no mistake. Lessons are not easily learned in China. Millions of Chinamen are still of the opinion that the result of the interchange of courtesies with Japan was triumph for Chinese arms. As they have been told so and as they have no knowledge to the country, they believe the Japanese were routed horse, foot and dragoons. Also, they have notions of their own concerning the effects of the recent uprising. It takes a long time for the truth to make its way into distant provinces. Many perversions intercept it on the way and it survives, if at all, battered almost beyond recognition. Decapitations such as are contemplated are not easy of distortion, more especially if one of the stipulations be that in public places all over the empire the story shall be told not by word or mouth, but in enduring Chinese characters. The text will be illuminating if not illuminated. It will begin to dawn on Chinese minds that there are powers higher than even the Son of Heaven wields by the gracious permission of the Dowager. Hitherto the Forbidden City has been the source of all that was to be accepted without question. Hereafter other factors will enter into the Mongolian calculation. There is a comprehensive view for Christendom to take of it. Those who sleep too soundly must be rudely shaken. Touched to the quick, China will rub its eyes. The sooner it begins to rub, the sooner will it be wide awake. When the ten men kneel before the executioner, the sword will touch the quick.

Not many such lessons will be needed. Severity may be mercy in the long run. The Oriental of the blouse and queue has contemptuous notions of what we are in the habit of calling a higher civilization. Nor is he altogether to be blamed. He sees this civilization taken from the ranks a soldier, the man who shot the German minister. One of the first military lessons is obedience to orders, with death as the alternative. The soldier taken from the ranks by Germans was ordered to kill any foreigner who attempted to pass. The German minister tried to pass and was killed. Responsibility for that murder was anywhere but with the man who actually prepetuated it. He was a mere instrument to almost the same extent as the weapon with which he blazed away. But Germany, which is a higher civilization, would have his life and took it. However, that is comparatively immaterial—it is part of the rude awakening. It is part of the price to be paid by China for an exchange, the exchange of the old for the new, of ignorance for knowledge, of lethargy for life, of stagnation for that which flows freely, of inerita for movement. The price is not too prodigal, the game is worth the powder. Some of the exactions are not discriminating, as witness the case of the soldier taken from the ranks, but as the whole contribution will be of incalculable benefit to all concerned, those who select for scrutiny a single item in the inventory and rivet their eyes upon it, may suffer from strained intensity of gaze. The wiser way is to catch the general drift. It is in the right direction.

It hardly needed the interview secured by the New York World with Mrs. Nation's present husband to establish the fact that that lady is stern, strenuous and determined. Mr. Nation's anguished remarks are perhaps valuable however, as throwing some light on the causes which led to his wife's first husband taking to drink.

The First Baby.

When baby comes to the home it will bind the wife closer to the husband, or it will gradually tend to cut her off from his companionship. A sickly mother loses in physical charm, and often in temper and disposition. A fretful child is a trial, even to loving parents. The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription prepares the wife for motherhood. It strengthens the body, and induces a healthy condition of mind, free from anxiety or fear. It makes the baby's advent practically painless. The mother being healthy her child is healthy, and a healthy child is a happy child, a joy to the parents, linking them together with a new bond of affection.

There is no opium, cocaine or other narcotic in "Favorite Prescription."

"I read what your medicine has done for other people," writes Mrs. Edwin H. Gardner, of Beechwood, Norfolk Co., Mass., Box 70, "so thought I would try it, and I found it a blessing to me and family. I took your medicine a year when I had a ten pound girl. I had the easiest time I ever had with any of my three children, and I have been very well ever since. I took three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' three of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and three vials of 'Pellets.' Before I took your medicine I only weighed 135 pounds, and now I weigh 175 pounds."

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 68 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts. (none free); four for 80 cts; $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.25; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00. Write to day for a dozen and make money. A WONDERFUL
KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY, And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 58 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 408 Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

FAIR FANTINEKILL.

[S. E. Hampton.]

Fair Fantinekill, what boyhood scenes
Return again in Manhood's dreams?
Each pathway through the wooded dell
Some tale of youthful pleasures tell.
Here Nature's lavish hand is seen
In richest hues—in greenest green,
And ev'ry little rippling rill
Holdeth a power to charm and thrill
The after years we feed upon
When youth and all but hope is gone.
Sweet memory floods my heart at will Repeating o'er Fair Fantinekill.

Thou nestling valley gem, walled in
By mountains tall—by mountains grim,
Each frowning, hoary head is dearth
In praises fitting to thy worth.
Fantinekill, fairy queen of brooks.
Thy small cascades were ideal nooks
Before the vandal woodman tore
The leafy giants from your shore.
Grim solace now, no more attacks
Can come from desecrating axe—
Dispoiled yet murm'ring sweetly still,
And still I love thee, Fantinekill.

The hazy time of life's ne'er dim
If but we turn our eyes within.
For there we findeth no decay
Among the mem'ries laid away.
Beneath the dust and grime of years
More oft the sun creeps out than tears.
More oft a deed of excellence
Stands side by side with recompense,
And spectral shadows fade and flee
When youth returns in memory—
Youth and hope and every thrill
That clustered 'round thee Fantinekill.

The brooklet ages may defy
With voice attuned to song and sigh;
It's life must be as lives of men.
The past will ne'er return again.
Yet man, when in the twilight age
Turns dreamy eyes for inward gaze,
And feasting, finds that shadows lie
Too deep for retrospective eye.
'Tis sunkissed hours that mem'ry brings—
Like rose bereft of thorns and stings—
Thrice welcome ere to heart whose thrill
Responsive is to Fantinekill.

ROOM FOR TWO.

Mrs. Getty's coupe was at the curb in front of a florist's establishment on Fifth avenue, near Forty-third street. Her coachman held the coupe door open, for at the moment the lady was issuing from the shop. Across the way was an empty handsom cab waiting for patrons. There was rather more than the ordinary bustle of traffic in the famous thoroughfare. Automobiles rolled silently and swiftly, stages lumbered slowly and noisily and all manner of private vehicles were on parade, making it a matter of no small difficulty for pedestrians to cross from one sidewalk to the other. The clock on the tower of the Grand Central station near by told all who cared to note that it was five minutes past 2.

Just as Mrs. Getty was stooping to enter her coupe a man came hurriedly up Forty-third street from the direction of the Grand Central, took in the scene on the avenue with a quick glance, jumped into the waiting hansom and pushed open the little trap in the top. There was a bill in his hand. The driver promptly possessed himself of the bill while he bent his head to hear his customer's orders.

"Go to No. 347 West Forty-fourth street as fast as you can," said the man; "there'll be somebody there to tell you where next. Don't let anything whatever delay you."

"All right, sir," answered the cabby dropping the trap and jerking the reins.

The horse started at once, and at the same moment the passenger got out. Cabby saw him go, and wondered, but with the bill still crumpled in his hand, and with the passenger's struct injunction to let nothing delay him ringing in his ears, he drove on, and the jam of vehicles was so great that he could not even turn his head to see what became of the passenger.

"It's a good job, anyway," thought cabby, thinking of the bill, "and if the fellow at No. 347 is as generous as this one, I'll get that new coat I've needed so long."

The man who had left the cab so shortly after engaging it risked his neck by running in front of a stage dodged an auto and darted across the avenue, making as straight as circumstances would permit for Mrs. Getty's coupe. She had nestled into a comfortable position and the coachman was climbing to his box when the man opened the coupe door, entered and pulled the door to quickly, but noiselessly.

"Say nothing, madam," he said sharply, "or I shall be compelled to resort to violence to quiet you."

Mrs. Getty shrank, terrified, against the side of the coupe, her cheeks blanched, her lips parted and her eyes distended. The man sank upon the seat beside her and breathed heavily. Then the coachman, all unmindful of what had taken place, spoke to his horse and the vehicle started.

The episode had attracted no attention from the sidewalks, for the pedestrians, intent on their own affairs could not see what went on in the roadway. It may be that a number of persons in passing conveyances saw a part of it, but they comprehended not and cared not. So when, a few seconds later, a number of men came rushing excitedly up from the Grand Central station, such information as they could gain by hurried inquiry sent them speeding, some on foot, some in cabs, down West Forty-fourth street.

So soon as the coupe was in motion, the man turned to Mrs. Getty with a deprecatory smile, in which there was a gleam of satisfaction, and said:

"I am truly sorry to intrude on you in this unmannerly way, madam, but there's room for two here, and you'll have to endure my company for a bit."

"I can easily attract the attention of my coachman," said Mrs. Getty, resolutely, "and have him put you out and into the hands of the police."

"As she finished speaking she raised a hand to rap on the window.

"Don't madam," exclaimed the man, appealingly, and he help up a hand too, not in threat, but as a gesture of entreaty.

At sight of it Mrs. Getty sank again into her corner and stared at him, once again, with speechless horror. Around the wrist he held up was a steel band, and from it depended a fragment of chain.

"I told you I should have to shock you again," he said quietly, "but you know the worst now. Yes, I am a convict. Ten minutes ago I was on my way to Sing Sing. You may not know that convicts are always taken up on the train that leaves the Grand Central at five minutes past two. The train has gone and I am here. With your assistance I shall be a free man within an hour."

"No! No!" she protested, faintly, "you shall not make me a party to your crime." And again she made as if she would rap on the glass.

"One moment, madam," he interposed, a little sternly, and as he displayed once more that steel band and the broken chain, her resolution gave way to helpless terror. "I have committed no crime," he continued, impressively. "My life has been venturesome, colored with many an episode that I regret, but before heaven I am innocent of the charge upon which I have been convicted and sentenced. I can prove my innocence if I can be free but a few days. To go to prison now would mean the destruction of my only hope of clearing my name, unless that might happen after I had rotted for years in a cell. You are listening, madam, and I will be brief, for time is pressing. Convict though I am in the eyes of the law, I have faithful friends who know my innocence. They have helped me thus far on my escape. One of them managed to supply me with a pair of super-hardened steel pincers. Another thrust money into my hand during the moment of confusion at the railroad station. I was manacled in the usual way to a deputy sheriff. When we were about to board the train I nipped the chain that bound me to my guard and broke away. My friends made a diversion that gave me a slight start, and here I am. Now you know everything except my plans for establishing my innocence. Those I have not time to tell you, and you might not understand them. Liberty I must have. You will not give me up. Pity me, madam, and save me from the unmerited degradation of a felon's life."

"What do you expect me to do?" she asked.

"Have your man drive to the Twenty-third street ferry," he replied coolly, "and cross the river. I shall then be not only in the Pennsylvania railroad station but in another State, and those facts together will give me all the time I need."

"I cannot do it," she said. "It is not right for me to interfere with the law. In a moment my man will stop. You may then go out, and I will not ask him to summon an officer. That is all I can do, and it is more than I aught."

Even then the coupe was driven to the curb preparatory to stopping.

"Madam," said the convict, hopelessly, "it shall be as you say, and within ten minutes from the time you leave me I shall again be a prisoner."

If he had used threats or shown desperation, the outcome might have been different. To this day Mrs. Getty is puzzled to explain her course to her own complete satisfaction. When the coachman opened the coupe door he started a little at sight of a stranger but, like a well-bred servant, said nothing.

"Wilson," said Mrs. Getty, with astonishing calmness, "my friend is in a hurry to catch a train at the Pennsylvania station. Go over by the Twenty-third street ferry as quickly as possible."

Wilson bowed and closed the door.

"You are an angel!" whispered the convict.

He said nothing more for a time, but busied himself in winding a handkerchief around his manacled wrist.

"Unfortunately," he remarked at length, "I lost my pincers in the scuffle and so can't get rid of this just at present. May I ask one more favor of you? Fasten this bandage with a pin, please, and it will then appear that I have injured my wrist and the sign of my disgrace will not be visible."

He held his hand toward her, and Mrs. Getty, wondering if she were under a hypnotic spell, complied with his request. He thanked her and remained silent until the coupe was driven from the ferryboat to the platform of the railroad station on the New Jersey side of the river.

"Thank you once again," he said then, as he alighted. "If I might know who has assisted——"

"No," she interrupted; "I never want to know more than this.'

"You are probably quite right," he responded. "Good-bye," and lifting his hat he went rapidly toward the ticket office.

In the next day's papers Mrs. Getty read long accounts of the sensational escape of a noted forger on his way to Sing Sing prison. There was a lot of detail about the pursuit of an empty hansom cab, but not a word about the coupe in which there proved to be ample room for two.

A Feeling of Resentment.

"Did you do anything to celebrate Shakespeare's birthday this week?"

For Children—You should exercise the greatest caution when your children take the Grip. The disease is not over when the fever goes down—not much. There is this peculiarity about Grip; it seems to leave the system entirely open to the attack of a great number of very serious sicknesses, such as pneumonia and consumption. Now after the attack use Powley's Liquified Ozone. The Condensed Oxygen builds up the system, strengthens it to ward off disease; its antiseptic properties cure the sickness at any stage. This claim occupies an imposing position on a mountain just north of the city; and last, but by no means least, the Sunshine, located two miles east of Salida at Cleora station, on the main Trunk line of the great Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, also on the Arkansas river, which in length is one of America's greatest streams.

A Freak Calf.

W. R. Armstrong, of Whitchurch, near Lindsay, has one of the greatest freaks of nature that has ever been seen in that part of the country. It is a calf without eyes or a tail. The head is wedge-shaped with no openings for the eyes whatever. Otherwise the animal is fully developed and healthy.

A Bear Story.

We heartily wish that bear had not seen his shadow when he came out on Candlemas day, because since that day we have had to suffer from the most severe winter cold and storm with which we have been visited this winter. Popular superstitions cuts no figure with us, but this bear and his shadow business has made an impression upon us this time not soon to be forgot ten. And whether this bear be white, now learn more to his side than to all other stories of spooks and fairies.

There was wailing and gnashing of teeth among the travellers when the order arrived for their two weeks imprisonment, but the officers of the law proved deaf to all their entreaties. Mr John Pearson, of the east ward, is among the prisoners.

Municipal Reform Association.

A committee of the Municipal Reform Association of Montreal, appointed to investigate the matter of taxing departmental stores, report against any special tax. It gives the following reasons: First, because taxes on industries are contrary to the association; second, because a tax on departments would ruin many of the smaller stores, and third, because the departmental stores are a benefit to the community, being economical, advantageous and convenient. They are economical because they buy and sell for cash, and buy in large quantities, direct from the manufacturers. They are advantageous because they can obtain or make things more quickly than smaller stores. They are convenient because everything except fuel can be brought under one roof, and all are delivered punctually.

Brother Against Brother

Dennis O'Brien, of Ennismore, appeared before County Magistrate Edmison, charged by his brother, John, with assault. The defendant, it appears, had some time recently instituted a civil suit against John O'Brien for a recovery of wages, and yesterday's court saw the wiping out of old scores between the two parties. The civil suit was settled agreeably upon payment, by defendants, of a satisfactory part, while Dennis in his part, agreed to maintain terms that would ensure future peace between he and his brother.

Death of Miss Powell

Miss Powell was about 30 years of age and the cause of death was pneumonia, her illness having been of quite six months' duration. Mr. Robert Powell, George street, is a brother. The body was expected to arrive here this afternoon from Rochester for interment.

STRENGTH TESTS.

A Record after Using Different Foods:

J Henry Myers, of Otsego, Mich., a traveling representative of a certain medical missionary association, made some strength tests with different foods, with the following result. He says: "In 1897 I became officially connected with an institution manufacturing a large line of health foods.

"My desire was to add strength. I was in good health, and faithfully lived almost entirely, for nearly two years, on this food, and believed in them thoroughly. In January, '98 my strength test showed 5,700 pounds, in January, '99, by the same medicine, my strength test was only 4,560, pounds, a heavy falling off, notwithstanding I had not been sick, but had faithfully and religiously used the foods I so fully believed in and had been hired to lecture for and advocate.

"For a month after that test, I was uncertain what to do. I felt weak, and what I wanted was strength; so in February of that year I quit all other health foods and began using Grape-Nuts alone. My weight now has increased from 130 to 143 pounds; my strength has increased from 4,560 and I am now 1,609 pounds stronger, by actual test, than the average man. My eyesight is clearer, my mind more active and stronger, and I can endure more labor, physical and mental, than ever before.

"I do not know any person interested in the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., and this letter is not written with any motive, except to bring honest facts to the attention of persons desiring to live well and live rationally. I have the charts filled out by the physicians at the institution making the health foods that failed in my case, and these facts can not be disputed by any one. I will make oath that they are absolutely correct."

Mr. Myers' letter gives the name in full of the concern making the so called health foods, which failed in his case, but this name is not given to the public. It is not the purpose of the manufacturers of Grape-Nuts to build their business by depreciating the efforts of any competitor. This experience is printed as an illustration of the indisputable fact that Grape-Nuts food is a true, honest, and remarkable rebuilder of the human body.

Are You Using a Pure, Healthy and Easily Digested Breakfast Food?

Food Experts Say
Malt Breakfast Food
Is the Most Healthful of Foods.

It is well known to analytical food experts that but few grain foods are really wholesome and nutritious. The majority of breakfast foods contain too much insoluble starch and other agents that tax digestion, injure the stomach and heat the blood.

Malt Breakfast Food—a partially pre digested food—is the greatest triumph of Dietetics. This popular breakfast grain food with its delicious flavor, its perfect freedom from insoluble starch and other objectionable features is the only true health food in the world

Malt Breakfast Food is the ideal food to commence the day with. It furnishes energy, vitality and strength for the day that no other grain food can supply. It agrees with the weakest digestion and gives tone to the most delicate stomach. The best medical authorities recommend Malt Breakfast Food for its wonderful food value. At all Grocers.

To Prevent Usury.

A bill has been introduced in the Dominion Parliament, to regulate the loaning of money. The bill proposes to limit the rate of interest on any loan the principal of which is under $500 to 20 per cent. per annum and such rate of interest is to be reduced to 6 per cent. from the date of judgement in any suit or proceeding to recover the amount due. Every money-lender who lends money at a greater rate of interest than that authorized by the bill is pronounced guilty of an indictable offence, and liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year or to a penalty not exceeding $1,000. A law such as this, does not come in movement too soon. We know a money lender not 100 miles from Peterborough, who loaned $12 at the rate of $3 per week interest, and took a bill of sale on a sick man's household effects. The money was not forthcoming at the end of the week, on account of the continued illness of the borrower, and an effort was made to take the goods. Kind friends interfered, but the scoundrelly usurer had to have another $3 interest, before he would release the goods, because payment had been delayed a couple of days.

THE CORONATION OATH.

An Ottawa Divine Takes Strong Ground for Protestation.

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—Rev. J. F. Gorman, rector of Grace Church discussed the agitation which has been instituted by Roman Catholic for the amendment of the coronation oath in England, on the ground that it reflects on the tenets of the Roman Catholic Church. Mr. Gorman in substance took the ground that before seeking any such change as indicated the authorities of the Roman Catholic club should exclude from Papal decrees and from the oath taken by their Bishops all references to Protestants as heretics and schismatics. If they agreed to do so, he as a Protestant clergyman would be willing to meet them half way.

Horse races are "MIGHTY UNCERTAIN" things to bet on, if you depend on a GUESS to win, a thousand miles from the scene. Thousands have tried before you and have failed. The chances are a thousand to one you will fail too.

You Cannot Handicap Winners

Horses are not machines. They rarely repeat performances. Many of them look at the odds in the betting ring before they go to the post—that is, their owners do it for them. Horses do not always "try." They run for the benefit of their owners, not the public.

LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE

The LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE is a combination of horse owners and trainers, now racing horses at the New Orleans race track, who have united for the purpose of profiting by the exclusive information at their command. The syndicate aims to send to its subscribers by telegraph every morning the names of two or three horses that are entered in the day's races, which will win, barring accidents alone.

THIS BEATS ALL

Among our many winners recently were SARILLA, 60 to 1, Jan. 3; CALLEUR, 10 to 1, Jan. 14; and AZIA, 16 to 1, Jan. 15.

Within a week our subscribers won more money following us than they did for six months prior following their own selections, if indeed they were not heavy losers before they joined our army of winners.

Cut this out and use it as authority on the manager of the Postal Telegraph office, No. 146 W. 42d Street, New York, to examine copy of our telegrams to subscribers filed each day this month at noon. Verify our statement!

We hope this will convince all turfites that our subscribers are getting money and that our sources of information are second to none in point of accuracy and reliability. We average two selections per day. Anything we send can be bet on with confidence that the horse will "try" and that the owner is betting on him.

CUDAHY'S KIDNAPPER HAS BEEN ARRESTED

James Callihan Charged With Complicity in the Famous Abduction

London, Feb. 20.

Dr. Morrison, wiring to the Times from Pekin, says the Chinese declare that the threat of the Waldersee expedition has been successful and that the Court has yielded and issued a decree fully complying with the demands of the foreign envoys on the question of punishment. These statements require corroboration, but they are generally believed here.

Omaha, N. B., Feb. 19.

The police have under arrest James Callihan, charged with complicity in the abduction of Edward Cudahy, jr., on the nihgt of December 18th. Callahan was arrested last Saturday but the police have kept it a secret until to-day, in the hope of securing other arrests. Young Cudahy has positively identified him as the man who accosted him near the Cudahy residence and represented himself to be a sheriff from an adjoining county and forced him into a buggy, and also as the man who kept guard over him at the Melrose mill house during the 30 hours he was kept a prisoner pending the negotiations for the ransom of $25,000, which Mr. Cudahy paid for the ransom of his boy.

London, Feb. 20.

It is understood that United States Ambassador White, made representations to-day to the Foreign Office regarding the reputed expedition of Count Von Waldersee, into the interior of China, and that the Foreign Office gave him reassuring replies. It is understood that the Foreign Office told Mr. White, that such expeditions were designed chiefly to convince the Chinese Government, that the Powers would not be trifled with.

London, Feb. 19.

The War Office this evening publishes the list of British casualties in the fight between Smith-Dorrien and Commandant General Louis Botha,, at Bothwell, Feb. 6, already fully described in Lord Kitchener's advices to War Office from Pretoria, Feb. 9. The British casualties were 24 killed, and 53 wounded, and the Boers were repulsed.

DISPUTED DISTRICT YELLOW WITH GOLD

Rich Deposits Have Been Located in the Alaskan District

Washington, Feb. 19.—Reports have reached this city that rich gold deposits have been found in that section of Alaska formerly regarded as United States territory, but, which, under the modus vivendi, has been transferred to Canada.

These discoveries and the filing of claims by American miners to locations in the territory now held by the British are likely to add further complications to the Alaskan boundary dispute. President McKinley has already received petitions from American miners in what is known as the Porcupine region, and Secretary Hay has assured the petitioners that such rights as they held before the modus videndi will be preserved.

There will, however, undoubtedly be some contentions as to the values of the claims located in the disputed district, since October 1899 when the modus vivendi went into effect, and of other claims to be located in a new section which many prospectors are preparing to invade this spring. Under the terms of the temporary agreement with Great Britain a large slice of territory at the head of the Lynn canal in the vicinity of Skaguay and Dyea, which has been under the United States flag since its settlement by the whites, has been passed over to British control. To the north and west a wild region exists, to whihc prospectors are now turning their attention.

It is alleged by American miners that while the American Government was in ignorance of the fact that gold in paying quantities existed in the section surrendered, the British were better informed. It is now said that within 45 miles of the village of Haines and about the same distance from Klukwan three creeks have been found whose gold deposits equal those of the Klondike. One of the rivulets has been named Bear Creek, while another is called Clear Creek. These two streams empty into the Porcupine river and are near the head of the Chilkat inlet. The nearest point reached by steamer is Haines, though it is said that three lines of steamers will run to Klukwan as soon as navigation opens.

DEWET'S INVASION HAS UTTERLY FAILED

He Will try to Double Back, But That Move Will be Checked

London, Feb. 19.—Lord Kitchener, commander-in-chief of the British in South Africa, telegraphing from Pretoria to the War Office, under date of February 18, says:

"De Wet is reported still moving north, and is now west of Hopetown. He will probably double back to the south-west. The troops are prepared for this.

"A train was derailed between Vereeniging and Johannesburg this morning, but the Boers were driven off before they secured much."

SPLIT IN DE WET'S FORCES.

A correspondent of the Daily Mail. who is with the British column pursuing Gen. De Wet, says:

"Gen. De Wet has failed to reach his objective, having been headed off in turn from Strydenburg and Hopetown."

"Last night a meeting of burghers was held in Gen. De Wet's camp to protest against the indiscriminate flogging of men, and half the force threatened to surrender. Eventually the malcontents decided to fight independently."

OFFICERS GOING TO THE CAPE.

The Daily Chronicle says it understands that several officers of high rank from India are going to South Africa, and that Lord Dundonald, Gen. Kelly-Kenny, and Gen. Leach also are going out again.

According to the same authority, it has been practically decided, in connection with the scheme of army reform, to increase the forces by 150,000 men, to secure whom it is proposed to increase the pay of the soldiers.

A PROSPEROUS INSTITUTION

The Midland Loan and Savings Company Has Another Successful Year

The management of the Midland Loan Company is to be congratulated on the result of the year's operations, as set forth in the financial statement submitted at the twenty-eight annual meeting of shareholders, held at the head office of the institution, Port Hope, on the 5th instant. The earnings, including $2,831.25, brought forward from last year, amount to $74,765.08, and after paying dividends at the rate of six per cent., and all other expenses, there remains a net surplus of $9,068, of which $5,000 was added to Reserve Fund, $500 written off Company's office buildings, and $3568.89 carried forward to next year.

The above is most gratifying to the many shareholders and friends of the Company in this locality, and indicates prudent management and wise investments.

DENOUNCES CHINA WAR.

Herr Bebel Tells of the Brutality of German Troops

MOST SHAMEFUL CAMPAIGN.

Socialist Leader in the Reichstag Declares the Recent Campaign is the most Shameful which Prussia has Waged in two Hundred Years.

Berlin, Feb. 20.—During the debate on the third reading of the China bill in the Reichstag to-day Herr Bebel made the bitterest speech that has been heard for many years. The war in China, he said, was the "meanest and most shameful which Prussia has waged in 200 years."

He read a number of private letters from China in support of this assertion, declaring that it was "almost incredible that such brutality, lower than that among beasts, can survive in Christian Germany.

"But, of course,' exclaimed Herr Bebel, "when the injunction went forth from the Kaiser that no pardon should be granted, it was no wonder that the troops behaved like Huns,"

Herr Bebel was repeatedly called to order by the President of the Reichstag.

Von Gossler in Defence

General Von Gossler, in reply, promised to prosecute all papers which printed letters from China derogatory to the German troops. Von Gossler declared Herr Bebel's statements were without foundation. When Herr Bebel asserted that a Prussian Sergeant Major could have better conducted the campaign than Field Marshal von Waldersee he displayed extraordinary ignorance of the circumstances and country. They ought to be grateful to Field Marshal von Waldersee that, with his devotion to duty and high intelligence, he had accepted the position intrusted to him by the Emperor and had established a certain amount of order in China.

The troops also deserved well of their country. There existed in China a factory of lies. Field Marshal von Waldersee had reported that the conduct of the war at the commencement was more cruel than it would have been in Europe, because of the atrocities of the Chinese, but since his arrival he had endeavored to check the cruelty and protect peaceable people.

Says Guilty Are Punished

General von Gossler continued. 'Only a few serious offenses have been committed by the troops, and the guilty men have invariably been punished. The English and French reports have acknowledged the correct behavior of the German troops. It is difficult to understand how a German deputy could slur German troops, who are doing their duty under difficult circumstances.

The bill passed its third reading.

BLOW TO CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

The People's Society at Pittsfield. Mass, Dissolved,

Pittsfield, Mass., Feb 20.—There is a considerable agitation in Congregational and other church circles throughout western Massachusetts over the recent disbanding of the Young people's Christian Endeavor society by the Rev. Isaac Chipman Smart of the South Congregational Church of this city.

Those in touch with the South Church say that the pastor's attitude is the result of the Christian Endeavor influence in the church, and that it will soon be the attitude of many other pastors who have allowed the society to become a dominating factor.

There is said to be growing a sentiment that the organization is becoming a too powerful factor in the Congregational denomination.

BRITISH COMMONERS CALLED PRO-BOERS

Hon. Joseph Chamberlain hits Straight From the Shoulder

London, Feb. 19.—Yesterday's debate in the House of Commons proved decidedly lively. The Chinese question and the Boer war furnished the incidents. During the debate on the former Lord Cranborne, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, refused to answer a question put by Mr. Dillon, as to the Government's final policy with regard to China. Lord Cranborne declared that such a question required previous notice. Mr. Dillon retorted that the Under Secretary had been muzzled, that his refusal was a breach of privilege, and moved the adjournment of the debate. He was supported by Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, and Mr. John Redmond. Hon. A. Balfour supported Lord Cranborne, and declared that no other Government allows the attitude permitted the Opposition in cross-examining the Under Foreign Secretary. The House then divided on Mr. Dillon's motion to adjourn the debate, and the Government's normal majority was cut down to 45, the figures being 204 for the adjournment and 249 against.

BURNING OF FARMS.

The debate on the Boer war provoked hostilities. Mr. David Lloyd George denounced the burning of farms and the keeping of Boer women and children in British laagers.

Mr. Winston Churchill made his maiden speech in reply, and scored well. He spoke from the seat his father occupied, and for 40 minutes held the attention of the House. He caustically said that no nation in the world had received so much verbal sympathy and so little practical support as the Boers, and belittled the efforts of the pro-Boer members of the House on behalf of their friends.

Hon. Joseph Chamberlain roused the ire of the Opposition by his reply to Sir Robert Reid, who said the Boers were treated with unnecessary severity. Mr. Chamberlain stigmatized the remark as "devoted to the abuse of British officers and Ministers and to praise of the enemies of Great Britain. The Government before the invasion of Natal would have accepted moderate concessions. When the Boers fired the first shot, the Government determined that not one shred of independence which the Boers had abused should be conceded them.

THE GAUNTLET DOWN.

"We challenged you at the general election," said Mr. Chamberlain. "We now challenge you again. To-night six pro-Boers have spoken and not a Liberal Imperialist."

The Opposition objected to the term "pro-Boer," but Mr. Chamberlain refused to withdraw it. He declared that the Government would carry the war to a finish, and that the country would not support any party which sought to stultify that object.

The Secretary of State for War gave the ever-increasing number of cases of typhoid fever among the troops, thus partially accounting for the long casualty lists. In October there were 569 cases and 98 deaths. In November 1,213 cases and 207 deaths. In December 1,665 cases and 288 deaths. The total since the beginning of the war to December 31 is 19,101 cases and 4,233 deaths.

Lord Stanley, the Financial Secretary to the War Office, imparted the information that the Government had purchased for the troops in South Africa 113,950 horses in Great Britain and 81,784 elsewhere. The English and the Irish horses proved the best, and the American were the next. In the United States 21,000 were purchased, while Canada supplied 2,758.

BODIES EXH BY GRAY WO

Grewsome Story from Village of Mount Blanchard.

HUNTERS MAKE A FIND.

And Two Fierce Brutes in Their Cave.

Toledo, Ohio, Feb. 20.—A story of horror has come from the village of Mount Blanchard, south of this city. Two gaunt gray wolves were killed by four hunters—Don Markel, Gustay Johnson, and Stephen and Alfred Williams—in a large cave, where what were first supposed to be bones of animals have proven, on examination, to be human remains dug from the cemetery skirting an immense stretch of woods surrounding the spot where the savage beasts were slain. Farmers had suffered many losses of small live stock and fowls, but these depredations suddenly stopped.

The hunters were accompanied by dogs, which finally stopped at a cave, where they trembled with fright. The men fired into the mouth of the cave. The explosion was deafening in the narrow space, and was followed by the cry of some animal wounded. The four men hastened to a nearby house, where they secured a lantern, in the meantime keeping their adventure to themselves. When the cave was entered with the lighted lantern two wolves were found stretched upon the floor dead, while close by lay one of the dogs, with its head almost torn from its body. The cave was also strewn with bones. These were found to be for the great part those of human beings.

In one corner of the subterranean chamber was found the skull of a child, with the flesh half devoured. Inextricably entwined in the heir, where it had remained despite the gnawing of the wolves, was a little bead necklace. Upon examination of the old cemetery it was found that nine graves had been entered, and in each case the caskets were robbed of their contents. This section of the cemetery is set apart for the interment of the poorer classes, and the coffins were in many cases roughly and insecurably put together, offering little resistance to the powerful teeth and claws of the ravenous wolves.

The fact that the discovery was not made sooner is explained on the ground that there had been no burials in the cemetery for nearly a month, and during the cold weather few people visited the place. No attempt was made to put the gruesome relics found in the cave back into their respective graves. Instead, another was dug, into which all the bones, with the exception of the skull of the child, were interred.

DESPATCH FROM DAM LI.

Shanghai, Feb. 19.—Special Cable to the Times from our own correspondent.—To-day being our New Year's, every Chinaman has settled his debts, and China begins the new year with a clean slate. The Empress, tired of waiting for the powers to fix the amount of the indemnity, has ordered the payment of one billion taels, with the request that they keep the change. She also reminded Yu Hsien, Ying-Nian, Tsao-Shu Chao, and other officials on the Lord High Executioner's waiting list, that New Year's was a good time to turn over a new gold-leaf; and the condemned, acting upon the suggestion, have discharged their respective debts to outraged Christianity. Thus all is paid, to the last head and tael.

LIFE IN OTHER WORLDS.

The fact that life of some sort exists upon the planet Mars has been placed beyond a reasonable doubt through the observations of the past six or eight years — particularly through those made by some of the American astronomers. The observations have afforded convincing evidence that the planet has at least vegetation, which comes and goes with the Martian change of seasons; moreover, that this vegetation is green like the earth's and not red as had been supposed by some who desired to account for the ruddy aspect of the planet. Where there is vegetation we may reasonably conclude that there is also animal life. Since Mars is probably an older world than the earth in the sense that, being smaller than the earth, it must have cooled from the molten state more rapidly than our own planet, and, therefore, must have reached its life-sustaining period earlier than did the latter, it may be assumed that the evelution of life has progressed upon Mars quite as far as upon the earth, and that if ever that planet is to have rational man-like inhabitants it has them now. The hypothetical Martian has ceased, therefore to be merely a creation of philosophers and romancers. There are substantial grounds for believing that he actually exists, and the question what he is like has become one of not a little interest.

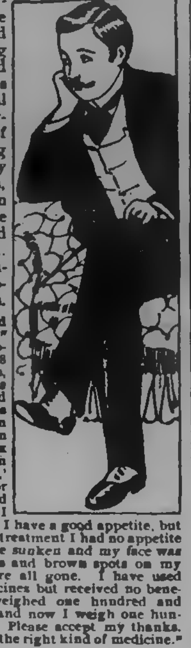
We have frequently been reminded by those who have speculated concerning the inhabitants of other worlds than ours that the conditions of heat, light, gravity, etc., are not the same upon different planets, and that even slight differences of this sort may lead to the development of widely divergent forms of life. For aught we know, suggested a popular French writer on astronomy not long ago, the inhabitants of Mars may be "bat-like" or "like dragon flies;" and Mr. Percival, who has thrown so much new light on the character of the surface markings of Mars, suggests that the Martians may have gills, instead of lungs, which may enable them to live in an air the rarity of which would cause a terrestral man to strife. Are we, then, to be left entirely in the dark in this matter? Is there not some direction in which lies a stronger probability than in other directions? We have no direct evidence. We must, therefore, depend for guidance on the general drift of scientific discovery.

It there be one grand truth which science has brought into greater prominence than another, It is the essential oneness of the universe. All artronomical discoveries have tended to confirm the universality of the Newtonian law of gravitation. The light of the most distant star is produced in the same way as is the solar light. The spectroscope has shown that the composition of the stars, much as they have been found to differ in physical conditions, is essentially the same as that of the sun and of the earth. Hydrogen, calcium, sodium, iron and many others of the so-called "elements" are found everywhere in the stellar universe. No doubt can now be reasonably entertained that so far as material and the forces which reside in matter are concerned our earth is a fair representative of all the worlds within our cognizance. Chemistry (inorganic) is undoubtedly the same everywhere. A crystal of sodium chloride—common salt — brought from Mars would in all reasonable probability be be indistinguishable from one obtained from the waters of the Atlantic Ocean. When, therefore, a question arises as to the products or organic chemistry in other worlds it is reasonable to conclude that here also there is uniformity, and that our terrestrial types of life are universal types.

How life began upon the earth is a still unsolved problem of biology. But that the earliest living things were of an exceedingly simple structure, and that the gradual rise from these germs to that complexity of vegetable and [illegible] life which we now see was the inevitable result of the operation of laws ordained in the beginning, is today the firm conviction of every biologist. It is reasonable to suppose that in other worlds, as soon as the conditions became suitable, life originated in the same way as here, and that the subsequent history of living things has been everywhere substantially the same.

This view is not merely rational; it is the only view which satisfies our instinctive feeling that there is throughout the universe a spiritual and intellectual brotherhood not less extensive than that material unity which has been brought into so hold relief by the disclosures of the spectroscope. Mars is not the only world besides the earth which may reasonably be supposed to be inhabited. There must be scattered through space millions of dark, planetary bodies which are in all stages of planet life, and which stand in the greatest variety of relations to the suns around which they circle. Many of these worlds, perhaps myriads of them, must be almost exact counterparts of the earth. Can we doubt that their human inhabitants are creatures of flesh and bone like ourselves; that they are fashioned after the same type; that they walk erect; that they possess those hands and fingers which, combined with a superior intelligence have raised man to so enormous a height above the brute creation; that they have the same faculties as we, are actuated by similar motives, have the same perception of the beautiful, the same desire "to know the causes of things," and consequently have, like us, their religious creeds, their arts, their philosophy, their sciences?

Pimples



Are more than a disfigurement of the skin; they are a handicap to a young man, alike in love and business. The pimply face looks dissipated and both merchant and maiden look askance at the unfortunate fellow whose face is his misfortune. An almost certain cure for pimples and similar disfiguring eruptions is found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It purifies the blood of the corrupting cause of ordinary eruptive diseases, cleanses the skin and builds up the body with sound wholesome flesh. "Discovery" contains neither alcohol nor narcotics.

"I am well pleased with your medicines," writes John A. Calloway, Esq., of No. 218 26th St., Columbus, Ga. "In 1894 I was working at night and I broke out in lumps all over, and when these left the skin peeled off. I took six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and two of Doctor Pierce's Pellets, and I do believe that I am sound and well. I have a good appetite, but before I commenced treatment I had no appetite at all. My eyes were sunken and my face was pale. I had pimples and brown spots on my face. Now these are all gone. I have used many kinds of medicines but received no benefit. Last year I weighed one hundred and thirty-four pounds, and now I weigh one hundred and forty-five. Please accept my thanks. I am so glad I found the right kind of medicine."

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 68 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts (none free); four for 80 cts; $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.25; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00 Write to day for a dozen and make money. A WONDERFUL KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

I. A. HOPKINS.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY, And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 58 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. [illegible] Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

WIVES OF PRESIDENTS.

Personal Appearance of the Women Who Have Ruled the White House.

Of mistresses of the White House one of the most popular was Mrs. James K. Polk. Like Mrs. Cleveland, she was a brunette, and of fine presence; it was often remarked that not a crowned head in Europe could queen it more royally than the wife of the republican President. Poets penned verses in her honor, and on the last Sunday of her stay in Washington a clergyman addressed her from the pulpit. She was treated with great distinction, and after leaving the White House was visited every New Year's by the Legislature in a body.

Mrs. George Washington also had dark hazel eyes and brown hair. She was not a beauty, but she had a good form, rather below middle weight, and her manners were frank and engaging. She dressed plainly and at a ball given in her honor she wore a simple russet gown and white handkerchief about her neck. One of her dresses which she herself manufactured was of cotton striped with silk, which she obtained from ravelings of brown silk stockings and old crimson chair covers.

Mrs. Monroe was considered a beauty. She was tall and gracefully formed, polished and attractive in society. Mrs. John Adams was never beautiful, but she was of imposing appearance and very intellectual.

Mrs. John Quincy Adams was famed for her charming manners, and Mrs. Andrew Jackson for her amiable temper and kind heart. Mrs. Martin Van Buren, who died before her husband became President, was a pretty woman with modest, unassuming manners and gentle disposition.

The first Mrs. Tyler was one of the belles of eastern Virginia, and was most attractive in her striking loveliness of person and character. The second Mrs. Tyler was the first woman to marry a President. Before her marriage she was, for the one season she spent there, the belle of Washington.

A sparkling brunette was Mrs. William Henry Harrison. She was very handsome, with a face full of animation, and her health, which was robust, added a glow to her features, which increased her charms. "Upon her countenance," it is recorded, "nature had been profusely liberal."

Mrs. Thomas Jefferson was remarkable for her beauty. Her complexion was brilliant; her large, expressive eyes of "the richest tinge of auburn." A little above medium weight, she was slightly and delicately formed. She danced, sang, played the spinnet and harpsichord and rode with great skill.

Mrs. James Madison was a pretty, buxom woman, with a smile and a pleasant word for every one. She had regular features and sparkling eyes.

Mrs. Zachary Taylor was a quiet woman, but had great strength of character and the true spirit of the American heroine, enduring patiently privation incident to life on the frontier, where her husband, as Major Taylor, was stationed. She had no ambition beyond making her home happy.

A blonde of rare beauty was Mrs. Millard Fillmore, with a skin of dazzling whiteness and auburn hair. She was quite tall with a fine figure and of commanding presence. She is ranked with the wives of the two Adamses as a learned woman, and it was through her that her husband asked for and obtained an appropriation of Congress to buy books for the White House. Up to that time there had been a Bible there, and little more.

Another woman of rare beauty was Mrs. Franklin Pierce. She also had many accomplishments. She was very refined and quiet, shunning society.

Mrs. Abraham Lincoln as a girl was very attractive, and she had many suitors. When she became the mistress of the White House she was "fair and forty." That she was the successor of the popular and accomplished Miss Lane was not a point in her favor. At the first levee she appeared in pink silk, decollete, short-sleeved dress and a floral headdress, which ran down to her waist, and destroyed what comeliness simplicity might have given her.

Mrs. Andrew Jackson possessed the beauty of face and form which rendered her mother one of the most beautiful of women. Mrs. Grant was a blonde, of delicate figure, rather below middle stature. Mrs. Hayes was of very attractive appearance. Mrs Garfield was noted for her tact, and her husband one said that he never had to explain away any words of his wife.

Mrs. Arthur, who died before her husband became President, was known as "the beautiful Miss Herndon with the marvellous voice" before her marriage.

Mrs. Harrison was fair as a girl and possessed a blonde style of beauty, which also belongs to Mrs. McKinley.

How Congress Spring Was Named

When John Taylor Gilman, a member of Congress, visited the log houses which chiefly constituted Saratoga in its early history, he was accompanied one day on a hunting ramble by a young son of the woodsman with whom he boarded. When they returned to the cabin the boy enthusiastically shouted, "Oh, ma, we've found a new spring!" "Who found it?" he was asked. Turning to the distinguished lawmaker the little fellow admiringly exclaimed: "Why, the Congress!" And to this day the name has clung to one of the most celebrated of the springs which made the place a sanitary resort long before it became the seat of summer fashion.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Early Promise.

"I'm going to be proud of that small boy of mine one of these days," he exclaimed, earnestly.

"Is he talented?"

"No. He's going to be a business man. I told him last week if he'd be a good boy I'd take him to the circus. Instead of taking me right up, he thought the proposition over for a minute, and then asked me if I thought it was a good circus."—Washington Star.

THE GOLF WIDOW.

Up to Date No Silver Tongued Orator Has Pleaded Her Cause.

For several years now the golf widow's situation has been most pathetic, but she gets very little sympathy from any one save the other golf widows, and they are too busy sympathizing with themselves to feel another's woes. The attitude of the general public toward the stricken one is: "Serves her right. Any one who is fool enough to play the game deserves any hard luck she gets." Your true zealot is proverbially hard-hearted.

A married woman to-day must play golf or give up her husband. Even when she plays she probably has only the melancholy satisfaction of occasionally seeing the fluttering of his golf coat across a far bunker; but that is something. It's a devoted and self-sacrificing man who plays golf with his own wife, save at rare intervals, when no man friend is in sight or when he feels inclined to show his proud superiority by a little valuable instruction. Flattery, judiciously administered, will also bring the family together on the links occasionally. If a wife can only seduce herself to a condition of awe-struck appreciation, and knows just enough about the game to wonder and adore in technical sporting terms, she may be allowed to trail around the links with her husband, but it takes tact to achieve this proud distinction. The most she can hope for under ordinary circumstances is to lunch or dine with her golf-smitten husband, and hear him fight his battles over again; but that is better than dining and lunching alone, and she may prevent complete and final estrangement.

The wife of a cummuter has an especially hard time. He is so hurried and he really doesn't have time to go home at all save for purposes of sleep. Yet, after all, the city man does the same thing, and it is harder for his wife to follow him to the links than it is for the wife of the commuter to follow him, so perhaps honors are easy. The business man doesn't go home from the office to change his clothes. Not he. He keeps golf togs in his locker at the club. As early as he can possibly cut business he leaves the office, races for a train, goes straight to the links, plays until dark and dines at the club house, where he and the other men tell what would have happened if what did happen hadn't happened. Later he goes home so tired and sleepy that he doesn't stand upon the order of his going to bed, but goes at once, unless he stays awake long enough to tell his wife about his phenomenal drive from the sixth tee and the spectacular long put by which he halved the seventh hole. If she doesn't know the tee from lemonade so much the worse for her.

The golfer goes to the office early, so that he can get away early, and in the gray dawn he talk across the breakfast table about the virtues of his new brassey and the approach he has learned from Vardon. Then he goes off, wondering whether the weather will be too heavy for good work across the green, and calling back over his shoulder that he will not be at home for dinner unless it rains hard.

Countless golf widows are praying for rain as ardently as a Texas farmer in time of drought. A wet season is their only hope, and the wetness must be of the wettest variety. No ordinary drizzle will stop a golf game. No thunder shower will daunt a golf fiend.

"Over at home," says Willie, (every well regulated and warranted golf professional is a Willie, though there is some slight variety in our names), "no one wad think o' stopping for a Scotch mist, and any Scotch mist is a deal worse than this bit of drizzle."

And the American devotees of the ancient royal game turn up their coat collars, take a grip upon their clubs and their stoicism and paddle around the links, warmed by the thought that they are living up to Scotch tradition and that the quality of the clubhouse "Scotch" is beyond reproach.

So only a summer of continuous and pouring rain can restore the golfing husband to the arms of a non-golfing wife, and, if there is anything in prayer, it's a lucky thing for the general public that the golfers are praying for fair weather as earnestly as the golf widows are praying for foul, and that the former class outnumber the latter.

Saturday and Sunday used to be the days for domestic joys, with the tired business man. They are field days now, and the insidious thing about the game is that there's no age limit immunity from attacks of the disease. Anything from the infant to the octogenarian is fair prey for the golf germ, and only paralysis or blindness can make masculinity immune. Local attacks of morality have stopped Sunday playing in certain clubs and there has been a good deal of eloquent arguing for and against it. There's no denying that a day on the links is a tremendous physical invigorator for a man confined to an office during the week, and when one gets into the morals of the problem the issues are sadly complicated, but there's the golf widow. Some concession ought to be made to her; but, up to date, no silver-tongued orator has pleaded her cause.

On the whole, the best thing the deserted wives can do is to get into the game, whether they like it or not. They may hate violent exercise, and the sun may give them headaches and ruin their complexions, and they may find golfing so fatiguing and time-consuming that it leaves no time or energy for social duties or care of home and children; but, if they are going to leave all things and cleave to their husbands, they will have to do their cleaving on the golf links. If health or home cares absolutely prevent their playing the game, they will have to summon their feminine fortitude and resign themselves to the role of golf widow.

"Mrs. Strongmind is a warm advocate of women's rights, is she not?" "Oh, yes. If she had her way, man would not be eligible for anything more important than the vice-presidency."—Brooklyn Life.

The Kidneys and the Skin.

In the spring, the kidneys have much to do. If they are weak or torpid, they will not do it well, and the skin will be pimply or blotchy. That is telling the story in a few words.

Hood's Sarsaparilla strengthens and stimulates the kidneys, cures and prevents pimples, blotches and all cutaneous eruptions.

The native music of aboriginal tribe is regarded as of great importance in anthropology, and the recent British expedition to the Torres straits and New Guinea have taken steps to preserve some of them. Some of the songs heard on Murray island are already obsolete, and will, it is believed, die out with the old men of the tribes. "In savage life," says one of the members of the expedition, "the songs of a tribe are its chief heritage."

Brimingham, England, is the only place in which manufacturing crowns is an industry that may be said to flourish. The trade is principally with Africa, where the numerous kings have come to regard a crown as a far more elegant emblem of royalty than the stovepipe hat which they formerly affected. A servicable crown, gaudily decorated with imitation precious stones, may be purchased for quite a small sum.

The Japanese apply one of their many pretty ways to the launching of ships. They use no wine but hang over the ship's prow a large pasteboard cage full of birds. The moment the ship is afloat a man pulls a string, when the cage opens, and the birds fly away, making the air alive with music and the whirr of wings. The idea is that the birds thus welcome the ship as she begins her career as a thing of life.

Mr. Fortye's Condition

Mr. R. H. Fortye arrived last night on the midnight, accompanied by Mrs. Fortye and Mr. Roper, who went up to Toronto to meet him. He was met at the station by Dr. Boucher, and taken at once to the Hospital, where he now is. We are pleased to say that Mr. Fortye's condition is gradually improving. In our issue of yesterday we gave the impression that Mr. Fortye was likely to lose a foot and hand. Our reporter evidently misunderstood Mr. Roper, when getting the information. It will be good news to Mr. Fortye's many friends here to know that there is every prospect of saving both the hand and the foot entirely.

DIDN'T QUIT.

Because She Never Started.

Many people have been interested in the reports of persons made ill by coffee drinking and cured by quitting and using Postum Food Coffee. Of course, the leaving off the poison of coffee by highly organized people whose systems are affected by it, is a great help in itself, but the biggest end of the help is in the elements furnished by Postum Food Coffee. This is a true food drink of the highest character.

A lady who has never been addicted to tea or coffee drinking, was reduced by stomach trouble to a condition of nervous prostration with heart trouble, insomnia, and finally got in a weak condition that the Doctors said she could not get well, and it was thought she would live but a short time.

Someone brought Postum Food Coffee to her attention, she quit taking Medicine and went to using Postum. She says, "It did not sour on my stomach and I began to feel better at once. I kept on using it day after day and now am well and strong and have better health than I have had for years, and am most sincerely thankful that Postum Food Coffee was invented and I was lead to use it."

This is a direct evidence of the fact that has so often been stated that Postum is a nourishing food drink containing the elements of phosphate of potash and albumen that go to build up the gray matter in the nerve cells in the brain and all over the body. It does not contain medicine of any sort or kind, only the elements placed in the cereals of the field by the Almighty Creator, and selected and made use of in the form of a liquid food by the inventor.

"My husband is a grocer and has been out of health for some time past. Since he has found what Postum has done for me he has quit drinking coffee and been using Postum for quite a little time. He has improved greatly; sleeps well nights, and says he has given up coffee entirely."

ing real and substantial, scrupulous care having been taken to provide for every known liability, loss, or anticipated loss, and at the same time we have carried forward to next year unappropriated profits to the amount of $3,568.89.

The cash receipts for interest you will observe, amount to the sum of $76,356.99, being $4,423.16 in excess of the earnings of the company; this excess representing arrears of interest that have been paid.

Instalment payments in reduction of the principal sum of our mortgages were also made to the amount of $90,446, being an average of about $150. on each of the mortgages held by the company.

These results of the years business are not only an evidence as to the high class of our securities, but also show that there has been a great improvement in the agricultural and industrial affairs of the country.

There is another feature of the report to which I wish to call your special attention, and that is our deposits and debentures, these are practically the foundation of our business and the larger their amount the greater is the earning power of the company and it is encouraging to note that during the year they have increased by the considerable sum of $20,666.08.

The borrowing powers of our company in respect to deposits and debentures have recently been increased by the Provincial Legislature, and now amount to $1,440,000. and there is therefore little danger of our having to decline moneys tendered us for safe keeping and investment as happened not very long since under the then existing laws governing this company. I purposely call your attention to these facts with the view of asking our shareholders and all interested in the prosperity of the company, to use their influence with investors to entrust their surplus funds with the company. Although the demand for money is fair, the rates of interest obtainable for first class loans are excessively low, and as from month to month and year to year existing mortgages bearing six per cent. and higher rates, are being replaced by mortgages bearing the current much lower rates of interest, our earnings must decrease, and this decrease can only be met by the profits of increased investments.

In my address to you last year I called your attention to the fact that under the existing law governing companies constituted as ours, there was no longer reason for the maintaining of what has been known as "Twenty per cent. stock," the reason for its creation having ceased to exist, afterwards action was taken by the Directors to cancel this stock and the report informs you that the by-law unanimously passed by the shareholders at the special meeting held in September last has been confirmed by an order of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council. In order to make an equal divisions of them, the shares had to be reduced to ten dollars each and the Capital Stock of the Company now consists of thirty-six thousand shares of $100.00 each amounting to $360,000. fully paid.

The books of the Company have been regularly audited by Messrs. Henry White and John D. Smith, the Company's very careful and efficient Auditors.

The officers of the Company have as usual been most diligent and faithful in the discharge of their duties.

In closing these remarks, I cannot forbear alluding to the death of our beloved and gracious Queen. The grief evinced by all classes throughout the Empire shows more than words the heartiest allegiance to the reigning House and the stability of British Institutions.

These institutions so cherished and fostered by our Queen will, we may rest assured, be maintained and still further advanced under the sceptre of our gracious King Edward the Seventh

I now move seconded by the Vice-President, Mr. Burnham, that the Director's report and Financial statement just read by the Secretary, be received and adopted.

In seconding the Report the Vice President in a few words endorsed the remarks of the President and congratulated the Shareholders upon the strong financial position occupied by the company.

The report was then unanimously adopted.

On motion Messrs. John D. Smith and Henry White were appointed Auditors for 1901, and Messrs. Henry Hume and Peter Brown were appointed Scrutineers.

The chair having been vacated by the retiring President, Mr. John Mulligan on motion Mr. Thomas Wickett was appointed chairman of the meeting.

It was then moved by James Craick seconded by Rev. T. R. Hull that the thanks of the meeting are hereby tendered to the President, Vice-President, Directors and Officers of the Company for their successful management of the Company's business during the past year.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

The meeting then proceeded to the election of Directors for the ensuing year and the ballot having been taken the following gentlemen were reported duly elected:—Messrs. John Mulligan, H. H. Burnham, William Quay, J. W. Olemesha M.D., J. H. Helm, William Henwood and A. W. Pringle.

On motion the thanks of the meeting were given to Mr Thomas Wickett for his conduct in the chair.

The meeting then adjourned.

Immediately after the close of the annual meeting the newly appointed Directors met and organized the Board by appointing Mr. John Mulligan President and Mr. H. H. Burnham Vice-President.

"Every Path Hath a Puddle."

The puddle in the pathway of most lives is a defective circulation due to a blood supply that instead of growing clear and strong like a mountain brook, is stagnant and impure. Puddles may be purified, however, and and become limpid streams. That is what Hood's Sarsaparilla does with human blood.

It clarifies, purifies and strengthens the blood, and when this is accomplished, the vital organs, liver, lungs, kidneys, bowels, are all braced and invigorated. It never disappoints.

Dyspepsia—"My wife suffered from rheumatism, dyspepsia and pains in her stomach. She had medical attendance but did not get relief. She read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and tried it. Three bottles entirely cured her. She is now a well and hearty woman." T. W. COVERT, Cape Sable Island, N. S.

Sick Headache—"For a long time I was troubled with sick headaches. Different medicines failed to give me relief. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, my husband having been cured of salt rheum by it, and soon it made me feel like a new woman." MRS. ROBERT MCAFEE, Deerhurst, Ont.

STOP LOSING MONEY

You Cannot Guess Winners

Horse races are "MIGHTY UNCERTAIN" things to bet on, if you depend on a GUESS to win, a thousand miles from the scene. Thousands have tried before you and have failed. The chances are a thousand to one you will fail too.

You Cannot Handicap Winners

Horses are not machines. They rarely repeat performances. Many of them look at the odds in the betting ring before they go to the post—that is, their owners do it for them. Horses do not always "try." They run for the benefit of their owners, not the public.

LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE

The LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE is a combination of horse owners and trainers, now racing horses at the New Orleans race track, who have united for the purpose of profiting by the exclusive information at their command. The syndicate aims to send to its subscribers by telegraph every morning the names of two or three horses that are entered in the day's races, which will win, barring accidents alone.

THIS BEATS ALL

Among our many winners recently were SARILLA, 50 to 1, Jan. 8; CALLSUR, 10 to 1, Jan. 14; and AZIA, 10 to 1, Jan. 15.

Within a week our subscribers won more money following us than they did for six months prior following their own selections, if indeed they were not heavy losers before they joined our army of winners.

Cut this out and use it as authority on the manager of the Postal Telegraph office, No 146 W. 42d street, New York, to examine copy of our telegrams to subscribers filed each day this month at noon. Verify our statement!

We hope this will convince all turfites that our subscribers are getting money, and that our sources of information are second to none in point of accuracy and reliability. We average two selections per day. Anything we send can be bet on with confidence that the horse will "try" and that the owner is betting on him.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT AWAITS INFORMATION

The Reported Expedition of Count Von Waldersee Said to be Only a Bluff

London, Feb. 20.

It was learned by a representative of the Associated Press that the British Government to-night is without any further official explanation of Field Marshal Count Von Waldersee's action in planning an extensive expedition in China. The Government expects to receive to-morrow advices from Berlin officially setting forth the motive of the recent orders issued by the Commander-in-Chief of the International forces in China. In fact such explanation has been asked for in order that the Cabinet at Friday's meeting may have some satisfactory basis for its deliberations on the Chinese question. However, it is pretty well unofficially understood in Downing Street that Von Waldersee's action was purely due to a desire to bluff the Chinese.

THE QUEEN'S COUSIN.

The Duke of Cambridge Soon to Follow Queen Victoria.

London, Feb, 19.—Small was the difference in age between Victoria and her cousin, the Duke of Cambridge, and there has been so much in common between them that no one will feel surprised to learn that he is developing a marked degree identically the same symptoms which characterized the last few weeks of the late Queen's life, and which constituted an unmistakable premonition of the approach of death. He has entirely lost his former stalwart appearance and rubicund complexion, has become shrunken, bent, and feeble. He totters rather than walks, his mental faculities at times seem completely dazed, and he is prepetually dropping off into those species of heavy torpors from which it is difficult to arouse him. Indeed, he presents at the present moment a pitiful and physical decrepitude, and so alarmed are the members of his family about him that they are afraid to leave him alone even for a minute.

All indications therefore point towards the speedy disappearance of one of the most conspicuous and popular figures in English life—of a man who, had it not been for his too close relationship to Queen Victoria, might readily have become Prince Consort in lieu of Albert of Saxe-Coburg. Indeed, had the Queen taken public sentiment into account in connection with her marriage, she would assuredly have given her hand to the most popular English Prince of the day, the dashing, handsome George of Cambridge, rather than to a foreigner. But marriage between first cousins are far too common among the reigning houses of Europe, and on the whole it was for the best that Albert should have become Prince Consort instead of George.

CIRCUS IN A CHURCH.

Evangelist in a Presbyterian Church Makes a Sensation.

A correspondent at Bright, Ont., sends The Times the following,—During a meeting held last Sunday evening in the Presbyterian Church at Chesterfield, conducted by Evangelist A. H. Ranton, an incident occurred which caused considerable excitement. A lady, a member of the church, came in and in trying to gain a seat spoke to the usher, who was placing a board upon a chair in the aisle, when the reverend gentleman threw his hymn book at her saying "You have been annoying me there all evening." The lady immediately left the meeting.

In trying to make an apology later Mr. Ranton said, 'I hope that lady will not be offended. I merely tossed the book to get her attention. If she is I don't care. I did it in boyish play."

Mr. Ranton was interview the following morning and an apology demanded, which was given Monday evening, but the matter will not rest here. The evangelist is well known in Peterborough, where he conducted revival services.

"EAT ALL YOU CAN, MOTHER.'

A Laughable Incident in which two Rustics took Part.

An old man, whose hair and beard were cut in a chaste, rural design, appeared at one of the tables at the Snowden House the other day. He had his wife with him, which was more than the old lady could say of her hearing. She was almost stone deaf, which gave everybody a chance to find out what splendid lungs her husband had.

The meal was dinner. The price which the old man was asked. After he had ordered what he wanted, was 50 cents.

"Fifty cents!" he exclaimed to Dickson, as he leaned back in his chair, "You don't mean apiece?"

"Yes, Sir."

"Gracious."

He thought it over a minute or two. Then he looked at his wife as if considering whether he should try to get the dreadful news past the old lady's tympanum. Evidently he gave it up. But he did what he could. When the first course came on, he leaned over and shouted in her ear,—"Eat all you can mother! I'll tell you why after a while!"

Civic Ownership.

It is enough to make a municipal reformer weep to see the indifference displayed in many places regarding civic ownership of public utilities in the face of the benefits other places of a similar size are deriving from ownership of waterworks systems. St. Thomas is a place of about the same size as Peterborough. It a few years ago acquired the waterworks and made extensive improvements and extensions, with the result that they are a valuable source of revenue to that city. According to the annual report of the water commissioners presented the other day, the gross revenue of the year, including a sum of $749.53, representing the value of supplies on hand, amounted to $29,275.25, and the total expenditure to $19,326.41, leaving a balance of $10,248.85, surplus revenue of the year available for payment to the treasurer of the city of St. Thomas. This happy state of affairs is all the more notable because it has been reached in the face of a substantial reduction in rates. Peterborough is moving in the matter of taking over the water works, let its electric light and street railway also pass under municipal control as quickly as possible.

COCOA

BREAKFAST—SUPPER

THE REMEDY FAILED.

How a Helpful Wife Did Not Cure Her Husband of the Tobacco Habit.

"It will only be necessary for you to drop about half a teaspoonful of the mixture into the cup of coffee each morning," the circular said, "and the taste for tobacco will gradually depart from him. He may not cease the use of tobacco immediately, but within a week he will begin to abhor tobacco if the mixture is given to him faithfully every morning."

And so the young wife sent her little $2 on and got a flagon of the tobacco cure.

"Pretty bum coffee this morning," he remarked dryly the first time she dropped the half-teaspoonful of the mixture into the cup.

"It's the same as we've been using right along," she replied, craftily.

Now, lo and behold! he was a pretty smooth proposition himself, and he had, unbeknownst to her, seen the package holding the flagon of agin tobacco mixture when it was delivered.

So after dinner that evening he produced a large bulky package of fine-cut tobacco from his pocket and took therefrom a plenteous chew of tobacco. It was the first chew he had ever taken in her presence, and she marvelled thereat, but she determined to persist with the "treatment."

"Dead rank chickory again this morning, isn't it?" he inquired at breakfast the next morning.

"Im sure it tastes the same to me," she replied.

That evening after dinner he produced a short, black clay pipe and a package of a new kind of tobacco that was as black as the ground work of a Jolly Roger.

"Thought I'd bring this old dudeen up from the office," he explained cheerfully. "It's as sweet as a nut."

Whereupon he filled the house with the aroma of punk that was strong enough to break rock.

"This grocery person who gets all of my wages is certainly doing us on the coffee game," he remarked when he tasted his cup next morning.

"Really," she said, gazing innocently at the ten-cent bunch of asters in the middle of the table. "I can't detect any difference.'

ents. You have noticed, of course, how people always look at you when you show them something somebody has given you. They are surprised and they envy you. They always wonder, however, in themselves what on earth any one could see in you to give you anything so handsome. That is unless it is your husband. Then they smile and wonder what he has been doing that his conscience needs rest. But if you'll notice you'll find that persons who get many presents have many friends. You may have many friends but get precious few presents. Presents make friends; friends don't make presents. Married people increase the circle of their friends with every anniversary of their wedding, because the presents get handsomer and more expensive. You can work this paradox out for yourselves, I haven't time.

They were celebrating their silver wedding, and of course the couple were very happy and very affectionate.

"Yes," said the husband, "this is the only woman I ever loved. I shall never forget the first time I proposed to her"

"How did you do it?" burst out a young man who had been squeezing a pretty girl's hand in a corner. They all laughed and he blushed; but the girl carried it off bravely.

"Well, I remember as well as if it were yesterday. It was away back in Maine. We had been out to a picnic, and she and I got wandering alone together. Don't you remember, my dear?"

The wife nodded and smiled.

"We sat on the trunk of an old tree. You haven't forgotten have you love?"

The wife nodded and smiled again.

"She began writing in the dust with the point of her parasol. You recall it sweet, don't you?"

The same old smile and nod.

"She wrote her name 'Minnie,' and I said, 'let me put the other name to it. And I took the parasol and wrote my name—Smith—after it."

"How lovely," broke out a little maid who was beaming in a suspicious way on a tall chap with a blonde mustache.

"And she took back the parasol and wrote below it, 'No I won't.' And we went home. You remember it darling. I see you do."

Then he kissed her and the company murmured, "How nice."

ACROSS THE ALPS ON AN AUTOMOBILE

German Army Officer Makes His Third Trip in This Manner

Vienna, Feb. 20.—Had Hannibal or Napoleon lived in these latter days their long and death-strewn journeys across the Alps might have been safely and comfortably taken in automobiles. Lieut. Engler, a German army officer has arrived here after completing his third journey across the Alps on an automobile. He took with him three trvellers and 200 pounds of baggage in his carriage. Starting from Frankfort-on-the-Main he crossed the Danube at Ulm, struck the valley of the Isar at Munich, followed up the valley to the Karwendel Mountains, which he crossed at an elevation of about 4,000 feet, travelled southeast among the mountains into the Tyrol, rode on into the heart of the Austrian Alps, crossing the Brenner Pass at an elevation of about 5,000 feet, and finally descended into the plains of Lombardy and on to Venice. When he returned north through the mountains he travelled a little over 1,200 miles in ninety-nine hours. His machine was the first to ascend some of the steepest slopes on which roads have been built in the Alps.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP POINTERS

The People's Franchises Should Belong to the People Always

In view of the proposed purchase of the Water Works by the town, matter like the following is of special interest to our city readers.

Norway owns and controls the telephone system of the country. Every hotel is supplied with a telephone, and guests can communicate with any part of the kingdom from their rooms.

St. Paul's electric lights last year cost the city $37.30 for each light. Racine, Wis., pays $98.50. The former city owns and operates its plant, while the latter patronizes a private concern. See?

An exchange calls attention to the fact that in Russia, under government control, kerosene is sold for one and one-half cents per gallon, while in the United States from ten to twenty cents is charged.

Last year the city of Evanston, Ill., received as a net income from its water system $30,000. This amount lowers the taxes of the community to that extent. Under the old system this sum would have been turned over to some eastern capitalists.

New York's great sub-way rapid transit railway will be owned by the city and operated by a company which pays the municipality a stated stipulated price as rental. The road when completed will be the greatest of the kind in the world. Boston owns and operates a sub-way road, which annually transports over 60,000,000 millions of people.

The New York Sun says: Assemblyman Van Name, of Richmond county, continues to seek legislation against the ferry boat companies of New York City. To-day, he introduced a bill giving the dock commissioners authority to acquire the titles to the wharfs and docks owned by the ferry boat companies, together with all the companies' rights. His bill, in fact, provides for municipal ownership of the ferries.

Taunton, Mass., seem satisfied with the municipal ownership of an electric light plant. The lights are now burned all night, whereas they were burned out half the night last year. The receipts from commercial lighting were less, due, the Taunton newspapers agree, to closing twenty-seven saloons. These saloons were nearly the only places in Taunton which were lighted by electricity after a quarter past 8 in the evening, which is the bed time of Taunton people. It has been difficult, also, to induce Taunton people to abandon candles as a means of lighting. Under municipal ownership there is a saving of $34 per night. There are 247 lights, making a total saving of $8,400 per year in consequence of municipal ownership. And the streets are lighted more hours.

WIFE KILLS HER HUSBAND.

Guards Him with a Shotgun while Waiting for Help and Shoots Him

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 20.—Advices from Ellendale report the killing of a man named Brucker of Dickey County by his wife. Brucker had recently married a Russian girl named Kosanke. Their married life was unpleasant, and she returned home. Brucker went there and threatened to clean out the family, when he was bound by two boys, who went to a neighbor's for assistance. In their absence the wife was left to guard her husband with a shotgun. He freed himself from the ropes and started to attack her, when she shot him.

SAILORS WILL RACE ACROSS THE OCEAN

Novel Race Across the Atlantic in Twenty-Foot Boats

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Racing across the Atlantic in twenty-foot open sailboats is the pastime being planned by Captain Howard Blackburn, of Gloucester, Mass., and Captain Dean S. Webster, of Chicago. The former issued a challenge to the world some time ago, and Captain Webster has accepted it.

The novel test will probably be undertaken in June. Meanwhile Captain Webster and Captain Blackburn are arranging for specially constructed craft adapted for ocean sailing. It may be a three-cornered contest, as a woman in New Jersey has entered a yacht fifteen feet in length and has secured Captain Andrews, who recently went around the world in a small boat, to sail it for her. It is probable that none of the boats contesting will carry more than two persons.

So far the preliminaries have not been fully arranged, and the starting point and direction of the course have not been definitely fixed upon. Captain Webster, however, has suggested that the start be made from some point in the Bermudas, and the finish be at Lisbon, Portugal.

DESCRIPTION OF THE BOAT.

Captain Webster's new boat is of the catamaran style—that is, two or more boats joined together. It is made of rubber and canvas with iron frames. Large rubber tubes shaped for ocean travel and inflated like a bicycle tire will be joined together. Upon these air floats will be secured the framework of the deck. This strange craft will be yacht-rigged with spinnaker, gaff top-sails and fore and aft canvas. It is probable that the boat for the race will be constructed to ride on three air floats. Water-tight compartments for holding provisions will be fixed between the air floats. Elastic tanks for drinking water are provided on top of the air floats, and the pressure from the inflated rubber tubes will give a flow of water when the faucet is turned. Heavy air pumps will be carried to keep the tubes inflated.

For bulwarks to inclose the deck and keep out the pounding waves heavy canvas will be stretched around the iron framework of the deck to a height of eighteen to twenty inches. The deck will be two and one-half feet above the surface of the water.

An Enjoyable At Home

A very enjoyable time was spent on Monday evening at an "At Home" in the T.A.S. parlors. Progressive pedro was a popular means of entertainment, 22 tables being occupied. The prize winners in this very keen contest were Mr. E. Burrette and Miss Annie Hefferman, while Mr. W. McAuliffe carried off the unfortunate honors.

UNKNOWN WOMAN'S BODY IN A TRUNK

Taken From Peterborough by a Medical Student

THE YOUNG MAN ARRESTED

The Deceased Was Club-Footed and About Forty-Five Years Old

A mild sensation was caused yesterday when it became known around town that a dead body had been found in a trunk and that William Patterson, a medical student, had been arrested in connection therewith. It appears that at an early hour yesterday morning Alex Reid, expressman, was employed by William Patterson, whose home is on Smith street, to bring a large empty trunk from B. Shortly's store to the house on that street. The trunk was taken to the yard in the rear end of the house by Mr. Patterson, Mr. Reid being told to remain out in front. The trunk was shortly afterwards brought out and loaded on the sleigh. Mr. Patterson then got into the sleigh himself, and was driven to the Grand Trunk station, where the trunk was checked through to Kingston, Mr. Patterson, presumably, having a ticket for that city, and leaving by the same train. Just before the train pulled out, Reid was approached by George Clark, G.T.R. sectionman, who made the astonishing statement that he and a companion had seen Mr. Patterson unwrapping some coverings from a corpse in the rear of his residence, and afterwards bundling the body into a trunk, which was then placed in Mr. Reid's sleigh.

Mr. Clark and his companion both live north of Smith street, and come to their work by way of the G.T.R. track, from which a good view of Patterson's back yard can be obtained. They stated positively that they saw Patterson remove two coats from a dead body and put it into the trunk and lock it.

Patterson was told of what had been seen, but paid no attention to the matter. He jumped the train and departed without giving his interrogators any satisfaction.

The police were not long in learning about the matter, and Belleville was communicated with, resulting in a message being received that Patterson had been taken from the train and placed under arrest. Chief Roszel left at noon yesterday for his prisoner, returning on the evening express with Patterson and the corpse.

Patterson was taken to the Police Station, and later admitted to bail in the sum of $500, his bondsmen being Dr. Fife and Mr. James Coyle Brown, and the body was taken to the rooms of Undertaker Belleghem on Hunter street.

The body is that of a woman 5 feet 5 inches in height; of dark complexion and with black hair, turning grey. She was probably about 45 years of age. There are on the face one or two bruises, apparently inflicted before death, but the form is much wasted and she was evidently the victim of some lingering disease. A circumstance that should soon lead to her identification is the fact that her feet were badly "clubbed," being turned horizontally to the body.

Patterson is a step-son of Mr. James Coyle Brown, School Inspector, and is a student at Queen's College, Kingston. To a Times representative last evening he stated emphatically that he did not know the identity of the deceased. He declined to state where or from whom or through whom he had obtained the body. He maintained that on investigation he would be acquitted of wrong-doing. No man can qualify for the practice of medicine without the study of anatomy from human "subjects."

The body was entirely nude and was doubled up in the trunk, which is only 2 feet 6 inches in length, by 1 foot 4 1-2 inches wide and 15 inches deep.

Mr. Belleghem is of opinion that the corpse had been buried not more than three or four days.

The police are positive that the deceased did not belong to Peterborough and consider it probable that the corpse was obtained somewhere in the country surrounding.

DOWAGER EMPRESS' ILLNESS

Reports Are Contradictory as to Her Condition.

Berlin, February 21.—The reports as to the condition of Dowager Empress Frederick, who is ill at Cronberg, are quite contradictory.

The Lokal Anzeiger prints a dispatch from Homburg, asserting that her condition is satisfactory, that Dr. Rehvers, a Berlin specialist, who was called to attend her some time ago, has not been to Homburg for three weeks, and that her private physician attended a ball last evening. A Berlin news agency corroborates the statement that her condition is quite satisfactory.

On the other hand, the British Embassy takes a very serious view of the situation, believing that Emperor William is remaining at Cronberg in anticipation of a fatal issue, and refusing to believe the reports that the Dowager Empress goes out driving daily.

From private sources it is ascertained that the end is expected in a few weeks at the latest.

ASSISTANT PASTOR FOR ST. PAUL'S

A Student Graduate to Be Engaged

TO SECOND DR. TORRANCE

A Young Man Who Graduates This Spring Will be Chosen For the Position

At the annual meeting of St. Paul's congregation held on Wednesday, the 30th of January, 1901, the following resolution was moved by Mr. Sheriff Hall and seconded by Mr. T. A. S. Hay.

"Whereas St. Paul's congregation is composed of upwards of 400 families, many of whom reside in the country within a radius of six or eight miles from the town;

"And whereas it has been found desirable that much more time should be devoted to pastoral work than is possible to be accomplished single handed;

"And whereas at an early date a large influx of residents is anticipated which will necessitate additional oversight and church accommodation;

"And whereas many of our members residing in the Southern and Western parts of the Town desire the resumption of Mission School work south of Charlotte street,

"And whereas the Pastor feels that there is plenty of work in the congregation for two ministers, and the office bearers have heartily approved of an assistant being procured for Dr. Torrance;

"Therefore, be it resolved that this congregation in Annual Meeting assembled approves of the principle of appointing an assistant to the Pastor and authorizes the office bearers to proceed to the selection of a fit and proper person, and to determine his salary, duties, etc."

After discussion the Annual Meeting decided that inasmuch as the attendance was somewhat small and a large portion of the congregation were not aware that such an important subject was to come before the meeting, a circular embodying the above resolution was ordered to be printed and distributed, and that the Annual Meeting should stand adjourned for three weeks until Wednesday, 20th February, 1901, at 8 p.m., to give the congregation an opportunity of then further discussing and disposing of the resolution.

The adjourned meeting was duly held last evening in the Sunday School room of the church. There was quite a large attendance of members and adherents, and there was no dissent from the conclusion that it is desirable to have an assistant. It was pointed out that all other denominations in Peterborough are better supplied proportionately than the Presbyterian. The meeting resolved unanimously that a student graduate be engaged in the spring for a term of one year.

It was decided to increase the appropriation for music for the choir. Several gentlemen spoke in praise of Mr. Crane, the organist and leader, and of the recent concert, which may be repeated.

MORNING V. EVENING PAPERS.

The Morning Paper Has the Advantage—A Monopoly of Live News.

Much has been said and written in regard to the relative merits of morning and evening papers from an advertising standpoint.

In the large cities throughout America it has been demonstrated time and again that the morning paper is the most valuable medium as a means for the merchant to exploit his wares. Take the dealer, for instance, who uses a morning paper to push some special line with which he wishes to appeal to the farming community, if he advertises the day previous to which the sale is on it reaches the people in ample time to impress them, if in an evening paper, in many cases, it does not reach them till the day after publication, or the day of the sale, and is too late to have the desired effect.

Then in regard to the home constituency; space used in an evening paper bound to set forth items for the following day's business, and if not read on the evening of publication is rarely referred to again, while the advertisement appearing in a morning paper is usually read bright and early in the morning, the goods for the day's business being fresh in the minds of the public. Supposing the morning paper should by chance be overlooked in the early hours, it still remains live news up till next morning, thus making it possible for afternoon shoppers to take advantage of the advertising suggestions made in its columns. Another fact to be remembered, and one that accounts largely for the popularity of morning papers is, that most all important events such as entertainments of a public and private nature, lodge meetings, municipal affairs, sporting events, etc., take place in the evening, and therefore the paper that is at the homes of the people before they are out of bed, has a monopoly of live news. The citizens of Peterborough have not been slow to recognize all this and are daily showing their appreciation of its morning paper enterprise.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT AWAITS INFORMATION

The Reported Expedition of Count Von Waldersee Said to be Only a Bluff

London, Feb. 20.

It was learned by a representative of the Associated Press that the British Government to-night is without any further official explanation of Field Marshal Count Von Waldersee's action in planning an extensive expedition in China The Government expects to receive to-morrow advices from Berlin officially setting forth the motive of the recent orders issued by the Commander-in-Chief of the International forces in China. In fact such explanation has been asked for in order that the Cabinet at Friday's meeting may have some satisfactory basis for its deliberations on the Chinese question. However, it is pretty well unofficially understood in Downing Street that Von Waldersee's action was purely due to a desire to bluff the Chinese.

THE QUEEN'S COUSIN.

The Duke of Cambridge Seen to Follow Queen Victoria.

London, Feb, 19.—Small was the difference in age between Victoria and her cousin, the Duke of Cambridge, and there has been so much in common between them that no one will feel surprised to learn that he is developing a marked degree identically the same symptoms which characterized the last few weeks of the late Queen's life, and which constituted an unmistakable premonition of the approach of death. He has entirely lost his former stalwart appearance and rubicund complexion, has become shrunken, bent, and feeble. He totters rather than walks, his mental faculities at times seem completely dazed, and he is prepetually dropping off into those species of heavy torpors from which it is difficult to arouse him. Indeed, he presents at the present moment a pitiful and physical decrepitude, and so alarmed are the members of his family about him that they are afraid to leave him alone even for a minute.

All indications therefore point towards the speedy disappearance of one of the most conspicuous and popular figures in English life—of a man who, had it not been for his too close relationship to Queen Victoria, might readily have become Prince Consort in lieu of Albert of Saxe-Coburg. Indeed, had the Queen taken public sentiment into account in connection with her marriage, she would assuredly have given her hand to the most popular English Prince of the day, the dashing, handsome George of Cambridge, rather than to a foreigner. But marriage between first cousins are far too common among the reigning houses of Europe, and on the whole it was for the best that Albert should have become Prince Consort instead of George.

CIRCUS IN A CHURCH.

Evangelist in a Presbyterian Church Makes a Sensation.

A correspondent at Bright, Ont., sends The Times the following,—During a meeting held last Sunday evening in the Presbyterian Church at Chesterfield, conducted by Evangelist A. H. Ranton, an incident occurred which caused considerable excitement. A lady, a member of the church, came in and in trying to gain a seat,spoke to the usher, who was placing a board upon a chair in the aisle, when the reverend gentleman threw his hymn book at her saying "You have been annoying me there all evening." The lady immediately left the meeting.

In trying to make an apology later Mr. Ranton said, 'I hope that lady will not be offended. I merely tossed the book to get her attention. If she is I don't care. I did it in boyish play."

Mr. Ranton was interview the following morning and an apology demanded, which was given Monday evening, but the matter will not rest here. The evangelist is well known in Peterborough, where he conducted revival services.

"EAT ALL YOU CAN, MOTHER.'

A Laughable Incident in which two Rustics took Part.

An old man, whose hair and beard were cut in a chaste, rural design, appeared at one of the tables at the Snowden House the other day. He had his wife with him, which was more than the old lady could say of her hearing. She was almost stone deaf, which gave everybody a chance to find out what splendid lungs her husband had.

The meal was dinner. The price which the old man was asked. After he had ordered what he wanted, was 50 cents.

"Fifty cents!" he exclaimed to Dickson, as he leaned back in his chair, "You don't mean apiece?"

"Yes, Sir."

"Gracious."

He thought it over a minute or two. Then he looked at his wife as if considering whether he should try to get the dreadful news past the old lady's tympanum. Evidently he gave it up. But he did what he could. When the first course came on, he leaned over and shouted in her ear,—"Eat all you can mother! I'll tell you why after a while!"

Civic Ownership.

It is enough to make a municipal reformer weep to see the indifference displayed in many places regarding civic ownership of public utilities in the face of the benefits other places of a similar size are deriving from ownership of waterworks systems St. Thomas is a place of about the same size as Peterborough. It a few years ago acquired the waterworks and made extensive improvements and extensions, with the result that they are a valuable source of revenue to that city. According to the annual report of the water, commissioners presented the other day, the gross revenue of the year, including a sum of $749.53, representing the value of supplies on hand, amounted to $29,270.26. and the total expenditure to $19,020.41, leaving a balance of $10,248.85, surplus revenue of the year available for payment to the treasurer of the city of St. Thomas. This happy state of affairs is all the more notable because it has been reached in the face of substantial reduction in rates. Peterborough is moving in the matter of taking over the water works, let its electric light and street railway also pass under municipal control as quickly as possible.

ACROSS THE ALPS ON AN AUTOMOBILE

German Army Officer Makes His Third Trip in This Manner

Vienna, Feb. 20.—Had Hannibal or Napoleon lived in these latter days their long and death-strewn journeys across the Alps might have been safely and comfortably taken in automobiles. Lieut. Engler, a German army officer has arrived here after completing his third journey across the Alps on an automobile. He took with him three trvellers and 200 pounds of baggage in his carriage. Starting from Frankfort-on-the-Main he crossed the Danube at Ulm, struck the valley of the Iscar at Munich, followed up the valley to the Karwendel Mountains, which he crossed at an elevation of about 4,000 feet, travelled southeast among the mountains into the Tyrol, rode on into the heart of the Austrian Alps, crossing the Brenner Pass at an elevation of about 5,000 feet, and finally descended into the plains of Lombardy and on to Venice. When he returned north through the mountains he travelled a little over 1,200 miles in ninety-nine hours. His machine was the first to ascend some of the steepest slopes on which roads have been built in the Alps.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP POINTERS

The People's Franchises Should Belong to the People Always

In view of the proposed purchase of the Water Works by the town, matter like the following is of special interest to our city readers:

Norway owns and controls the telephone system of the country. Every hotel is supplied with a telephone, and guests can communicate with any part of the kingdom from their rooms.

St. Paul's electric lights last year cost the city $37.30 for each light. Racine, Wis., pays $98.50. The former city owns and operates its plant, while the latter patronizes a private concern. See?

An exchange calls attention to the fact that in Russia, under government control, kerosene is sold for one and one-half cents per gallon, while in the United States from ten to twenty cents is charged.

Last year the city of Evanston, Ill., received as a net income from its water system $50,000. This amount lowers the taxes of the community to that extent. Under the old system this sum would have been turned over to some eastern capitalists.

New York's great sub-way rapid transit railway will be owned by the city and operated by a company which pays the municipality a stated stipulated price as rental. The road when completed will be the greatest of the kind in the world. Boston owns and operates a sub-way road, which annually transports over 60,000,000 millions of people.

The New York Sun says: Assemblyman Van Name, of Richmond county, continues to seek legislation against the ferry boat companies of New York City. To-day, he introduced a bill giving the dock commissioners authority to acquire the titles to the wharfs and docks owned by the ferry boat companies, together with all the companies' rights. His bill, in fact, provides for municipal ownership of the ferries.

Taunton, Mass., seem satisfied with the municipal ownership of an electric light plant. The lights are now burned all night, whereas they were burned out half the night last year. The receipts from commercial lighting were less, due, the Taunton newspapers agree, to closing twenty-seven saloons. These saloons were nearly the only places in Taunton which were lighted by electricity after a quarter past 8 in the evening, which is the bed time of Taunton people. It has been difficult, also, to induce Taunton people to abandon candles as a means of lighting. Under municipal ownership there is a saving of $34 per night. There are 247 lights, making a total saving of $8,400 per year in consequence of municipal ownership. And the streets are lighted more hours.

WIFE KILLS HER HUSBAND.

Guards Him with a Shotgun while Waiting for Help and Shoots Him

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 20.—Advices from Ellendale report the killing of a man named Brucker of Dickey County by his wife. Brucker had recently married a Russian girl named Kosanke. Their married life was unpleasant, and she returned home. Brucker went there and threatened to clean out the family, when he was bound by two boys, who went to a neighbor's for assistance. In their absence the wife was left to guard her husband with a shotgun. He freed himself from the ropes and started to attack her, when she shot him.

SAILORS WILL RACE ACROSS THE OCEAN

Novel Race Across the Atlantic in Twenty-Foot Boats

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Racing across the Atlantic in twenty-foot open sailboats is the pastime being planned by Captain Howard Blackburn, of Gloucester, Mass., and Captain Dean S. Webster, of Chicago. The former issued a challenge to the world some time ago, and Captain Webster has accepted it.

The novel test will probably be undertaken in June. Meanwhile Captain Webster and Captain Blackburn are arranging for specially constructed craft adapted for ocean sailing. It may be a three-cornered contest, as a woman in New Jersey has entered a yacht fifteen feet in length and has secured Captain Andrews, who recently went around the world in a small boat, to sail it for her. It is probable that none of the boats contesting will carry more than two persons.

So far the preliminaries have not been fully arranged, and the starting point and direction of the course have not been definitely fixed upon. Captain Webster, however, has suggested that the start be made from some point in the Bermudas, and the finish be at Lisbon, Portugal.

DESCRIPTION OF THE BOAT.

Captain Webster's new boat is of the catamaran style—that is, two or more boats joined together. It is made of rubber and canvas with iron frames. Large rubber tubes shaped for ocean travel and inflated like a bicycle tire will be joined together. Upon these air floats will be secured the framework of the deck. This strange craft will be yacht-rigged with spinnaker, gaff top-sails and fore and aft canvas. It is probable that the boat for the race will be constructed to ride on three air floats. Water-tight compartments for holding provisions will be fixed between the air floats. Elastic tanks for drinking water are provided on top of the air floats, and the pressure from the inflated rubber tubes will give a flow of water when the faucet is turned. Heavy air pumps will be carried to keep the tubes inflated.

For bulwarks to inclose the deck and keep out the pounding waves heavy canvas will be stretched around the iron framework of the deck to a height of eighteen to twenty inches. The deck will be two and one-half feet above the surface of the water.

An Enjoyable At Home

A very enjoyable time was spent on Monday evening at an "At Home" in the T.A.S. parlors. Progressive pedro was a popular means of entertainment, 22 tables being occupied. The prize winners in this very keen contest were Mr. E. Burrette and Miss Annie Hefferman, while Mr. W. McAuliffe carried off the unfortunate honors.

UNKNOWN WOMAN'S BODY IN A TRUNK

Taken From Peterborough by a Medical Student

THE YOUNG MAN ARRESTED

The Deceased Was Club-Footed and About Forty-Five Years Old

A mild sensation was caused yesterday when it became known around town that a dead body had been found in a trunk and that William Patterson, a medical student, had been arrested in connection therewith. It appears that at an early hour yesterday morning Alex Reid, expressman, was employed by William Patterson, whose home is on Smith street, to bring a large empty trunk from B. Shortly's store to the house on that street. The trunk was taken to the yard in the rear end of the house by Mr. Patterson, Mr. Reid being told to remain out in front. The trunk was shortly afterwards brought out and loaded on the sleigh. Mr. Patterson then got into the sleigh himself, and was driven to the Grand Trunk station, where the trunk was checked through to Kingston, Mr. Patterson, presumably, having a ticket for that city, and leaving by the same train. Just before the train pulled out, Reid was approached by George Clark, G.T.R. sectionman, who made the astonishing statement that he and a companion had seen Mr. Patterson unwrapping some coverings from a corpse in the rear of his residence, and afterwards bundling the body into a trunk, which was then placed in Mr. Reid's sleigh.

Mr. Clark and his companion both live north of Smith street, and come to their work by way of the G.T.R. track, from which a good view of Patterson's back yard can be obtained. They stated positively that they saw Patterson remove two coats from a dead body and put it into the trunk and lock it.

Patterson was told of what had been seen, but paid no attention to the matter. He jumped the train and departed without giving his interrogators any satisfaction.

The police were not long in learning about the matter, and Belleville was communicated with, resulting in a message being received that Patterson had been taken from the train and placed under arrest. Chief Roszel left at noon yesterday for his prisoner, returning on the evening express with Patterson and the corpse.

Patterson was taken to the Police Station, and later admitted to bail in the sum of $500, his bondsmen being Dr. Fife and Mr. James Coyle Brown, and the body was taken to the rooms of Undertaker Belleghem on Hunter street.

The body is that of a woman 5 feet 5 inches in height; of dark complexion and with black hair, turning grey. She was probably about 45 years of age. There are on the face one or two bruises, apparently inflicted before death, but the form is much wasted and she was evidently the victim of some lingering disease. A circumstance that should soon lead to her identification is the fact that her feet were badly "clubbed," being turned horizontally to the body.

Patterson is a step-son of Mr. James Coyle Brown, School Inspector, and is a student at Queen's College, Kingston. To a Times representative last evening he stated emphatically that he did not know the identity of the deceased. He declined to state where or from whom or through whom he had obtained the body. He maintained that on investigation he would be acquitted of wrong-doing. No man can qualify for the practice of medicine without the study of anatomy from human "subjects."

The body was entirely nude and was doubled up in the trunk, which is only 2 feet 5 inches in length, by 1 foot 6 1-2 inches wide and 15 inches deep.

Mr. Belleghem is of opinion that the corpse had been buried not more than three or four days.

The police are positive that the deceased did not belong to Peterborough and consider it probable that the corpse was obtained somewhere in the country surrounding.

DOWAGER EMPRESS' ILLNESS

Reports Are Contradictory as to Her Condition

Berlin, February 21.—The reports as to the condition of Dowager Empress Frederick, who is ill at Cronberg, are quite contradictory.

The Lokal Anzeiger prints a despatch from Homburg, asserting that her condition is satisfactory, that Dr. Rehvera, a Berlin specialist, who was called to attend her some time ago, has not been to Homburg for three weeks, and that her private physician attended a ball last evening. A Berlin news agency corroborates the statement that her condition is quite satisfactory.

On the other hand, the British Embassy takes a very serious view of the situation, believing that Emperor William is remaining at Cronberg in anticipation of a fatal issue, and refusing to believe the reports that the Dowager Empress goes out driving daily.

From private sources it is ascertained that the end is expected in a few weeks at the latest.

ASSISTANT PASTOR FOR ST. PAUL'S

A Student Graduate to Be Engaged

TO SECOND DR. TORRANCE

A Young Man Who Graduates This Spring Will be Chosen For the Position

At the annual meeting of St. Paul's congregation held on Wednesday, the 30th of January, 1901, the following resolution was moved by Mr. Sheriff Hall and seconded by Mr. T. A. S. Hay:

"Whereas St. Paul's congregation is composed of upwards of 400 families, many of whom reside in the country within a radius of six or eight miles from the town;

"And whereas it has been found desirable that much more time should be devoted to pastoral work than is possible to be accomplished single-handed;

"And whereas at an early date a large influx of residents is anticipated which will necessitate additional oversight and church accommodation;

"And whereas many of our members residing in the Southern and Western parts of the Town desire the resumption of Mission School work south of Charlotte street,

"And whereas the Pastor feels that there is plenty of work in the congregation for two ministers, and the office bearers have heartily approved of an assistant being procured for Dr. Torrance;

"Therefore, be it resolved that this congregation in Annual Meeting assembled approves of the principle of appointing an assistant to the Pastor and authorizes the office bearers to proceed to the selection of a fit and proper person, and to determine his salary, duties, etc."

After discussion the Annual Meeting decided that inasmuch as the attendance was somewhat small and a large portion of the congregation were not aware that such an important subject was to come before the meeting, a circular embodying the above resolution was ordered to be printed and distributed, and that the Annual Meeting should stand adjourned for three weeks until Wednesday, 20th February, 1901, at 8 p.m., to give the congregation an opportunity of their further discussing and disposing of the resolution.

The adjourned meeting was duly held last evening in the Sunday School room of the church. There was quite a large attendance of members and adherents,and there was no dissent from the conclusion that it is desirable to have an assistant. It was pointed out that all other denominations in Peterborough are better supplied proportionately than the Presbyterian. The meeting resolved unanimously that a student graduate be engaged in the spring for a term of one year.

It was decided to increase the appropriation for music for the choir. Several gentlemen spoke in praise of Mr. Crane, the organist and leader, and of the recent concert, which may be repeated.

MORNING V. EVENING PAPERS.

The Morning Paper Has the Advantage—A Monopoly of Live News.

Much has been said and written in regard to the relative merits of morning and evening papers from an advertising standpoint.

In the large cities throughout America it has been demonstrated time and again that the morning paper is the most valuable medium as a means for the merchant to exploit his wares. Take the dealer, for instance, who uses a morning paper to push some special line with which he wishes to appeal to the farming community, if he advertises the day previous to which the sale is on it reaches the people in ample time to impress them, if in an evening paper, in many cases, it does not reach them till the day after publication, or the day of the sale, and is too late to have the desired effect.

Then in regard to the home constituency; space used in an evening paper bound to set forth items for the following day's business, and if not read on the evening of publication is rarely referred to again, while the advertisement appearing in a morning paper is usually read bright and early in the morning, the goods for the day's business being fresh in the minds of the public. Supposing the morning paper should by chance be overlooked in the early hours, it still remains live news up till next morning, thus making it possible for afternoon shoppers to take advantage of the advertising suggestions made in its columns. Another fact to be remembered, and one that accounts largely for the popularity of morning papers is, that most all important, events such as entertainments of a public and private nature, lodge meetings, municipal affairs, sporting events, etc., take place in the evening, and therefore the paper that is at the homes of the people before they are out of bed, has a monopoly of live news. The citizens of Peterborough have not been slow to recognise all this and are daily showing their appreciation of its morning paper enterprise.

Morning Times

PETERBOROUGH, FEBRUARY 21, 1901

A COMPARISON

The United States army and navy numbers 120,000 men only—the smallest establishment of all the great nations. Our neighbors pay for it $253,-696,870, inclusive of pensions which is $14,000,000 a year more than England pays inclusive of pensions for an army and navy that numbers 364,000 men. Inclusive of pensions the American military budget now totals $398,912,103, which is more than twice as much as the military budget of France, with her army and navy of 622,000 fighting men; almost twice as much as Russia's with nearly a million soldiers and sailors; nearly double Germany's with her half million of enlisted men, and almost five times as much as Austria's with a fighting array of 278,000 men. The fact made luminous by comparing these figures is that, throwing pensions out entirely, the cost of the American army and navy averages about $2,100 a year for every enlisted man, while the British fighting man, the next dearest, costs a little less than $700 a year. And at the end of the line, cheapest of all, is the Russian soldier and sailor, who costs about $200 a year only. The reason of this lies on the surface. Highly civilized and free countries, whose fighting forces have to be raised by voluntary enlistment instead of by universal conscription, must needs pay for them in open competition with the labor market. In the long run only the despotically governed nations can afford to maintain huge military establishments. Peace, the N. Y. World concludes in reviewing this matter, is the imperious necessity of advanced democratic civilization.

THE TROUBLES IN SPAIN

Spanish royalty has great capacity for blundering. If the Queen Regent were in private life, it would not matter to whom she married her daughter; as things are, it matters a great deal to the Spaniards, and the marriage of the Princess of Asturias to Prince Charles of Bourbon has set them all by the ears.

There is no objection to the man himself, who is probably an average Bourbon prince, but he is the son of the legitmist pretender to the crown of the Two Sicilies, who is also apartisan of his cousin the legitimist claimant of the crown of Spain. The purpose of the Queen Regent in arranging this marriage was evidently to conciliate the Carlists—that is, the supporters of the elder Bourbon line. that was replaced by the present reigning branch—and to unite the family interest in behalf of the young King of Spain. This would be a wise purpose if the Bourbon interest were the power it once was or if the Carlists were Alfonso's most dangerous enemies.

Apparently Carlism is not a great force in Spain just now, but republicanism is, and this matrimonial alliance in the Bourbon family strikes the liberal sentiment of the country as reactionary and threatening. This is why many members of the Cortes opposed its sanction and why popular demonstrations have been made against it. Some of the religious orders, too, have been identified with a reactionary legitimist policy, and much popular hostility is directed against them.

What this may all amount to depends mainly, as always in Spain, on the attitude of the army, or rather of the influential generals. The foremost of these is Weyler, who is now incommand at Madrid and who is assumed to be in the confidence of the court. As long as Weyler is loyal, popular demonstrations and street rows are not immediately threatening, however significant of the drift. But Weyler is not exempt from ambitions of his own and changes in the government of Spain have usually been made by the general who controlled the army.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The modesty of Oom Paul is most refreshing, and is only surpassed by his solicitude for the feelings of others. At the marriage of Queen Wilhelmina of Holland the other day Mr. Kruger kept out of the way, asserting with characteristic shyness that he did not wish to divert attention from the queen by inviting popular acclamations to himself at an inopportune time. The consideration of the Arch-humbug is certainly highly commendable. Possibly he is reserving himself for the coronation of King Edward VII.

Australia has sent her fifth contingent to the war, and offers a sixth to the Mother Country. Canada has fallen sadly behind in Imperial sentiment. One of the surprises of experience is the superabundant loyalty of a colony which was formed out of human material which had no promise of good, and which represented the offscourings of the earth. Australia today is the noblest daughter of the grey old mother across the seas. She has shamed the Dominion, which gave grudgingly, and which has remained silent in the face of the most perfervid loyalty on the part of smaller peoples in the outlying portions of the empire.

With Biographical Sketches by General Charles H. Grosvenor—Title Page Designed by Tiffany.

This Inaugural year, when the public mind is aroused over Presidential questions, is a fitting time to issue General Grosvenor's book. Its sale is already tremendous, and will perhaps exceed that of General Grant's Personal Memoirs.

Every patriotic American desires to read what General Grosvenor has to say of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, President McKinley and the other Chief Executives of the Nation. Everybody desires to read what General Grosvenor, the staunch old Republican leader in Congress, will say of that staunch old Democrat, Andrew Jackson, the Father of the Democratic Party. General Grosvenor has thrown into his sketch of Jackson all the fire and energy of his nature. The biography of Thomas Jefferson is grand. The biography of Lincoln is as beautiful as a sunrise over the hilltops. General Grosvenor has personally known all the Presidents since the time of James Buchanan. The General's book will therefore contain history which has never before been published, written from his own personal observation of these great men. General Grosvenor has served in Congress for nearly twenty years, and he has served his country in war and in Congress for nearly forty years. The book contains twenty-four large Photogravure Etchings as fine as Steel Plates, printed by hand, on heavy plate paper made especially to order. These 24 Photogravure Etchings are in different tints, and are well worth $2 each. These Portraits are made from the Paintings endorsed by the family and near relatives of the Presidents. Two years' time and a fortune have been expended in securing these reproductions. The complete book is well worth $50, but the price has been placed so low that the most humble American citizen can own it. The biographical sketches are printed in large open type in two colors; the work is so beautiful that when people see it they want it. The advance sale is very large. President McKinley was the first subscriber. There is one edition known as The President Edition de Grand Luxe, initial letters hand painted, Portraits hand colored, title page hand illuminated, registered and numbered; subscription price, $500. Orders and applications for territory are coming in rapidly. A high class man or woman of good social standing can soon make a small fortune taking orders in this community. Send references and apply for terms quick, as the territory will all be assigned soon.

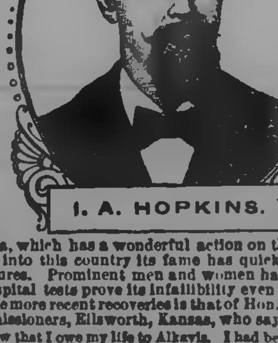
A WONDERFUL
KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,
And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.



I. A. HOPKINS.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 63 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pain in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 408 Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

THE REMEDY FAILED.

How a Helpful Wife Did Not Cure Her Husband of the Tobacco Habit.

"It will only be necessary for you to drop about half a teaspoonful of the mixture into this cup of coffee each morning," the circular said, "and the taste for tobacco will gradually depart from him. He may not cease the use of tobacco immediately, but within a week he will begin to abhor tobacco if the mixture is given to him faithfully every morning."

And so the young wife sent her little $2 on and got a flagon of the tobacco cure.

"Pretty bum coffee this morning," he remarked dryly the first time she dropped the half-teaspoonful of the mixture into the cup.

"It's the same as we've been using right along," she replied, craftily.

Now, lo and behold! he was a pretty smooth proposition himself, and he had, unbeknownst to her, seen the package holding the flagon of agin-tobacco mixture when it was delivered.

So after dinner that evening he produced a large bulky package of fine-cut tobacco from his pocket and took therefrom a plenteous chew of tobacco. It was the first chew he had ever taken in her presence, and she marvelled thereat, but she determined to persist with the "treatment."

"Dead rank chickory again this morning, isn't it?" he inquired at breakfast the next morning.

"Im sure it tastes the same to me," she replied.

That evening after dinner he produced a short, black clay pipe and a package of a new kind of tobacco that was as black as the ground work of a Jolly Roger.

"Thought I'd bring this old dudeen up from the office," he explained cheerfully. "It's as sweet as a nut."

Whereupon he filled the house with the aroma of punk that was strong enough to break rock.

"This grocery person who gets all of my wages is certainly doing us on the coffee game," he remarked when he tasted his cup next morning.

"Really," she said, gazing innocently at the ten-cent bunch of asters in the middle of the table. "I can't detect any difference.'

"And yet there are low foreheads who don't believe that all women are actresses," said he to himself on the way to his office that morning.

That evening he brought home a box of auction stogies, and after he had smoked one of them after dinner all of the people in the neighboring flats stuffed cotton in the hall door keyholes and closed the hall transoms.

"I must persist though," thought his baffled little wife, gloomily.

"Coffee tastes like stewed gunnysack again this morning," he remarked at the next breakfast. She felt a bit sorry for him, but she was determined to use up that flagon of "agin-tobacco" if she had to chloroform him and pour it down his throat.

That evening, however, her resolution deserted her. After dinner, for the first time to her knowledge, he pulled out a package of cigarettes, lit one and began to smoke it.

She went upstairs, poured out the remaining portion of her $2 worth of agin-tobacco and carefully hid the bottle.

"Coffee's all right this morning" said he at breakfast the next day.

"Yes?" she inquired, absently.

When he had finished his dinner that evening he lighted one of his usual brand of good cigars.

"Men are mysterious to me," she thought, regarding him out of the tail of her eye.

"Women only think they're foxy," he thought, blowing smoke rings into the Swiss curtains.—Bangor Commercial.

A Competent Witness.

United States District Judge Williams, now holding court in Topeka tells a funny story. Years ago he was a district judge in Arkansas. At a certain term of court a murder trial came before him, and the most important witness for the prosecution was a colored boy only ten years old. The lawyers for the defence set out to show that the boy was too young to understand the nature of an oath, and therefore was not competent as a witness.

"Boy," said one of them severely "do you know what would happen if you swore to a lie?"

"Yes, sah. Mammy would lick me."

"Would anything else happen?"

"Deed dey would, case de devil would git me."

At this point Judge Williams leaned over his desk and said with pretended sternness: "Don't you know, boy that I would get you, too?"

"Yes, sah. Dat's what I jus' said."—Kansas City Journal.

Two Points of View.

A farmer drifted into a hardware store at Mulhall and was asked by the manager. "Don't you want to buy a bicycle to ride around your farm on? They're cheap now. Can give you one for $35."

"I'd sooner put $35 into a cow," said the farmer.

"But think," said the manager, "how foolish you would look riding around town on a cow."

"Oh, I don't know" said the farmer; "no more foolish, perhaps, than I would milking a bicycle."

Out of the Ordinary.

The two old friends, as has been narrated before met again, after years of separation.

"By the way, Gagster," said Throggins, "do you remember that snub-nosed, cross-eyed little Tilbury girl, with a face on her that would ditch an express train? She used to live somewhere in your neighborhood, I thing."

"Oh, yes, I remember her perfectly," replied Gagster.

"What ever became of her?"

"I am sorry to disappoint you, Throggins"—here is where the variation comes in—"but I have not the slightest idea. I didn't marry her."

Wonderfully Made.

Sister—When you called to see George was he wearing those slippers I made him for Christmas?

Brother—No. He was using one of them as a laundry bag.

THEIR SILVER WEDDING.

Only Three Things Wrong About His Story.

They were celebrating their silver wedding and the friends were admiring them as people always do other people when they are getting a lot of presents. You have noticed, of course, how people always look at you when you show them something somebody has given you. They are surprised and they envy you. They always wonder, however, in themselves what on earth any one could see in you to give you anything so handsome. That is unless it is your husband. Then they smile and wonder what he has been doing that his conscience needs rest. But if you'll notice you'll find that persons who get many presents have many friends. You may have many friends but get precious few presents. Presents make friends; friends don't make presents. Married people increase the circle of their friends with every anniversary of their wedding, because the presents get handsomer and more expensive. You can work this paradox out for yourselves, I haven't time.

They were celebrating their silver wedding, and of course the couple were very happy and very affectionate.

"Yes," said the husband, "this is the only woman I ever loved. I shall never forget the first time I proposed to her."

"How did you do it?" burst out a young man who had been squeezing a pretty girl's hand in a corner. They all laughed and he blushed; but the girl carried it off bravely.

"Well, I remember as well as if it were yesterday. It was away back in Maine. We had been out to a picnic, and she and I got wandering alone together. Don't you remember, my dear?"

The wife nodded and smiled.

"We sat on the trunk of an old tree. You haven't forgotten have you love?"

The wife nodded and smiled again

"She began writing in the dust with the point of her parasol. You recall it sweet, don't you?"

The same old smile and nod.

"She wrote her name 'Minnie,' and I said, 'let me put the other name to it.' And I took the parasol and wrote my name—Smith—after it."

"How lovely," broke out a little maid who was beaming in a suspicious way on a tall chap with a blonde mustache.

"And she took back the parasol and wrote below it. 'No I won't.' And we went home. You remember it darling. I see you do."

Then he kissed her and the company murmured, "How nice."

The guests had all departed and the happy couple were left alone.

"Wasn't it nice, Minnie, to see all our friends around us and so happy."

"Yes it was. But John, that reminiscence."

"Ah, it seems as if it was only yesterday."

"Yes, dear: there are only three things you're wrong about in that story."

"Wrong? Oh, no!"

"John, I'm sorry you told that story because I never went to a picnic with you before our marriage; I was never in Maine in my life and I never went through that parasol business with you."

"My darling, you are wrong."

"I'm not wrong. You know I have an excellent memory. We have been married twenty-five years but I never knew about that minx Minnie. You never told me of her before."

I guess that she'll forgive, but it is doubtful if she forgets.

He Needed the Money.

A local real estate dealer tells this story:

Some time ago he had an allotment on the market and one day a foreign-looking individual walked into his office and said he wanted to inquire about the lots. He looked over the plat and finally picked out one that suited him.

"Vot's der price?" he asked when the location was decided upon.

"Eight hundred dollars."

"I give you six houndred cash."

"Very well," said the dealer, "you can have it."

Then the customer lowered his voice.

"I vant der price of dot lot seex houndred to me, but eight houndred to effrybody else. You understand?"

"Yes," said the dealer. "That will be all right."

"Vell, you see, it's like dees—I'm goin' to get married. I've got der girl picked out, und she has money. You see you vill sell der lot to her for $800. Den you vill motion to me, und ve vill go into der next room and you will pay me dot $200. See?"

"You want the $200 for a commission?" said the dealer. "That will be all right, too."

The customer looked relieved.

"It's chost this way," he said. "I must have dot two hundred or I can't get married."

"You shall have it," said the dealer.

A few days later the future bride, her mother and the coming bridegroom entered the office. The papers were quickly prepared and signed, and the mother from the intricacies of her skirts produced a wad of bills, which proved to be the necessary $800.

Then the bridegroom lingered behind as the bride and her mother passed into the hall. The dealer hastily counted off the $200 and thrust it into the bridegroom's hand.

"I have to have it," whispered the latter.

"All right," said the dealer.

"I couldn't get married without it."

"I understand," said the dealer.

The man with the two hundred paused, with his hand on the doorknob.

"I have to have it," he hoarsely murmured, "it is for my first wife's funeral expenses!"

Strength and Endurance.

Are factors of the greatest success.

No person can do full justice to himself without them.

In no season of the year are they more easily exhausted than in the spring.

We need not discuss the reason for this here. It's enough to say there is one, and that Hood's Sarsaparilla gives strength and endurance, as thousands annually testify.

Subscribers who "Refuse" Papers

A number of subscribers to this paper have lately taken The Times for periods running from a week to a month, after their subscriptions expired, and have then refused it at the post office. The law was plain in this matter. A newspaper can continue to mail every issue to a subscriber until all arrears are paid in full. We have no objection to any subscriber stopping his paper if he does not care to take it, but we object very much to people taking The Times and then trying to evade payment in this manner.

Municipal Insurance.

The Times has for years been an advocate of municipal insurance, and it is therefore pleasing to observe that this subject is attracting more than passing notice, the general opinion is that the Council should as speedily as possible adopt the scheme. The Kingston News says: By those who have made a study of the question it is claimed that under the proposed system the rates would be lower, there would better fire protection and a revenue for the town. Fire insurance companies can afford to pay high salaries to officials and show an enormous profit annually; If companies can make money, so can municipalities; the conditions are the same. The people will benefit and the people's interests should be considered. Other cities of minor importance are adopting the move and many that have experimented have found it a success.

Died in Colorado

The death occurred at Denver, Colorado, of Mary Costello, wife of Mr. T. McMahon, and eldest daughter of the late Daniel Costello, formerly Reeve of Ennismore. The deceased had been living in Rochester, but six months ago was ordered to Colorado for the benefit of her health. Word was received in Rochester on Monday of her death, and the family who moved there some years ago from Ashburnham have returned to town to await the body, which is to be brought here for interment. The brothers and sisters are Michael, Mrs. Herbert, Daniel, Bebe and John.

A Pleasant Evening

A considerable number of the members of the congregation of All Saints' Church attended the "At Home" given by the Girls' Guild in the Sunday School room on Tuesday evening. Progressive "Lost Heir" was played at a number of tables, the prizes being won by Miss S. Thompson, Mr. Fred McFadden and Mr. Douglass. Refreshments were served during the evening, and instrumental music was kindly provided by Miss Elliott, Miss English and others.

A Successful Event

The Men's Association of St. John's Church had a very successful reunion Tuesday evening in the Guild hall, which took the form of a smoking concert. Mr. Robert Fair occupied the chair. The treat of the evening was an impromptu address by Mr. Clarke on "New Zealand." He gave an hour's most instructive talk on the great progress of the country. Mr. A. H. Seward, Mr. C. J. Rodgers and Mr. Charles Seymour contributed to the musical part of the programme.

Small Accounts

The executive committee of the Retail Grocers' Association of Hamilton met and discussed the ways and means of bringing before the legislature at its present session, the advisability of passing an act to provide for the collection of small accounts through the police court. It was decided to ask representatives from all trades to attend a meeting in the near future, to take suitable action.

A FARMRRS'S WIFE.

Finds a Food That the Children and Grown Folks Thrive Upon.

Mrs. Sarah Lessinger, near Stuart, Neb., says: "My little girl eight years old, has always been a delicate child, and has not been able to stay in school long at a time, for she often fainted and was weak and puny, until last February she had a sick spell, and I began feeding her on Grape-Nuts food.

"I can truthfully say the result has far exceeded my expectations. She is now hearty, well, and can run and play as other children do. I am trying an experiment this summer on leaving out meat altogether for breakfast and using Grape-Nuts food instead. Thus far we have all been unusually well, and my men folks (we are farmers) say that they do not get hungry so quick when they use Grape-Nuts food as they used to when they had meat."

It is a profound fact that Grape-Nuts food will furnish more nourishment to the system, than bread or meat. Any one can prove the truth of this statement by trial.

AGAINST TRADING STAMPS.

Brockville City Asking other towns to join in a Crusade.

The city of Brockville is much exercised over what the council chosed to regard as an evil—The use of trading stamps by merchants, and has petitioned other towns and cities to ask the Legislature to put an end to the trading stamp business. The petition, which is addressed to the Municipal Clerk, is as follows:

"Will you kindly hand the enclosed petitions to one of the merchants of city who is opposed to "Trading Stamp System" to have him obtain signatures of all the merchants who disbelieve in the methods of the Trading Stamp Co., for presentation to the Ontario Legislature. Our town council passed a resolution asking for their abolishment. A deputation will go to Toronto from here, and would like to co-operate with one from your town at a date to be settled on later. When the petition has been signed kindly have it returned here.

The petition goes on to say that the business of the Trading Stamp Co. thrives on the fact that it limits its stamps to a few persons in each branch of trade, and thus practically offers a bonus to the amount of the value of the stamps to the public trading with its customers, thereby unfairly interfering with the legitimate business of the other merchants.

The stamp company collects five per cent. of the cash sales of its customers every Monday morning, for which it gives no value further than unfairly forcing business out of its legitimate channels.

The petition concludes by stating that legislation had been enacted in New York State against such companies, and that the Ontario Legislature would be asked to pass an enactment during the present session such as would remedy the condition of the merchant whose trade has been forced away by such methods of business.

MAY VISIT PETERBOROUGH

Preparations Being Made for the Reception of the Duke of Cornwall

Montreal is taking time by the forelock and has decided to appropriate ten thousand dollars for the proper entertainment of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York. Till the itinerary of the royal party is known, it is perhaps a little premature for Peterborough to take action. It is scarcely to be expected that such a prosperous section as Peterborough will be given the go-by, but the time in each place much of necessity be limited and till some idea of the length of stay is obtained an estimate of the cost of entertainment is, of course, out of the question. The only thing we can be sure of is that the Duke and Duchess will receive a hearty, spontaneous and loyal welcome, be their stay long or short.

Forty-one years ago the Duke's illustrious father visited Peterborough, under circumstances similar to the present. It is likely, if an effort is put forth, that the son may do likewise.

At Stony Lake.

Many good stories are told during the fishing season, especially by those who frequent Stony Lake Mr. Harry LeBurn has the record, we understand, of catching the largest bass ever hauled into a boat on the upper lakes. The accident is said to have happened last July, the other occupants of the boat being Messrs. Harry Winch and W. D. Parker, who are said to be willing to vouch for the truth of the story. The Times did not get the particulars of the exciting event until the other day, when we at once proceeded to immoralize it. The special fish poet of this g.f.j. was put work, and the story will thus be handed down to posterity.

A fisherman on Stony Lak
'Bout two miles off from shor,
Fished hard for one, two tree four hour,
An' den he fished sum more.

Lang taime sum fish did never come
Den one, two, tree pass by;
Dey smell of some old dead dry bait
An' wink de odder eye!

By an' by big bass he cum 'long
'Bout five, six seven pound weight,
So old he neither smell nor see,
An' ate dat old dry bait!

De fishermans sat very still
An' reeled out yards of line,
He worked dat pore old blind black bass,—
He worked him very fine!

An' by an' by de fish did pull
An' den he pulled some more,
An' den 'twas fun at Stony Lake;
'Bout two miles from de shore.

De fish plunge lak one mad horse
And den he pull lak ten—
He towed dat boat nine mile an hour
Big boat an' tree big men!

He pull lak bass 'bout six feet long,
Or may be near to seven,
An' if he not pull out righ quick
He grow to be eleven.

An' den dey pull dat bass half out.
An' den dey pull him more
An' Stony Lake fell four five feet,
'Bout two mile from de shore.

De Burleigh River got so low
De boats dey could not pass,
An' Harry say de river fell
When he pull out dat bass.

STOP LOSING MONEY

You Cannot Guess Winners

Horse races are "MIGHTY UNCERTAIN" things to bet on, if you depend on a GUESS to win, a thousand miles from the scene. Thousands have tried before you and have failed. The chances are a thousand to one you will fail too.

You Cannot Handicap Winners

Horses are not machines. They rarely repeat performances. Many of them look at the odds in the betting ring before they go to the post—that is, their owners do it for them. Horses do not always "try." They run for the benefit of their owners, not the public.

Be Advised by Experts on the Spot

Do what the plungers do. "Stand in." Get the best inside information direct from the track every morning that a shrewd combine of horsemen can secure for you. That is what is given its subscribers daily by the

LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE

The LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE is a combination of horse owners and trainers, now racing horses at the New Orleans race track, who have united for the purpose of profiting by the exclusive information at their command. The syndicate aims to send to its subscribers by telegraph every morning the names of two or three horses that are entered in the day's races, which will win, barring accidents alone.

THIS BEATS ALL

Among our many winners recently were SAIILLA, 50 to 1, Jan. 8; CALLEUR, 10 to 1, Jan. 14; and AZIA, 10 to 1, Jan. 15.

Within a week our subscribers won more money following us than they did for six months prior following their own selections, if indeed they were not heavy losers before they joined our army of winners.

Cut this out and use it as authority on the manager of the Postal Telegraph office, No 146 W. 42d street, New York, to examine copy of our telegrams to subscribers filed each day this month at noon. Verify our statement!

We hope this will convince all turfites that our subscribers are getting money, and that our sources of information are second to none in point of accuracy and reliability. We average two selections per day. Anything we send can be bet on with confidence that the horse will "try" and that the owner is betting on him.

A MURDER COMMITTED IN DUMMER TOWNSHIP

A Man Named Alex. Sharp Shot and Instantly Killed William Hull

THE MURDERER NOT YET PLACED UNDER ARREST

County Constable Cochrane Has Gone North and Will Prepare for an Inquest—County Crown Attorney Wood Will Follow To-Day

Yesterday a sensation was created in town when the news was received to the effect that a deliberate murder had been committed in the Township of Dummer at the head of Stoney Lake.

The details of the occurrence have not come to hand, but from what we can gather it appears that the rash act on the part of Sharpe was the result of jealousy over a certain woman, whom it is stated was formerly a resident of town.

The murdered man is William Hull, son of Robert Hull, of Dummer, and the murderer is alleged to be Alex. Sharpe, of the same township.

It is said that William Hull had been living with the woman referred to, as man and wife, and that this relationship had been dissolved, the woman subsequently becoming Mrs. Sharpe. The latter is a "peg leg," and gains a precarious livelihood by fishing, hunting and farming. Sharpe and his wife lived together for some time but Hull again succeeded in winning her back to his affections; at least she is reported to have gone back to reside with him. Sharpe became enraged, and he laid plans to shoot Hull, which he did as above.

The murder was committed at a shanty occupied by the deceased, about four miles from the home of Hull's father, at eight o'clock Wednesday night. Sharpe was seen by several men running across the lake with a gun, threatening that he was going to take Hull's life.

County Constable Cochrane left yesterday morning for the scene of the trouble. Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney will follow this morning.

Hull is well known to the cottagers of Stoney Lake, having for years supplied milk and vegetables to the residents on the islands. He at one time resided on Macdonnel street, town, and is well known here.

Of Sharpe little is known. He is said to be a peaceable citizen, and industrious. The name of the woman has not yet been disclosed.

ENGLAND WAITS INFORMATION.

Foreign Office Fears to Commit Government to Any Definite Chinese Statement.

London, Feb. 22.—The Foreign office appears genuinely in the dark as to the real significance of Count Von Waldersee's latest orders for the Chinese expedition. It is hoped that by Friday information will be forthcoming to enable Great Britain to decide as to what is really going on. At present she is not more anxious than the United States to take part in an extended campaign into the interior of China; but the reports are so contradictory that Lord Landsdowne refrains from committing himself to any definite line of action.

The American opposition to Count von Waldersee's reported action receives cordial sympathy from the British authorities, though they are inclined to doubt whether the right construction is placed upon his motives. Lord Salisbury has so often put England on record as opposed to aggressive military operations in China that officials here can scarcely conceive that Count von Waldersee would issue orders so utterly at variance with the attitude of Great Britain and the United States.

In the House of Commons to-day John Dillon, Nationalist, asked a question regarding the alleged decision to erect an extensive fortress in the heart of Pekin for the protection of the legations. The Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Lord Cranborne, replied that the question of protective measures was still under discussion. The government had not yet reached any decision.

WEATHER NOTES.

Probs: To-day. Continued cold.

The weather continues very cold in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories, and has become fairly cold throughout Ontario and Quebec. The temperature was 14 degrees below zero this morning at Parry Sound and zero at Ottawa and Toronto. Present indications point to a continuance of cold weather.

BELGIUM AND RUSSIA.

Talk of Reprisals Said to Be Heard in Brussels Over Imposition of Countervailing Tariff.

London, Feb. 22.—The Brussels correspondent of the Morning Post says there is great dissatisfaction in Belgium over the action of the United States government in imposing a countervailing duty on Belgium sugar. It is reported that reprisals are imminent.

Washington, D. C., Feb 22.—Secretary Hay has received a cablegram from Charlemagne Tower, United States Ambassador to Russia, explaining the views of the Russian press on sugar bounty question. He says the papers advise caution and conservative action by the Russion government.

This cablegram was laid before the Cabinet by Secretary Hay and discussed at some length.

Representative Sulzer of New York to-day introduced in the House a resolution asking the Secretary of the Treasury to furnish the House of Representatives, if not incompatible with public policy, with copies of all letters, together with all reports, decisions, and examinations, and all other data, facts, and information in any way relating to the imposition of a tax or countervailing duty on Russian sugars imported to this country, and what action Russia has taken in regard thereto by way of retaliation.

Sold in New York.

The Orillia News-Letter has the following concerning a gentleman well known in Peterborough: Mr. T. B. Jebb returned on Saturday from New York, whither he had gone in connection with his various inventions. While there he sold a half interest in his optometer, unquestionably the best instrument of the kind in the market, and its manufacture will hereafter be carried on a large scale. He also arranged for the construction of machinery to manufacture the patent pipe cleaner of the Orillia Novelty Company.

GRAVE ROBBERY SKILFULLY DONE

The Young Medico Probably Had Accomplices

THE MAGISTRATE'S INQUIRY

Adjourned to Next Week—Bail Increased to $2000—The Body Identified

Soon after the Times appeared yesterday morning with a description of the remains, the body discovered in the possession of William Patterson, medical student, was identified as that of Mrs. Dennis Sheehan, of No. 11 Alfred street, Peterborough. The deceased was buried in the Roman Catholic cemetery on Monday last. The resurrection was skilfully accomplished. The earth was banked up, the flowers were replaced on the grave, so that the caretaker did not observe that there had been any disturbance. The grave was reopened yesterday, and, as was expected, the coffin showed signs of having been tampered with. The shroud and other things on the body when buried were left in the coffin.

The coffin was taken up town to the undertaking establishment of Mr. D. Belleghem, where the corpse lay, and it was once more prepared for interment. Later on it was taken to the Little Lake cemetery, and deposited in the vault, where it will remain pending developments.

Caretaker Brown of the Roman Catholic Cemetery, says that he never dreamed of the grave being tampered with until made acquainted with the circumstances of the affair yesterday morning. There was a slight fall of snow after the funeral but there were no tracks visible.

Mr. Coyle Brown, the step-father of young Patterson, says that he did not know that his stepson was in town until after the discovery was made. Patterson, it is understood, arrived on the midnight train Tuesday, and if he had a hand in the disinterment it was accomplished between that time and dawn. It is believed that the young man must at any rate have had accomplices and that he may have merely bought the body from someone whose identity he refuses to disclose.

Patterson was arraigned before Police Magistrate Dumble yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The courtroom was crowded to suffocation and a large number were unable to gain admittance. The pressure was so great that the outer doors were broken in. Mr. R. M. Dennistoun appeared for the defendant, and Mr. O'Connell in behalf of Mr. Sheehan, husband of the deceased. The Crown was represented by County Crown Attorney R. E. Wood.

The Crown asked for an adjournment in order to secure the attendance of witnesses from Belleville and an adjournment until next Wednesday, Feb. 28, at 10 a.m., was granted.

The question of bail being raised, Mr. O'Connell objected that $1,000 was an inadequate amount for so serious a charge. Mr. Wood pointed out that the offence under the law is less serious than that of shopbreaking, the extreme penalty for the latter being seven years' imprisonment, while for grave robbery the limit is five years. Mr. O'Connell withdrew his objection on being informed that the Court had decided to double the amount of the bail given on Wednesday, fixing the sum at $2,000. For one half this amount the defendant's surety was accepted, and Messrs. J. Coyle Brown and J. A. Fife furnished bonds for $500 each.

Patterson is a young man of prepossessing appearance who only lately began the study of medicine. It is generally believed that he is shielding others who are more culpable.

Kingston being but a small city there is often a scarcity of "subjects" at the medical college. It is said that in villages within driving distance of Kingston the graveyards are constantly guarded. In such places as Toronto and Montreal, the deaths of friendless persons at the hospitals and other public institutions are usually sufficient to supply the needs of the medical schools but in the smaller cities this is not the case.

"Body-snatching" used to be punishable by death and has always been regarded as a serious offense, nevertheless there would be no science of surgery without the knowledge acquired by dissection of human remains. Valuable lives are daily saved by operations which would be impossible without this knowledge.

In the early part of the nineteenth century, before the system of supplying the colleges from public institutions came into practice, there was much difficulty in getting "subjects" even in the largest cities. The high prices that were paid for cadavers led to one of the most famous criminal cases on record. In Edinburgh two men, Burke and Hare, kept a tramp's lodging-house and made a regular practice of murdering lodgers for the purpose of selling their bodies to the colleges. The victims selected were usually decrepit persons who could be easily put to death without the leaving of outward marks and whom the medical men would suppose to have died from natural causes. They carried on the trade for a long time and their victims were numbered by the dozen before they were detected, and one turned King's evidence and the other was hanged.

THE TRENT CANAL.

There is a chance for Port Hope to secure the Outlet of the Waterway.

In the report of the Minister of Railways just brought in Engineer Schreiber says in regard to the Trent Canal system "When the present contracts are completed a six-foot navigation will be afforded from Lake Simcoe to Heely's Falls, a distance of about 160 miles, leaving the portion between Heely's Falls and the Bay of Quinte, Lake Ontario, and the portion from the head of Lake Simcoe to Georgian Bay, Lake Huron, still to be dealt with. A question has, however, arisen as to the expediency of adopting Port Hope as the Lake Ontario terminus instead of Trenton, and a survey has been made with a view to ascertaining the feasibility and cost of that route. The letting of the contract for the Trenton-Frankford section has meantime been postponed." Mr Schreiber draws attentions to the rapid growth of the country during the last few years, especially in the area of its development and interest of its business operations, which involve important questions directly and indirectly affecting the great transportation problem and he urges the amplification of the departmental staff and its adjustment to the conditions of the times.

BACILLI IN LIBRARY BOOKS

A Prominent Chicago Doctor Sounds a Note of Warning

A good deal is being said in Peterborough about the spread of disease through the exchange of milk and bread tickets. This, we believe is a fertile means of spreading infectious diseases, but has any one ever contemplated the public library as a disease spreader? Books are taken to wile away the hours of a sick patient, often regardless of the nature of the sickness.

The other day a special committee was appointed by the Public Library board of Chicago to investigate this subject, and Dr. W. A. Kuflewski, chairman, reported to the trustees recommending that some system be adopted for freeing the pages of the volumes from bacilli at regular intervals. Dr. Kuflewski exhibited several glass tubes filled with germs taken from the pages of library books examined. The bacilli represented a hundred different poisons and germs of disease.

He said that all of the fifty books examined by him during the investigation were found to be more or less infected. He said there was no doubt that disease was spread by the books, and advised that a system of sterilizing the volumes by the dry process be adopted immediately. The board instructed the special committee to continue its investigations.

THE MILK DEPUTATION

Visit the Massey Farm and the City Dairy Co., at Toronto

Wednesday morning Messrs. John Carnegie, Dr. Halliday, H. P. Kennedy, A. P. Poussette, F. H. Dobbin, R. S. Davidson and C. H. Moore went to Toronto to view two of the institutions supplying milk in that city, that are conducted along lines similar in most respects, as far as detail of selling a product is concerned, to that which it is proposed to establish here. At the Massey farm the deputation were taken charge of by the superintendent, Mr. J. B. Kitchen, and shown over the premises. In every respect the institution is a model one. The key note is "cleanliness." The building and appliances are admirably adapted to secure the end desired, to produce an article of milk of the highest quality, and absolutely pure and clean. The selection of the herd of cattle is confined to Jerseys and Ayrshires of standard bred. All service, tools, utensils, the system of purification and bottling of the milk, is done of the end in view of securing the high grade product.

At the works of the City Dairy Co. is an extensive plant. The milk here is collected from farmers in the district and put through a process of purification and preparation previous to sending out.

The details with reference to these plants, and suggestions as to the plan that may be adopted here will be put before those interested in the form of a report at a meeting in the near future.

MANY BOERS WISH TO SURRENDER

They Are Said to be In a Deplorable State

A GRANT TO EARL ROBERTS

Report That the British Parliament Will Consider the Matter

London, Feb. 21.—A special despatch from Pretoria dated February 20, says eight hundred Boers yesterday passed Pienaar's River, moving in the direction of Nylstroom, a point about 75 miles north of Pretoria, on the railroad between Pretoria and Pietersburg. It is supposed they purposed discussing the question of desertion and surrender. They were in a deplorable state. Their clothing was in rags, many were riding donkeys, while others trudged afoot. All appeared to be in the greatest distress.

GRANT OF $500,000 TO ROBERTS.

London, Feb. 21.—It is reported that the British Parliament will be invited to vote £100,000 to Lord Roberts. A question on this subject will be asked in the House of Commons this afternoon.

CATCH ME IF YOU CAN.

New York, Feb. 21.—Sir Charles Dilke is quoted in a London despatch to the World as saying, relative to whether America's permission to England to obtain supplies of horses for use in South Africa is a breach of neutrality:

"It is no breach of neutrality, but any Government may refuse to allow horses to be exported without committing an unfriendly act. Some countries never permit the export of horses for war purposes—Turkey for instance. Others, like Austria-Hungary, have a law against it, but where they are friendly disposed toward either of the belligerents, such countries occasionally wink at a breach of this law.

"Austria-Hungary has allowed us to export horses to South Africa, and there is no breach of neutrality involved. It is a case of catch me if you can. There are plenty of precedents for refusing to allow horses to be exported for war purposes."

BOER PRESIDENT URGES PEACE.

London, Feb. 21.—The papers here give prominence to a Pretoria telegram confirming the report that Gen. Schalkberger, acting President of the Transvaal, is seeking to end the Boer resistance.

According to information from Lydenburg, Gen. Schalkberger addressed a meeting of burghers there, declaring that their cause was hopeless, and that further resistance would be futile. He refrained from personally advising surrender, but said that if surrender was inevitable, it was folly to do so by twos and threes, and there ought to be a general agreement to surrender as a nation.

SUPPLY TRAIN BLOWN UP.

A despatch from Pretoria states that the Boers blew up a supply train that was running ahead of Lord Kitchener's train, near Klip River. They were proceeding to cart off the goods when Lord Kitchener advanced his armoured trucks and his body guard, which drove the Boers off. The British casualties were few, but the engine driver of the supply train was scalded to death by an explosion.

Another train was derailed by the Boer near Jalbosch and looted by natives. Two cars were ordered out, and the Boers fired on them, killing two persons and wounding many.

AFTER FIFTEEN YEARS

Eczema Cured After Many Years of Terrible Torture

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—At the request of the makers I gladly write a line to tell what Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills did for me. For over 15 years I was a sufferer from eczema and although treated by the best doctors in the country, I got no relief. After taking 9 boxes of the pills, I am, thank God, entirely well. They cured me when every known remedy failed. Jas. Britain, G. T.R., Brantford.

Samuel Collins, Oakville, writes,—Six boxes of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills saved my life. I was at death's door from kidney and liver trouble. They are the greatest remedy on earth.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, druggists, Peterborough. Price 50c per box.

THIRD DRAGOONS

Annual Meeting Held in Peterborough Wednesday—Those Present

The annual meeting of the officers of the 3rd Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons was held here Wednesday. There were present Major David Sutton, Millbrook, acting as commandant, Surgeon-Major Young, Quartermaster J. W. Garvin, and Veterinary-Lieut. Poole, Peterborough; Captain Syre, "B" Squadron, Millbrook, Lieut. W. H. Bradburn, Lieut. Geo. Hall, Lieut. Tate, "C" Squadron, Peterborough, and Lieut. Rogers, "A" Squadron, Colborne.

No business of a public nature was transacted, it is stated, owing to the fact that Lieut.-Colonel Greenwood's leave of absence does not expire for several months and he is therefore still in command of the regiment.

THE BOARD OF TRADE.

Important Matter Which Should Receive Attention from this Body.

A meeting of the Board of Trade is called for Monday night, when it is hoped that the institution, which has been as dead as a hammer for some months, will be galvanized into new life.

The Times would call the attention of the Board to the following matters, which should receive prompt attention:

1. The advisability of erecting in Peterborough a cold storage warehouse similar to institutions of this kind at points west of Toronto. We suggest that a deputation be appointed to interview the Toronto Cold Storage Company, with a view to getting them interested in the undertaking.

2. To induce manufacturers to locate here. The McCormack Company, of Chicago, is looking for a site to build works. This company will employ about 1000 skilled mechanics. What they want is plenty of power, exemption from taxes and good shipping facilities. Peterborough is the spot. We have nine miles of water power between the town and Lakefield, running to waste. The power is already harnessed by the constructions of government dams. The shipping facilities are superb—the two leading railways and the Trent Valley Canal. The Bell Piano and Organ Company is also said to be looking for new quarters, 750 employees.

3. Last but not least: Advantage should be taken of the Pan American Exhibition at Buffalo to advertise the town. The Times would not be in favor of doing any advertising outside Toronto. That city will do the needed missionary work in Buffalo, with the result that thousands of strangers will visit Toronto during the fair season.

What Peterborough should do is to have fifty or seventy-five thousand neat little vest pockets folders printed, setting forth the many advantages Peterborough possesses as a place of residence, a summer resort, as well as its magnificent lakes and rivers, its superb water power, its railway facilities, &c. These folders should be distributed daily, during the season amongst the guests of the leading hotels in Toronto, and this could be arranged for very easily.

There is plenty of work for the Board of Trade, if the members will only get at it.

SUDDEN SURRENDER WAS DUE TO FEAR

Times Draws a Valuable Lesson From Chinese Backdown

London, Feb. 21.—Commenting upon the latest advices from Pekin, The Times says:

"There cannot be any reasonable doubt that the sudden surrender of the Chinese court was due to fears inspired by Count Von Waldersee's order. The lesson will not be lost on the allies should the Chinese resort again to their traditional tactics of evasion and delay. At the same time the Powers are to be congratulated that it is not necessary to carry their threats into execution."

GERMANS EXPRESSED DISAPPROVAL.

Berlin, Feb. 21.—The expeditionary plans of Field Marshal Count Von Waldersee continue to meet with disfavor from the largest part of the German press. The Vorwaerts to-day says that if the German Government, in view of the latest satisfactory telegrams received from Sian Fu shall not declare its intention to abandon the proposed expedition the representatives of the nation will force an opportunity in the Reichstag to protest energetically against such plans which might lead to the greatest international entanglements and indefinitely prolong the war in China. The Reichstag cannot be ignored by the Government now as it was in the summer of 1900.

The Cologne Volks Zeitung published to-day a special despatch from New Chwang which announces that Soo, the military governor of Mukden, gathered an army and on February 10 and 11 attacked the railway to Shan Hai Kuan and surrounded the Russians in Tenin Cho Tu and Kabon So. Gen. Fleischer sent forward two regiments of reinforcements to their relief. The Russian losses were large. The Russians are unable to master the uprising or defeat the Chinese military forces there.

THE McALL MISSION

The Annual Meeting and Election of Officers at the Y.M.C.A. Hall

The annual meeting of the McAll Mission was held Wednesday afternoon at the Y.M.C.A.

The election of officers resulted in the old officers being re-elected, as follows:

President—Mrs. Jas. Kendry.

Vice Presidents—For Charlotte Street Church, Mrs. M. A. Morrison; George Street Church, Mrs. F. Mason; St. Paul's Mrs. J. W. Garvin; St. Andrew's, Miss Edmison; St. Luke's, Mrs. C. B. McAllister; All Saints', Miss Chamberlain, Murray Street Baptist Church, Mrs. E. F. Matthews.

Secretary-treasurer—Dr. Jessie Birnie.

It was decided to make the vice-presidents collectors of membership fees in the several churches, and also that only one meeting, the annual, be held each year.

The meeting, therefore, adjourned until the next annual meeting.

TRAINS MEET HEAD ON

Two Pennsylvania Trains Collide With Fearful Results

London, Feb. 21.

At the instance of the United States Government the Powers have accepted the principle that no further individual concessions of territory in China shall be sought or obtained by any one power without international consent.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 21.

A frightful railway accident occurred on the Camden and Amboy division of the Pennsylvania Railway between Trenton and Bordentown this evening. The colliding trains were the Atlantic City express from New York and an Amboy division train running from Camden to Trenton. The two trains crashed into each other head on, wrecking the engines and splintering to pieces the car immediately in the rear of the engine of each train. At least 13 persons were killed, nine of whom are Italians. Of the other four, two were Walter Earl, engineer of the express and James Birmingham, baggagemaster of the local train. The number injured is upward of twenty-five.

London, Feb. 21.

The War Office has received the following from Lord Kitchener:

Klerksdorp, Feb. 20.

Methuen's force marched here having cleared the country through Wolmaranstad, at Haartebeesfontein. 1,400 Boers under Gen. De Villiers and Lienbertg opposed him. They held a strong position obstinately, but were turned out after severe fighting in which the Yeomanry, the Victorian Bushmen, and the Lancashiers distinguished themselves. Our casualties were three officers and thirteen men killed and five officers and twenty-five men wounded. The Boers left eighteen men dead on the ground, and suffered severely.

FROZE OUT HIS CAPTOR

Danbury, Conn., Feb. 20.—Mr. Reuben B. Pearce, a retired merchant, had a rather peculiar experience with a burglar Saturday night last. He surprised the intruder in the dining-room of his residence. Mr. Pearce was in night attire and barefooted, and when the burglar retreated to the kitchen he followed. All of the other members of Mr. Pearce's family were away and the kitchen fire was out. The burglar also had left a window open in order to afford easy means of escape. Fearing that the burglar might be armed, Mr. Pearce took refuge behind a steel water boiler which stood by the range, and levelling his revolver at the intruder ordered him to surrender. The burglar obeyed promptly enough and Mr. Pearce congratulated himself upon the ease with which he had effected the capture.

He soon discovered, however, that the atmosphere in the room was below the freezing point and that his position was uncomfortable. The burglar turned up his overcoat and lighted a cigar, remarking to Mr Pearce that he feared pneumonia. The burglar refused to move and Mr. Pearce did not care to shoot. After half an hour's vigil Mr. Pearce told the burglar he could go, and as he did not care to risk his own life by catching more cold. The police have not yet succeeded in capturing the burglar.

The Editor of our little local contemporary on George street, is quite a Pooh-Bah in his own way. And a glance at the paper shows that he is not very much overworked either.

Should the Crown Prince of England visit Peterborough this year, as is expected, there will be great festivities. Indeed it will only be necessary to look at the town clock to note what a high old time we'll have.

KILLING DEER IN THE WATER.

A provincial auditor, the official to whose service is due the remarkable absence from losses in municipal financing last year, tells humorously of some of his experiences. He went to audit the books of a gentleman, who had been township treasurer for over forty years and found that he had never kept a cash book. The method consisted in two spikes or files, one for money received and one for mneoy paid out. He owed the township thousands of dollars. The marval of it was how this happened with councils whose members were attending to their duties. These councils are supposed to have statements of the accounts from time to time, and nothing but audited documents should be acceptable. It is of no advantage says the Kingston Whig, to point out to a municipality what it should have in the way of officials so long as the keen competition among aspirants is likely to land in office the men who have no qualification for it. The only thing the legislature can do is define the requisites of the officials, and pass a law by which the members of the council will be held responsible, individually and collectively, for any loss or irregularity arising from their appointments. The municipality should certainly not depend on any official who cannot keep books correctly.

A PROVINCIAL AUDITOR.

Any amendments of the game laws of Ontario at the present session of the Legislature should include a provision, much desired by all true sportsmen, to put an end to the practice of killing deer in the water. It is not sport to be paddled up to a deer that has been hounded into water and to kill the poor brute with a rifle, club or butcher-knife. It may gratify our Anglo-Saxon love of killing, but the most abundant charity cannot regard it as sport. In 1899 the express companies carried 2,032 carcasses of deer. There were 3,659 deer-hunting licenses issued, and 2,065 settlers took out permits to hunt deer. Incomplete returns published in the Game Commission's report show that there were 5,600 deer-hunters in the woods during the fifteen days' open season. A rough estimate, made on the assumption that the laws were generally regarded, places the number of deer killed at 6,600, but there are many who hold that a round ten thousand would be nearer the actual number.

The figures are sufficiently alarming to warrant some radical change in the law to prevent depletion. The prohibition of hounding has been suggested. That would be retaliation for the settlers who feel that the laws have been changed from time to time for the benefit of city sports. The average hunter from the city, whose feet entangle in fallen limbs, and who cannot see a deer till it jumps, would stand a poor chance of killing one in fifteen days, or even fifteen weeks, still-hunting. There is a special clause in the game law applicable to the Indian peninsula of Bruce county, making it illegal to kill deer in the water or immediately after they have landed. This law should be made applicable to the entire Province. Much can be said in favor of genuine sport, but butchery should not be encouraged as a pastime The tendency to substitute the camera for the rifle is growing, and is worthy of all commendation.

It's Worse For a Woman

To suffer with skin disease than it is for a man, for a smooth skin and a clear complexion are essential elements of female beauty. When the taint of scrofula is in the blood it will be sure to show itself soon or late. Often its manifestations are as repulsive as they are painful. Many people have been cured of scrofula in its most malignant forms by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This remedy is remarkable for its power to purify the blood. It absolutely eliminates the corrupting elements. It makes the blood clean and rich. It increases the action of the blood-making glands, and so increases the quantity of pure blood supplied to the body.

"I will forever thank you for advising me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mrs. Jas. Murphy, of Fonda, Pocahontas Co., Iowa. "It has cured me of chronic scrofula, of twelve years' standing. I had doctored for the trouble until I was completely discouraged. I also had chronic diarrhea for twelve years. I am in good health now—better than I ever was in my life, owing to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took several bottles of the 'Discovery' before I stopped."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, a work for every woman, is sent free, on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps (to pay cost of customs and mailing only), for paper edition. Cloth-bound, 50 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg
The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 65 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts (none free); four for 80 cts; $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.25; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00. Write to day for a dozen and make money. A WONDERFUL
KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY, And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 53 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.
Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 102 Fourth ..., New York. Please mention this paper.

THE RICHEST NATION

IF DIVIDED EQUALLY WHAT EACH ONE'S SHARE WOULD BE.

An American Family Would Own 155 Acres of Land and 46 1-2 Feet of Railroad—It Would Pay But $6.68 a Year in Taxation—Only 60 Cents for Our Navy.

If the Government of the United States be considered merely as a business firm, its stockholders just now are pretty well to do. Their wealth is very large, considering the number there are of them. The expenses of carrying on trade under the Stars and Stripes seems small when divided, and their debts are trifling indeed.

Not many years ago it was said that Uncle Sam had land enough to give every one a farm. In theory this is true to-day. If all Territories in the United States, not even including Alaska and our so-called new possessions, were to be divided, there would be a farm of thirty one acres for each one. Every man, woman and child in the country would own this much real estate.

Now, since the average American family consists of five people, there would be 155 acres to the family. In making these calculations the population is estimated at 70,000,000. The area of the United States is 3,600,000 square miles.

Not all of this land is good enough to "farm it" on, but most of it can be made good enough by Yankee ingenuity.

The value of all the real estate in America is $39,544,333,000. These figures fail to give any definite idea. They are too big. Let us suppose, however, that pure socialism prevailed and that this enormous wealth was equally divided. The share of every individual would be $564.50. The share of every average family would be $2,824.50. And this does not include personal property, which would greatly increase the sum. These figures are by far the highest to be found in any country in the world. In Great Britain, for instance, each man is a land owner owning to the extent of about $190. British house property would give a share of but about $300 to every man.

Practically, in Great Britain there are few small land-owners, or none. A laboring man who owns his cottage is a rarity; one who owns the land on which it stands almost an impossibility.

The taxes which the individual pays seem trifling. All the taxes last year were $471,365,140. The share of each individual was but $6.73. Britain's taxes during the same period amounted to £2 10s. each, or nearly twice that of America. It must also be considered that our rate was unusually high owing to the expenses of the war. A good deal of complaint is heard of the extravagance of the Government, but the share of the individual is small. The total expenses of the Government last year if divided would have placed a burden of $6.68 on the individual. This is a share of the sum of $487,803,000.

The individual contributions to the various departments also sound curious in view of the great things which have been accomplished. We are all proud of our navy, which during the past year has been larger and more expensive than ever before. But each individual was only required to contribute just sixty cents to maintain this department and our great fleets of warships. The total expense, to be sure, was $48,099,000. The maintenance of the army last year was one of the most expensive items the Government has ever called upon to meet. It cost us just $80,000,000. The war with the Philippines and the maintenance of an army in Cuba and Porto Rico, besides the regular expense of the department, could be met, however, if each individual contributed $1.14. The expense of running the entire Government cost each of us exactly $1.98.

The United States, as every one knows, is the richest nation in the world. Our bonded debt is $1,032,000,000. Each of us is in debt on this score just $14.74. Looked at in this way our national debt, large as it seems, is a trifling thing. The real estate holdings of the individual, according to this distribution, are alone worth more than forty times his indebtedness. It is no wonder that the world considers loaning money to America a good risk.

Our country is the land of railroads. As every one knows we have more railroads by far than any other country in the world. The mileage of the United States is 180,000. The share of the individual is 13¼ feet of rail. Still another way to state our great wealth is to calculate the amount of gold and silver which would come to us if all were equally divided. Each of us would have $70 in silver bullion as his share and $18.50 in solid gold.

A Story From Gibraltar.

During the war stories in plenty have been current of the strategems and treachery which have imposed upon British officers charged with very serious responsibilities. Changing the venue, we have the following story from Gibraltar. Some time ago a consumptive German gentleman arrived there with introductions from influential people in England. The governor and other officials received him hospitably and every consideration possible was shown him on account of his health, but, of course, he could not be granted permission, as he requested, to go to the top of the rock for the sake of the purer air, as there is a regulation that "foreigners" are on no account to be permitted to walk about the top of the rock." Further acquaintance, however, with the German gentleman, through the medium of dinners and other social functions, resulted in a relaxation of the strict rule, and he was granted a pass. The result of the visit is now to be seen at the German war office, which is in possession of the most perfect plans from photos of all the works and defenses of Gibraltar.—Saturday Review.

MOSEBY ESCAPED

George W. Fink Had the Famous Guerilla Under Arrest

The man who captured Colonel John Singleton Moseby, the most famous of the Confederate guerillas during the civil war, was George W. Fink. The fact that Moseby was a prisoner under Fink for only a short time, not more than half an hour, in fact, does not take away much from the glory of his achievement, as may be seen from the circumstances of the incident as related by Mr. Fink at the Union station in the special train in which the colonists lay over while arrangements for the transfer from the Pennsylvania to the Fort Wayne were being made.

At the outbreak of the war Fink enlisted in Troop A, of the First Pennsylvania Cavalry, and went with that command almost immediately to the region of the Shenandoah Valley, where their field of operations continued to be. In 1861 Fink was one day a member of a scouting party sent out to reconnoiter, and in that capacity traveled a considerable distance from the spot where the camp had been pitched. It was learned from some of the Union sympathizers in the region that a small party of Confederates were concealed in a house three or four miles away, and a detachment was sent after them.

Fink himself rode up to the door and demanded entrance, which was refused him by the woman who answered his knock at the door. She denied vigorously that any soldiers were within and loudly protested against the intrusion of the scouts.

In one of the upper chambers two officers, a lieutenant and a captain, were found lying under the bed, and were triumphantly dragged forth, covered with dust and lint from the floor. In another room a third man, dressed in civilian's clothes, but very evidently connected with the army, was found and placed under arrest in company with the others. Their arms were taken from them, and under the guard of Fink and one companion their return to the camp was begun.

On the way a thick wood was passed through. The man in civilian's clothes was riding at the front of the little party. When the middle of the grove was reached he wheeled his horse, plunged the rowels into its side and dashed off to the right. Fink promptly raised his carbine and fired at the rapidly retreating form. The horse fell dead, but the rider leaped free from the animal's body and ran like the traditional white head further into the woods. The cavalrymen could not leave the two prisoners who remained, and who were watching with breathless interest the flight of their comrade, so the journey to the camp was continued without chase having been made.

When headquarters were reached the two officers were turned over to the commander. On their way to the guard house they turned to Fink and one of them said:

"You may be interested in knowing that the man who got away was Colonel Moseby." Then he started on with his companion. Fink, in telling the incident said:

"I was feeling sore enough over the escape, as it was, but when I heard who my prisoner was, I felt like going to the guard house myself and serving the longest sentence I could persuade my superiors to give me."

It has never been positively established that the man who got away in the woods was really Moseby. The two officers averred that it was, and Fink's comrades believed them and always called him "the man who captured Moseby."

If it was Moseby it was the closest escape he ever had from becoming a prisoner of the Federal government, for there was no man probably in the whole rebel army who was more wanted than he was and against whom more determined efforts were directed. Arch H. Rowand, Jr., the well-known local attorney, who was during the war one of the most famous of Federal scouts, put in the best part of three years in trying to apprehend him. Mr Rowand this morning said in connection with the Fink incident.

"If Fink really had him I never heard of it. I put in my spare time and a good deal more during 1862-3-4 in going after the doughty old fellow and when we weren't after him he was after us. I was once chased by three of his men from Stickers Gap clear into Harper's Ferry. My own opinion is that the man who skipped out in the woods Fink speaks of was not the guerilla at all, but that the officers who didn't get a chance to clear out just said he was, to make their own captors feel sore at their loss. Of course you understand I don't know anything about the affair, and that this theory is one of my own construction."

Moseby is still alive and resides in California. He came into great prominence just after the close of the Civil war by becoming a Republican, or as the phrase went then, a "reconstructed rebel." He held office under President Grant and has always remained an administration man. During the Spanish war he came into public notice again by applying for a commission. He was told to get the recommendation of the Senators of his State, but hotly declined to seek any such backing, closing the letter in which he did so with the characteristic declaration that he was after an army job not a political appointment.

"The use of visiting-cards dates back to quite an antiquity," explains Mrs Van Koert Schuyler, in the Ladies' Home Journal. "Formerly the porter at the lodge or door of great houses kept a visitors' book, in which he scrawled his idea of the names of those who called upon the master and his family, and to whose inspection it was submitted from time to time. One fine gentleman, a scion of the nobility from the Fauborg St. Germain, was shocked to find that his porter kept so poor a register of the names of those who had called upon him. The names, badly written with spluttering pen and pale or muddy ink, suggested to him the idea of writing his own name upon slips of paper or bits of cardboard in advance of calling upon his neighbors lest his name should fare as badly at the hands of their porters. This custom soon became generally established."

A warning.

To feel tired after exertion is one thing; to feel tired before is another. Don't say the latter is laziness—it isn't; but it's a sign that the system lacks vitality, is running down, and needs the tonic effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It's a warning, too— and sufferers should begin taking Hood's at once. Buy a bottle to-day.

What was it, when my funds were low,
Filled all my life with sunshine's glow,
And brought a job quite agreeable?
A Times Want Ad.

The man who never made a blunder is a poor one to have in a responsible position.

Attend to trifles to-day. The more important matters will come in due time.

When you hear a man complaining that he is tired of life the chances are that he never made any good use of it.

A philosopher says that every failure is a step toward success. This explains why some men become richer every time they fall.

THE COLORADO COPPER MINING COMPANY is fortunate in being the possessor of five splendid showing properties in the great Salida copper belt, the principal copper producing region of this portion of the rockies. All of our claims have been more or less developed and it is our purpose to put the same on a paying basis at once.

Our Company owns, clear of incumbrances the following claims,—The Sedalia Extension, the Sedalia Extension No. 1, which property adjoins the great Sedalia mine, which has been a big producer for upwards of seventeen years; the Copper King of Colorado, which immediately adjoins the above; the Copper Queen of Salida, a very promising property, only a few steps from the depot in Salida. This claim occupies an imposing position on a mountain just north of the city; and last, but by no means least, the Sunshine, located two miles east of Salida at Cleora station, on the main Trunk line of the great Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, also on the Arkansas river, which in length is one of America's greatest streams.

Morning Times

PETERBOROUGH. FEBRUARY 23 1901

HELLO, 371!

A new telephone has been placed in Walter Bates' Restaurant Hunter Street, to Meet the requirements of an increasing trade. If you want a nice Lunch or Hot Dinner give us a call. Open till midnight.

Up Goes the Rates.

The Fire Insurance Underwriters Association in Toronto has decided to increase the rates in Ontario. This will doubtless give an impetus to municipal insurance which is bound to come through time.

Peterborough has paid yearly many times as much in premiums as our yearly losses amounted to. The worm will turn in time.

A Good Pace

Mr. Ed. Brown's express horse made the "run" between Peterborough and Chemong in 28 minutes, with one upset, says an evening sheet. This is a good clip, even for Ed., but it has been beaten. We remember once—just once, for we never could be induced to try it again—taking a drive behind one of "Uncle" Jim Welsh's old-time pacers, when the distance was covered in some 23 minutes—by Uncle Jim's watch and chain. The editor of this g.f.j. is not likely to forget the trip, for he preferred to walk home than ride a whirlwind, with the opportunities that existed for annihilation.

The Late James F. Lee

There passed away on Wednesday last, 13th instant, James F., only son of Mr. James Lee, of Rochester, N.Y. The deceased took ill about a year ago with a disease that baffled the skill of his physicians, and he went to Denver for the benefit of his health in June last. He seemed to improve for a time, when he was suddenly cut down in the prime of youth. The deceased young man was of excellent character, quiet, unassuming and a general favorite with all who knew him. The remains have been taken to Rochester for interment. The deceased young man's relatives in town are Mr. J. S. Tobin, Sarah Tobin, and Jas. Tobin, and Mrs. Jas. Drain, of Ashburnham.

The Law of the Road.

It should be remembered that people on foot have as much right to use the highways as the drivers of sleighs and other conveyances have. Foot passengers have a right to walk in the roadway and persons driving or riding must take reasonable care of them. But it must be remembered, too, that it is equally the duty of foot passengers wishing to cross the streets to look out for conveyances as it is for the drivers to look out for them. The careless driving which is sometimes seen, would lead one to infer that the drivers had exclusive use of the roadway, and every person crossing a street must do so at the risk of their lives!

The "Bleeding" Process.

In Toronto, the other day, a deputation of lawyers from different parts of Ontario waited upon the Legislature to ask that no change be made in the fees imposed in law cases, as it was known that the income of the majority of Lawers was barely sufficient for a living. What the Legislature should do is to check the "bleeding" that is every day apparent upon innocent clients who are forced into the city law courts, and leave the fees alone. City lawyers "bleed" with outrageous charges,—a systematic robbery which if practised in other professions would be punished by imprisonment. If city lawyers cannot thrive without "bleeding," let them get out and shovel gravel which is a far more honorable calling.

THE FASTEST TIME

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Would you kindly give particulars of the fastest time ever made by a locomotive, in order to decide a bet.

CONDUCTOR.

Reply.—It is believed that the fastest mile ever made by a locomotive was made by engine No. 999 of New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, in the early part of May, 1893, on its regular run, hauling the Empire State Express. The train had been delayed east of Rochester, and in making up time it ran for some distance on the tracks between Batavia and Buffalo at the rate of a mile in 32 seconds, equal to a speed of 112 1-2 miles an hour.

U. S. MONEY.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—How many different kinds of money is there made in the United States? Kindly advise through your "Letter Box" colum.

READER.

Reply.—There are ten different kinds of money in circulation in the United States—namely: Gold coins, standard silver dollars, subsidiary silver, gold certificates, silver certificates. Treasury notes issued under the act of July 14, 1890; United States notes (also called greenbacks and legal tenders); national bank notes and nickel and bronze coins. These forms of money are all available for circulation.

A SAD STORY.

Editor Morning Times.

About 35 years ago a young German musician and his bride-to-be had a lover's quarrel and separated. He came to America and in a few years became famous. In after years she repented and came to this country to join him, but fate prevented them from ever seeing or hearing of each other again, though years were spent in searching. He died last week at Clarksville, Tenn., in poverty, and on his death bed made the request that some effort be made to inform the sweetheart of his youth of his death. She is thought to be in America, and with this object in view I send a story of his last days which is given just as the events occurred. If you can use the story, it will probably interest your readers and will be much appreciated by me. Perhaps these introductory remarks may be used to advantage. Thanking you, believe me,

Very truly,
Tolbert R. InGram,
1348 Evans street, Denver, Colo.

Ferdinand Lust, the once famous composer, died last week without friends and in poverity. The end came at Clarksville, Tenn., where he was left by a stranded opera company. The man who has charmed thousands by his sweet music had his last days marked by a peculiarly pathetic romance and sad tragedy, and the story of "My Rosary," his last song, which is now being sung everywhere, is told for the first time.

When Ferdinand Lust's music was at the height of its popularity not many years ago he had all the money and friends he desired. He held the position of organist in a Vermont church at a salary of $3,000 a year and was instructor to Modjeska's son. An opera of his was meeting with big success and his royalties from the famous "Trilby Waltz" alone brought in a small fortune. He traveled far and wide and visited many parts of the earth. He had all that wealth, health and fame could give him.

But there came a chance. When the years began to creep upon him the wealth, health and all began to fade away. He drifted out to San Francisco and taught for a few years and then went to Colorado Springs. Then he became a wanderer without home or friends.

He joined the Marie Bell Opera Company as conductor, but things didn't go well, and when Clarksville Tenn., was reached the organization disbanded.

Without a cent of money the now feeble and gray-haired composer was thrown upon his own resorces and tried to earn a few dollars by teaching. But he was lonely, in bad health and had no friend, brother or sister. His life was so desolate that even strangers noticed it and would speak a kind word to the gray-haired musician. His sorrow was increased by a romance of his youth. The girl he had loved in the fatherland and from whom he had been separated by a lover's quarrel, had been lost to him and he knew not whether she was dead or alive.

But there was one who brought cheer to his last days. She was a beautiful Southern girl with the fair, soft complexion of the Southern clime. She had seen but nineteen summers and was as sweet and unselfish as she was beautiful.

Rosa Whitfield was his favorite pupil and she always tried to throw a few rays of sunshine into his life. Sometimes when the lessons were over she would pin a rosebud on his coat or send some little delicacy to his lonely studio. Often there were big bunches of Southern roses. He would place them on his piano and play out his soul to the sweet scented beauties. Once he pressed a bud in a book and pinned it to a poem.

But the gray hairs were growing thicker among the thin locks and his health was failing. One morning in the fall, that pretty Indian summer of the South, he went to her home to give a lesson as usual. She saw that he was very weak and she did not want him to teach that day. But he insisted. He needed the money, and she reluctantly yielded. That morning she sang sweeter than usual and there was something especially tender in his music. But the effort was too much for him. All of a sudden his head began to reel, his eyes dimmed and his voice failed. He clutched at a chair and fell to the floor. He awoke on the couch and felt the touch of a gentle hand upon his brow. He seemed to realize that the end was drawing near and his eyes filled with tears as he gazed upon the young girl. If a friend like the one beside him could do so much for an old man, what would love have been in his younger days? She had been so kind to him, and he owed so much to the tender words and gentle deeds. He seemed to be thinking of the past as he looked into her eyes and began to talk.

"Your name is Rosa. It is a sweet name. You are my friend, you—you—are my Rosa!" Then a sudden light came into the old man's eyes and he sprang from the couch. "My Rosa!" he exclaimed. "My Rosary! I will write a song and it shall be called that for you." The gray-haired musician faltered a minute and then added in a pathetic voice, "and I fear it will be my last."

It was then that one of the sweetest songs ever written was born. He was enthused with the inspiration and, almost too sick to stand alone, went to his studio. There, all night long, by the light of an oil lamp, he toiled at the piano, putting his emotions into music.

By daylight it was finished. He made a copy and carried it to her to try. He never played an accompaniment, as he did that morning and she sang the song as it has never been sung since. A week later she sang it in a concert and it caught the public ear like a whirlwind, until to-day it is being sung from ocean to ocean. But the musician never recovered from the shock. He took to his bed and gradually the eyes dimmed until last week they closed forever. During his illness almost every morning there was a bunch of roses beside his bed that had been gathered by the fair Southern girl, and often she would drop in for a minute to cheer him up and bring some delicacy which she had prepared with her own hands to tempt his appetite. It was she who sat beside his bed and cooled his brow as the last light in his eyes died away.

The funeral took place at the church which he had served as organist. It was an unusually solemn occasion. Just as the minister finished his discourse a beautiful faced girl stepped to the chancel rail and began the tender, sweet strains of a melody to the soft accompaniment of the great organ. "My Rosary" was the singer and the song was the same. The dead composer lay at her feet. The audience was as still as death, and as the last notes of the pure sweet voice died away, many eyes were filled with tears. The remains were laid away in Greenwood, and on the red earth of the new mound the same girlish figure placed a large bunch of Southern roses.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES

Stratford and Peterboro juniors are left in the O.H.A. finals. They will play in Peterboro on Monday and in Stratford on Tuesday, unless a sudden death game is decided on, which will no doubt be fixed for Toronto ice.

Somebody asked Lord Roberts whether, as stated in one or two biographies, he was opposed to athletics in his younger days, and, if so, whether he was against the encouragement of sport in the army. The reply was that Lord Roberts strongly approves of outdoor sports and games, and played both cricket and football as a boy.

The Bombay Gazette reports a 20-round battle in Calcutta last month for the championship of India between McAuliffe and Slavin. The decision was given to McAuliffe, who had all the best of the bout after the thirteenth round. He weighed in at 138 pounds and stood 5 feet 6 inches, while Slavin was 20 pounds heavier and half a foot taller. The latter is no doubt Jack Slavin, brother to the better known Frank, and McAuliffe is a light weight, who had done all his previous fighting in South Africa. No information as to either is available from the Gazette, which does not mention their first names.

STOP LOSING MONEY

You Cannot Guess Winners

Horse races are "MIGHTY UNCERTAIN" things to bet on, if you depend on a GUESS to win, a thousand miles from the scene. Thousands have tried before you and have failed. The chances are a thousand to one you will fail too.

You Cannot Handicap Winners

Horses are not machines. They rarely repeat performances. Many of them look at the odds in the betting ring before they go to the post—that is, their owners do it for them. Horses do not always "try." They run for the benefit of their owners, not the public.

Be Advised by Experts on the Spot

Do what the plungers do. "Stand in." Get the best inside information direct from the track every morning that a shrewd combine of horsemen can secure for you. That is what is given its subscribers daily by the

LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE

The LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE is a combination of horse owners and trainers, now racing horses at the New Orleans race track, who have united for the purpose of profiting by the exclusive information at their command. The syndicate aims to send to its subscribers by telegraph every morning the names of two or three horses that are entered in the day's races, which will win, barring accidents alone.

THIS BEATS ALL

Among our many winners recently were SARILLA, 50 to 1, Jan. 8; CALLEUR, 10 to 1, Jan. 14; and AZIA, 10 to 1, Jan. 15.

Within a week our subscribers won more money following us than they did for six months prior following their own selections, if indeed they were not heavy losers before they joined our army of winners.

Cut this out and use it as authority on the manager of the Postal Telegraph office, No 146 W. 42d street, New York, to examine copy of our telegrams to subscribers filed each day this month at noon. Verify our statement!

We hope this will convince all turfites that our subscribers are getting money, and that our sources of information are second to none in point of accuracy and reliability. We average two selections per day. Anything we send can be bet on with confidence that the horse will "try" and that the owner is betting on him.

ALEXANDER SHARPE'S ATROCIOUS CRIME

Promdted by Jealousy, He Deliberately Killed His Nephew

Particulars about the shooting of William Hull in Dummer township on Wednesday show it to have been a deliberate murder. The fact that the dead man is a son of the murderer's sister gives the deed especial atrocity.

The scene of the crime is 25 or 30 miles north of Peterborough, in the log-cabin home of Stephen Davis.

William Hull, the murdered man, was a lumberman by occupation, and like other lumbermen, being far from womankind when in the "shanties," he was extra appreciative of feminine society when in town. He was a large-sized, well-built man of 34, with something of a reputation as a Lothario. One of his conquests in Peterborough was a woman named Eliza Harper. When Hull went away to the lumber camps the woman married Alexander Sharpe, the murderer. When Hull returned the woman left Sharpe to live with Hull. This, in a nutshell, is what led to the tragedy.

Alexander Sharpe is a man about 60 years of age. As a result of a dangerous ailment in one of his legs, Sharpe had the limb amputated last year. He is one of the best known hunters and trappers of his district, and, it is said, was seldom seen without his rifle, a Winchester. He has been twice married and leaves three sons by his first wife.

On Tuesday of last week Mrs. Sharpe walked to the home of Henry Hughes, nine miles from the Sharpe cabin, to get some clothing made, as she said. She remained there until Thursday, and met Hull that day for the first time since her marriage to Sharpe. Friday morning Hughes' house was burned, and Mrs. Sharpe went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Davis. Hull met her there on Sunday night, and again on Wednesday night. It was then the tragedy occurred.

Sharpe expected his wife to return the next day after she left him. After two or three days had passed he became suspicious. He learned that Hull was in the neighborhood and, knowing of her previous relations with him, was convinced that she was in his company. Some of the neighbors, it seems, tried to convince him that she had gone away to Norwood, but he soon learned that she was at Davis's. On Wednesday evening he was driven to Davis's by two men, who, it is claimed, were not aware of his intention. He saw Hull through the window and did not enter the house. Pushing the door ajar, he thrust the muzzle of his rifle through the opening and shot Hull through the heart.

The woman makes the following statement:

"I was standing by the table washing dishes about eight o'clock, and Hull was sitting near by fixing his mit, which I had promised to face for him. One of Mrs. Davis' little boys was also standing near by, and the only other person in the house was Mr. Stephen John Davis. Hull told me he was going to Havelock next day. Suddenly the door opened and Hull jumped to his feet and exclaimed, 'Here! here! stop!' I heard a gun go off, and Hull, throwing up his arms, fell dead. As he fell Hull cried, 'God help me!' Neither the woman nor the old man Davis saw the man with the gun. All they saw was the muzzle thrust through the door.

On the day of the murder Sharpe addressed a long letter to County Constable Cochrane telling of his troubles and asking for the arrest of Hull and Mrs. Sharpe, who, he said, intended to go to Michigan. It seems that he made up his mind to the crime after the letter was written.

Yesterday morning County Constable Cochrane, who had arrived at the scene of the murder, summoned the following men who had gathered at the scene to act as a coroner's jury.

James Covert, Steve Clarke, H. Chase, H. Fraser, Sam Munroe, John Hart, Robt. Munroe, Robt. Merriam, W. J. Wiseman, S. Waldridge, S. J. Davis, Stephen Davis, Sam. Davis, Geo. Fountain, A. McCoy, and W. Fredenburg. The inquest to be held by Coroner Gray and County Crown Attorney Wood was fixed for 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

A telephone message from Havelock yesterday afternoon stated that Sharpe had given himself to Constable Robb and that they were on the way to Peterborough.

The woman in the case is about 35 years of age and claims to be a native of England.

The woman and a child were the only persons in the room besides Hull when the tragedy occurred.

MORRISONS LETTERS HAVE BEEN GARBLED

Charges Which are to be Investigated Have No Real Existence

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Lieut. Morrison claims that the charges referred to in a London despatch, stating that the Imperial Government will investigate accusations made by him regarding conduct of British soldiers in Africa, are contained in pamphlet distributed in England by the stop-the-war party. In this pamphlet letters which he wrote while in South Africa have been garbed and placed in a false light. For instance the pamphlet makes him say: "As I stood looking, a woman, the owner of a very pretty little cottage, standing in a rose garden on a side street, which was being destroyed, turned to me and pathetically exclaimed, "Oh, how can you be so cruel?" I sympathized with her and explained that it was an order, and had to be obeyed. But all the same it was an intensely sad sight to see the little homes burning and the rose bushes withering up in the pretty gardens, and the pathetic group of homeless and distressed women and little children weeping in misery and despair among the smoking ruins as we rode away."

In the original correspondence, as it appeared in the Citizen, the incident takes quite another form. It reads.

"As I stood looking on she turned to me and said: Oh, how can you be so cruel? I sympathized with her, and explained it was an order, and had to be obeyed. She was a good-looking female in distress, and had quite the dramatic style of an ill heroine. I certainly was sorry for her—we all were—until the house began to burn and a lot of concealed ammunition began to explode and nearly killed some of our men.

BOER FORCE SPLIT UP.

London, Feb. 22.—The Government reports that after the recent engagement between Col. Crabbe's command and the force under Gen. De Wet the Boer force split into several divisions, Gen. De Wet force split into several divisions, Gen. De Wet himself making for Strydenburg. He was last heard of close to the Orange river, and it is thought that he is about to enter Griqualand West. Several portions of his command fled north with the object of crossing the junction of the Vaal and Orange rivers. Commandants Hertzog and Kritzinger are making towards the the place where Gen. De Wet was at the beginning of the week, but they are being pursued.

MERCENARIES PROLONG WAR.

It is reported from Johannesburg that General Louis Botha is suing for peace, and that the Boers proper are anxious to surrender. It is only the mercenaries and the rebels who have nothing to lose, who desire the continuation of hostilities. It is understood that in addition to the scarcity of food and ammunition, continual hardships, coupled with the harassing tactics of the British, have told heavily on the burghers.

A CONTRADICTORY REPORT.

On the other hand, Boer deserters at Standerton declare that Gen. Botha assured his army on February 10 that he would never surrender while five hundred of them remainded. America had fought six years for her independence and got it. They could do the same or fight even longer, until none of them was left.

ASSEMBLING FOR DEFENCE.

The Cape Government reports that parties of invaders continue to move about in the Middleberg and Steynsburg districts, looting on a small scale. The principal body of about 300 men appear to be located at Zarberg, northwest of Steynsburg. Troops are assembling at various points on the Midland line, with the object of clearing out the marauders.

BOERS CAPTURE FOODSTUFFS.

The Boers destroyed a culvert between Natal spruit and Klip river, on the railroad just south of here, at dawn to-day. They captured a train load of food stuffs, and after taking all they could conveniently carry, set fire to the rest and disappeared over the veldt.

A BOLD MOVE EASTWARD.

Despatches to the Daily Mail report that Lord Kitchener has issued instructions that no goods of any description are to go forward by the Delagoa Bay line until further notice, with the exception of urgent military and hospital supplies. This order is supposed to indicate a big movement eastward.

SHOULD NAME A PRICE.

Water Company Should say What they want for the Plant.

An esteemed correspondent, whose letter appears in another column, writes sensibly in regard to the purchase of the Water Works by the town. It might facilitate matters, we think if the Company would name a price. The town would then proceed to investigate, and see if the price asked was unreasonable. This could only be done by engaging an expert to put a value on the plant. The Times, we may as well frankly admit, has the hope, that a bargain will be struck without resort to arbitration.

In regard to the other matter referred to by our correspondent, we would just say that while this great family journal flattered at the suggestion, it would never consent to accept payment for doing its duty.

eper here!' " I cried aloud, and bade them set up the tents, which were not few and dig a cistern, which was filled from the springs amid the groves. The heat diminished not, but rather intensified from day to day, so that the outer springs became dry, and we had to force our way inward (for the oasis was wide and of densest growth) to obtain supplies of water.

" 'Here and there we encountered beaten paths, which struck us as being rather singular, as we had seen no living thing save birds. Possibly, we argued, they were made by the jackals, which howled about in the day time and went there for water after dark although on one occasion I could have sworn that a vague imprint in the sandy pathway was that of a beast of grey.

" 'I kept a sharp lookout and sentinels even on watch about the horses, camels and goats tethered a short distance from the camp beneath leafy sheds. Nothing of note transpired for several days, except slight additional proofs from time to time that some living creature inhabited the place. The heat seemed to increase daily, and the sky assumed that reddish tinge which bodes no good to the dweller of the desert. At rare intervals across the yellow hillocks would come pirouetting diabolical little spirals of sand moved by puffs of wind, like breaths from a furnace.

" ' On the morning of the fifth day Hamed my Circassian slave, a man of rare courage and singular personal beauty, disappeared into the depths of the oasis in quest of fresh water, that in the cistern being used for the beasts only, and, from the length of time elapsing, must have penetrated further than usual. Suddenly we perceived him at the edge of the jungle, wildly gesticulating. The Arabs' rifles were at their shoulders in an instant, but there was a mingled scream and roar, a flash of tawny flanks, and Hamed, dragged down from behind, disappeared into the wood.

" 'The riflemen who had been earest to him fell upon their faces, paralyzed with some awful fear, and could not be induced to stir. What they had seen I knew not. Drawing my simitar and grasping my pistol I bade a huge black, under threat of instant death, follow with a lance, and plunged into the tangled wood at the spot where [illegible] White trag-serve some of them. Some of the songs heard on Murray Island are already obsolete, and will, it is believed, die out with the old men of the tribes. "In savage life," says one of the members of the expedition, "the songs of a tribe are its chief heritage."

Brimingham, England, is the only place in which manufacturing crowns is an industry that may be said to flourish. The trade is principally with Africa, where the numerous kings have come to regard a crown as a far more elegant emblem of royalty than the stovepipe hat which they formerly affected. A servicable crown, gaudily decorated with imitation precious stones, may be purchased for quite a small sum.

The Japanese apply one of their many pretty ways to the launching of ships. They use no wine but hang over the ship's prow a large pasteboard cage full of birds. The moment the ship is afloat a man pulls a string, when the cage opens, and the birds fly away, making the air alive with music and the whirr of wings. The idea is that the birds thus welcome the ship as she begins her career as a thing of life.

BUTTER AND CHEESE

Good Advice from the Montreal Produce Men.

TIMELY PIECE OF ADVICE

Which Our Butter and Cheese Makers Should not Fail to Profit By.

The Times has received the following from the Montreal Butter and Cheese Association, with a request that it be published in these columns. We gladly do so, as it contains matters that is of special value to our dairymen.

Curing of Cheese.

The Montreal Butter and Cheese Association desires to call the special attention of Factorymen to the condition of most of the cheese coming to Montreal. It has become the practice of Factorymen to send their cheese to Montreal before they are sufficiently cured, and if we are to hold the good reputation we have gained, this bad practice must be stopped, and cheese must be held in the factories at least two weeks for fast curing cheese, and longer for slow curing cheese, or in all cases until the cheese are cured. Factories should be so provided that the temperature of the curing room can be maintained at or near 60 degrees Fahrenheit, otherwise cheese are injured, by heat in summer and cold in autumn.

Appearance of Cheese.

A large number of cheese arriving in Montreal have at least one rough end, and some have two rough ends, giving the cheese a very bad appearance and affecting their value. All cheese might easily have a good appearance if the maker would take his cheese out of the hoops early in the morning of the day following the date of manufacture, trim off any unevenness, put his cheese back to press with the ends reversed, and leave them there until the afternoon, using press rings to keep the cheese from pressing up between the hoop and the follower.

Cheese Boxes.

The cheese boxes generally in use are disgracefully poor, and Factormen should insist upon being supplied with a better box in future. In the box that is at present being supplied, the sides are too thin, which causes them to break, and the head and the bottom is frequently made of too many pieces, which causes them to fall out, and insufficient nailing of these is a common complaint. We ask the Factorymen to insist upon getting boxes with sides one-fifth to one-quarter of an inch in thickness, with not more than two pieces in the top or bottom, and with the top and bottom pieces properly nailed. These pieces should be made of well dried material, so that they will not shrink away from the bands and weaken the box.

Whey.

Another objectionable practice seems to be growing in many districts of the country, and that is the practic of carrying whey back from the factory to the farm in milk cans, which gives the cans a bad smell, and this is too often communicated to the milk, and does a great deal to cause bad flavour in the cheese. Where the farmer desires to make use of his share of the whey, it is strongly recommended that he carry with him in his waggon a barrel or other cans than his milk cans to convey the whey to the farm. Under no circumstances should whey be conveyed in milk cans.

Butter.

Canada must go more largely into the manufacture of fancy butter, since it is evident that we are now making as many cheese as can be consumed in one season at profitable prices. There is abundant room for expansion in butter making, provided only the best quality is made. All hope of doing an export trade of any importance in dairy butter must be abandoned. Nothing but the best Creamery butter will sell freely and profitably. There is proof enough that fancy butter can be made in Canada, but much progress must yet be made ere our average quality will stand as high as that of Denmark and Australia. We are especially behind these countries in regard to packages. Only the best obtainable should be bought, uniform in style and size, and where boxes are used, no more and no less butter should be packed than will test 56 lbs. when delivered in Montreal

To Factorymen.

The Montreal Butter and Cheese Association desires to draw the serious attention of Canadian Dairymen to the undesirability of manufacturing in Canada any cheese at all from fodder milk, either at the beginning or the end of the season, believing this to be in the interests of all classes, from the farmer to the exporter, connected with the manufacture of full grass cheese.

It requires no argument to prove that if our cheese is to be sold at remunerative prices during the season of production, it is essential that there should be no large quantity of the previous season's production left over at the commencement of the new season. It must therefore be in the common interest of all concerned to see that no impediment is placed in the way of the free sale and free consumption of existing stocks of cheese during all the period up to the arrival of new full grass goods on the market in Canada, even at the cost of some immediate loss of money. Now, the experience of recent years proves that the average world's production of full grass cheese, which is sold on the English markets, consisting chiefly of Canadian, States and New Zealand makes, besides the English home made, is as large as can be consumed in one season at profitable prices. Take for instance the present season. The total shipments from Canada and the States from the 1st May, 1900, to the end of January, 1901, have amounted to about 2,900,000 boxes, while the English make is estimated to be some 15 per cent. larger than that of the previous season. This large production has left a stock of Canadian and American cheese on hand at this date which it will take four months full average consumption to clear off. If in addition to this large stock a large quantity of fodder cheese should be made from new milk this coming spring, it is easily seen that the result will inevitably be a large surplus of old cheese left over on the English markets in June, which will certainly have the effect of retarding the sale and seriously lower the price of new grasss goods this coming season. For these reasons it seems to be only the part of wisdom for Canadian producers, who contribute the largest quantity of foreign cheese to the English markets, and whose produce at present stands highest in reputation there, to submit even to some immediate temporary loss on their fodder milk rather than make any fodder cheese at all, either at the beginning or the end of the seasons, as they will assuredly reap a substantial advantage in the higher prices and increased reputation they will afterwards obtain for their full grass goods.

In advocating this policy this Association does not forget the difficulty the farmer is faced with in disposing of his stable fed milk. It would be better, if necessary, to throw this class of milk away rather than manufacture it into cheese; but such a sacrifice is not necessary. While it seems impossible to manufacture a first-class article of cheese from stable fed milk, it has been proved that by scrupulous cleanliness and scientific methods a very fine article of butter can be made from this milk, for which there is alway as good demand from domestic sources and a considerable demand for export, at good prices. This Association, therefore, strongly recommends the factorymen as far as possible to provide themselves with alternative machinery for making both butter and cheese, and where it is not possible for the farmer to work up his fodder milk into butter, it is strongly recommended that he should put it into stock. There is a substantial profit to the farm in feeding to the stock the skim milk from the creamery, or even the full milk where necessary, in the consequent enrichment of the soil, besides the price obtainable from the stock itself.

THE SINKING OF THE RIO DE JANEIRO

150 Lives Lost Through the Wreck of a Steamer Near San Francisco

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 22.

The Pacific mail steamship Rio De Janeiro ran on a hidden rock while entering the Golden Gate early this morning in a dense fog. She sank in a few minutes after striking. It is thought that nearly 150 persons were drowned, but it is impossible to ascertain the exact number owing to the fact that Purser John Rooney, who had the passenger list and muster roll of the crew is among the missing.

At five o'clock this afternoon 10 bodies had been recovered, two white women, one white man and seven Chinese.

The most prominent passenger on the steamer was Rounsaville Wildman, United States consul at Hong Kong, who was accompanied by his wife and two children. It is thought all are drowned.

The ship was in command of Pilot Frederick Jordan when she struck. He was rescued. Captain William Ward went down with his vessel.

As nearly as can be learned there were 234 people on board the Rio de Janeiro. The Rio de Janeiro was three days overdue from Hong Kong via Honolulu. When she arrived off The Heads last night, the dense fog prevailing at the time, induced Pilot Jordan to bring her to anchor until he could see his way clear through the gate way. She laid until about 4.30 o'clock this morning, when the atmosphere cleared and she started under a slow bell toward Point Bonita. All went went until about 5.40 o'clock, when she struck. Most of the passengers were below at the time and it is believed many of them were drowned in their berths.

The first news of the disaster reached here at 7.30 o'clock this morning, and soon afterward a boat load of rescued passengers and petty officers arrived at the mail dock. Tugs were immediately despatched to render any service that might be needed, but no living person were afloat when they reached the wreck.

A number of drowning people were rescued by Italian fishermen, and the bodies of two white women, three Chinese and a Japanese were brought in by the tugs. The search for victims has continued all day.

Pekin, Feb. 22.

The Foreign Ministers this morning received a message from the Chinese Peace Commissioners saying that edicts regarding the punishments, the cessation of examinations and the responsibility of the Viceroys and Governors have been signed, but the text has not arrived, owing to the Chinese New Year celebrations. Many of the telegraph offices are closed until next week.

INDIANS TO SETTLE FEUD OF 600 YEARS.

Miners from North Say Alaskan Indians Will Bury the Hatchet

MORTAL FOES FOR GENERATIONS.

Sitkas and Wrangel Island Indians of Alaska will Smoke Pipe of Peace After 600 Years War.

Victoria, B. C. Feb, 22.— Returning miners from Alaska bring word that the celebrated feud which has existed among the Indians of Alaska for more than 600 years is about to be settled, and the rattlesnake skin which has been hanging from the doorpost of Sitkas and the Wrangel Island Indian tribes for more than six centuries will soon be replaced by the olive branch of peace.

Generation after generation has heard from their parents the wrongs of the tribe at the hands of their mortal foes, until it is a part of, the religious duty of parents to teach their children to hate their ancient enemy.

A feud of so long standing could not be wiped out in a moment, in fact more than 100 years there has been a movement on foot to settle the difficulty and live in peace. The coming of the miners and other whites during the last four or five years has done much to hasten the settlement that is about to be made.

The potlatch, the arbiter of all feuds, and follies, the leveller of all sectional and tribal troubles, has been managed by Kodowatt, a Klukwan chief, at the village of Klukwan, on the Dalton trial who has spent the greater part of his life in trying to get the various tribes to consent to a treaty of peace, and has expended the savings of a lifetime in his effort to provide for the coming meeting of the tribes.

He has purchased hard tack and sugar and quantities of the choicest viands known to the Indian which he will dispense with a hospitality known only to the Indian brave.

Merchants in towns near Klukwan say that they have sold immense stock to the Indians in anticipation of the great feast which is to the last of of the kind by the famous chief.

HERR JANKOWSKY'S WONDERFUL CLOCK.

Brooklyn Man Finishes, After Long Labor, a Most Ingenious Clock.

AN AUTOMATIC WARNING DEVICE.

In Cold Weather the Clock Starts the Gas Warmers Going Before Owner Gets Up.

New York, Feb, 22.—After two and a half years of steady labor, William Jankowsky, a young carriage builder of Brooklyn, has completed a huge clock filled with all sorts of odd attachments.

Not only does this clock keep correct time, but it has several sets of chimes, electric lights, a phonograph, a music box, a procession of ecclesiastical figures, a couple of miniature breech loading cannon, a gas warming device, an electric fan and an alarm.

It took the maker just a year to collect all the materials he desired and to draught his design and cut out with a scroll saw the hundreds of pieces of wood. The whole affair stands eight feet high, is four feet in width and three feet deep. The wood used in making it were ebony, white maple, oak, mahogany and walnut. No less than thirty-two batteries are employed in producing the force necessary to operate all the devices pertaining to this clock.

First one hears the tinkling of a set of fine chimes in the twin towers. Then the tiny electric bulbs gleam out here and there, and simultaneously the procession of figures starts in motion and slowly passes in review. After a brief pause the melody of the chimes is succeeded by a familiar air evoked from the music box concealed in the centre of the clock body. When this has ceased a phonograph in the lower half of the structure begins in crescendo tones a Sousa march. At the climax the twin cannon are fired by electricity.

In cold weather the inventor sets one battery by his clock, and at the desired hour half a dozen gas jets in a stove are ignited and the room is warmed before he gets up. In warm weather an electric fan is similarly worked.

THE WATER WORKS PURCHASE.

What the Proposed Purchase Calls for at the Present Stage.

In regard to the proposed acquisitor of the water works plant by the town the proposal is to have a competent valuator engaged, who will fix a price. This price, however, will not be binding on either party.

The town is now endeavoring to secure a man or men skilled in property of the nature owned by the company, who would have to examine carefully all the works and property of the company, and come to a conclusion as to its value. The Council would then have to determine whether they would approve the value fixed by these gentlemen, and if they did agree that the value was a fair one, make an offer to the company of this sum. What these men would charge is merely conjectural. Probably men from some of the large American cities versed in the value of such plants would have to be engaged, and their changes would be such as they themselves would consider fair under the circumstances..

If the company would accept the price offered, the expense would then practically end, except the cost of submitting a by-law to the people for the money necessary..

If the company do not accept the offer, and an arbitration is necessary, it would be different to estimate the cost of such arbitration. Our witnesses would have to secure, and these again would necessarily be skilled men, and their charges would probably be large, and the arbitrators' fees would have to be paid, there being three arbitrators.

Our experience in the outfall sewer matter is not pleasant to contemplate. We imagine the expense would be very great.

Notwithstanding this, the people want the water works, and mean to have them.

THE UNGRATEFUL RUSSIANS

The action of the Russian government in imposing a maximum tariff upon iron and steel imports from the United States has rather taken the breath away from our neighbors to the south. Russia has always posed as a warm friend of the United States and the U. S. has always posed, as such a warm friend of Russia that the Yankees apparently thought they could safely, in pursuance of their usual policy of pulling everybody's leg but their own, impose a discriminating tariff against Russian sugar. The baseness of the Russians who have hit back with a prohibitory duty on U. S. iron and steel products, is consequently to the American mind inexplicable. The extent of the interests involved will be understood the more readily when it is recollected that last year Russia took from the United States machinery and tools to the value of thirty million dollars.

This tariff war between Europe's mightiest empire and America's republic is not without interest to Canadians a fact emphasized by Mr. McLean in parliament on Monday. The American tariff is like most tariffs, a selfish affair devised with the idea of making it as unpleasant commercially for all other nations as possible, and a part of the unpleasantness has fallen upon Canada. The U. S. policy has in a word, been to keep the home market for home producers and reach out for foreign markets as well. It will be modified when other nations adopt the same tactics. Uncle Sam would soon be in trouble were be confined to his own borders for business. That is the tenor of Russia's move. As Mr. McLean says, a little of that sort of thing might well be indulged in by Canada which has been scientifically squeezed by its big neighbor for many years.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Waiting for the prices of coal to come down is one way the consumers are getting full wait.

The idea of Parliament seems to be, if the nation has money to burn why should they not make light of it.

•• • ••

Apart from other things, the powers also seem to be robbing the Chinese of considerable peace of mind.

•• • ••

As a hard luck story it would be difficult to match that of Albert G. Woodruff, of Newark, who, while trying to commit suicide by hanging himself in the Essex county jail, was precipitated to the stone floor by the breaking of the rope, thereby receaving a fracture of the skull, from which he expired before he could put in operation any other method for killing himself.

There would be poetic justic in fashion starting a demand for bear skin as a cold weather wrap.

Talking of the Ontario Legislature, it's hardly possible, although they elected it, the voters can be as bad as they are represented.

PORTRAITS OF THE PRESIDENTS

With Biographical Sketches by General Charles H. Grosvenor—Title Page Designed by Tiffany.

This Inaugural year, when the public mind is aroused over Presidential questions, is a fitting time to issue General Grosvenor's book. Its sale is already tremendous, and will perhaps exceed that of General Grant's Personal Memoirs.

Every patriotic American desires to read what General Grosvenor has to say of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, President McKinley and the other Chief Executives of the Nation. Everybody desires to read what General Grosvenor, the staunch old Republican leader in Congress, will say of that staunch old Democrat, Andrew Jackson, the Father of the Democratic Party. General Grosvenor has thrown into his sketch of Jackson all the fire and energy of his nature. The biography of Thomas Jefferson is grand. The biography of Lincoln is as beautiful as a sunrise over the hilltops. General Grosvenor has personally known all the Presidents since the time of James Buchanan. The General's book will therefore contain history which has never before been published, written from his own personal observation of these great men. General Grosvenor has served in Congress for nearly twenty years, and he has served his country in war and in Congress for nearly forty years. The book contains twenty-four large Photogravure Etchings as fine as Steel Plates, printed by hand, on heavy plate paper made especially to order. These 24 Photogravure Etchings are in different tints, and are well worth $2 each. These Portraits are made from the Paintings endorsed by the family and near relatives of the Presidents. Two years' time and a fortune have been expended in securing these reproductions. The complete book is well worth $50, but the price has been placed so low that the most humble American citizen can own it. The biographical sketches are printed in large open type in two colors; the work is so beautiful that when people see it they want it. The advance sale is very large. President McKinley was the first subscriber. There is one edition known as The President Edition de Grand Luxe, initial letters hand painted, Portraits hand colored, title page hand illuminated, registered and numbered; subscription price, $500. Orders and applications for territory are coming in rapidly. A high class man or woman of good social standing can soon make a small fortune taking orders in this community. Send references and apply for terms quick, as the territory will all be assigned soon.

After Marriage

They are going to be together just as much as before; going to ride the wheel, take little pleasure jaunts, etc., enjoying everything together. Isn't that what many a young couple promise each other? And yet, how very soon the wife begins to say "No, I don't think I care to go. You go alone, dear." Young women don't reckon on the great physical changes which follow marriage. How can they when they are allowed to grow up in entire ignorance of vital physiological facts? They feel languid, weak and nervous. Sometimes there is headache and backache. The pulse no more leaps in answer to the thought of a spin on the wheel. Women who have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, know how promptly the languor, headache, backache, nervousness and weakness are cured by this medicine. Many husbands write in gratitude to Dr. Pierce for the medicine which gives them back the wife's companionship, as it gives her back her health.

"All praise is due to you for your wonderful 'Favorite Prescription,'" writes Mr. John W. Coffman, of Ellisburg, Casey Co., Ky. "My wife suffered with female irregularity; was confined to bed every three weeks. After using two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription she was cured, and has not suffered any derangement since. Your 'Favorite Prescription' is a boon to delicate women."

There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription," and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

The Chicago Tribune
is a newspaper for bright and intelligent people. It is made up to attract people who think.
Is not neutral or colorless, constantly trimming in an endeavor to please both sides, but it is independent in the best sense of the word.
It has pronounced opinions and is fearless in expressing them, but it is always fair to its opponents.
Matters of national or vital public interest get more space in THE TRIBUNE than in any other paper in the West.
For these reasons it is the newspaper you should read during the forthcoming political campaign.
THE TRIBUNE'S financial columns never mislead the public.
Its facilities for gathering news, both local and foreign, are far superior to those of any other newspaper in the West.
It presents the news in as fair a way as possible, and lets its readers form their opinions.
While it publishes the most comprehensive articles on all news features, if you are busy the "Summary of THE DAILY TRIBUNE" published daily on the first page gives you briefly all the news of the day within one column.
Its sporting news is always the best, and its Sunday Pink Sporting Section is better than any sporting paper in the country.
It is the "cleanest" daily printed in the West.

A WONDERFUL

KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,

And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 53 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus this grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. LIFE'S TRIAL.

Ever lurking, trying facing,
On my way;
Pleasant visions all erasing,
Joy disturbing, quiet chasing,
Fondest selfish schemes defacing
Day by day—

What's the use of trying, daring,
In this life?
Trials waylay, with spite unsparing
Baffling, slighting, paining, wearing
Every peaceful thought ensnaring
Into strife.

Would I rest, then cares assailing
Banish peace;
Triumphing but leads to failing;
Sudden joy is turned to wailing;
Ease of mind begets but ailing;
Cares ne'er cease.

What's the end of all this toiling,
Troubles scene—
Where no sense is free from soiling,
Where belief but breeds embroiling,
Where no rest from planning, moiling
E'er is seen?

This I know, when trials defiant
Rise forlorn,
For the conflict, strong, reliant,
Wakes the soul, like sleeping giant,
To whose sinews, suple, pliant,
Strength is born.

This I know, that brave endeavor
Sinks in rust
If from trials we rest us ever;
Vain from courage trial to sever;
Toil and conflict draw us never
Into lust.

Each endeavor, true and earnest,
Leads to strength;
If from hope thou never turnest,
If for higher deeds thou yearnest,
Peace and joy, tho' late, thou learnest
Come at length.

Welcome trials, hidden blessings,
Sent from God;
Wooing not with soft caressings,
Teaching not in doubtful guessings,
Caring all our weak confessings
With thy rod.

A MYSTERY.

During my sojourn in Egypt," said Walton, removing his hookah from his burnt black beard, "I became interested in the horse; and desirous of possessing an Arabian of high quality, sought guidance of our local consul as to the best way of going about obtaining one. He gave me a letter to a certain camel and horse breeder of renown, located near Samana. Bedouin sheik, Hassam Moakbar by name. The sheik, he informed me, had reason to feel under obligations to him, which would insure me a pleasant reception I took with me only a small escort—the consul's letter, in the Arabian tongue, being a sort of passport and affording me immunity from the toll gathering customary among the desert tribes. Arriving at the encampment at twilight, a scene of great beauty burst upon me. The stars were beginning to blaze forth with unusual size and brilliancy through the wonderful rare atmosphere. Threads of smoke rose perpendicularly from fires which sparkled among the long, low, wide tents, where preparations for the evening meal were going on.

"Negro slaves were roasting coffee, which gave forth a perfume only 'Araby the Blest' could yield. Round about parties of Arabs were exercising the horses—such creatures!—with manes flowing like the tresses of Princess Badroulbadour.

"Sehik Hassam, a man of noble appearance, met me, and after reading the letter, at once relaxed the stern dignity of his countenance, and the supper being now ready, bade me partake of the same tray with himself. The meal consisted of kid's flesh roasted delicately with certain condiments, of the nature of eau de cologne, and washed down with mare's milk. A noble cup of coffee, however atoned for the singularity of this repast, and lighting cheroots of a strong, sweet flavor, we strolled among the horses much of whose beauty and fine points were observable in the moonlight, for that luminary had now risen above the horizon. For reasons of his own, the sheik certainly did his best to get me what I wanted, and out of fifty, every one of which seemed to possess some different charm. I chose one, and regretted I had not chosen all the others. I was loath to leave so romantic a spot, and, though duty called, lingered some days, the guest of the sheik, who seemed equally unwilling to have me go, and plied me with rare tobacco and still rarer legends, dusky happenings of desert land, which had come within his kin, and revealed to few. I began to feel as if I had chewed the lotus buds, and did not care greatly whether I returned to my native land or not.

"One evening (that before the day set for my departure) while strolling and smoking, as usual, in the moonlight, at some distance from the encampment, our footsteps, whether by accident or the sheik's design, were directed toward a dark ridge of rocks which created a great rise of sand on the horizon and shone jagged against the rising moon.

"'That forbidding pile,' said Sheik Hassam, with a wave of his long arm, causing a meteoric effect with the glowing end of his cheroot, 'formed once the centre of an oasis, discovered by myself and tribe while seeking an unfrequented portion of the desert for the purpose of establishing ourselves for the favorable pursuit of our business.

"'This oasis seemed the portal of paradise when, in the splendor of the noontide, we halted, after days of travel beneath a copper sky, before its waving palms and luxuriant shade, among which gurgled hidden springs of water, blessed water, and the songs of birds echoed among the foliage.

"'"Allah be praised! We shall prosper here!" I cried aloud, and bade them set up the tents, which were not few and dig a cistern, which was filled from the springs amid the groves. The heat diminished not, but rather intensified from day to day, so that the outer springs became dry, and we had to force our way inward (for the oasis was wide and of densest growth) to obtain supplies of water.

"'Here and there we encountered beaten paths, which struck us as being rather singular, as we had seen no living thing save birds. Possibly, we argued, they were made by the jackals, which howled about in the day time and went there for water after dark although on one occasion I could have sworn that a vague imprint in the sandy pathway was that of a beast of prey.

"'I kept a sharp lookout and sentinels even on watch about the horses, camels and goats tethered a short distance from the camp beneath leafy sheds. Nothing of note transpired for several days, except slight additional proofs from time to time that some living creature inhabited the place. The heat seemed to increase daily, and the sky assumed that reddish tinge which bodes no good to the dweller of the desert. At rare intervals across the yellow hillocks would come pirouetting diabolical little spirals of sand moved by puffs of wind, like breaths from a furnace.

"'On the morning of the fifth day Hamed my Circassian slave, a man of rare courage and singulr personal beauty, disappeared into the depths of the oasis in quest of fresh water, that in the cistern being used for the beasts only, and, from the length of time elapsing, must have penetrated further than usual. Suddenly we perceived him at the edge of the jungle, wildly gesticulating. The Arabs' rifles were at their shoulders in an instant, but there was a mingled scream and roar, a flash of tawny flanks, and Hamed, dragged down from behind, disappeared into the wood.

"'The riflemen who had been earest to him fell upon their faces, paralyzed with some awful fear, and could not be induced to stir. What they had seen I knew not. Drawing my simitar and grasping my pistol I bade a huge black, under threat of instant death, follow with a lance, and plunged into the tangled wood at the spot where Hamed had disappeared. White fragments of cloth upon the broken twigs, borne down by what must have been a creature of unusual size and ponderous strength, guided us onward. Panting with the heat, bruised with falling, and now feeling giddy with a strange odor which began to prevade the air we proceeded with the utmost caution along a path grown steep and rocky.

"'The terrible ordor had grown almost stifling, and mingling with it came a low, whining purr, apparently at no great distance now.

"'Crouching behind a ragged mass of rock which seemed to have been split by the heat (the black calling incessantly upon Allah with chattering teeth) I peered through the crevice in to the space beyond. Soul of Mohammed! What a sight met my gaze!

"'Sprawled upon its belly at the entrance to a cavern, the lithe tail beating the ground, was a creature, the sight of which caused my scimitar to fall from my nerveless grasp. Out of a tangled red mane, rose a white neck of columnar strength, surmounted by a countenance of awful beauty. Beneath netted eyebrows glowed eyes like burnished brass, human in all save the slit pupils. The lips were a venomous red arch, through which flashed long canine teeth.

"'Before her, slightly propped against a bowlder, lay Hamed, white and limp, but conscious and fascinated Ever and anon the great furry paw was thrust forward caressingly (the claws sheathed), and the eyes of the dread creature became narrow and tender, and the purring sound was repeated.

"'Streaming with sweat, I had managed to level my pistol across a projection, when a shadow fell over us which deepened, and a murmur broke upon our ears, increasing to a roar. Springing to its feet, its eyes blazing greenly in the gathering gloom, the Thing seized the shoulder of Hamed's garments in its teeth, and with a horrid screaming snarl leaped past us, as the simoon in all its fury burst upon us.

"'The black had already clambered to the highest rock and lay clasping the base of a large palm, face down, enveloped in his burnous. I did likewise, and after a period of unconsciousness, awoke, and painfully drawing myself up to a sitting posture against what remained of the palm stree, gazed about me. The black lay rigid at my side, stifled.

"'Around about among the rocks and trees and across the plain were great drifts and billows of sand, but of all my faithful people and valuable beasts there was no trace. A tent pole, with a fragment of canvas here and there, marked their graves.

"'I was rescued in a delirious condition by my partner, who came weekly to visit the encampment.

"'That I am stopping in this vicinity is owing to an irrestible fascination the spot has for me, and to its being in the direct road to the market town, whither I go at intervals to trade. The mystery that yonder sand heaps envelop will never be revealed until the desert and the sea give up their dead.'"

"How did you and George get along at the seashore?" asked her best friend. "Swimmingly," was the reply.

Catarrh.

Called an American disease, is cured by an American medicine, originated and prepared in the most catarrhal of American countries.

That medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It cures radically and permanently, in that it removes the cause, cleansing the blood of scrofulous and all other impurities. It overcomes all the effects of catarrh, too, and builds up the whole system.

GEMS

The native music of aboriginal tribe is regarded as of great importance in anthropology, and the recent British expedition to the Torres Straits and New Guinea have taken steps to preserve some of them. Some of the songs heard on Murray Island are already obsolete, and will, it is believed, die out with the old men of the tribes. "In savage life," says one of the members of the expedition, "the songs of a tribe are its chief heritage."

Brimingham, England, is the only place in which manufacturing crowns is an industry that may be said to flourish. The trade is principally with Africa, where the numerous kings have come to regard a crown as a far more elegant emblem of royalty than the stovepipe hat which they formerly affected. A serviceable crown, gaudily decorated with imitation precious stones, may be purchased for quite a small sum.

The Japanese apply one of their many pretty ways to the launching of ships. They use no wine but hang over the ship's prow a large pasteboard cage full of birds. The moment the ship is afloat a man pulls a string, when the cage opens, and the birds fly away, making the air alive with music and the whirr of wings. The idea is that the birds thus welcome the ship as she begins her career as a thing of life.

Former Citizen Dead

Mr. John Wattam, of London, died on Tuesday at the residence of his son, Mr. James Wattam, manager of the Yonge street branch of Oak Hall, on Concord avenue, and formerly manager of the Oak Hall branch in Peterborough. Resumed His Studies

Yesterday morning Mr. Will Patterson, who was admitted to bail and is out on remand on the charge of misconduct towards a dead human body, left yesterday morning for Kingston to resume his studies at Queen's. To Maintain Gates

On Thursday Mayor Denne, Ald. Roger, and Town Solicitor Edwards interviewed the Railway Committee in Ottawa in regard to the matter of gates at street crossings, and, after due consideration of the case, and an able exposition of the town's position by Mr. Edwards, the deputation was given to understand that the bill would go through as originally understood, that is, the gates will be erected and maintained by the Railway Company, free of all expense to the town.

Burleigh Power Company

Mr. J. Alex. Culverwell, Managing Director of the Central Ontario Power Co., was in town yesterday on business connected with the Company. In conversation with The Times, Mr. Culverwell stated that things were in such a shape that the early commencement of the work was assured. Contracts for power and for pole rights on the streets had been secured in Port Hope and Cobourg. The company would supply light and power to many towns and villages in the district, and would be constantly extending their business.

Shameful Sport.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,— Yesterday, while passing one of our fashionable residence streets, I noticed two or three young men driving a cutter at a furious rate of speed, while underneath was fastened, by a single ring, a small dog. At every plunge of the horse, the dog almost chocked to death.

Now, if this is not cruelty to animals, I would like to know what is. Is that a fashionable sport? And does the law allow it? Where is the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals?

The subject will be Ian Maclaren's work, "The Bonnie Brier Bush," that charming study of Scotch character. As an orator Mr. Knowles has few equals, and may be trusted to do the subject justice. It is hoped that a large number of people will avail themselves of the privilege of attending this lecture.

Outing to Peterborough

Lakefield News,—On Monday evening last a large party of Lakefield residents enjoyed a most pleasant outing to Peterborough. Mrs. Tate, whose hospitable spirit brooks no half measurers, was the kind hostess of the occasion and it is perhaps needless to say that in the programme which had been mapped out for the enjoyment of her guests she well sustained her reputation. A pleasant drive, reserved seats at the opera house to hear the Boston Ladies Symphony Orchestra, followed by supper at the Snowden House, constituted in every respect an entertainment which was most warmly appreciated by all. Everything passed off most pleasantly, the party beguiling the journey to and fro with a continuous flow of melody. Voices and lungs, however, were not so exhausted, as to be unable to produce the well-known strains of "She's a Jolly Good Fellow," in honour of the hostess, and this coupled with three rousing cheers and a tiger was given with vim. We append the names of those who formed the party,— Mrs. Tate, Mrs. Dann, Miss LeFevre, Miss Lenord, Miss J. Strickland, Miss M. Strickland, Miss Tate, Miss Bromfield, Messrs. Langley, R. Bromfield, Walker, Moodie, J. Strickland, Kirkman and De la Fosse.

AN OFFICER'S WIFE.

Comments on the Food Question.

"I had a very curious experience with food and its relation to the body. Some time ago from unavoidable exposure to a high wind for some time, I was attacked seriously with neuralgia in the head, which ultimately became chronic and I suffered much, as added to the pain I had a strange roaring or surging sound in my head, which kept me awake at night, and was of the most unpleasant character.

"It was not in the ears, but seemed in the very center of the head and was extremely distressing. Occasionally I had dizziness come over me with the strange roaring. Medicines seemed to produce no beneficial result. I finally concluded that the famous brain food known as Grape-Nuts would be the proper thing for me to use, and I started in, using it every day.

"At once I began to recover; the neuralgia pains left and steadily and surely the distressing roaring in my brain, which had so tortured me, began to disappear. It grew fainter and fainter with long spells of rest between the return of the hateful noises, until, in a comparatively short time, they stopped completely and entirely.

"I am now permanently free from this distressing affliction. My head is entirely well and strong, with that bright feeling which we refer to as 'clear as a bell.' Apart from the wonderful value of the food, it is a most delicious article and I can assure you I have an ardently consuming affection for it.

"This is a plain, honest, statement of my case and what Grape-Nuts food has done for me. I shall ever be grateful from my heart that it has been given to the world and I have been one of the fortunate people to use it. I neglected to say that I have gained remarkable in my general health and strength and in flesh also since beginning the use of Grape-Nuts. I have not had an opportunity to weigh myself, but my appearance is sufficient. Please kindly withhold my name from publication if you use this letter." The lady is located at the government fort at Omaha, Neb. Name given upon application to Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

Editor Morning Times.

Esteemed Times,—I read your report of the committee of the Council who undertook to arrange for the purchase of the Water Works, and am much opposed to our Council playing the part of both buyer and seller. Their suggestion to employ the most competent specialists to make a detailed statement of the entire system and plant, and of fixing values on each, to my mind is entirely wrong. Why not let the Water Company give in detail what they are offering for sale, naming the price which they are willing to accept and then let the Council bring on their expert to investigate the correctness of the statement.

Again I read in this mornings Times your suggestions to the Board of Trade and I must say that I highly approve of your patriotic spirit which prompts you to look so carefully after the best interests of the town, and with all due respect to your evening contemporaries I must say they are very far behind you in the race of patriotism, and further, there are many ways in which the Council might curtail expenses and thereby be enabled to remunerate you in a reasonable way for the valuable service you are undoubtly rendering the town. My advise would be for you to send in your bill to the council for from $10.00 to $50 for every new industry which you are instrumental in bringing to the town.

Hoping to see justice meeted out to you in this way. I remain yours.

TAX PAYER

A Plea From the South Ward for a Healthy School.

Sir,—Kindly allow me space in your valuable paper to brings out a few facts in regard to the diphtheria trouble we have had to contend with in the South Ward. While the medical men are agitating for a pure milk supply for the infants, and our papers are blaming milk and bread tickets, as a means of spreading disease, and not a word said about filthy paper money in circulation. I think it would be quite as necessary to provide a healthy school for those that old enough to attend. Now, the South Ward school is a fine large building and appears to have every convenience that should be desired, but to have the closets in the basement where the children are compelled to eat their dinners, and play mostly in the winter time, is a great mistake, and should be rectified, or the school will always be a disease trap for our children. I feel certain that the children contracted diphtheria from the closets at school. Out of the large number of children that had diphtheria I think that all attended this school, or were connected with those that did attend. I don't know of one case from any of the other schools in town.

At the time of the outbreak the children complained very much of the bad smell from the closets, and I know of children living near the Little Lake that begged to walk home to dinner sooner than sit and eat it in the basement. Our Public Health Inspector says the school is alright now that a large sum of money has been spent in disinfecting it.

It may be all right for the present, but with about 700 children attending there, it won't stay right for very long and to spend $50 for disinfecting without improving the sewrage system was simply removing the effects and leaving the cause unmolested. It will cost money to make the alteration, but I think of the opinion of the taxpayers was obtained, it would be to give us a healthy school for our children.

Trusting this will meet the notice of the school trustees and that something will be done in the matter, and thanking you Mr. Editor for your favor

I beg to remain,
Yours Truly,

We are called upon to record the death of another esteemed pioneer in the person of Mr. Robert Leeper, who passed away on Tuesday night. The deceased was a native of Donegal, Ireland, and came to this country sixty years ago and during the greater part of which time he has lived in Asphodel. The funeral took place on Thursday from the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. John Elmhirst, to the Norwood cemetery.

Asphodel has lost another pioneer in the person of Mr. Hugh Christie, who passed away on Monday last. Mr. Christie was born in Lanark county, Scotland, in the year 1812, and emigrated to this country in 1828. Three years later he settled in Asphodel, where he has since resided. The funeral took place on Wednesday, and the remains were interred in the Cameron cemetery.

"He That Stays Does the Business."

All the world admires "staying power." On this quality success depends. The blood is the best friend the heart has, and "faint heart" never won anything. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best friend the blood ever had; it cleanses the blood of everything.

If you would be strong in the race of life and "do the business," you must "stay." Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the struggle easy. It gives clear, strong blood; hence perfect health ensues. It never disappoints.

Stomach Trouble—"I had pains in my sides and kidneys. Stomach and liver troubles caused my distress. I had doctored without avail and used many medicines unsuccessfully. My sister advised Hood's Sarsaparilla and in a short time it cured me. I am now stronger and sleep better. I shall never be without Hood's Sarsaparilla in the house." MRS. FRANCKE, 209 Ossington Avenue, Toronto, Ont.

No Strength—"My whole system was run down. I was weak and could hardly get around to do my work. I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and after using five bottles I found that my strength had returned and appetite much improved." MRS. KELLEY, 318 Dufferin St., Toronto, Ont.

STOP LOSING MONEY

You Cannot Guess Winners

Horse races are "MIGHTY UNCERTAIN" things to bet on, if you depend on a GUESS to win, a thousand miles from the scene. Thousands have tried before you and have failed. The chances are a thousand to one you will fail too.

You Cannot Handicap Winners

Horses are not machines. They rarely repeat performances. Many of them look at the odds in the betting ring before they go to the post—that is, their owners do it for them. Horses do not always "try." They run for the benefit of their owners, not the public.

LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE

The LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE is a combination of horse owners and trainers, now racing horses at the New Orleans race track, who have united for the purpose of profiting by the exclusive information at their command. The syndicate aims to send to its subscribers by telegraph every morning the names of two or three horses that are entered in the day's races, which will win, barring accidents alone.

THIS BEATS ALL

Among our many winners recently were SARILLA, 50 to 1, Jan. 8; CALLEUR, 10 to 1, Jan. 14; and AZIA, 10 to 1, Jan. 15.

Within a week our subscribers won more money following us than they did for six months prior following their own selections, if indeed they were not heavy losers before they joined our army of winners.

We hope this will convince all turfites that our subscribers are getting money, and that our sources of information are second to none in point of accuracy and reliability. We average two selections per day. Anything we send can be bet on with confidence that the horse will "try" and that the owner is betting on him.

GENERAL DEWET COMPLETELY ROUTED

Plumer Attacks the Boers Near the Orange River but Dewet Again Escapes

Cape Town, Feb. 244.

Col. Plumer engaged De Wet yesterday near Bisselfontein, on the south bank of the Orange River, capturing a gun and a pom-pom and taking fifty prisoners. The Boers were scattered and are being pursued by Col. Plumer. It is reported that Gen. De Wet escaped to the opposite bank in a boat and is now fleeing with a handful of followers. It is reported from Boer sources that Gen. Delarey has been captured.

London, Feb. 24.

The War Office has received the following despatch from Lord Kitchener:

Middleburg, Transvaal, Feb. 24.—French reports from Puetretif, Feb. 22, that the result of the columns sweeping the country to the east is that the Boers are retreating in scattered and disorganized parties to the number of some five thousand in front of him.

Amsterdam and Piet Relief have been occupied and troops are protecting the Swaal frontier. French will push on, but is much hampered by the continuous rain.

Summary total losses inflicted upon the enemy up to Feb. 18, 292 Boers known to have been killed and wounded in action, 86 taken prisoners, 183 surrendered, one fifteen pound gun, 462 rifles, 16,000 rounds of small ammunition, 3,500 horses, 70 mules, 3,530 trek oxen, 1,876 cattle, 15,400 sheep and 1,070 wagons and carts captured.

Our casualties five officers and 41 men killed and four officers and 108 men wounded. I regret to say that Major Howard, of Gatling gun fame, a very gallant officer of the Canadian Scouts was killed Feb. 18.

Plumer reports that Col. Owen captured De Wet's 15 pounder and pom-pom Feb. 23, as well as 53 prisoners and a quantity of ammunition. We had no casualties. Enemy in full retreat and being vigorously pursued. De Wet's attempt to invade Cape Colony has evidently completely failed.

London, Feb, 25.

A correspondent of the Daily Mail with Henniker's column wiring Saturday says, General De Wet was routed yesterday by Col. Plumer with whom were Col. Henniker, Creddock, Jeffery's and Grabbe. This success was preceded by a series of desperate attempts on the part of the Boers to escape from the water bell of the Orange and the Brakeriver's. General De Wet after unsuccessfully attempting to cross the Brake at Clip Duff and the Orange at Reads Drift and Marks Drift moved along the bank of the Orange with one gun and one pom-pom, and lagged oposite to Kameel Drift.

At dawn Col. Plumer left Weegovendend, twenty-two miles west of the Boer camp and moved northeast. At Zuurgal he attacked the enemy, taking forty prisoners. The pursuit was continued during the afternoon, the Boers moving toward Hopetown. Toward evening the leading troops sighted the enemy, who had lagged beyond gun range. Col. Owen charged the spot where the Boer army was supposed to be and captured the whole of it. The enemy fled, leaving their horses ready saddled and their cooking pots full. According to the latest reports only four hundred Boers recrossed to the north side of the river. The Orange is greatly swollen.

Pekin, Feb. 24.

The full text of the Imperial edict regarding punishments was sent last evening to the ministers of the powers, It is identical with the unofficial report of the context of the content of the edict already cabled. The ministers regard the punishment edict satisfactoring. Chih Siu, former grand Secretary and Hsu Cheng Yu, son of Hsu Lung will be publicly executed in Pekin, which was the scene of outrages upon foreigners.

TO MANY TROTTERS.

The Western Horses Won High Praises in the Boer war - But There Trotting Stock in Canada.

The Boer war has proved conclusively the high merits of the western Canadian horse. There were 5,138 horses altogether sent out to Africa, of which 3,785 were bought by Major Dent, the British remount officer sent out here. The Canadian horses had the hardest kind of work during the war, and stood the strain better than any others, excepting the native Boer ponies. Major Dent describes the horses thus to Lord Strathcona.

"About 15 to 15 1-2 hands high, a few are about 14 1-3. Ninety-five per cent. are thoroughly broken to cowboy work, taught to rein by the neck, stop suddenly, turn on the hind feet as a pivot, stand on the prairie with the reins over their heads, ford and swim rivers, and go at a rapid pace up and down hills. They are stout animals, with good short back and strong quarters, good bone, and active as cats; horses which know nothing of stables or grooming, accustomed to be ridden half a day or more, and at night simply stripped of saddle and bridle and turned loose to find their food. The riding hroses and pack ponies were bought at MacLeod, Pincher Creek, along the Foot Hills, at High River, Calgary, Medicine Hat, Maple Creek, Regina and Lethbridge. Sixty-six waggon horses were bought in Montreal, mostly Ontario bred, and a few Province of Quebec horses, 15 to 15.3 hands, stout, short-legged horses, with good action, and about 1,200 to 1,300 pounds."

In another letter Mahor Dent expresses his satisfaction with the Canadian horses, but gave this significant and important hint:

In another letter Major Dent exclass of horses which was brought before me, but I think great improvement can be made by using the English thoroughbred stallion as a sire, and doing away with the American trotting sire, which, in my opinion, has done a great deal of harm to Canadian horses. I attribute the long back and weakness of back and rigs and bones, also smallness of bones below the knee, to the American trotter. I wish to urge on the Canadian farmers and young men in Canada to take to riding instead of always driving. They would add greatly to their health and happiness by so doing, and enhence the value of their horses 50 per cent. It is difficult to find in the country districts a horse that has ever had a man on its back."

The Smelter Trust.

British Columbia will never amount to much as a mining province once its chief industry is turned over to the tender mercies of the United States smelter trust. It is this conviction which compels the people of the province to oppose the granting of the Hill charter for a railway from Fernie to the international boundary. They are convinced that the granting of such a charter would place it in the power of an alien railway and an alien smelter combine to dictate just what development should take place, and they naturally prefer to work out their own salvation. Past experience with the smelter trust has not engendered confidence, and British Columbia prefers to throw off whatever hold the trust has upon it at present, rather than forge new shackles.

Five Negroes Guilty of Murder.

Slyvania, Ga., Feb. 24.—Arnold Augustus, Andrew Davis, Richard Sanders, William Hudson, Sam Baldwin, five of the negroes who killed Fillmore Herrington and Milton Mears, two white men, in this country last August, were found guilty of murder last night and sentenced to be hanged March 29. The men were members of an organization known as the Knights of the Archer. The charter of this order, which was found by the posse arresting the negroes, is said to contain an oath of vengeance against the whites, and the members were obliged to defend themselves against the whites unto death.

COLD STORAGE NEEDED.

Peterborough Should be in Line with Other Towns.

A FEW OF THE ADVANTAGES.

That Cold Storage Would give to Peterborough—It would mean our methods and creating a centre for Buying.

The Times is in favor of having a cold storage warehouse erected in Peterborough. We believe it would be a big thing for the town, and would be the means of making Peterborough a headquarters for considerable trade that does not now come here.

Manager Humphreys, of the Toronto Cold Storage Company, was recently interviewed by the Woodstock Times in regard to cold storage. Woodstock is endeavoring to have Mr. Humphrey's Company establish a branch in that town. We give below the substance of the interview:

"It's just a matter of education," said Manager Humphrys, of the Toronto Cold Storage Co., to a Times reporter yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Oxford. "Two years ago," he went on to explain, "it was a very difficult matter to get producers and dealers to coldstore any of their perishable goods; whereas it is quite a different thing now. We have contracted already for all of our apple space for the ensuing season. I may say that our whole storage space is always in demand. Cold storage pays. It may not pay in some places at first, but the profitable result is just as certain in a short time; for it only depends on the increased adoption of the cold storage system, which is bound to take place. The low price of cold storage space allows the dealer to make the highest profit possible on the goods he holds over, if they are stored properly in first class condition. For eggs we charge 10 cents per 30-dozen case per month. That is 1-3 of a cent per dozen per month. For butter the cost is 12 1-2 cents per 100 pounds per month. For poultry—1-2 cent per pound for the first month, and 1-4 cent per month afterwards. Packed poultry—1-4 cent per pound. Apples—10 cents per barrel per month. Cheese—5 cents per cheese for first month, and 4 cents per cheese for 2nd month, and 3 cents per cheese afterwards. With regard to the storage of cheese, it is often necessary to use heaters in cold weather. We are often required to ripen cheese up quickly. Of course, we have rooms for the purpose. If it should be necessary we could regulate the heat of these rooms to one-half a degree."

Then Mr Humphrys went into the work of storing. He explained very fully that it required a great deal of experience and care in the examination of goods to be stored away.

"Eggs, for instance," said Mr. Humphrys, "have to be all candled over very carefully by someone who knows his business. It pays to do so. Cold stored eggs when put away in first class condition are fully as good as fresh laid ones. In fact, but for a slight loss of weight in cold-stored eggs, there is no difference betwen them. Packers are getting more careful in shipping their goods to us, especially eggs, than they used to be. We once had to cull 300 dozen eggs out of 1,000 dozen sent in by one man. Now we often only find 8 or ten culls in candling over a 30-dozen case."

In answer to a question as to cost of building and running a cold storage of, say, 100,000 cubic feet of space in Woodstock, Mr. Humphrys did not like to commit himself to an exact statement, but he estimated the cost of the building and plant at about $30,000 to $35,000. As to the running expenses, he said six hands would be required at the least. One office hand, two engineers, two men to handle goods, and one working foreman.

Mr. Humphrys left for Toronto yesterday afternoon, and expects to be in Woodstock again next week in connection with the cold storage project.

B.-P'S. CONSTABULARY.

Eight Hundred Ontario Men will Reach Ottawa Shortly.

The Military Department has been notified by the Colonial Secretary that Captain Ogilvy, R.R.C.I., has been appointed to assist Captain Fall in the recruiting, in Canada, for the Baden-Powell Constabulary. The expenses of these officers will be advanced by the Dominion Government, and refunded by the Imperial authorities later. It is expected that the recruits, on their arrival at Ottawa, will be fitted out with some kind of a uniform, and supplied with a small kit. The 800 men recruited in Ontario and the west will arrive in Ottawa during the next two weeks, and be quartered at the Fair grounds, where arrangements are now being made by the authorities for their accommodation. The detachments from Quebec and the Lower Provinces will mobilize at Halifax. The whole force is expected to leave Halifax on the Elder-Dempster line steamship Mountford on or about March 15th.

—The Summer Resort and Advertising committee of the Orillia Board of Trade reported at last meeting that they have issued 10,000 pamphlet folders at a cost of $300, and will also advertise liberally in leading Southern States papers this spring. Good luck to you, Orillians, you're progressive and deserve to capture hosts of tourists.

A PROSPEROUS INSTITUTION

Result of the Year's Operations of the North American Life Association

We heartily congratulate the management of the North American Life Assurance Company on the year's operations, as set forth in the financial statement submitted at the annual general meeting, held at the head office of the Company in Toronto on Jan. 30th.

The North American has long been regarded as one of our most popular and progressive life insurance institutions. It's success has been phenomenal, which, after all, is hardly to be wondered at when are remembered that the policy of the management has always been to give the greatest possible advantages consistent with absolute security to the policy holder.

In Eastern Ontario and especially throughout the wealthy and populous Midland District, the North American has gained a firm foothold, not only in a financial and business way, but also in the sincere regard of the people.

The perusal of the report will show the wonderful progress which has been made during the past year. The net ledger assets in 1899 were $2,977,451. Last year they amounted to $3,336,710. Cash income from investments—1899, $148,656; 1900, $183,041. The net surplus now amounts to $500,192.

As stated by the directors—The financial position of the Company is unexcelled—its percentage of net surplus to liabilities exceeds that of any other home company.

To the wise and capable management of Mr. Wm. McCabe, the Managing Director, assisted by Mr. L. Goldman, the efficient and untiring Secretary, is due the splendid position which the North American has attained in the financial world

SHOULD TAKE STRONG GROUND

The Board of Trade should Act Strongly in Regard to the Canal

The Board of Trade, at its meeting tonight, should send a strong petition to the Minister of Railways in regard to opening of the Canal between Lakefield and town. The petition should, if possible, be backed by a deputation. It was a pity advantage was not taken of the visit of the Mayor, Ald. Roger and Town Solicitor Edwards to Ottawa last week, in order to bring this matter to the attention of the Minister. We are surprised that the Mayor did not, of his own motion, endeavor to have the matter arranged when in the city.

The opening of this portion of the Canal would be of great advantage to business concerns on the back waters, who have limited shipping facilities.

The Troubles of a Teacher.

A rural school teacher, a few days ago received the following letter: Sir,—will you please for the future give my sun easier somes to do at nights. This is what he brought home to or three nites back; "If fore gallins of bere will fill thirty-to pint bottles, how many pint and half bottles will nine gallins of bere fill?" Well, we tried, and could make nothing of it all; and my boy cried and said he didn't dare go back in the morning without doin' it. So I had to go and buy a nine-gallon keg of bere, which I could ill aford to do, and then we went and borrowed a lot of wine and brandy bottles, besides a few we had by us. Well, we emtied the keg into the bottles, and then counted them, and there were 19 and my boy put it down for an answer. I don't know whether it is rite or not as we spilt some while doin it. P. S.—please let the next some be in water, as I am not able to buy any more bere.

Notice to Orangemen

The member of the Orange Societies of the Town and County of Peterborough are asked to meet at the Orange hall, Simcoe street, on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock for the purpose of attending the funeral of their late Brother John Hetherington. Robt. Wilson, W.M.

Saturday's Market

There was not a large market Saturday, no doubt owing to drifted roads. There was a fair supply of produce, and prices were firm. Chickens moved off freely at from 50 to 75c.; turkeys from 85c. to $1.50. There was a fair supply of butter at 20 and 22c., and plenty of eggs at 15 and 16c.

HOW THE MURDER WAS COMMITTED

The Coroner's Inquest on the Body of the Murdered Man

Further developments in connection with the murder of William Hull are at hand. Alex Sharpe, who surrendered himself to the police on Thursday, together with his wife, are now in the county gaol here.

HOW ARREST WAS MADE

County Constable Cochrane, in company with Constable Jeffs, of Norwood proceeded to Magistrate Robb's in Dummer, where Sharpe had arrived a few minutes previous with the intention of giving himself up. Mr. Robb was not at home, and on the arrival of the constables Sharpe was taken into custody.

The prisoner was left at Robb's, in charge of a constable, for the night and Constable Cochrane proceeded to the mica mines, where he secured a young lad, whom Mrs. Sharpe says is a son of hers, with the intention of placing him in the Children's Aid shelter here. The constable remained at the the house of a Mr. Crowe, near the mines, for the night. On the following day the constable and their charges returned to the Davis hut, in Belmont, where the inquest was conducted by Coroner Gray and County Crown Attorney Wood, in the afternoon. When arrested Sharpe admitted to the constables that he had shot Hull.

TWO TELL TALE LETTERS.

That Hull was enamored with the woman is evident from the following letters, which were sent by Sharpe to Constable Cochrane:

Well, Susy, I want you to come out as soon as you can. When you can, come with just the clothes you have on. I was over to Dwyer's and saw Mrs. Dwyer, and she says for you to come out there and have Bill Dwyer drive you down to Norwood, as he will if you do. He will put you on the train for Peterborough, and you go to Mrs. Fredenberg's and stay there till I come down.

If you can go out to Mrs. Dwyer's. get her to lock you up in the barn, and then go in the house and tell Alex. that you have gone down to the lake home. Then hire Bill to drive you at once to Norwood. I will leave money with Mrs. Dwyer for you. I will stick to you through life and death till you die, so you can depend upon me for ever. Susy, I love you so much that I cannot live without you, for I am failing every day. I can't eat anything; I don't now. What will I do without you? I can't live without you, I want you to come as soon as you can. If you are a week or a month I will wait on you, for I am bound to have you, if it takes a year to do it. I will stay with you. I don't want you to tell Alex. anything about this.

Well, Susy, try and send me out word, all about this. I will go over to Dwyer's to-morrow and see her again. She will help you to go with me. She will stick to me and help you to go away for me. She is a good friend to me. So I will marry you in the spring when I get away. So good-bye for this time. Come soon.

From your old love,
W. A. H.

Hull again writes as follows:

"Well, Susy, I want you to give Mrs. Grain an answer to this letter for me, at once, as I will go to Michigan, and you will not see me any more. So give me an answer to this if you can get a start out of sight. When you are here, get out at once to Dwyer's and she will hide you till Bill wil drive you out, as she told me. So get there if you can.

Well, Susy, if you think as much of me as you say, you will go through fire and water for me, as I will for you. Well Susy, get Alex, to go over to Dwyer's and stay all night, and after dark slip your hat and coat outside and I will meet you down at the gate, down on the road, or I will meet you any place, you say, and I will have a rig to drive you out. So I will watch for you every day till I see you. Everybody says that you should go with me again. I want you to do so, or you will be sorry if you don't. So good-bye. Burn this when you read it."

Accompanying the letters. Sharpe enclosed a note to Constable Cochrane as follows:—

"In case he (Hull.) would skip out to-morrow, have a look at the C.P.R. station, if you please. This paper is a letter from Hull to my wife."

Although Hull and the woman lived together for two years, they had never been married. The above letters gave Sharpe full knowledge of what was going on, and maddened him.

THE INQUEST.

The inquest took place on Friday, at the home of Stephen N. Davis, where the murder was committed. The following jury was empanneled: good men were:—W Munroe, foreman; Jas. Lawrence, A. Covert, Stephen Clarke, Hely Chase, Jas. Fraser, Sammuel Munroe, John Hart, Robert Merriam, Andrew McCoy, Sheldon Walbridge, Stephen Davis, Samuel Davis and George Sexsmith.

The prisoner, Alex Sharpe, who had given himself up at Mr. Robb's, and his wife, whom High Constable Cochrane ha dplaced under arrest on Thursday, and had left in charge of Stephen Clarke for safe-keeping, were both at the hut where the inquest was held.

The first witness was Stephen John Davis, father of Stephen Norman Davis, in whose house the murder was committed. The witness is an old man, with grey locks and grey beard. He it was, who, with three grandchildren, Mrs. Sharge and Hull, were in the house at the time the shooting took place.

Upon being swornm Davis said: "I live in this house, lot 31, in the 10th concession of Belmont. I live with my son, Stephen Davis. I was home here on Wednesday evening of this week, and there was also present Mrs. Sharpe William Hull and my son's three children. My son was at home, but at the stable. Alex. Sharpe came about 8 o'clock in the evening. He opened the door without knocking and came inside. He had a rifle in his hand, and the deceased, William Hull, was sitting opposite the front door, and about twelve feet from it. When Sharpe came in Mrs. Sharpe was standing washing the tea dishes at the table, alongside of where Wm. Hull was sitting, and I was sitting at the south window alongside the stove. One of the children was on my knee, another was standing alongside of William Hull, and the other was running around the floor. My son's wife was out at the time, with my son, at the stable.

As Sharpe came in. Hull jumped to his feet and said, "God save me!" and at the same time Sharpe raised the rifle and shot Hull, who then staggered and fell. I made to go out and call my son, and Mrs. Sharpe prevented me. Mr. Sharpe disappeared immediately after he fired the shot at Hull. I then went out the back door and heard my son coming in by the front door. I came into the house again by the back door, and I then looked where Hull was shot. I saw that the back of Hull's right was injured, but made no examination of his body. Hull was then dead—in about a minute after he was shot. He never spoke after he was shot, but drew a few long breaths. The body remained in the same place where it fell till Mr. George Cochrane, constable, came next day about three o'clock p.m. The deceased was then removed to a back room, where he now lies, and the body is the deaceased, Wm. Hull, as viewed by the jury at this inquest.

Mrs. Alex, Sharpe and the deceased Hull, slept together while here, as man and wife. Hull went to the shanties on Monday to work, and returned here on Wednesday evening, 20th instant. That is the same evening he was shot. Hull arrived about half hour before Sharpe arrived. I saw the rifle Mr. Alex Sharpe had. It was a 44-calibre Winchester.

Mrs. Susan Sharpe, wife of the murderer, was the next witness called. Upon being sworn, she said: I heard the evidence of Stephen John Davis read and I agree with and corroborate it, except with the statement that Alex Sharpe did not speak when he entered the house. I state that Sharpe did speak, by saying 'Good evening,' when he entered the door, and when Sharpe entered Hull arose to his feet and raised his right hand, exclaiming "Take care!" of 'Look out!"

This concluded the evidence taken on Friday afternoon and further proceeding was adjourned until the afternoon of Tuesday next, when the inquest will be resumed at the house of Wm. Munroe, Methuen township, about one mile north of Stephen Davis.

Coroner Gray and Crown Attorney Wood left the scene of the tragedy about five o'clock and arrived at Havelock two hours later, and, catching a freight, returned to Peterborough.

High Constable Cochrane arrived with Sharpe, his wife and her son Saturday morning on the train from Havelock. Sharpe and his wife were gaoled and the boy placed in the Children't Shelter. The woman was arraigned before Magistrate Edmison this morning as a vagrant and remanded for a week. She held that she was not a vagrant, but had money sufficient to pay her way.

Sharpe appeared before the Magistrate this afternoon charged with the wilful murder of Hull. He was remanded until Tuesday next, when he will be taken back to Methuen township, where the inquest will proceed.

County Crown Attorney Wood is conducting the prosecution, and Messrs. Kerr & O'Connell have been retained for the defence. Sharpe will probably be tried at the High Court Sittings here on March 24th, at which Mr. Justice Lount will preside. This will be his first murder case.

PLACES THE BLAME ON CAPTAIN OF THE RIO.

General Manager Says Vessel Should Not Have Tried to Come in.

San Francisco, Feb. 23.—R. P. Scherwin, vice-president and general manager of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, in discussing the loss of the Rio de Janiero, said he thought the blame was due to Captain Ward in bringing his vessel in during a fog.

"Time and again," said Mr. Scherwin, "we have warned our captains never to leave or enter port during a fog It is erroneous to think that when a pilot boards a vessel that the captain has no more responsibility. A pilot is simply a guide for a captain.

"The statements made to be by Pilot Jordan indicate that there was a fog hanging arounds the heads, and I think that undue haste was shown by the captain in bringing his vessel in. I cannot understand why there should have been so much haste shown, considering the vessel lay out side one night. Captain Ward was a careful officer, and I learn that when he reached Honolulu with the Rio he waited outside the bar for seven hours rather than take any chances in the rough weather.

"Of course, he is not here to speak. I wish that he were, for he is one of our best officers. He was brought up in our service, and we all feel deeply over his loss and those of his comrades.

"I cannot say exactly the value of the Rio de Janiero. but it is between $800,000 and $900,000. We have between $400,000 and $500,000 insurance on the vessel, part of which is carried by insurance companies and part of which we carry ourselves. The value of her cargo was probably between $150,000 and $200,000. I do not think she had any amount of specie on board."

In response to further questions Mr. Scherwin stated that he did not think there was the slightest chance of raising the vessel.

BOERS ENSLAVE NATIVES

It has been charged that the Boers went to war with Britain in defence of slavery, but this has been denied. The history of the Boers, however, teems with accounts of the ruthless and cruel butcheries prepetrated by them in subjugating and enslaving the native races. Now comes the frank confession of one of the Boer chiefs who escaped to America that the Kaffirs are held in slavery by the Boers, and treated as such. Commandant Jan Krige, an officer of the staff of General Botha, and a friend in arms of Cronje and De Wet, is now in Kansas City, having escaped by way of Lorenzo Marquez. In an interview with the Times of that city, on the 18th Feb., Krige said that "it was their women folk and slaves who raised those crops," referring to the large crops produced in the first year of the war. He also gave credit to the Kaffir "slaves" for working the fields with Boer women and never interfering with them, and added:—"The Boers do not and never did mistreat their slaves.' Commandant Krige was very frank in thus designating the "Kaffir workmen' of the Boers, and it is a testimony to those who have been defending the Boers as brave men fighting for their own liberties, that one of the great objects of their assault upon British rule in South Africa was to ensure the continuance of Kaffir slavery within the borders of their "free Republic." Cunning old Kruger knew that a slave can not breathe under the British flag, hence to admit British suzerainty over the Transvaal meant the extinction, near or remote, of the horrible enslavement of the native negroes by the Dutch farmers, or Boers.

The Man Behind the Bar.

The man behind the gun may have a nerve that's No. 1,
He may rush without a tremor on the foe,
But the danger he must face is only
as the merest fun.
Compared with other terrors here
below!
When the women get their hatchets and set out
To scatter costly glassware all about
When the wrought-up Mrs. Nations madly go to jam and jar—
When they hammer down the windows and the doors.
When they spill the firewater on the floors.
It is worse than common warfare for the man behind the bar.

It may be a thrilling moment for the man behind the gun.
When the decks are cleared for action out at sea,
But it's forty times more thrilling
when a dozen women run
Through the streets, dead set on letting liquor free—
When they hold their spattered skirts up and begin
To cut the hoops and knock the stopers in—
When they open up the cases where the fancy juices are—
When they fiercely rush to tear the faucets loose—
When they render the free lunch unfit for use—
Then there's always something doing for the man behind the bar
If he hasn't wisely sprinted fast and far.

Oh, the birds are sipping whiskey from the cow tracks all around,
See the streams of seltzer spurting
here and there!
Behold the cloves and coffee that are spilled out on the ground—
Yonder goes a leather dice box through the air!
There are new demands for hatchets
every day;
Newer faces are appearing in the fray
And there's terror in the places where the drink dispensers are,
For the sounds of failing mirrors swiftly spread—
The men who lift the schooners drink in dread,
And from Kansas to Chicago folks are going forth to mar
The features of the man behind the bar.

SURE TEST FOR HUMAN BLOOD.

Important Discovery Made as Result of Experiment by Scientists.

Berlin, Feb, 22.—The Clinical weekly publishes a description of a discovery by Professore Wasserman and Schutze of the physiological institute and Chief Director Knoch, of a method of distinguishing human blood, whether old or fresh, from that of all animals save the monkey. The experiments showed that the blood of monkeys, in respect to albumen, was next in natural affinity to the blood of man. The test was based on the employment of hamolyysine and praecipitine. The discovery will be of immense service in the detection and investigation of crime.

WEATHER NOTES.

Probs:. Fresh westerly winds and continued low temperature.

The general weather conditions have not materially altered. Decidedly cold weather prevails from the Maritime Provinces westward to the Rocky Mountains, and there is no indication of a change in Ontario or Quebec. Winnipeg reports 16 degrees below zero, Bissett 22 degrees below zero, Ottawa 10 degrees below zero, and Quebec 6 degrees below zero.

Here's an experiment: Take any illustrated monthly magazine you choose and note the quantity and quality of its contents. Then take the four or five issues for the same month of The Illustrated Buffalo Express and make a like examination of its special features (not counting the news pages) In every case it will be found that The Express gives more pictures and more matter, carefully prepared, on important topics of the day, than the monthly with which it is compared.

A SORRY SIGHT

It is, to see a strong man shaken like a reed by a paroxysm of coughing, which leaves him gasping for breath. People have suffered with bronchial affections for years, with obstinate, stubborn cough, and growing weakness. They have tried doctors and medicines in vain. At last they have been induced to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, with the general result experienced by all who put this wonderful medicine to the test—help at once, and a speedy cure.

For coughs, bronchial affections, weak lungs, spitting of blood, and other diseases of the organs of respiration, "Golden Medical Discovery" is practically a specific. It always helps; it almost always cures.

"I had been troubled with bronchitis and catarrh of the head for eight years; had severe cough, and at times great difficulty in breathing," writes J. W. Howerton, Esq., of Bigfall, Hancock Co., Tenn. "A portion of the time my appetite was poor and part of the time I was unable to do anything. I had been treated by our best country physicians for several years but with little benefit. I had been reading about your medicine for a long time but hadn't much faith in it. Last spring concluded I would try it, and before I had taken one-third of a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery I began to mend. I continued taking it until I had taken several bottles. Took Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets also. Now I feel like a new man, and can do as hard a day's work as any one."

The Chicago Tribune

is a newspaper for bright and intelligent people. It is made up to attract people who think.

Is not neutral or colorless, constantly trimming in an endeavor to please both sides, but it is independent in the best sense of the word.

It has pronounced opinions and is fearless in expressing them, but it is always fair to its opponents.

Matters of national or vital public interest get more space in THE TRIBUNE than in any other paper in the West.

For these reasons it is the newspaper you should read during the forthcoming political campaign.

THE TRIBUNE'S financial columns never mislead the public.

Its facilities for gathering news, both local and foreign, are far superior to those of any other newspaper in the West.

It presents the news in as fair a way as possible, and lets its readers form their opinions

While it publishes the most comprehensive articles on all news features, if you are busy the "Summary of THE DAILY TRIBUNE" published daily on the first page gives you briefly all the news of the day within one column.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANAdians at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 65 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts (none free); four for 80 cts; $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.25; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00 Write to day for a dozen and make money. A WONDERFUL
KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

I. A. HOPKINS.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE,
GRAVEL, DROPSY,
And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 53 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours,
I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. This case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 340 Fourth [illegible], New York. Please mention this paper.

RETIRED.

The strong tide breaks upon the narrow pier.
The ships go by; and one who knew them well
Sits at the close of day, and sits alone

Captain no more! But he remembers yet
The little town in dear old Maryland
Where first he learned by star and wind and tide
The track of the ocean, and the way of war,
Upon the wave that smote his native land.

Now all is done: a warship rides the bay,
With shining hull and blackened funnels high,
And his old heart leaps at its prisoned side,
For that his boy is there! He minds the time
When little arms were twined upon his neck,
And ears bent low to hear the thrilling tale
Of ships that fought in battles long ago.

He thinks of her who stood beside him then
With shining eyes—the light-house of his heart—
And outward passed, like to a little sail,
That, rocking in the mist, returns no more.

So comes the dusk; he hears the booming gun,
He sees the lowered flag, the night-lamps set;
And watching on the pier he falls asleep,
And dreams of golden anchors far away.
—John J. Meehan, in Leslie's Weekly

MY DOUBLE DILEMMA.

Thoroughly tired of the pier, the esplanade, and the tennis-court, one afternoon, during my stay at the seaside, I took a solitary ramble round the coast.

With the tall cliffs on one side of me and a vast expanse of ocean on the other, I made my way over sand and shingle, careless of everything save the appearance of my immaculate flannel trousers, until the town of Brinybay was hidden by a chalk promontory, and I found myself alone, or apparently alone, with Nature.

As, however, I approached an irregular mass of rock lying together at the foot of the cliff, a scarlet object appearing above them attracted my attention, and, on nearing the spot, I discovered it was a parasol shading one of the most bewitching girls I had ever beheld in my life—and I have seen a good many.

Comfortably seated on a mossy boulder and deep in the perusal of a yellow-backed volume, she was becomingly attired in a dress of pale pink, and as I passed her I fancied she peeped at me from beneath her shady straw hat; but young men always think that girls notice them, especially when like myself, they are Oxford undergraduates with their college arms emblazoned on the breast of their blue serge jackets.

I had not left this siren very far behind when my progress was suddenly brought to a stop by the sea, which had covered the beach and was lashing the base of the cliff. I at once realised the unpleasant fact that the tide was flowing, and that if I did not speedily retrace my steps, my return to Brinybay would be prevented in the same manner as my advance.

Hastening back, and passing the maiden in pink, who was reading as unconcernedly as ever, I again found my path barred by a sheet of water several yards in width. I was completely shut off from the mainland.

To scale the cliff was utterly impossible, and although I might have resumed my homeward course after wading through the water, I could not have deserted the fair girl near me, who was evidently unconscious of her critical situation. The waves were rapidly advancing towards the rocks among which she was seated, and the seaweed clinging to them told me that at high water they were totally submerged.

Approaching the parasol, I coughed.

"Excuse me," I said, "but the tide is coming in very fast, and, I am afraid, will soon be up here."

"Oh, dear!" she exclaimed, blushing, and hurriedly looking around her. "Oh, dear, how very stupid of me not to notice it; whatever shall I do?"

"The only possible way of getting back," I remarked, as she slowly closed her book and left her seat, "is across this piece of water, but it is rather deep."

In silence she followed me to the spot, and after gazing upon the fast-widening barrier, looked up at me and smiled.

"I think I know how we can overcome the difficulty," I said, "but I hope you won't be offended at my suggestion."

"Oh, no, no," she exclaimed, with a little laugh; "anything as long as I can get out of this horrid fix."

"Then, I believe I could manage to carry you across, if you wouldn't object," I said, after some hesitation.

Another smile illumined her fair countenance, and she replied in tones of the deepest sincerity—

"Oh, thank you, thank you; I should feel so grateful if you would, so very much obliged."

Throwing off my shoes and socks, and tucking up my immaculate ones, I put the yellow-covered book into one of my capacious pockets, deposited my stick with the scarlet parasol on the beach and gently lifting its fair owner in my arms, in another moment had forded the water and deposited her on terra firma.

She returned with me to Brinybay. Her thanks were overwhelming, and ere long we were chatting together like a couple of old friends.

A proposal I made for taking her mother for a sail in my yacht pleased her more than ever, and when I parted with her near the pier—though ignorant of her name and connection—I thought she was the most charming girl I had met with for a long time.

On arriving at my apartments I found that the yellow-covered volume which she had entrusted to my care was still in my pocket. I opened it and found on the title-page the following: "Bessie Cragg, Sea View Villa, Brinybay."

Not displeased at my discovery, I penned a polite little note to "Miss Cragg"—who was evidently the bewitching possessor of the scarlet parasol—in which, after briefly referring to her book, I had the boldness to fix a day for the proposed yatching expedition.

Neatly enclosing the epistle with the volume, I left the parcel that evening at Sea View Villa.

Next morning I was told that a gentleman desired to speak to me in private. I ordered my landlady to show the visitor in, and forthwith a black-looking man, of middle age, entered my parlor.

"Mr. Lyon, I presume?" he began, eyeing me unpleasantly.

"I am Mr. Lyon; what is it?" I said, annoyed at the stranger's manner.

"What is it?" he sneered; "what is it, indeed young man! What do you mean by sending my wife such stuff as this, and by asking her to accompany you in a yacht, etc., you impertinent fellow?" and he threw my little note to Bessie Cragg on to the table.

"Your wife?" I exclaimed in confusion, "your wife, sir? I think you are in error; I think that you have made a mistake, sir."

"Mistake!" cried the stranger fiercely; "mistake—fiddlesticks. I am Mr. Joseph Cragg, young man, and if ever I catch you insulting my wife with another such billet doux it's ten to one you won't have a chance of repeating the offense!"

With this terrible threat, my visitor left the house.

I threw myself into a chair and groaned aloud—a pretty ending, forsooth, to the romantic incident of the preceding day.

During the next week I had little bliss; it made me miserable to think that fair and frolicsome Bessie was bound for life to such a wolfish monster as Joseph Cragg.

On reflection, I wondered why she hadn't informed her husband of her adventure by the seaside (for I presumed he was unaware of it,) and why, when she was with me, she had appeared so eager to accept my invitation.

I met Mrs. Cragg several times alone in the town and on the pier, but always passed her without any token of recognition. On one occasion I fancied she smiled faintly at me, but taking no notice of her familiarity, I thought, for a married person, that her behaviour was extremely improper.

Just a week after my eventful ramble round the coast, while strolling listlessly on the esplande, I was surprised on being accosted by a pleasant-looking old lady who, grasping my hand, exclaimed—

"Are you the gentleman that saved my dear little Marie from being drowned when almost caught by the tide some days ago?"

I was absolutely bewildered, nor was it until I was seated in the gushing old lady's drawing-room conversing with her and her fair grand-daughter Marie—the identical possessor of the scarlet parasol—that an explanation of the whole affair took place.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cragg was a friend of Marie's and had lent her the yellow-backed volume which, on being returned to its original owner, had fallen into the hands of Mr. Cragg.

Without showing either the book or the note to his wife, this gentleman had opened the letter with the above recorded unpleasant result.

It may interest the reader to know that Marie and I took our yachting trip as proposed, and thoroughly enjoyed it, too; but beyond the information contained in the appending newspaper cutting, I cannot furnish further particulars of the consequences of my eventful ramble when, although I eluded the clutches of Neptune, I fell a victim to the snares of Cupid.

> Lyon—Brading.—August 4, at St. Old's, Brinybay, by the Rector, the Rev. P. Prosy, M. A., Charles Lyon, eldest son of John Lyon, Esq., of Harrowfield, Hants, to Maria, daughter of Colonel John Brading, Royal Slashers.

How to Read the Tongue.

The perfect tongue is clean, moist, lies loosely in the mouth, is round at the edge and has no prominent papilae.

The tongue may be furred from local cause or from sympathy with the stomach, intestines or liver.

The dry tongue occurs most frequently in fever and indicates a nervous prostration or depression.

A white tongue is diagnostic simply of the feverish condition, with perhaps a sour stomach. When it is moist and yellowish brown it shows disordered digestion. Dry and brown indicates a low state of the system, possibly typhoid.

When the tongue is dry and red and smooth, look out for inflammation, gastic or intestinal.

When the papilae on the end of the tongue are raised and very red it is called a strawberry tongue, and that means scarlet fever.

Sharp pointed red tongue will hint of brain irritation or inflammation, and a yellow coating indicates liver derangement.

The world contains an oversupply of average men.

Humors.

Come to the surface in the spring as in no other season. It's a pity they don't run themselves all off that way; but in spite of pimples and other eruptions, they mostly remain in the system. That's bad.

Hood's Sarsaparilla removes them and cures all the painful and disfiguring troubles they cause. Nothing else cleanses the system and clears the complexion like Hood's.

—Don't forget the Board of Trade meeting on Monday night.

Incorrigible.

A poor little street Arab was brought into a hospital by the police. He had been run over by an omnibus and was badly injured. The chaplain was sent for, as it was thought improbable that the boy would live many hours. With little tact the chaplain began the interview thus: "My boy, the doctors think you are very much hurt. Have you been a good little boy?"

Boy (much bored)—You git aout!

Chaplain (shocked)—But I am afraid you are not a good little boy, and you know you may perhaps be going to die.

Boy (anxious to end the interview)—Well, tain't none o' your business any'ow. Wot's me death got to do with you? 'Ave you got a pal in the coffin line?

It is pleasant to be able to relate that the boy finally recovered.

Now and then the doctor is believed to be almost omniscient. A patient in a military hospital was constantly getting into hot water because he smuggled food into the wards. One morning his medical officer was about to examine his throat with a laryngoscope. Seeing the little mirror all ready for use the man's chum whispered an anxious warning from the adjoining bed. "I say, Bill, you'd best 'ave a care. 'Ee moight 'appen to see wot yer 'ad for supper lawst noight."—Cornhill Magazine.

A Sad Record

A sad record is that of the Newton family. A brother of Mrs. Newton returned from the shanties suffering from typhoid fever. The father, mother and daughter took the disease, and died, and on Saturday morning an eight-year old boy succumbed at Nicholls Hospital to the malady, making four deaths in the family.

The Churches Yesterday

Rev. P. C. Parker, of College avenue Baptist Church, Toronto, a former pastor of the Murray Street Baptist Church, yesterday exchanged with the pastor morning and evening, preaching impressive sermons.

The subjects yesterday were "The Poor in Spirit," and "Definite Knowledge of Salvation, respectively. Both services will be conducted by Rev. W. L. Armitage.

Two special courses of Lenten instruction were commenced in St. Luke's yesterday. At the morning service the general subject was, "Christian Ethics," which was treated in seven sermons as follows: (1) What do we mean by Christian Ethics? (2) The Christian Ideal; (3) Individual Morality; (4) Social Ethics, the Family and the State; (5) Social Ethics, The Church; (6) The True Nature and Reasonableness of Self-Sacrifice; (7) Humanity's Perfection (Easter Day). At the evening service the general subject was "The Bible." (1) What is the Bible? (2) Inspiration and Revelation; (3) Objections to the Bible; (4) Progressive Character of Revelation; (5) The Fundamental Truth of the Bible; (6) The Bible Doctrine of Sacrifice; (7) The Goal of Revelation.

A special service for young men was held in St. Andrew's last night. The subject of address was "Military Service." Miss Jessie McNab, mezzo-soprano, of Toronto, assisted in the praise service.

PETERBOROUGH COURT

Successful Anniversary Celebration Held on Friday Evening Last

The 22nd anniversary of Court Peterborough, Canadian Order of Foresters, was celebrated on Friday evening and was a great success. For twenty-two years since its inception, succession has ever marked the history of the Court, and to-day it stands one of the strongest and most influential in the entire range of Canadian Forestry.

The members of the Court were present in large numbers, about 300 Foresters and their friends being on hand.

The chair was ably filled by Mr. William Robinson, past District Deputy, who delivered a short and appropriate address.

An address by Rev. J. S. Potter, followed by vocal and instrumental music, was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

An able address by Mr. Stanley, a member of the Court, furnished evidence of the great good the Court had done in Peterborough.

After the entertainment a pleasant hop was held in the dance hall. This was much enjoyed by the young people.

The Late Mr. John Hetherington

The many friends of Mr. John Hetherington, shoemaker, George street, will regret to hear of his demise, which occurred on Saturday last, after an illness of only a few days. Mr. Hetherington suffered from a severe attack of la grippe, which was followed by pneumonia, which carried him off. The deceased came to Peterborough about nine years ago, and was highly respected. He was twice married, his first wife preceding him thirty years ago. His second wife, who was Miss May Donaldson, is left with several children to mourn his sudden demise. The children are Willie George, of Souris, Man.; Jack, of Sherbrooke, Que.; Mrs. Roberts, of Toronto, Nellie, Arthur, Edna and Stanley, at home. Deceased was an active member of Court Chemong, I.O.F., and was prominent as an Orangeman. He was also a member of the A.O.U.W. He was a Methodist in religion and a member of the George Street Church.

The funeral will take place to-morrow at 2.30 o'clock under the auspices of the Independent Order of Foresters and the Orangemen, from the family residence, 623 George street, to the Little Lake cemetery.

Court Chemong, I.O.F.

The members of Court Chemong, 530, I.O.F., and any visiting brethren, are requested to assemble at the Hall, 422 George street, on Tuesday, the 26th, at 2 o'clock p.m., for the purpose of attending the funeral of our late Brother John Hetherington. Thos. Dale, C.R., J. W. Buyers, R.S.

MAKE THE CHANGE

Before Coffee Wrecks You

"The right man came along one day when he told me that coffee drinking was the cause of my gastritis, nervousness, torpid liver, and trembling hands that interfered with my business, that of mechanical drawing, but coffee was my only habit and I loved it so that I did not see how I could give it up.

If he had not been so enthusiastic regarding the relief in his case by leaving off coffee and taking Postum Food Coffee I could not have mustered up will power enough to abandon my favorite beverage.

I left off coffee that day at lunch and had a cup of Postum. It was made good and had a rich, dark color, with a delicious flavor that I could not tell from regular coffee. It pleased the eye, smell and palate, so I had it each day at the restaurant for the day lunch, and discovered a decided improvement in my condition, but it was not until I left off coffee for breakfast and used Postum in its place that real relief set in. Now I am free from gastritis, headaches, and fully appreciate the value of the 'nerve ease.' No more trembling hands and no more nervous prostration. I am well, and feel that I should say to others who are being poisoned by a beverage that they do not suspect, 'coffee,' 'Make the change before the poison works destruction in you."

This letter is from a New York mechanical draughtsman. Name can be furnished by the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., at Battle Creek, Mich.

"Better the Feet Slip Than the Tongue."

Slips of any kind are to be deplored, but there is one slip Nature never forgives. It is the carelessness of ignoring the signal that the body is in danger of wreck. It may be that the kidneys or the stomach or the head gives the warning sign. But remember, the blood feeds every organ of the body.

Make no slip, but first tone up the system through the blood, and health will surely follow. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best preparation man has devised to make pure, life-giving blood. It never disappoints.

Swellings—"I had a swelling on my chest. It caused me great pain and many sleepless nights. Physicians advised an operation but my daughter urged that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla instead. I did so and after using six bottles, the swelling went away and I have not had any more pains." MRS. J. W. CRONKWRIGHT, 432 Front St., Belleville, Ont.

Erysipelas—"I would strongly urge the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla for erysipelas or any scrofulous disease. I have received great benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla for the former complaint. It is an excellent blood purifier." MRS. H. D. WEST, Church Street, Cornwallis, Nova Scotia.

A DRY DOCK NEEDED.

The completion of the Canal Means the Building of a Dock.

We will probably see the completion of the hydraulic lift lock and the opening to navigation next spring. Deals are being closed every week for lands bordering on the lakes above, with the object in view by purchasers of taking out the wood and timber and bringing such things to the front by means of the canal. Thousands of acres of land have changed hands of late as a consequence of the completion of the canal in the near future. A new industry may be presently looked for—the building of canal boats and barges. A river lot in town has been recently bought with the object of starting up such an industry.

A need that is already felt, and one that will be increasingly apparent, is that of dry dock to facilitate the re[illegible] At times the lock, below the [illegible]ery, has been used for this purpose, but only after navigation had closed. When repairs were required, during the summer, the craft had to be hauled out on skids and such work done as might be necessary. The completion of the stretch of the canal from the lift lock to the Little lake offers a fine chance to supplement the purposes of the canal with a convenient dry dock. Quite close to the canal and near the shore of the lake a dock could be excavated. It can be built to be flooded from the canal, and at such an elevation above the lake that the dock could be drained by means of a pipe. This would avoid the use of engines and pumps for removing the water and emptying the lock. The only dock suitable for repair of boats is at Bobcaygeon. Once traffic opens up some such convenience will be a necessity at Peterborough as a central point.

STOP LOSING MONEY

You Cannot Guess Winners

Horse races are "MIGHTY UNCERTAIN" things to bet on, if you depend on a GUESS to win, a thousand miles from the scene. Thousands have tried before you and have failed. The chances are a thousand to one you will fail too.

You Cannot Handicap Winners

Horses are not machines. They rarely repeat performances. Many of them look at the odds in the betting ring before they go to the post—that is, their owners do it for them. Horses do not always "try." They run for the benefit of their owners, not the public.

THIS BEATS ALL

Among our many winners recently were SARILLA, 50 to 1, Jan. 8; CALLEUR, 10 to 1, Jan. 14; and AZIA, 10 to 1, Jan. 15.

WILL PETERBORO HAVE A BEET SUGAR FACTORY?

Important Matter Brought Before the Board of Trade Last Night

IT WOULD MEAN HALF A MILLION FOR A PLANT

And Half a Million a Year Paid to Farmers—To be Fully Discussed on Thursday Evening

A meeting of the Board of Trade was held last evening in the Council chamber. The proceedings were somewhat informal, owing to the absence part of the time of a quorum, but several interesting subjects were discussed.

Mr. Burnham addressed the Board on the matter of the G.T.R. making Portland, Me., its winter terminus. He quoted an editorial in the Montreal Witness, which he characterized as a sedate, sensible paper, in which it was charged that Ontario, Toronto especially, through a jealous feeling, was rather pleased to see Montreal handicapped. He believed the Witness to be mistaken and believed the Boards of Trade of Ontario should urge upon the Government the importance of action in favor of the port of Montreal.

Messrs. Harrison and Dumble spoke in support of Mr. Burnham's contention. Mr. Dumble said that in the Baltic Russia has ships which break ice 6, 8 and even ten feet in thickness.

Moved by Col. H. C. Rogers, seconded by Mr. Arthur Stevenson,—That as Canadians, remembering the substantial aid given by the country to assist the construction of the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways, we naturally look to these as Canadian institutions, whose natural workings should aid in the upbuilding of our own country. This Board is hopeful that every effort will be made to retain Quebec and Montreal as the great shipping ports of the Dominion, that the Government will take all such steps as are needful to make these ports available for ocean shipping and for as long a season as possible. This Board also hopes that our two great railways may be so inspired with Canadian sentiments as will induce them to give every preference to Canadian ports as against foreign ports.

The following resolution was also adopted:

Moved by D. W. Dumble, seconded by J. H. Burnham,—Whereas it is now fully demonstrated that from the Atlantic to the Pacific our country is rich in minerals, a fact confirmed by the action of foreign capitalists in establishing smelting works for the reduction of ores and the manufacturing of steel and iron.

And whereas the abundance of mineral wealth promises a great future in this country if rightly utilized, and whereas in the competition of nations those countries have the advantage where the highest attainments have been reached in science and technical education.

Be it therefore resolved, that in the opinion of this Board it is incumbent upon our Provincial Government to make most liberal provisions in our universities and technical schools for the imparting of the highest education in such sciences as may be applied for the fullest development and utilization of our mineral wealth.

That this resolution be engrossed and sent to the Premier of this Province, and that copies be sent to all the Boards of Trade in this Province to consider the same.

Mr. Dumble, in speaking to the motion, referred to the revelations of mineral wealth in Canada during the last five years. This is the iron age, and there are great stores of iron in Canada. We are fifth in the world in the production of gold. He cited as showing what was doing elsewhere that the German Government had for years been paying for experiments to get by chemical process the natural product of indigo. If the experiments succeed, Germany will produce the world's indigo. It is this kind of thing that causes Germany to surpass other nations in commerce and manufactures.

Mr. Harrison supported the motion and mentioned that on a visit to Rat Portage, where he was interested in some property, he met Professor Nicholl of the Kingston School of Mines giving lessons in mineralogy. He had no doubt the School of Mines would send a professor to Peterborough if requested, in the central and northern part of this county there is a great deal of mineral wealth lying undeveloped. The motion was carried unanimously.

BEET SUGAR.

A deputation from the Farmers' Institute, composed of Messrs. Hunter, Elliott and Collins, was introduced to the Board. Mr. Elliott was the first speaker and explained that what they wished to bring before the Board was the matter of bringing the beet sugar industry to Peterborough. He spoke of the success of this industry in Michigan, the State having adopted the bounty system. Hon. E. J. Davis had said that the Ontario Government intended to assist the industry. At Bay City the refineries paid to farmers in one year $685,000. Land near the city formerly valued at $40 per acre was now worth $125. There was a profit to the farmers raising beets of $70 per acre. The manufacturers asked a Government bounty of one cent per pound of sugar produced for a term of five years; after that the industry would be self-supporting. The soil of Ontario has been found all right for sugar beets.

Mr. Burnham asked about the failure of the industry in Quebec.

Mr. Elliott said that for one thing the soil in that Province was not suitable. Another reason was that at the time of the Quebec experiment there was more cane than beet sugar produced, whereas now there is 176 per cent. more beet than cane sugar made.

Mr. Hunter suggested that the Town and County Councils be asked to co-operate in encouraging the industry. Farmers in this section grow the sugar beet for fodder and it develops well.

Mr. Collins spoke of the existence of a sugar beet association in Ontario. It was not decided where to locate the factory or factories. The Province receives $15,000,000 per year for cheese and spends $15,000,000 for sugar. Why not keep that money in Ontario? It was demonstrated ten years ago that the soil here is admirably adapted for beet sugar. There is no better location for a factory than this town, with its shipping facilities and water supply—a vast quantity of water is needful in the manufacture of beet sugar.

Mr. Dumble spoke of the railway lines radiating from Peterborough like the spokes of a wheel, and the waterways and their improvement. There could be no better centre for bringing in the beets. He believed, however, that some western Ontario towns had taken the matter up. As a plant would cost half a million dollars, he questioned whether more than one factory would be built in Ontario and questioned whether Peterborough could get ahead of the larger centers.

Mr. Burnham said there was no doubt a beet sugar factory would be of enormous benefit to Peterborough. He moved that in view of the importance of the matter the meeting be adjourned until Thursday evening and that an effort be made to then have a full attendance of members of the Board and representative citizens.

The motion carried and the meeting adjourned.

All members of the Board and public-spirited citizens should attend Thursday evening's meeting. Peterborough has an even chance with any other place in the Province to secure the industry.

A Pathetic Scene

Scranton, Feb. 25.—While her baby lay dying in her arms Mrs. Joseph Derwanko was called before Court for sentence to-day. While she was listening to the learned remarks of the Judge the woman felt the little form she carried in her arms stiffen out, and, taking one glance at its face cried out:

"Oh! It's dead! It's dead!" And throwing up her arms, fainted, while bystanders caught the child as it fell from the mother's arms. A hasty examination revealed the fact that, while the child was not dead, it was dying, and restoratives were administered at once. Judge Archbald then suspended sentence and sent the woman to her home, the lawyers present making up a collection to buy food for the child, which was suffering from starvation.

HISTORY OF THE LATE MAJOR HOWARD

Who Distinguished Himself in the Northwest Rebellion in 1885

Killed in South Africa Recently While Leading the Canadian Scouts in Battle

Major A. L. Howard—"Gatling" Howard—was a picturesque figure of the second Canadian contingent. In two campaigns in which Canadian troops fought he served as an expert in the use of machine guns. An employe of the famous Colt firm, and virtually a soldier of fortune, he first came to Canada in 1885. Gen. Middleton's column was strengthened by the acquisition of two Gatling guns the rather primitive weapons, worked with a crank, from which the Maxims of the present day are descended. With them came Capt. Howard, and the genial, companionable veteran of a peculiarly fiery valor, soon became a general favorite and a conspicuous figure in the camp. At Batoche he distinguished himself. The terrifying rattle of his "devil-gun," as the half-breeds styled his weapon, had a great mortal effect, although upon the subject of the actual loss caused by it the usual differences of opinion manifested themselves. On one occasion he rendered unquestionable service, checking an ugly rush upon the nine-pounders.

When the Mounted Rifles were sent to South Africa a galloping party of four Colt automatic guns—very different weapons from the old Gatlings—was purchased, and with them came Capt. Howard, who for some years had been living in Canada. The rank of lieutenant was given him at first, but he soon rose higher in rank, and saw all the fighting that the mounted men saw. The flight of years has not lessened his energy or his delight in the fight, and he displayed a peculiar faculty for getting into hot corners, which, combined with his utter disregard of formalities and his fearless directness of colloquial speech, brought him a good deal of fame. Lieut. Morrison in an excellent letter from the front gave a most graphic account of Major Howard's knack of getting into grips with the Boers. Lieut.-Col. Lessard on frequent occasions, with his vivacious humor, complained of the way in which Howard would get into trouble, and have to be brought off, even at the cost of an action which had not entered into the plans of the chiefs.

When the mounted men returned home Major Howard preferred to remain, and formed a corps known as the Canadian Scouts, drawn from men of the Canadian mounted contingent who wished to stay on. Sergeants' pay was given the men of this corps, showing the high regard in which they were held. On several occasions they distinguished themselves. Poor Major Howard has evidently exposed himself once too often.

CANADIANS TO GUARD HALIFAX

Third Special Service Battalion Will Remain on Duty There

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—The Canadian Regiment at Halifax, Third Special Service Battalion, R.C.I., whose term of enlistment expires next month, is to remain in the service and perform garrison duty at the great Atlantic naval and military station. Arrangements are now being made at headquarters to recruit to full strength, and replace those who intend taking the discharge at the end of their term of service. Men belonging to the regiment here on furlough say the regiment is getting into fine shape, and compares well with the British regulars.

ARE WILLING TO SURRENDER.

Cape Town, Feb. 25.—It is reported that the influential commandant, Piet Fourie, and several hundred Boers in the De Wetsdorp district are willing to surrender if the commandant shall receive a proposition direct from General Kitchener.

Frankfort-on-the-Main, Feb. 25. — King Edward arrived here early this morning and was received by the staff of the British Consulate. After breakfast his Majesty strolled about the station platform until Emperor William arrived. The greetings exchanged by the monarchs were most cordial. At 9 o'clock the King and the Emperor boarded a train and proceeded for Cronberg.

AT THE BEDSIDE.

Concert in St. Andrews

A very enjoyable concert was given in St Andrew's church lecture hall last night, under the direction of Mr. J. H. Paine, Toronto. The programme consisted of music on the pianola, composers, Miss. Jessie McNab, of Toronto, sang in very fine voice, and was heartily applauded. The entertainment was delightful throughout.

The Difference

A by-law to exempt the King Shirt Company from taxes was voted down by the ratepayers of Belleville. They don't do it that way in Peterborough. We pass a by-law through the Council, and get the Legislature to legalize it. The ratepayers have no voice in the matter.

AMERICAN POWER TO BE MAINTAINED

Unkle Sam Will retain His Suzerainty Over Cuba

Washington, Feb. 25.—The Senate Committee on Relations with Cuba has agreed to an amendment to the army appropriation bill regarding Cuba.

It is the general impression that the agreement to-day makes an extra session of Congress unnecessary.

The text of the amendment is as follows.

"That the fulfilment of the declareation contained in the joint resolution approved Aqril 20th, 1898, entitled 'for the recognition of the independence of the people of Cuba, demanding that the Government of Spain relinquish its authority and Government in the Island of Cuba, and to withdraw its land and naval forces from Cuba and Cuban waters, and directing the President of the United States to use the land and naval forces of the United States to carry these resolutions into effect,' the President is hereby authorized to leave the Government and control of the Island of Cuba to its people so soon as a Government shall have been established in said Island, under a constitution which, either as a part thereof or in any ordiance appended thereto, shall define the future relations of the United States with Cuba, substantially as follows:

"(1). That the Government of Cuba shall never enter into any treaty or other compact with any foreign power or powers which will impair or tend to impair the independence of Cuba, nor in any manner authorize or permit any foreign power or powers to obtain a colonization, or for mititary or naval purposes or otherwise lodgment in or control over any portion of said Island.

"(2). That said Government shall not assume or contract any public debt to pay the interest upon which and to make reasonable sinking fund provision for the ultimate discharge of which the ordinary revenue sof the island, after defraying the current expenses of Government, shall be inadequate.

"3. That the Government of Cuba consents that the United States may exercise the right to intervene for the preservation of Cuba independence, the maintenance of a Government adequate for the protection of life, property, and individual liberty, and for discharging the obligations with respect to Cuba imposed by the treaty of Paris on the United States, now to be assumed and undertaken by the Government of Cuba.

"4. That all acts of the United States in Cuba during its military occupancy thereof are ratified and validated, and all lawful rights acquired thereunder shall be maintained and protected.

"5. That the Government of Cuba will execute, and as far as necessary extend, the plans already devised, or other plans to be mutually agreed upon, for the sanitation of the cities of the island, to the end that a recurrence of epidemic and infectious diseases may be prevented, thereby assuring protection to the people and commerce of Cuba, as well as to the commerce of the southern ports of the United States and the people residing therein.

"6. That the Isle of Pines shall be ommitted from the proposed constitutional boundaries of Cuba, and the title thereto left to future adjustment by treaty.

"7. That to anable the United States to maintain the independence of Cuba, and to protect the people thereof, as well as for its own defence, the Government of Cuba will sell or lease to the United States lands necessary for cooling or naval stations at certain specified points to be agreed upon with the President of the United States.

"8. That by way of further assurance the Government of Cuba will embody the foregoing provisions in a permanent treaty with the United States."

THE STEEL COMBINE NOW INCORPORATED

Articles Filed Yesterday for its Completion

New York, Feb. 25.—Articles of incorporation of the United States Steel Corporation were filed this morning at the office of the County Clerk of Hudson County, New Jersey. This concern is the gigantic Morgan-Carnegie combine. The agent in New Jersey of the new corporation is the Hudson Trust Company, of 51 York street, Hoboken.

The objects of the corporation are to manufacture steel, iron, copper and other materials, and to own, occupy and develop mines, and to own means of transportation. The provision is made that the corporation shall not own a railroad in the State of New Jersey.

The incorporations are Charles C. Cluff, W. J. Curtis and Charles MacVeagh.

The total authorized capital stock is $3,000, divided into 30 shares of $100 each. The provision is made that the stock may be increased at any time. The papers filed in Jersey City are brief and give few details, but it is understood that the combine includes the Carnegie Company, the American Steel & Wire Company, the American Steel Hoop Company, the National Tube Company, the American Sheet Steel Company, the American Tin Plate Company, the National Steel Company, and the Federal Steel Company.

A DEEP WELL IS NOW TO BE SUNK

An Attempt to Relieve the Shortage of Natural Gas in Essex

Windsor, Ont. Feb. 25.—The United Gas and Oil Company intends making an experiment which if successful will relieve the gas famine in Windsor and the entire Essex gas belt. The company propose to sink a well to a greater depth than ever before, and some experts are of the opinion that gas will be ofund to a depth of about 1900 feet. The wells now in existence in the Essex gas belt have a depth of 975 to 1,000 feet. At this depth the limestone is passed through and gas has been found in the clinton rock. The log of the new well will be through the limestone, clinton, slate and into the trenton rock. The gas company has secured the services of Charley Walcher, of Toledo, Ohio, to superintend the drilling of the new well. He went to Ruthven Saturday to look over the ground. Mr. Walcher said he had been engaged in the work for fifteen years. He is confihent that he will find gas in the trenton rock in South Essex, and says he will not be suprised if he locates an oil gusher. He will commence the work to-day, and estimates that the well be finished in thirty days.

A SMALLPOX PATIENT

A Man Having the Disease Travels From Lindsay to Toronto

The passengers on the train between Lindsay and Toronto this morning are much agitated over the fact that they were accompanied on the trip by a smallpox patient, who came to Toronto on his own account for treatment.

Early this morning Dr. Sheard, Medical Health officer, received a telegram from Lindsay saying that a man suspected of having smallpox had gone by the morning train to Toronto. The doctor sent men at once to all the stations with instructions to take charge of the suspect. He escaped their observation, however, and getting off at East Toronto station, made his way to Dr. Sheard's private residence on Jarvis street. He there told his story to Mrs. Sheard, who promptly sent him to Dr. Sheard at the City Hall. Upon his arrival there, Dr. Sheard took him into a private room, and after examination pronounced the disease a bad case of smallpox. The patient was promptly removed to the Smallpox Isolation Hospital.

Dr. Sheard refused to give the patient's name. He is about thirty years of age and says that he left Sudbury on Feb. 9th for Parry Sound. He became sick there on Wednesday and went to Lindsay on Thursday. He consulted a Lindsay doctor on Saturday, and yesterday was told that he had smallpox, and was given a room in one of the town hotels. Believing that he could get better treatment in Toronto he left the hotel quietly this morning without the doctor's knowledge, and undisturbed made the trip to this city.

The G.T.R. car in which the young man travelled from Lindsay to the city has been thorougbout disinfected and placed in an isolated part of the yard. Dr. Sheard has also disinfected the Health Office.

The other smallpox patient in the hospital is steadily improving; his recovery is now beyond doubt.

THE BURLEIGH FALLS SCHEME

Cobourg Wants the Scheme Pushed With Vigor

Cobourg Post: For several weeks Mr. Culverwell, of Toronto, has been in Cobourg and other points between this town and Burleigh Falls endeavoring to launch a scheme to supply Cobourg and other places with power for manufacturing and illuminating purposes. That gentleman is asking our council to grant him a permit to erect poles on our streets so as to enable him to convey said power to the different factories and to private consumers. He is not asking the exclusive right, and has no desire to deprive other corporations of the same privilege if they wish it. Mr. Culverwell is certainly very fair in his proposition and if Cobourg people have any desire to be progressive, they should urge the council to give the promoter of the power scheme every encouragement. This town is certainly in bad shape as far as offering inducements to manufacturers. We have no water power, and the present electric light company cannot supply power for driving machinery, and unless it is brought from outside places, we will continue in the same old rut. Had we power to sell, we have no doubt numerous industries could be induced to locate here, for all manufacturers carefully consider the question of cheap power when about to locate their works. By all means give Mr. Culverwell's proposal a fair consideration and put no obstructions in the way to prevent its early advent in Cobourg.

BRUTALITY OF BOERS

The Natives Flogged Unmercifully

FOR NOT SALUTING THEM

De Lisle's Dash Upon Calvinia—Great Mobility

Calvinia, Feb. 25.—Further particulars are given regarding Col. De Lisle's dashing entry of this place after a march over two mountain ranges and across the desolate and waterless karoo His column received from the inhabitants an enthusiastic and almost frenzied welcome, which was significant of sincere relief felt at deliverance from the short reign terror imposed by the Boers.

After gaining possession of a pass called Boschkloof, the force rested on the summit during the heat of the day and at four o'clock recommenced their weary march. A few farmers along the route gave us to understand that Calvinia had been evacuated, but Colonel De Lisle ordered his men to make cure, and also to secure any of the enemy who might delay their departure. He employed his favorite manoeuvre of galloping on the enemy's position. A company of the Welsh Mounted Infantry, under Lieutenant Derry, acted as advance guard. When they got within two miles of the town the company extended along a front of nearly three miles, advancing at a slow canter. On a signal from Col. De Lisle, the whole company galloped forward, the wings sweeping round, so that they enclosed the town, while Lieut. Derry, with some of his men in the centre, thundered through the streets at full gallop. The enemy, however, had evacuted the place, though we nearly caught a few stragglers, who had ridden away when the preceived the dust raised by our advance.

DE LISLE'S ENTRY.

Colonel De Lisle, who followed close on the heels of the advance guard, entered the town by a side path, and arrived at the court house almost before the inhabitants had awakened to the fact that the place was once more in British hands. A little later the rest of the column arrived, and the advance guard then marched quietly to the court house, where a scene of extraordinary enthusiasm occurred. The white population, men, women, and children, crowded round the troops, shook hands with them, shouted and cheered, but the enthusiasm of the natives, passed all bounds. They danced, shricked, laughed, and cried from sheer delight at the entry of their deliverers. They collected fruit for them, while tea and coffee were brought to the men by the inhabitants, and each new arrival saluted with renewed cheers. People ran and fetched cloths, wiped down the horses, petted their necks, and brought buckets of water for them to drink. One horse the natives mistook for Col. De Lisle's, and after they had rubbed down and given it water, they tied two Union Jacks to the saddle, and walked the horse up and down, surrounded by a crowd of Kaffirs shouting in a frenzy of joy.

BOER BRUTALITY.

These demonstrations of delight were so extraordinary that the members of the force were at first quite unable to account for them, but the reason soon became apparent. Whatever the conduct of the Boers may have been elsewhere during the war, at Calvinia they had behaved with brutal cruelty. For the very slightest offences natives were flogged with heavy sjamboks, never receiving less than twenty-five lashes. If the natives passed one of the Boers without saluting him they were often sent to jail, where they received a heavy flogging. All those who, before the arrival of the enemy, were known to have openly expressed their pride at being British subjects, were thrashed unmercifully.

But the crowning act of cruelty was in the sad case of a colored boy named Esau, who, when Mafeking was relieved, organized and headed a procession in honor of the event. Soon after the Boers arrived they took him prisoner, and afterwards gave him a hideous flogging across the loins, which resulted in inflammation of the kidneys. Yesterday morning he was ordered to march out of the town, but being in a state of absolute collapse, he was hardly able to struggle along. A mile out of the town he was placed on a horse and taken off the road, where he was murdered in cold blood by one of the escort, who shot him dead. To-day his body was brought into the town, where it will be buried this afternoon. Towards the white inhabitants the Boers behaved with scarcely less cruelty.

WEATHER NOTES.

During Saturday night a storm moved northward from the Atlantic to Nova Scotia, and gales and heavy snow were prevalent throughout Eastern Canada. The temperature continues low in the Northwest Territories, but the general tendency there, as in Ontario and Quebec, will be for milder weather.

LOCAL NEWS LETTERS.

HALL'S GLEN.

Divine service was held at St. George's Church on Sunday night as usual, the service being taken by Mr. Smith, of Lakefield.

Owing to the disagreeable weather the gang of men, who are putting in ice for the campers, were unable to commence operations until Monday last.

The saw-mill which Mr. Wilson is to erect on White Lake has not arrived yet owing to the roads being badly drifted.

The attendance at the Ash Wednesday service in St. George's Church was very small.

A gentleman who drove up from Warsaw, to St. George's church recently, tied his horse to the back of a cutter in the driving shed. When the service was over and the owner of the cutter went to get it he found it in a very bad state. The horse had pulled the upholstering all off the back and smashed the frame pretty badly. As the cutter was a new one the owner was naturally very much annoyed, but the gentleman who owned the horse consented to pay damages and the matter was let drop.

On Sunday evening, as the people were leaving the church, a horse owned by one of our sporty young men, made things both lively and dangerous for a few minutes. Each time it was driven up to the door it would rear and plunge, narrowly missing the crowd of people who were forced to retreat in order to save themselves. One young lady demonstrated her ability for climbing a fence in cases of emergency.

MOB TORTURES A NEGRO.

Assailant of Miss Arnold Taken from Jail and Swung to a Tree.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 24.—The fury of the mob at Dyersburg, Tenn., just across the Tennessee line, is unabated and a reign of terror for the negroes has been inaugurated. Last night the same mob which lynched Fred King for assaulting Miss Alice Arnold took from the jail Bebee Montgomery, who was implicated by King, and swung him to the limb of the famous "Mike lynching tree." When nearly unconscious he was lowered and a demand upon him to confess his guilt. He refused and was again swung up. This performance was repeated five times in all, after which, more dead than alive, Montgomery was carried back to the jail and delivered to the jailer.

The mob decided to wait until the third negro implicated by King is caught before lynching Montgomery. King in his confession gave the names of five of the most prominent young ladies in the city, who had been slated for assault. The vigilance committee which has been hunting the third negro yesterday and last night whipped over thirty negroes out of town. The sheriff has summoned a posse of fifty men and declares that neither Montgomery nor the two other negroes in jail shall be taken from it without bloodshed.

The rougher element in the mob have been counseling death at the stake, but the better men, some of them prominent citizens, have threatened to expose the perpetrators if such a plan is carried out. There is little doubt now that Montgomery, and possibly others, will be lynched within a day or two. No appeal for the militia has been made.

THE DREAM OF MOTHERHOOD COMES TRUE WHEN Dr. PIERCE'S FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION IS USED.

Mrs. Axel Kjer, of Gordonville, Cape Girardeau Co., Mo., writes: "When I look at my little boy I feel it my duty to write you. Perhaps some one will see my testimony and be led to use your 'Favorite Prescription' and be blessed in the same way. I took nine bottles and to my surprise it carried me through and gave us as fine a little boy as ever was. Weighed ten and one-half pounds. He is now five months old, has never been sick a day, and is so strong that every body who sees him wonders at him. He is so playful and holds himself up so well."

250,000 Cured.

WE CURE STRICTURE

Thousands of young and middle-aged men are troubled with this disease—many unconsciously. They may have a smarting sensation, small, twisting stream, sharp cutting pains at times, slight discharge, difficulty in commencing, weak organs, emissions, and all the symptoms of nervous debility—they have STRICTURE. Don't let doctors experiment on you, by cutting, stretching, or tearing you. This will not cure you, as it will return. Our NEW METHOD TREATMENT absorbs the stricture tissue; hence removes the stricture permanently. It can never return. No pain, no suffering, no detention from business by our method. The sexual organs are strengthened. The nerves are invigorated, and the bliss of manhood returns.

WE CURE GLEET

Thousands of young and middle-aged men are having their sexual vigor and vitality continually sapped by this disease. They are frequently unconscious of the cause of these symptoms. General Weakness, Unnatural Discharges, Failing Manhood, Nervousness, Poor Memory, Irritability, at times Smarting Sensation, Sunken Eyes, with dark circles, Weak Back, General Depression, Lack of Ambition, Varicocele, Shrunken Parts, etc. GLEET and STRICTURE may be the cause. Don't consult family doctors, as they have no experience in these special diseases—don't allow Quacks to experiment on you. Consult Specialists, who have made a life study of Diseases of Men and Women. Our NEW METHOD TREATMENT will positively cure you. One thousand dollars for a case we accept for treatment and cannot cure. Terms moderate for a cure.

The Chicago Tribune

is a newspaper for bright and intelligent people. It is made up to attract people who think.

Is not neutral or colorless, constantly trimming in an endeavor to please both sides, but it is independent in the best sense of the word.

It has pronounced opinions and is fearless in expressing them, but it is always fair to its opponents.

Matters of national or vital public interest get more space in THE TRIBUNE than in any other paper in the West.

For these reasons it is the newspaper you should read during the forthcoming political campaign.

THE TRIBUNE'S financial columns never mislead the public.

Its facilities for gathering news, both local and foreign, are far superior to those of any other newspaper in the West.

It presents the news in as fair a way as possible, and lets its readers form their opinions.

While it publishes the most comprehensive articles on all news features, if you are busy the "Summary of THE DAILY TRIBUNE" published daily on the first page gives you briefly all the news of the day within one column.

Its sporting news is always the best, and its Sunday Pink Sporting Section is better than any sporting paper in the country.

It is the "cleanest" daily printed in the West.

A WONDERFUL
KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY, And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 53 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 46 Fourth [illegible], New York. Please mention this paper.

KEEP THE OLD FRIEND.

Make new friends, but keep the old:
Those are silver, these are gold:
New made friendships, like new wine
Age will mellow and refine.

Friendships that have stood the test,—
Time and change,—are surely best;
Brows may wrinkle, hair grow gray,
Friendship never knows decay.

For, 'mid old friends, tried and true,
Once more we our youth renew.
But old friends, alas! may die,
Now friends must their place supply.

Cherish friendship in your breast,
New is good, but old is best;
Make new friends, but keep the old,
Those are silver, these are gold.

COPLEY'S EYEGLASSES.

We had been talking over a lively incident in the life of one of our friends—his name was Thwaites—which had led to a peculiarly strong development of that individual's nose. Three of us knew Thwaites quite well, and one of the three had told the story to the others. The fourth man did not know Thwaites personally, but he did know a story of another man of which he said, this story about Thwaites reminded him.

"You know that eyeglasses make a great difference in the looks of a man, don't they? Well, this is how Copley came to wear eyeglasses:

"His eyes? They may have suffered from the artificial help they have been getting from those glasses all these years, though I believe he has had the good sense all along to wear simple lenses that make not the least difference to his vision. But he certainly never took up with those eyeglasses for the good of his eyes. It began in a matter of policy with Copley.

"When I knew him first we were both students in a big London hospital, trying to become doctors.

"Copley was very much in earnest, you see. He may have been naturally disposed to have his larks in one way or another, but he always had a certain shrewdness which kept him from playing tricks calculated to bring the professor down on him. In particular he knew how good a thing it was to stand well with the dean of the faculty.

"I ought to explain, in case you do not know, that there the dean of the faculty is the professor who has held office longest, and at that particular hospital the statutes made him very much of an autocrat. For instance, there were three big 'exams' to pass in the five years, and no student could present himself at any one of these without a certificate from the hospital he belonged to that he had attended lectures and demonstrations duly and faithfully for a certain number of terms. Those certificates were signed at our hospital by the dean of the faculty alone. He took the reports of the other professors, but in the last resort his signing or not signing might be very much a matter of his own personal estimate of the individual student. See? The dean could practically stop a man from getting his degree, even if that man knew as much about medicine as Galen.

"Fortunately our dean was a good old fellow, and he used his power not only with justice, but with mercy. Perhaps his botanical studies made him mild. I have noticed that people who have much to do with plants and flowers are mostly of a gentle disposition. He was professor of 'materia medica.'

"One day he seemed fidgety and distraced when he took his place to begin the lecture. He seemed to be looking over the class in search of some one. Presently his eye fell on Copley. The old man puckered up his brow and stared at Copley through his spectacles.

"Then he began in a nervous, irritable way: 'Yes, sir, you. I don't know your name, sir. You, sir. What is your name, if you please?'

"Copley made no pretense of not seeing that he was the person in question. He frankly answered, 'My name is Copley, sir.'

"'Copley? Ah, very well, Mr. Copley,' says the old man. 'Mr. Copley, I have to tell you in the presence of this class unless your character undergoes a change you will never be fit to practice the healing art. You have no humanity, sir. You are cruel, sir—cruel.'

"Copley had no idea what the dean was talking about, and none of his friends could enlighten him. Some of the class could guess, but they did not happen to know Copley well enough to volunteer a hint. The truth was that some student had been making an ass of himself that morning with the schoolboy trick of fastening walnut shells on the feet of a cat, and then turning the beast loose in the lecture room corridor. The janitor had at last been obliged to kill the cat with a shotgun. The dean thought he had found the perpetrator of this outrage, but he was wrong. Poor Copley had not even been in the college and he knew nothing about it.

"As Copley had no idea what the dean was driving at, he could only submit to a harangue, after lecture, go and ask the dean what it all meant. But the dean only stared at Copley as a particularly imprudent specimen of a normally impudent genus—the London medical student.

"'Go away, sir. Go away, Mr. Copley, and remember that I have my eye on you.'

"But after that the dean seemed to have it in for Copley. Twice again in that same term Copley was reprimanded for outrageous behavior of which he had no sort of knowledge. The second time he was threatened with expulsion for having willfully and deliberately intoxicated a little street arab and then put him to sleep in the dissecting room, where he afterward came to himself in a terrible fright and very nearly had a fit.

"Whoever was the perpetrator of this villainy, the dean had, as he thought, the evidence of his own senses as to the perpetrator's identity.

"'I saw you, sir, when you brought that unfortunate child into the inner courtyard,' said the dean. 'I saw you and wondered what you were doing with him.'

"Copley kept his head this time. It was a very serious affair, and he saw the necessity of using all his wits.

"The faculty never did find out who was guilty. It was a most unsatisfactory investigation. Copley's innocence was clearly established, but a disagreeable suspicion of several first-year and second-year men also grew up. Copley, I ought to say, was in his fourth year.

"The story of the street arab who had been frightened nearly to death got into the newspapers and made a sensation. There was no doubt that it would injure the reputation of the hospital. The board of directors debated over the affair at a special meeting, and all the 700 students debated over it on all occasions.

"It was a nurse—of all possible people—who gave us the first hint of a way to put a stop to the persecution of poor Copley. She was chatting with him, myself and a senior student, all of us on night duty in her ward.

"'The thing is quite plain to me,' she said. 'In fact, I believe I could put my hand on the guilty party to-morrow morning, if I wanted to. But the scandal has nearly blown over now, and the young man has been badly frightened. So we might as well let well enough alone.'

"'And how about me?' says Copley.

"'Well, then,' she said, 'Mr. Copley has a double—yes, a double. Mr. Copley's double is a young limb of Satan in his first year. I have noticed the likeness over and over again, but, as you gentlemen never see anything of the first-year students—'

"Of course, now that she had mentioned it, we all saw just how it was. The nurse did not tell us the name of this young man, but we three quietly kept on the lookout for Copley's double among the first-year men, and in less than twenty-four hours we found the double of Copley in a youth by the name of Wixem. We all three pitched upon the same man. There was no room for the least doubt. The only difference between Copley and Wixem at ten yards' range was that Wixem was already serious and even grave in his demeanor, and Copley had a gay, devil-may-care way, in spite of his troubles. Any one would have taken Wixem for a sober, earnest, ambitious student, which is just what he was not, and Copley was.

"Copley was so exasperated that he attacked Wixem on the sidewalk, just outside the principal gate of the hospital and gave him a terrible black eye. Copley was arrested by a passing policeman, but Wixem was too cunning to appear in court. He knew that people were still talking about the dissecting-room scandal.

"'Well, anyhow,' I said to Copley, 'that black eye will help the dean to distinguish between you and Wixem for some time to come.'

"But for several weeks Wixem did nothing that could get Copley into trouble. The dean looked at Copley very hard, with a puzzled expression, from time to time, and Copley bravely returned the stare.

"Then came Copley's eyeglasses.

"You see, we all, including the friendly nurse, agreed that Copley could not go on blackening Wixem's eyes periodically to keep from being mistaken for that young miscreant. So the nurse suggested that Copley would look very well, and immensely professional, in gold-rimmed eyeglasses And after that there was no possibility of mistake."

"And so," one of the three asked, "your friend Copley stuck to the identifying glasses for life?"

"Yes, but wait a minute. The funny thing was that the first day Copley appeared in the hospital with his new glasses—I was with him at the time—he also wore a dark frock coat and a high hat, and it happened that he had never before appeared there in such a sober get-up. Just as we entered the inner courtyard, which happened to be deserted, Mr. Wixem, looking very solemn, which meant that he had been up to some devilish pranks, met us as he was coming from the museum wing. Copley glared at him, as if he would like to black his eye just once more.

"Wixem stopped short and said: 'Why, sir, I had no idea you were in town!'

"'Hadn't you, sir?' says Copley. 'Then, sir, let me recommend you to bear in mind that I am in town.'

"Wixem only stared for a moment, said 'Oh!' in a manner that indicated both astonishment and relief, and passed on.

"'Copley,' I said, 'that young man took you for his father.'

"'I'll father him if he doesn't mind what he's about,' says Copley.

"The general effect of the eyeglasses was wonderfully effective for good in Copley's career. In the first place, the dean discovered that he had made a good man a victim of his own mistakes. He wanted to reopen the inquiry about the dissecting-room, only the board wouldn't let him. But he became a fast friend to Copley, and that fact helped him on considerably long after he had begun practice.

"No, it isn't merely as a souvenir that Copley continues to wear his glasses. The fact is that the friendly nurse wouldn't hear of his taking them off. She is Mrs. Copley now."

Friendly Assistance.

"Can I help you to anything?" asked Boarder No. 6.

"Yes," replied the newcomer at the foot of the table. "You might give me a clew to this hash."—Philadelphia North American.

Assist Nature.

You have been told to "hitch your wagon to a star"—that Nature will assist you. That's all right. There are times, however, when you should assist Nature, and the spring is one of these times.

Nature is now undertaking to cleanse your system—if you take Hood's Sarsaparilla the undertaking will be successful, and your complexion bright and clear.

GEMS.

The native music of aboriginal tribe is regarded as of great importance in anthropology, and the recent British expedition to the Torres straits and New Guinea have taken steps to preserve some of them. Some of the songs heard on Murray Island are already obsolete, and will, it is believed, die out with the old men of the tribes. "In savage life," says one of the members of the expedition, "the songs of a tribe are its chief heritage."

Brimingham, England, is the only place in which manufacturing crowns is an industry that may be said to flourish. The trade is principally with Africa, where the numerous kings have come to regard a crown as a far more elegant emblem of royalty than the stovepipe hat which they formerly affected. A servicable crown, gaudily decorated with imitation precious stones, may be purchased for quite a small sum.

The Japanese apply one of their many pretty ways to the launching of ships. They use no wine but hang over the ship's prow a large pasteboard cage full of birds. The moment the ship is afloat a man pulls a string, when the cage opens, and the birds fly away, making the air alive with music and the whirr of wings. The idea is that the birds thus welcome the ship as she begins her career as a thing of life.

THE COLORADO COPPER MINING COMPANY is fortunate in being the possessor of five splendid showing properties in the great Salida copper belt, the principal copper producing region of this portion of the rockies. All of our claims have been more or less developed and it is our purpose to put the same on a paying basis at once.

Our Company owns, clear of incumbrances the following claims,—The Sedalia Extension, the Sedalia Extension No. 2, which property adjoins the great Sedalia mine, which has been a big producer for upwards of seventeen years; the Copper King of Colorado, which immediately adjoins the above; the Copper Queen of Salida, a very promising property, only a few steps from the depot in Salida. This claim occupies an imposing position on a mountain just north of the city; and last, but by no means least, the Sunshine, located two miles east of Salida at Cleora station, on the main Trunk line of the great Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, also on the Arkansas river, which in length is one of America's greatest streams.

There was an alarm of fire about 10 o'clock last night. The blaze was in a stable on Simcoe street and was extinguished with a Babcock. Damage nominal.

HELLO, 371!

A new telephone has been placed in Walter Bates' Restaurant, Hunter Street, to meet the requirements of an increasing trade. If you want a nice Lunch or Hot Dinner give us a call. Open till midnight.

Take Warning

A man down east claims to have taken small pox from a paper received from the Southern States. This should be a warning to our citizens to take no paper but The Times. The paper used by this great family journal is pure and clean, and is absolutely free from all infections diseases. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

Society Funeral

The funeral of the late John Hetherington will leave the family residence, George street at 2.30 o'clock to the church, at 2.30 this afternoon, to the Little Lake Cemetery. The deceased was a member of the A.O.U.W., the Independent order of Foresters, and the Orange Association, the members of which will turn out in a body.

Will Patterson's Reception

The Kingston Times interviewed Mr. Will Patterson, the Peterborough medical student, who is attending Queen's College in that city, regarding the body-snatching case. Mr. Patterson is reported to have said: "Talk about your returning South African soldiers receiving a swell reception. Why, I had about 3000 people to meet me at Peterborough, and all along the line eager eyes were looking for the supposed body snatcher."

The Greatest of all Snaps

Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co. opened today an assortment of 1800 yards of first class tweeds and serges—all remnants from one yard lengths up to ten yards. Just the goods for boys' pants or suits or for men's pants and suits. This is the greatest value that has ever been offered in town in this class of goods as they will be sold at less than half usual prices. Early purchasers will have first choice, so come early and get the best values.

Bought the Water Works.

The award of the arbitrators in the case of the village of Iroquois v. the Iroquois Waterworks Company, for the expropriation of the latter's plant, has been handed down by the arbitrators, Judge O'Reilly, D. A. Flack and J. G. Harkness of Cornwall. The figures of the award are $14,507.75, which with the statutory 10 per cent. additional brings the total award to $15,958.52. The total costs of the arbitration, amounting to $1,474, will have to be paid by the municipality. A vote of the village freeholders will be taken before the works are acquired.

Death of Adam Dobbin

Adam Dobbin, an aged inmate of the county goal, died yesterday morning at 7.20. For the last seventeen years the venerable indigent has in times of necessity been admitted to the goal. He was over eighty years of age, and resided in Peterborough many years. Death was due to old age. The usual formal inquest was held and a verdict rendered as follows:

"That the deceased Adam Dobbin came to his death from general debility and old age, and the jury recommend that the deceased receive a decent burial from the corporation of the town of Peterborough said corporation to bear the expense of burial."

For the West Indies

Napanee Beaver: Miss Sadie Potter, of Kingston, and an Arts student at Queen's University, Kingston, has been appointed by the Presbyterian Board of Missions in the United States, to act as an assistant missionary to the Rev. John Green, of San Juan, Port Rico. Dr. Green is widely known for the great missionary work he has accomplished in and around the city of San Juan. Miss Potter is a well known and highly esteemed young lady of Kingston, and having all her life time being identified with church and Sunday school work, together with having a first-class scholarship, is eminently fitted to undertake such a responsible position. Miss Potter is the daughter of Rev. Jas. S. Potter, Sailors' Missionary, and sister of Rev. J. G. Potter, of Peterborough. A bright career is anticipated for her, and her many friends in Kingston and counties extend her Godspeed in such a noble work. Miss Potter is at present studying at a Spanish seminary in New York, and sails for Porto Rico on March 1st.

Manitoba Horses

Messrs. Thompson and Gleeson, horse dealers, arrived in town Saturday night with a "bunch" of about thirty western horses from Southern Manitoba. These horses are now comfortably stabled at Dr. Robinson's livery barn, Aylmer street, and are attracting a great deal of attention among local horsemen. They make an interesting exhibition of a hardy breed of horses raised in the Manitoba climate. Being young, well bred, in good condition and broken to saddle and harness, it is claimed that they make good driving or riding horses. The "bunch" may be inspected any time before sale, and on Wednesday they are to be offered for sale by auction, particulars of which may be seen by posters. Messrs. Thompson and Gleeson's headquarters while in town is at the Queen's Hotel, corner of Charlotte and Aylmer streets.

A Boat Secured

H. H. Gildersleeve, general manager of the Lake Ontario and Bay of Quinte Navigation Company, has leased the steamer Caspian, of the R. & O. Navigation Company, for next season. The Caspian will run in conjunction with the North King, between Rochester, Kingston and the Thousand Islands. A daily service will thus be provided. In the Caspian our readers will recognize the steamer Passport, one of the staunchiest and speediest boats belonging to the R. & O. Navigation Company. Owing to the increased traffic enjoyed by the owners of the Caspian, that steamer has been used merely as an emergency craft, much larger steamers being employed to do the business. Mr. Gildersleeve is to be congratulated on securing such a good boat for their services.

Frog Ponds

The Otonabee river has long been noted for its frogs, and now that these jumpers have become popular as food amongst Americans, the frog-raising business has become a very profitable industry. Massachusetts, has a company just incorporated to carry on a business that might well be made to pay in certain sections of Ontario. Its object is to "buy, sell, breed and import frogs." There is practically an unlimited market for frogs, and the cultivation of them as a business that can never in the nature of things be centralized. A frog-pond should be a source of great revenue, and no better place exists for it than in this neighborhood.

THE INQUEST TO-DAY

Into the Death of the Late William Hull, Murdered on Wednesday Last

To-day Coroner Grey and County Crown Attorney Wood, together with County Constable Cochrane and prisoner Alex. Sharpe will leave by the 11.27 a.m. C.P.R. train for Havelock, and from thence will proceed north about fourteen miles to the house of Robert Munroe, in Methuen township. There the inquest into the death of William Hull, murdered on Wednesday night last by Sharpe, will proceed. The post mortem examination of the body of the dead man was made on Saturday afternoon, by Dr. Holcroft, of Havelock, and his testimony will be received to-day, together with that of the youths Newell and Dwyer, who drove Sharpe to the Davis' house, where he committed the murder.

Fortnightly Club

The Rev. R. S. Knowles, of Knox Church, Galt, will deliver a lecture at the next meeting of the Fortnightly Club, which will be held on Tuesday evening, Feb. 26, in the Y.M.C.A. hall. The subject will be Ian Maclaren's work, "The Bonnie Brier Bush," that charming study of Scotch character. As an orator Mr. Knowles has few equals, and may be trusted to do this subject justice. It is hoped that a large number of people will avail themselves of the privilege of attending this lecture.

Pure Milk

In Kingston an attempt was made to form a milk trust, but without success. What Kingston and other places really does need is not a combination amongst milk venders to keep up prices, but a properly organized dairy company, that will give its patrons pure milk, which can only be done by adopting modern sanitary methods. This is what Peterborough is likely to accomplish in the near future.

Business Increasing

The local business of the Dominion Express Company has increased so rapidly of late that more accomodation is urgently required. The management has therefore decided to place the business in the hands of Mr. E. J. Sailsbury, brother of Mr. W. Sailsbury, who will open an office on Hunter street. Another delivery wagon will be put on, so as to facilitate the delivery of goods.

Court Chemong, I.O.F

The members of Court Chemong, 630, I.O.F., and any visiting brethren, are requested to assemble at the Hall, 422 George street, on Tuesday, the 26th, at 2 o'clock p.m., for the purpose of attending the funeral of our late Brother John Hetherington. Thos. Dale, C.R., J. W. Buyers, R.S.

HOW OLD PEOPLE

MAY BE HEALTHY AND LIVE HAPPILY AS THE YEARS ROLL ON.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Gives Them New Nerve Force, Pure Blood, Perfect Digestion and Sweet Sleep

The Disabilities and Infirmities That Aged People Suffer from are Banished When the Great Medicine is Used.

UNDER ALL CIRCUMSTANCES

Paine's Celery Compound

SUSTAINS PHYSICAL STRENGTH AS WE ADVANCE IN YEARS

Disordered nerves, rheumatism, dyspepsia, flatulence, constipation, drowsiness, palpitation of the heart, and poor thin blood, are some of the burdens that our old people have to contend with—troubles that cause them to grow weaker from day to day.

For men and women advanced in years, Paine's Celery Compound is precious and invaluable. It gives them fresh nerve force, a plentiful supply of pure, fresh blood, it regulates the digestive machinery, keeps the appetite natural and healthy, and gives sweet and restful sleep. If we would add to the comfort and happiness of our old people and prolong their years, we should see that they are provided with nature's rejuvenator—Paine's Celery Compound.

Paine's Celery Compound is truly a blessing to the aged; it bestows peace and comfort and keeps them free from old age infirmities. Mr. G. Crawford, London, Ont., an aged gentleman says:

"After using eight bottles of Paine's Celery Compound, I wish to let you know the results. I had a painful fullness and an unnatural heat in the top of my head, and it felt as if something was rolling through it, I had dizziness, I slept little and irregularly, was troubled with restlessness and uneasy dreams and my appetite was bad. I am now vastly changed by the use of your medicine. I sleep well and relish my food, and my nervous system is greatly renewed. I feel my whole system better, I cannot expect at seventy-nine years of age to be as I was at thirty, but Paine's Celery Compound has done wonders for me."

ANOTHER SCHEME BURSTED

The Campbellford Havelock Electric Railway Scheme Fails

Campbellford Herald,—"Some of the people of Havelock are beginning to reason among themselves why it is that everybody has been consigned to oblivion in connection with that electric railway from Brighton concerning which Messrs. Harnden & Barbour & Co. manifested so much zeal last fall. These gentlemen were to make application to Parliament, secure a charter and the Government subsidy in short order, and then appeal to the municipalities they were trying to interest in the scheme for $80,000, which seemed to be a certainty, and the whole affair was mapped out to switch along as easily as electricity itself. Mr. Harnden had it arranged for men to be clearing away the snow and digging the frozen ground by January 1st, and by Dominion day the conductors would be heard shouting "all aboard for Havelock." There is a lull in the proceedings, just now, however, which gentlemen in Campbellford understand to mean a set back to the whole scheme, and Mr. Harnden is as silent as an oyster."

COLTS (12), STRATFORDS (0).

The Colts and Stratford Juniors met last night in the finals and it is hardly necessary to say that the Stratford's failed to score, while the Colts only took 12. The score at half time was 5-0. Mr. Herbert Jack again acted as referee. The return game will be played in Stratford Thursday night. The Colts have virtually won the Junior championship as it will be almost an impossibility to overcome the big lead they have obtained.

STOP LOSING MONEY

You Cannot Guess Winners

Horse races are "MIGHTY UNCERTAIN" things to bet on; if you depend on a GUESS to win, a thousand miles from the scene. Thousands have tried before you and have failed. The chances are a thousand to one you will fail too.

You Cannot Handicap Winners

Horses are not machines. They rarely repeat performances. Many of them look at the odds in the betting ring before they go to the post—that is, their owners do it for them. Horses do not always "try." They run for the benefit of their owners, not the public.

Be Advised by Experts on the Spot

Do what the plungers do. "Stand in." Get the best inside information direct from the track every morning that a shrewd combine of horsemen can secure for you. That is what is given its subscribers daily by the

LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE

The LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE is a combination of horse owners and trainers, now racing horses at the New Orleans race track, who have united for the purpose of profiting by the exclusive information at their command. The syndicate aims to send to its subscribers by telegraph every morning the names of two or three horses that are entered in the day's races, which will win, barring accidents alone.

THIS BEATS ALL

Among our many winners recently were SARILLA, 50 to 1, Jan. 5; CALLEUR, 10 to 1, Jan. 14; and AZIA, 10 to 1, Jan. 15.

Within a week our subscribers won more money following us than they did for six months prior following their own selections, if indeed they were not heavy losers before they joined our army of winners.

Cut this out and use it as authority on the manager of the Postal Telegraph office, 144 W. 42d street, New York, to examine copy of our telegrams to subscribers filled each day this month at noon. Verify our Statement!

We hope this will convince all turfites that our subscribers are getting money, and that our sources of information are second to none in point of accuracy and reliability. We average two selections per day. Anything we send can be bet on with confidence that the horse will "try" and that the owner is betting on him.

THE NORTH POLE FROM VANCOUVER

Captain Bernier to Start For the North on an Expedition Lasting Four Years

Toronto, Feb. 26.—Captain Bernier is in Toronto—Captain Bernier who is busily engaged planning a trip to the North Pole. He arrived last night from Ottawa, and is now registered at the Queen's Hotel, where he is enjoying all the comforts of that luxurious hostelry. But by this time next year Captain Bernier may be far in the frozen North, perhaps stalking across the ice, perhaps crunching through ice floes in his sturdy little ship.

Captain Bernier is here on an invitation from the Ontario Land Surveyor's Association and from the Canadian Institute, and he says he is at their disposal.

A RACE OF MARINERS.

He is a remarkable man, this captain — remarkable for the ease with which he calls up the past; and, looking down the avenue of history, he says that for the past 325 years his parents and forbears have been sailors, captains, sailing from L'Islet Que. He also can look into the past himself, for when he was 17 years of age he won the proud distinction of being the youngest captain in the world when he ordered in the gangplank of the St. Joseph and sailed from Quebec to England. Since then he has been in every part of the world, he has commanded 45 vessels, and has seldom had a disaster.

"Do you know that you take your life in your hands if you go to the pole?" asked Mr. James Dickson of Fenelon Falls, who is vice-president of the Ontario Land Surveyors' Association.

"If it's God's will,' he said simply shrugging his shoulders with that naiveness that means so much with the French-Canadian.

Twenty-three years ago Captain Bernier met Captain De Long at Havre, France. The North Pole was mentioned to him by the great explorer, and it kindled a fire in Capt. Bernier's heart—one that has never been extinguished—and during all that time, undismayed by the horrors of the frozen zone, by its cruel cold, by its unmarked graves—undismayed by all this, he is now working to fit out an expedition.

"I am a Canadian," he says. "I wish to bring honor to my country. I will give my time—I have given my time all these years."

WANTS A TORONTONIAN.

The cost of the expedition will be about $150,000, and Captain Bernier hopes for a grant from the Dominion Government. He will take with him 14 men, and has already had a large number of applicants. He wishes for some strong, healthy, scientific young man from Toronto to present the Queen City in this great and perilous undertaking, and has left a vacancy to be filled from here.

"Andree"

"Poor Andree is dead; he could not be alive; he was not provisioned." Then Captain Bernier told of his method. He will not take the coast of Greenland. He will skirt along Siberia's shores, and when winter lays its awful night and its terrible frosts upon the polar regions, and when his vessel has floated along till she is fast in the ice, he will leave her. He will fit his boats with sails; he will keep constant telegraphy outfit, to keep constant communication between his ship and outposts. He will stake the path with hollow aluminum posts, which will contain food. Should the jaws of ice devour the vessel, then there is hope left for home again.

Captain Bernier is a determined man. He has dark, short hair, fierce, waxed moustachios, speaks quickly, firm-lipped, firm-jawed, quietly dressed except for a diamond, which speaks for itself from the little finger of his left hand. His eyes, a bluish gray, pierce you; they know you in a moment.

THE CAPTAIN'S PROGRAM.

"My program in brief," he said, it to sail from Vancouver or Victoria about May 1 next, along the coast of Siberia, taking the natural course of the waters, and when the ice closes which is about September 15, I would hope to be within 200 miles of the pole. Nansen, you know went within 230 miles of it, and since that time the Duke of Abruzzi of Rome, in 1900, cut this down by 19 miles. There is only one way, and that is nature's way—float in. Perry and Captain Sverdrup, who are fighting the course of nature by Greenland, will never get there. I will take four years, and will provision accordingly."

Captain Bernier will address a meeting of the Ontario Land Surveyors to-morrow afternoon. The land surveyors in annual session here, and he is their guest.

Next week at the request of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, he will address the new members of the House of Commons. Undaunted by the fact that the way to the pole is, since 1596, strewn with crushed hopes, bones, and vessels, Captain Bernier says: "I have been around the earth—I will go to the top of it."

A COLD BATH IN THE YUKON RIVER

A Stage Loaded With Passengers Breaks Through the ice

Port Townsend, Wash., Feb. 26.—According to advices received by the steamship Senator arriving to-day from Skagway travel on the ice in the Yukon is exceedingly dangerous. A number of accidents occurred, but none resulted fataliy.

A telegram from Dawson, dated Feb. 19, says that a stage loaded with passengers broke through the ice and precipitated all into the river. They were rescued by travellers who witnessed the accident.

The Mounted Police are posting warning notices all along the river.

Dawson is free from smallpox, but vaccination continues. Public vaccinators accompanied by a squad of policemen are making a house to house visit, and every one who cannot show a certificate is forced to submit to innoculation.

The Dirigo, arriving yesterday afternoon, reports that on February 18 a clash occurred at Skagway between the military and the civil authorities which caused considerable excitement. On the night of the 16th a negro sentry on duty in front of the barracks called out the guard, claiming he had been shot at by a civilian. The guard charged the crowd of bystanders, commanding them to throw up their hands. Among the crowd were McLean and Fraser, two patrolmen, and the colored soldiers seized and took them to the guardhouse. Indignation ran high at Skagway, and when the steamer sailed the matter was being investigated.

It is reported that General Louis Botha is moving on Emilot and Middleburg says, a despatch to the Daily Mail from Petermaretzburg and that two peace delegates from Belfast, Messrs. DeCock and Meyer have been shot.

Pekin, Feb. 26.

Chih Sui, former Grand Secretary and Hsu Cheng, Yu Fucen of the notorious Hsu Lung, were publicly beheaded today. The street in which the execution took place was guarded by French, German and American troops. The condemned officials were taken to the grounds in carba, escorted by a company of Japanese infantry. Chih Sui met his fate in a dignified manner, walking from the cart calmly and fearlessly. Hsu Cheng Yu was stupified with opium. They were both dressed in their Chinese official costumes, with out the insignia of their rank.

From Mombassa, East Coast of Africa, Feb. 26:—A British expedition of 500 men, after making an eight day march of 14 miles into the Somalis country to punish them for killing sub-Commissioner Jonner was attacked Feb. 19 at Sannasa, 29 miles from Affmader, and lost 17 men killed, including Lieut.-Col. Maitland. The Somalis were beaten off with the loss of 150 men killed. The cattle captured on the march were stampeded and lost. The expedition has returned to Teaffmala.

ALTERATIONS TO BE MADE AT GIBRALTAR

The Fortress in Danger From the Big Spanish Guns

London, Feb. 26.—Enquiry in Service circles shows that the able pamphlet by Mr. T. G. Bowles, M.P., on the exposed situation of the new docks now building at Gibraltar has met with the fullest endorsement and approbation. The South African war has demonstrated conclusively the mobility and invisibility of big guns, and there is now not the least doubt that heavy artillery operating from the Spanish mainland could, with little feat of effective retaliation, cause incalcuable damage to the docks now building and their contents. Advices from Gibraltar indicate that the views put forward in the papmphlet meet with practically unanimous approval in expert circles there. Mr. Bowles urges that work should be suspended on docks Nos. 1 and 2, which have scarcely been begun, and that floating docks should be substituted. This would involve a new protected harbor to the east of the peninsula, a work which it is now generally admitted could be satisfactorily carried out, in a safe position. There is likely, as the House is now meeting, to be a strong movement in favor of a most desirable step, viz., the appointment of a small expert committee to investigate the whole matter. Such a body could complete its labors in a month, and the delay to the work, even if temporarily suspended, would be very slight indeed. A great lesson of the war has been so pointedly applied to a matter so vitally affecting the navy that confident hopes are generally entertained that the Admiralty will effectually deal with the subject. At the time when the present dock work was set on foot artilleryists were far from forecasting the full value and utility of modern artillery. It is eminently desirable now, in view of later knowledge, that the public uneasiness should be set at rest.

DEAD QUEEN'S SERVANT

Mahomed Ishmail, for Years Attendant on Victoria, Will Return to India

London, Feb. 26.—A figure which was notable in Queen Victoria's court is about to leave England for Bombay. This is Mahomed Ishmail, one of the two stalwart attendants of the late Queen, who has determined to return to India. These two Indians were for years in constant attendance on Queen Victoria at home and abroad. At state social functions they acted in a similar capacity as the cup bearers of the Kings in olden times. They seldom left the royal presence, standing erect and statue-like behind the Queen's chair. For years the Queen had not been seen in public unless attended by them. On a railway, a royal yacht, or in the palace garden, or when driving they were always close at hand. The Queen used to converse with them in Hindustani, in which she was greatly interested.

ANOTHER NEGRO LYNCHED BY MOB

Two Deputy-Sheriffs Wounded While Defending the Gaol

Terra Haute, Ind., Feb. 26. — While walking through the woods Ida Finklestein, a school teacher, was overtaken by George Ward, a twenty-seven-year-old negro, and murdered. Ward was formerly an employe of the car works here. According to the police, he confessed to the crime when arrested.

Ward had recently been discharged from an insane asylum as cured. Apparently he is demented now. In his confession Ward said Miss Finklestein taunted him about his color and then struck him in the face. In a fit of anger he shot her and then cut her throat. He failed to explain how he came to be engaged in conversation with the victim.

At 12.50 p.m, a mob, wrought to a tremendous pitch of fury, gathered in front of the city jail and battered down the outer door.

Jailer Lawrence O'Donnell appeared with a shotgun and fired over the crowd in a vain attempt to stampede them.

Three deputy sheriffs were wounded by shots from the crowd.

Word of Ward's confession was passed through the streets, and the crowd, reinforced by hundreds of recruits, redoubled its attack on the jail.

At 12.45 they succeeded in reaching Ward's cell. He was quickly dragged out to the street and lynched.

The Ozark Gold Mine

The following letter explains itself. See the advertisement in another column of the Ozark Gold Mining and Milling Company.

714-44 Broadway, New York City, N. Y.
Office of J. M. HERMAN,
Mining Engineer.
New York City, Feb. 8th, 1901
Mr. W. S. Cleveland, 84-86 La Salle St.
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir:—Yours of February 2nd to hand, regarding what I know about the Ozark Mine, in Florence, Idaho. Will say that I am well acquainted with this property as I have examined it in every phase at one time contemplating purpurchasing it for some eastern parties and would have done so had I been able to get the owners together, but at that time the property was in litigation and it was almost impossible to buy from all the owners and I did not have the necessary time and hence the reason I did not buy the property.

There is in development on this property about a thousand feet of tunnel and an upraise of one hundred and ten feet, and a five-stamp mill and all the necessary utensils to run a mine; I would estimate that there is between thirty-five and fifty thousand dollars spent in development and machinery on the property. I am also acquainted with the present owners, but I did not know they wanted to float the property or any part of it; had I known of it I believe I could have handled the property to a good advantage. The owners of the property are all business men of means, but none of them are practical mining men but I suppose it is their intention to depend upon their superintendent, as they are all interested in the different branches of business.

I believe with proper management this property will make a good mine, My intention was to put a hoist on the property and sink two hundred feet, making two more levels, and to increase the mill to at least twenty stamps, and to purchase a water ditch that is now within a quarter of a mile of the mine; and instead of milling, as has been fone in the past, two feet of the ore on the 110 foot level, I would mill twenty feet, as with water power the expense of milling would be nominal. I believe if properly handled there is a great future for this property.

Trusting that this information will be sufficient, I remain,

Very respectfully,
J. M. HERMAN,
Mining Engineer.

WORKING FOR THEIR LIVING

Ingenious Methods Employed by Students

YOUNG MEN WITH GRIT

Acting as Grocers' Clerks, Waiters, and Messengers

Boston, Mass., Feb. 26. Numerous and ingenious are the ways and means adopted by students attending large universities in an effort to relieve the financial burden of a college course. Both young men and young women accept all kinds and conditions of employment, and to their credit be it said, that they are the successful students.

There are about 100 girls attending one of Boston's institutions of higher learning, who by their own efforts pay most of their expenses. Some of them accept the menial work of dishwashing in clubs, small hotels, and boarding-houses in the vicinity, and become as expert at it as the "professionals" in the "lightning-order" restaurants down town.

One ambitious university girl observed that many of the young women who could afford the luxury made frequent trips to the hair-dressing shops in the city to complete their toilets. Then it occurred to her that this paying patronage might rapidly be diverted to local tonsorial parlors, if well managed. She took action accordingly, and in this enterprise was joined by several chums of natural dexterity in the hairdresser's art. In the attic of one of the women's halls the establishment was fitted up, and then they made a canvass of [illegible] different women's halls and clubs for their clientele and arranged for visits once a week.

VARIED EMPLOYMENTS.

Besides the enterprising young woman who makes a house-tohouse canvass for shirt waist orders, there are others who is like manner canvass for maganzines or to typewriting for their board wherever a suitable engagement is to be had. A certain instance is cited where two girl students of business sagacity rented a furnished house not far from the camps and covered all their expenses by subletting furnished rooms to their colleagues. Mending the clothes and darning the stockings of their associates in the various halls is another method which has been successfully tried by girls deft with the needle and anxious to add to their incomes of dimes and quarters. Some go out to nurse the sick, when the hours can be arranged to suit and still others serve as reading companions to invalids. Waiting on table is of course a prosaic but never-failing source of temperary employment.

WHAT YOUNG MEN DO.

Because of greater physical power and of lesser social restrictions, there are more channels open to young men. Many universities furnish a limited number of students with employment as messengers, assistants, and attendants in libraries and laboratories, in the information bureau, and as tutors in private families.

Among the self-supporting young men who are nobly striving for a higher education to enable them to compete successfully in the struggle for existence are hustling chaps who do not disdain to mow lawns in summer and shovel snow in winter. Soliciting in various lines offers another fruitful field. Solicitors find employment at odd hours on percentage for laundries, for newspapers, for tailors, for books and magazines. More than one ambitious student pays his way as a city employe by taking care of a route as a lamplighter.

SOME NOVEL METHODS.

One young fellow is an adept in the use of pressing irons, and enjoys a liberal patronage. Another gives massage treatment for a consideration. Others act as supers at the local theatres; furnish extra help to neighboring grocers on Saturday night, and some obtain board and room free by keeping the tables and rooms of boarding houses filled.

In the lively holiday season, when the big department stores downtown require a lot of extra clerks, both young women and young men from the university apply and fill the position with entire satisfaction to their employers. Playing in the university band takes a slice off the student's tuition; pasting numbers on reserved seats in Marshall field and other work about the athletic grounds is a means of more or less remunerative work.

An Exciting Runaway

A horse belonging to Mr. C. B. McAllister made quite a stir yesterday afternoon. The animal was left standing for a little while on Water street in charge of a small boy who sat in the cutter holding the reins. In some way it was started and ran toward Simcoe street, where in turning the corner it smashed the cutter. The lad was thrown out but not hurt. The horse, with the shafts dangling to its heels, clattered along the sidewalk to Rubidge street. As it crossed George street several pedestrians had very narrow escapes. On reaching Charlotte street the horse turned south and ran back and across the market to near the place where it had started. It was stopped by Walter Parnell of the Fire Department. There was little damage except to the cutter.

PUNISHED FOR INCOMPETENCY

Officers Dismissed for Surrendering

20 CASES INVESTIGATED

Ten Officers Have Been Relieved From Duty

London, Feb. 26.—In the House of Commons yesterday the War Secretary, Mr. Brodrick, in connection with the motion to publish the proceedings of courts of enquiry, said it was still the purpose of the Government to make a general inquiry into the conduct of the war in South Africa, when the war was substantially ended. The Government, in the meanwhile, had investigated twenty painful incidents of surrenders of British troops. A large number of officers had been made accountable, and ten had been dismissed. No officer returning from South Africa would be employed at home without Lord Roberts' and Gen. Kitchener's recommendation. Scarcely a week passed without an officer being removed or otherwise punished.

BOTHA PASSES FRENCH.

No official news has been received concerning Gen. De Wet. The South African correspondents concur in stating that he and President Steyn have not yet been able to cross the Orange River, which had risen five feet more by Sunday night. According to one report they have crossed the railway again and doubled back to the west.

It is reported from Pretoria that Gen. Botha, with 2,000 men, has broken through the lines of Gen. French and is making for Komatipoort.

19 BOERS KILLED IN THE ACT.

A private letter received in Port Elizabeth says that the Boers have blown up the railway at Edinburgh four times recently. The last time they were caught in the act at the dead of night by anarmored train, whose Maxim gun was turned on them. The line was cleared next morning. The crew of the train found and buried nineteen dead Boers.

BOERS ATTACK RICHMOND.

A Cape Town correspondent reports that the Boers are attacking the village of Richmond, in the central part of Cape Colony, and reinforcements have been despatched from Hanover road.

SHOT FOR THROWING STONES.

A despatch from St. Helena states that one of the Boer prisoners at Deadwood camp was shot by a sentry whom the Boers injured by throwing sticks, stones ground that he acted in self-defence. and tins at him. The military court of enquiry has acquitted the sentry on the

The accused was remanded.

A PROSPEROUS COMPANY

Annual Meeting of the Sun Savings and Loan Co

We congratulate the management of the Sun Savings and Loan Company of Ontario on the result of the year's operations, as shown in the financial statement, which appears elsewhere in this issue.

This progressive Company has assets amounting to $361,010. The netearnings on paid up capital amounts to $27,002, while the mortgages amount to $335,850.

All the loans made by this Company were on the periodical repayment system, fixed sums of principal and interest at certain times paying off loans in stated periods. These payments were promptly made during the year.

STARVED TO DETAH

Man and Wife, Too Proud to Beg go Without Food Until Too Late

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb, 23.—Two deaths from starvation were reported to the police. The victims were Mr. and Mrs. John Howfer, who lived at 632 Scott street.

The couple had sold most of their furniture for a small sum of money, with which they purchased food and fuel for themselves and two children. When most of the food thus obtained had been eaten it is supposed the parents deprived themselves in order to save the children, and, being too proud to beg, literally starved to death.

The parents were taken to a hospital and died, one on Monday and the other on Tuesday.

A NEW CONSTITUTION

President of Venezuela Likely to Remain in Office Seven Years Longer

Willemstad, Island of Curacoa, February. 23.—Advices received here from Caracas, Venezuela, say that a convention will assemble there to-day (Wednesday) to frame a new Constitution for Venezuela. It is reported that the President's term of office will be extended from two years to seven, and it is believed General Castro will refully do so. Europeans investors, therefore, are planning large operations.

ANTICOSTI ISLAND

The intimation, whatever foundation there may be for it, that the Imperial Government will expropriate Anticosti and fortify it, is worthy of notice as showing that the operations of M. Menier are not going on unobserved by those interested. It is a strategic position, the key to the entrance of the St. Lawrence River, and as such it is of imperial importance that it shall not be allowed to become a seat of hostility to the empire. The operations of M. Menier, ever since he acquired proprietary rights have been those of a feudal lord or even absolute monarch, while as a matter of fact his legal standing is simply that of a freeholder of certain property in the Province of Quebec, which property may be expropriated by the Local, Dominion or Imperial Government for their own uses. Its expropriation by the Imperial authorities may save a good deal of trouble in the times to come.

THE PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS

Premier Ross' intimation that there will be another session of the legislature before a provincial general election, will probably have the effect of shortening the present session and eliminating some of the spectacular features which politicians usually introduce for political effect when they think an election is near at hand. Mr. Ross' announcement, though not couched in a positive vein, was tolerably definite, and will disabuse the minds of those gentlemen who promised an election in June or thereabouts of the idea that they have a gift of prophecy.

The governments decision is doubtless dictated by motives of political expediency Not so very long ago it looked as if nothing could save the Ross government from being submerged by the tory wave that swept over Ontario in the Dominion elections. Mr. Ross has apparently decided to give that wave plenty of time before he takes any chances with it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A correspondent of the Ottawa Free Press, in view of the depressed financial condition of that city suggests placing a tax on cats. "Why," he pathetically asks, "is it while the faithful dog is so persecuted, the cat always escapes notice?" Again "the favored cat can sally forth and slaughter chickens and devour our song birds at every opportunity, climbing the trees in the darkness and destroying the parent birds and their whole broods at one swoop, and no protest is heard, even from those who are raising such a hue and cry against the woman with a bird in her hat." It is a sad state of affairs, no doubt, but if people did not pay the cat tax would the gentleman favor their capture and empounding as is now done with untagged dogs? Any cat catcher who might invade a kitchen and undertake to carry "Tabby" from her cosy corner behind the stove would need to carry all his nerve with him and have it ready for instant use.

King Edward likes to sit back of the slow and pompous state horses, and they are such a contrast to the fast steeds he used to back, too.

Manitoba Horses

Messrs. Thompson and Gleeson, horse dealers, arrived in town Saturday night with a "bunch" of about thirty western horses from Southern Manitoba. These horses are now comfortably stabled at Dr. Robinson's livery barn, Aylmer street and are attracting a great deal of attention among local horsemen. They make an interesting exhibition of a hardy breed of horses raised in the Manitoba climate. Being young, well bred, in good condition and broken to saddle and harness, it is claimed that they make good driving or riding horses. The "bunch" may be inspected any time before sale, and on Wednesday they are to be offered for sale by auction, particulars of which may be seen by posters. Messrs. Thompson and Gleeson's headquarters while in town is at the Queen's Hotel, corner of Charlotte and Aylmer streets.

The Greatest of all Snaps

Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co. opened today an assortment of 1800 yards of first class tweeds and serges—all remnants from one yard lengths up to ten yards. Just the goods for boys' pants or suits or for men's pants and suits. This is the greatest value that has ever been offered in town in this class of goods as they will be sold at less than half usual prices. Early purchasers will have first choice, so come early and get the best values.

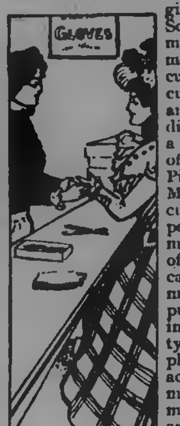
Pretty Hands,

Hands delicately moulded and daintily white are among the chief of woman's charms. When such hands are marred by eruptions, their very beauty draws attention to the repulsive disease. Humors which break out on the body begin in the blood. Soaps and salves may cover up a humor but they can't cure it. There is a cure for salt-rheum and other eruptive diseases, caused by a corrupt condition of the blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures these diseases perfectly and permanently. It carries off the poisons which cause disease. It makes the blood pure and rich. It increases the quantity of the blood supply by increasing the action of the blood making glands. It makes the skin white and clear by making the blood pure.



"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or other intoxicant.

"I write to tell you the benefit I have received from your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' after having suffered for three years with salt-rheum," writes Miss Bertha Peters, of Lulu, Monroe Co., Mich. "The humor was on my hands, and I had been treated by our home physician who did not help me. After I began the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery I took seven bottles, and can now say with pleasure that I am cured. Nobody knows the intense pain I have suffered. I could not sleep at night, the stinging, burning, and itching sensation would be so bad, sometimes I could hardly bear it. I thank you for your kind advice."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets assist the action of the "Discovery" when there is constipation.

Eczema Cured After Many Years of Terrible Torture

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—At the request of the makers I gladly write a line to tell what Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills did for me. For over 15 years I was a sufferer from eczema and although treated by the best doctors in the country, I got no relief. After taking 9 boxes of the pills, I am, thank God, entirely well. They cured me when every known remedy failed. Jas. Britain, G. T.R., Brantford.

The Chicago Tribune

is a newspaper for bright and intelligent people. It is made up to attract people who think.

Is not neutral or colorless, constantly trimming in an endeavor to please both sides, but it is independent in the best sense of the word.

It has pronounced opinions and is fearless in expressing them, but it is always fair to its opponents.

Matters of national or vital public interest get more space in THE TRIBUNE than in any other paper in the West.

For these reasons it is the newspaper you should read during the forthcoming political campaign.

THE TRIBUNE'S financial columns never mislead the public.

Its facilities for gathering news, both local and foreign, are far superior to those of any other newspaper in the West.

It presents the news in as fair a way as possible, and lets its readers form their opinions.

While it publishes the most comprehensive articles on all news features, if you are busy the "Summary of THE DAILY TRIBUNE" published daily on the first page gives you briefly all the news of the day within one column.

Its sporting news is always the best, and its Sunday Pink Sporting Section is better than any sporting paper in the country.

It is the "cleanest" daily printed in the West.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANAdians at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures, size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are allstirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. A WONDERFUL
KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

I. A. HOPKINS.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,
And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 53 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. MOSEBY ESCAPED

George W. Fink Had the Famous Guerilla Under Arrest

The man who captured Colonel John Singleton Moseby, the most famous of the Confederate guerillas during the civil war, was George W. Fink. The fact that Moseby was a prisoner under Fink for only a short time, not more than half an hour, in fact, does not take away much from the glory of his achievement, as may be seen from the circumstances of the incident as related by Mr. Fink at the Union station in the special train in which the colonists lay over while arrangements for the transfer from the Pennsylvania to the Fort Wayne were being made.

At the outbreak of the war Fink enlisted in Troop A, of the First Pennsylvania Cavalry, and went with that command almost immediately to the region of the Shenandoah Valley, where their field of operations continued to be. In 1861 Fink was one day a member of a scouting party sent out to reconnoiter, and in that capacity travelled a considerable distance from the spot where the camp had been pitched. It was learned from some of the Union sympathizers in the region that a small party of Confederates were concealed in a house three or four miles away, and a detachment was sent after them.

Fink himself rode up to the door and demanded entrance, which was refused him by the woman who answered his knock at the door. She denied vigorously that any soldiers were within and loudly protested against the intrusion of the scouts.

In one of the upper chambers two officers, a lieutenant and a captain, were found lying under the bed, and were triumphantly dragged forth, covered with dust and lint from the floor. In another room a third man, dressed in civilian's clothes, but very evidently connected with the army, was found and placed under arrest in company with the others. Their arms were taken from them, and under the guard of Fink and one companion their return to the camp was begun.

On the way a thick wood was passed through. The man in civilian's clothes was riding at the front of the little party. When the middle of the grove was reached he wheeled his horse, plunged the rowels into its side and dashed off to the right. Fink promptly raised his carbine and fired at the rapidly retreating form. The horse fell dead, but the rider leaped free from the animal's body and ran like the traditional white head further into the woods. The cavalrymen could not leave the two prisoners who remained, and who were watching with breathless interest the flight of their comrade, so the journey to the camp was continued without chase having been made.

When headquarters were reached the two officers were turned over to the commander. On their way to the guard house they turned to Fink and one of them said:

"You may be interested in knowing that the man who got away was Colonel Moseby." Then he started on with his companion. Fink, in telling the incident said:

"I was feeling sore enough over the escape, as it was, but when I heard who my prisoner was, I felt like going to the guard house myself and serving the longest sentence I could persuade my superiors to give me."

It has never been positively established that the man who got away in the woods was really Moseby. The two officers averred that it was, and Fink's comrades believed them and always called him "the man who captured Moseby."

If it was Moseby it was the closest escape he ever had from becoming a prisoner of the Federal government, for there was no man probably in the whole rebel army who was more wanted than he was and against whom more determined efforts were directed. Arch H. Rowand, Jr., the well-known local attorney, who was during the war one of the most famous of Federal scouts, put in the best part of three years in trying to apprehend him. Mr. Rowand this morning said in connection with the Fink incident.

"If Fink really had him I never heard of it. I put in my spare time and a good deal more during 1862-3-4 in going after the doughty old fellow, and when we weren't after him he was after us. I was once chased by three of his men from Stickers Gap clear into Harper's Ferry. My own opinion is that the man who skipped out in the woods Fink speaks of was not the guerilla at all, but that the officers who didn't get a chance to clear out just said he was, to make their own captors feel sore at their loss. Of course you understand I don't know anything about the affair, and that this theory is one of my own construction."

Moseby is still alive and resides in California. He came into great prominence just after the close of the Civil war by becoming a Republican, or as the phrase went then, a "reconstructed rebel." He held office under President Grant, and has always remained an administration man. During the Spanish war he came into public notice again by applying for a commission. He was told to get the recommendation of the Senators of his State but hotly declined to seek any such backing, closing the letter in which he did so with the characteristic declaration that he was after an army job not a political appointment.

"The use of visiting-cards dates back to quite an antiquity," explains Mrs. Van Koert Schuyler, in the Ladies' Home Journal. "Formerly the porter at the lodge or door of great houses kept a visitors' book, in which he scrawled his idea of the names of those who called upon the master and his family, and to whose inspection it was submitted from time to time. One fine gentleman, a scion of the nobility from the Faubourg St. Germain, was shocked to find that his porter kept so poor a register of the names of those who had called upon him. The names, badly written with spluttering pen and pale or muddy ink, suggested to him the idea of writing his own name upon slips of paper or bits of cardboard in advance of calling upon his neighbors lest his name should fare as badly at the hands of their porters. This custom soon became generally established."

WIVES OF PRESIDENTS.

Personal Appearance of the Women Who Have Ruled the White House.

Of mistresses of the White House one of the most popular was Mrs. James K. Polk. Like Mrs. Cleveland, she was a brunette, and of fine presence; it was often remarked that not a crowned head in Europe could queen it more royally than the wife of the republican President. Poets penned verses in her honor, and on the last Sunday of her stay in Washington a clergyman addressed her from the pulpit. She was treated with great distinction, and after leaving the White House was visited every New Year's by the Legislature in a body.

Mrs. George Washington also had dark hazel eyes and brown hair. She was not a beauty, but she had a good form, rather below middle weight, and her manners were frank and engaging. She dressed plainly and at a ball given in her honor she wore a simple russet gown and white handkerchief about her neck. One of her dresses which she herself manufactured was of cotton striped with silk, which she obtained from ravelings of brown silk stockings and old crimson chair covers.

Mrs. Monroe was considered a beauty. She was tall and gracefully formed, polished and attractive in society. Mrs. John Adams was never beautiful, but she was of imposing appearance and very intellectual.

Mrs. John Quincy Adams was famed for her charming manners, and Mrs. Andrew Jackson for her amiable temper and kind heart. Mrs. Martin Van Buren, who died before her husband became President, was a pretty woman with modest, unassuming manners and gentle disposition.

The first Mrs. Tyler was one of the belles of eastern Virginia, and was most attractive in her striking loveliness of person and character. The second Mrs. Tyler was the first woman to marry a President. Before her marriage she was, for the one season she spent there, the belle of Washington.

A sparkling brunette was Mrs. William Henry Harrison. She was very handsome, with a face full of animation, and her health, which was robust, added a glow to her features, which increased her charms. "Upon her countenance," it is recorded, "nature had been profusely liberal."

Mrs. Thomas Jefferson was remarkable for her beauty. Her complexion was brilliant; her large, expressive eyes of "the richest tinge of auburn." A little above medium weight, she was slightly and delicately formed. She danced, sang, played the spinnet and harpsichord and rode with great skill.

Mrs. James Madison was a pretty, buxom woman, with a smile and a pleasant word for every one. She had regular features and sparkling eyes.

Mrs. Zachary Taylor was a quiet woman, but had great strength of character and the true spirit of the American heroine, enduring patiently privation incident to life on the frontier, where her husband, as Major Taylor, was stationed. She had no ambition beyond making her home happy.

A blonde of rare beauty was Mrs. Millard Fillmore, with a skin of dazzling whiteness and auburn hair. She was quite tall with a fine figure and of commanding presence. She is ranked with the wives of the two Adamses as a learned woman, and it was through her that her husband asked for and obtained an appropriation of Congress to buy books for the White House. Up to that time there had been a Bible there, and little more.

Another woman of rare beauty was Mrs. Franklin Pierce. She also had many accomplishments. She was very refined and quiet, shunning society.

Mrs. Abraham Lincoln as a girl was very attractive, and she had many suitors. When she became the mistress of the White House she was "fair and forty." That she was the successor of the popular and accomplished Miss Lane was not a point in her favor. At the first levee she appeared in pink silk, decollete, short-sleeved dress and a floral headdress, which ran down to her waist, and destroyed what comeliness simplicity might have given her.

Mrs. Andrew Jackson possessed the beauty of face and form which rendered her mother one of the most beautiful of women. Mrs. Grant was a blonde, of delicate figure, rather below middle stature. Mrs. Hayes was of very attractive appearance. Mrs. Garfield was noted for her tact, and her husband one said that he never had to explain away any words of his wife.

Mrs. Arthur, who died before her husband became President, was known as "the beautiful Miss Herndon with the marvellous voice" before her marriage.

Mrs. Harrison was fair as a girl and possessed a blonde style of beauty, which also belongs to Mrs. McKinley

How Congress Spring Was Named

When John Taylor Gilman, a member of Congress, visited the log houses which chiefly constituted Saratoga in its early history, he was accompanied one day on a hunting ramble by a young son of the woodsman with whom he boarded. When they returned to the cabin the boy enthusiastically shouted, "Oh, ma, we've found a new spring!" "Who found it?" he was asked. Turning to the distinguished lawmaker the little fellow admiringly exclaimed: "Why, the Congress!" And to this day the name has clung to one of the most celebrated of the springs which made the place a sanitary resort long before it became the seat of summer fashion.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Early Promise.

"I'm going to be proud of that small boy of mine one of these days," he exclaimed, earnestly.

"Is he talented?"

"No. He's going to be a business man. I told him last week if he'd be a good boy I'd take him to the circus. Instead of taking me right up, he thought the proposition over for a minute, and then asked me if I thought 't was a good circus."—Washington Star.

Nervousness and Nerve

The more nervous a man is, the less nerve he has. That sounds paradoxical—but it isn't; for nerve is stamina.

Hood's Sarsaparilla gives nerve. It tones the whole system, perfects digestion and assimilation, and is therefore the best medicine a nervous person can take.

If you get tired easily, mentally or physically, take it—it will do you good.

A farmer drifted into a hardware store at Mulhall and was asked by the manager. "Don't you want to buy a bicycle to ride around your farm on? They're cheap now. Can give you one for $35."

"I'd sooner put $35 into a cow," said the farmer.

"But think," said the manager, "how foolish you would look riding around town on a cow."

"Oh, I don't know" said the farmer; "no more foolish, perhaps, than I would milking a bicycle."

Out of the Ordinary.

The two old friends, as has been narrated before met again, after years of separation.

"By the way, Gagster," said Throggins, "do you remember that snub nosed, cross-eyed little Tilbury girl, with a face on her that would ditch an express train? She used to live somewhere in your neighborhood, I thing."

"Oh, yes, I remember her perfectly," replied Gagster.

"What ever became of her?"

"I am sorry to disappoint you, Throggins"—here is where the variation comes in—"but I have not the slightest idea. I didn't marry her."

Wonderfully Made.

Sister—When you called to see George was he wearing those slippers I made him for Christmas?

Brother—No. He was using one of them as a laundry bag.

At the Opera House

A large audience greeted Pauline, the great French hypnotist, at the Opera House last night. The wonderful feats performed in hypnotism and mind reading was well worth seeing, and elicited much applause.

HELLO, 371!

A new telephone has been placed in Walter Bates' Restaurant, Hunter Street, to Meet the requirements of an increasing trade. If you want a nice Lunch or Hot Dinner give us a call. Open till midnight.

The Engineering Club

The regular meeting of the Engineering Club was postponed until to-morrow on account of the Fortnightly Club's meeting last night. A paper will be read by Mr. C. F. McGill, on "The Lathe." Everyone interested are cordially invited to be present.

Engaged For the First

The Canadian Order of Foresters have engaged the steamer City of Peterborough for the first of July, Dominion Day, for their annual excursion. The work on the steamer is progressing steadily. The new machinery is expected to arrive in a few days, and will be placed on board. The boat will be launched in April.

Fortnightly Club

The Fortnightly Club meeting was well attended last night, and everyone went home well pleased with the lecture delivered by Rev. Mr. Knowles, of Galt. The chair was occupied by the President, Mr. Sheriff Hall, who introduced the lecturer in a few well chosen words. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Knowles for his address.

A Progressive People

They have public-spirited citizens in Leamington. The News says that a paper is in circulation and is being readily signed by subscribers willing to pay towards a test gas well in town. The idea is to find gas, and once found to hand it over to the town at cost. A town that harbors citizens of that stripe should go a head. Would that Peterborough had a few such public-spirited citizens.

Money in Hens

As showing that there is money in hens, the Walkerton Telescope recites that from the first of December to the 16th of February, a period of about 76 days, Mrs. Jas. Coulter, of Brant, sold 100 dozen of eggs from 39 hens. Eggs during all this time have been selling at about 20 cents a dozen, or in other words 39 hens earned $20 in 75 days. In view of this, why should anybody risk being frozen to death in the Klondike?

Death of an Old Resident

There passed away at the family residence, Lake street, on Monday afternoon, Mary Maloney, relict of the late James O'Brien, aged 87 years. The deceased resided in Peterborough for 53 years, and only once during that time has she been out of town, and that was in 1848. There are now surviving three sons, John and James, of town, and Edward, in British Columbia. The funeral will take place from the residence of her son, 45 Lake street this morning, to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

Rev. Jesse Gibson

The annual meeting of the Bible Society will be held to-night at eight p.m. in the George Street Methodist Church. This is a union meeting of all the churches, and the annual meetings of the society throughout the world have had much to do with the practical Christian unity that exists in Christendom to-day. Such meetings are the true test of our attitude towards co-operation in progressive Christianity. A collection will be taken up for the work of the society.

JOTTINGS ABOUT TOWN.

—There was no Police Court yesterday.

—The Committee on Appointments and Licenses of the Town Council met last night.

Don't think less of your system than you do of your house. Give it a thorough cleansing, too. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

There never was a quicker balm
 Than Times Want Ads, for sorrow—
If out of work use them to-day.
 And choose your job to-morrow.

—An interesting address is expected at St. John's church this evening, when Rev. J. J. Fidler, of Colborne, will speak on "Christ and Society."

There was a young fellow named Fife,
Who hadn't too happy a life.
 Slack work kept him poor,
 But a Times Ad made sure
That his future with joy will be rife.

—The preliminary hearing of the charge against Will Patterson, the Queen's medical student, arrested at Belleville last week, opens this morning at nine o'clock before Police Magistrate Dumble.

The slot machine may act or not—
 Its works are often poor,
But put a Want Ad in The Times
 And its returns are sure.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

—The Times had a pleasant call yesterday from Rev. Mr. Berry, of Apsley, who spent Sunday in town.

—Mr. Alfred Ballyntine, of Springville, bade farewell to his many friends in town yesterday, when he left for Dakota. His many friends wish him a safe journey.

"Thought it meant death sure."—Mrs. James McKim, of Dunnville, Ont., says of her almost miraculous cure from heart disease by Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart: "Until I began taking this remedy I despaired of my life. I had heart failure and extreme prostration. One dose gave me quick relief and one bottle cured me. The sufferings of years were dispelled like magic."—3

"To-morrow I'll take my pick," my friend.
 For thus it has to be,
To-morrow I'll take my pick of the jobs
 That Times Ad brought to me.

Died in Chicago

The sad news was received yesterday yesterday by his friends of the death in Chicago of Mr. Joseph Parkley, caused by consumption. Deceased was only 29 years of age and leaves a wife and one child. His untimely demise is regretted by friends, who will sympathize with his bereaved family. His mother and sister, Mrs Jas. Lewis, left yesterday for Chicago.

A Small Blaze

About two o'clock yesterday afternoon another alarm was sounded for a fire that had started in the cellar of Turner's music store, immediately north of Macdonald's drug store on George street. The fire was started from ashes in the cellar, some live coals ignited some waste. The principal damage is from smoke. The building is owned by the Central Canada Loan Co. and was insured.

Resolution of Sympathy

At the last regular meeting of Court Langton, No. 344, C.O.F., a resolution of sympathy with Bro. Thomas Mulligan in his sad bereavement in the death of his mother was passed, and forwarded as follows,—

"Whereas it has pleased Almighty God in His infinite mercy to remove from you by death a kind, affectionate and loving mother, we the officers and members of Court Langton, No. 344, extend to you our most sincere and heartfelt sympathy in your sad bereavement, and pray that the Great God who is too wise to err and too good to be unkind, will sustain you in the time of your great sorrow.

Signed on behalf of Court Langton No. 344.

GOT HER COFFEE

And it Pulled Her But

"Doctor after doctor said I should not drink strong coffee. It struck me as peculiar that this advice should be so universal.

I have been a school teacher, and a few years ago began to feel I was pretty well worn out and nervous, found that I was depending more and more upon my coffee to carry me through my day's work. Many times when teaching in a boarding school, I have asked the matron for a cup of coffee "strong," because I felt I could not get through the recitation without it.

Of course, I was living on borrowed strength, and two years ago the physical crash came. Nervous prostration and neurasthenia. For weeks I could not even walk or stand alone. The physician said it would be two or three years before I could recover so as to be able to do anything. My appetite was gone. I could not sleep, and I was in a desperate condition, nervous and otherwise.

I was wanting coffee very badly, but it was kept from me. One morning about three weeks after the break down, the nurse brought me a cup of coffee, of delicious flavor. 'May I have it?' I exclaimed, 'Yes, the Dr. says it will not hurt you now.' I could not understand it and did not try, but just drank the coffee, and had it every morning after that.

My appetite began to return with the first cup, and I had been enjoying it for a month or more when sister said, 'Does your coffee taste as good as it did before you were sick?' 'Oh yes,' I said 'It never tasted better.' 'Is it strong enough to suit you?' I said, 'It could not be improved.' 'Do you know,' she said, 'You are not dringing Mocha or Java, but Postum Food Coffee,' and so it was, every grain of it.

I had often scoffed at Postum Food Coffee before I knew of its value, and its delicious flavor.

It has been a Saviour to me. Instead of waiting two or three years to recover strength, I am now in good working condition six months after the break down, and feel better than I have in ten years past." S. W. H——, Everett, Wash. Full name given by Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

There is a reason for such rapid recovery. Postum Food Coffee contains the natural phosphate of potash and albumen from the grains of the field, which nature has sent for the use of humanity in the body. These materials combine in the human system and go to make up the gray matter that fills the nerve cells in the brain and all through the structure. We must furnish proper materials if we would build the proper body.

You can get these materials in a delicious form in Postum Food Coffee.

RANTON'S EVIL TEMPER

Threw a Hymn Book at A Lady in Church at Chesterfield

A few days ago The Times published the particulars of an incident which occurred in the village of Chesterfield, in which Rev. A. H. Ranton, an evangelist threw a hymn book at a lady in the congregation. Ranton conducted evangelistic services in Peterborough a few years ago. He had been, by his own showing a bar tender, and was no credit to that fraternity.

While in Peterborough Ranton preached a sermon on dancing, which created considerable feeling, many persons being of the opinion that the preacher was extreme and even insulting.

Ranton is said to conduct himself well enough in the cities and larger towns but in the country it is said to be different. He is alleged to have reprimanded two young ladies at Tweed in an insulting manner, and when a Toronto paper remonstrated he called the journal a rough lying sporting sheet. In St. Thomas a few days ago he said that all newspaper men, except one, and that one his cousin, were low, drunken soaks. This gentleman's latest episode has Chesterfield for its scene. During a meeting held last Sunday evening in the Presbyterian church, a lady, a member of the church, came in, and in trying to gain a seat, spoke to the usher, who was placing a board upon a chair in the aisle, when the reverend gentleman threw his hymn book at her saying, "You have been annoying me there all evening." The lady immediately left the meeting. In trying to make an apology later Mr. Ranton said, "I hope that lady will not be offended. I merely tossed the book to get her attention. If she is I do not care. I did it in boyish play." Mr. Ranton was interviewed the following morning, and an apology demanded, which was given Monday evening, but it is said the matter will not rest here.

LOOKING FOR GAS.

Peterborough Said to be Underlaid with Gas and Oil.

A gentleman, who claims to be a good judge, told The Times yesterday, that there was abundance of natural gas in this locality, as well as petroleum. He said the limestone formation was almost a sure indication that gas and oil existed.

When the excavating was being done at the lift lock, pockets of gas was opened up, which burned for days, and rock was taken out dripping with petroleum.

The Times would like to see some of our moneyed men take the matter up, and sink a well. A test well would not be an expensive undertaking, and the result might be a big thing for the town. With natural gas, light, heat and power would be very much cheapened. This is a matter which the Board of Trade might properly discuss.

Laid at Rest

The funeral of the late John Hetherington took place yesterday to the Little Lake cemetery, and was largely attended, the deceased having been a member of several societies. Mr. Hetherington was very popular, and had many friends. The Orangemen and Foresters attended in a body, and many beautiful floral tributes were laid around the casket. L.O.L. No. 80 sent a beautiful pillow, while an anchor from the A.O.U.W., and a magnificent wreath from Court Chemong Foresters, testified to the genuine sorrow over his demise. The employees of the Auburn Woolen Mills also sent a beautiful wreath. The services were conducted by Rev. J. P. Wilson. The members of the family present at the obsequies were al son, Mr. J. H Hetherington, of Sherbrooke, Que.; a daughter, Mrs. Roberts, and Mr. Roberts, of Toronto; Mr. J. Donaldson, of Almonte, Ont., a brother-in-law, and his mother, Mrs. Donaldson, of Perth.

A Sleighing Party

On Monday evening a sleighload of ladies and gentlemen left White's hotel to attend a farewell party at Mr. Alfred Ballyntine's, at Springville. The party left Peterborough at 7.45, accompanied by many single cutters. The roads being very bad and having a heavy load, the party did not arrive until ten o'clock. As soon as all were warmed they started dancing and continued until twelve o'clock, when a very sumptuous supper was served, after which dancing was continued until morning. At 3.30 the party started for home. They were having a pleasant time, when the sleigh upset, but fortunately no one was hurt. They arrived in Peterborough at about 5.30. Mr. Wm. Ballyntine, formerly of Peterborough, was heartily thanked for the favors that he showed, he being the manager of the party.—Com.

Lindsay's Great Danger.

Lindsay is in danger these days from wild animals. A bear was seen the other day on the borders of the town, having evidently come out to see what was going on. The citizens of backwoods places usually go about armed so as to be able to protect themselves against attacks of wild animals. We have not heard whether or not Lindsay citizens take this precaution.

'A Cheerful Look Makes a Dish a Feast."

"Cheerful looks" depend just as much upon physical well-being as upon natural disposition and temperament. If the blood is disordered, the brain is starved, and no "dish is a feast," for the reason that the vitalising elements do not reach the proper spot.

A step in the right direction is to purify the body by the use of a natural remedy. Hood's Sarsaparilla is Nature's remedy. It acts upon the blood, and whether the seat of the disorder is brain, stomach, liver or kidneys, the purifying process of this medicine is equally sure and successful. It never disappoints.

Back Ache—"My mother had severe pains in her side and back. She was obliged to give up work. A friend persuaded her to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and soon she was able to do her work, free from pain and had a good appetite." MAGGIE MORGAN, Nasonworth, N. B.

Nerve Food—"My wife was stricken with nervous prostration. She suffered from headaches. She became weak, low-spirited and her appetite was poor. I am glad to state that Hood's Sarsaparilla has completely cured her of all her ailments." G. BELLAMY, 321 Hannah St., Hamilton, Ont.

THE SUN SAVINGS AND LOAN COMPANY OF ONTARIO

ANNUAL REPORT.

The annual meeting of this Company was held in the Company's office, Toronto, on Monday, the 18th inst., with a good attendance of stockholders present, a number of whom came from outside the city; amongst these were Messrs. J. Ballantyne of Kincardine, H. D. Henderson of Whitechurch; Jas. Black, Rockwood; Josiah Taylor of Hamilton; Geo W. Hudson of Lucknow; Alex. Campbell of Lorne, and others.

The chair was taken by the President, J. T. Gilmour, Esq., M.D., who opened the meeting by reading the notice, which had been sent to all stockholders, calling the same, and prefacing the proceedings with some remarks expressive of his satisfaction and pleasure at seeing so many of the stockholders present, and promising them a good report for the past year's business.

The Secretary was then called upon to read the Directors' Annual Report, from which the following interesting facts and figures are taken:—

Total Assets, Dec. 31, 1900	$ 351,010
Net earnings for the year on Paid-up Capital	37,002
Mortgage loans (being first mortgage on productive property)	385,859
New loans made during the year	117,739
Permanent stock (paid-up)	123,099
Carried to credit of accumulative stock (on amount paid-up)	10 per cent.
Total Subscribed Capital	1,571,600

Regular and stated payments are being made from time to time on the subscribed capital, increasing rapidly from month to month.

The report stated that all loans made by the Company were on the periodical repayment system, fixed sums of principal and interest at certain times paying off loans in stated periods, and that said payments were promptly made during the year. Funds were well out all through the year and earning good interest; consequently larger profit returns than in any past year. Six per cent. annual dividend was paid on all permanent stock, in semi-annual instalments.

After the reading of the report remarks were made by several of the stockholders present, expressing much satisfaction with the past year's business and greater confidence than ever in the Company. The report on motion was adopted.

Following this was the election of Directors for the ensuing year, and at a Directors' Meeting immediately following, the usual officers were elected. The Directors and Officers for the year are:—Whitford Vandusen, Esq., Banker, of Tara, President; Ambrose Kent, J.P., Toronto, Vice-President; J. T. Gilmour, M. D., H. H. Dewart, K.C., H. Wilberforce Aikins, M.D., S. T. Bastedo, Esq., W. J. Fawcett, Banker, Brigden, and W. Pemberton Page, Manager and Secretary. Auditors; J. F. Lawson, J. L. Atkinson.

Stop Losing Money

You Cannot Guess Winners

Horse races are "MIGHTY UNCERTAIN" things to bet on, if you depend on a GUESS to win, a thousand miles from the scene. Thousands have tried before you and have failed. The chances are a thousand to one you will fail too.

You Cannot Handicap Winners

Horses are not machines. They rarely repeat performances. Many of them look at the odds in the betting ring before they go to the post—that is, their owners do it for them. Horses do not always "try." They run for the benefit of their owners, not the public.

SHARPE COMMITTED

FOR TRIAL ON A CHARGE OF

DELIBERATE MURDER

The Coroner's Jury Returns a Verdict of Wilful Murder

NOTHING TO IMPLICATE DWYER AND NEWALL

There Was no Evidence Given to Show That They Were Accessories, Though They Drove Sharpe to the House Where he Shot Hull

The adjourned inquest on the body of Wm. Hull, was continued on Tuesday, at the home of Samuel Munroe, near the scene of the murder, in Methuen township. There was a large number of people present from the surrounding country.

Coroner Gray arrived upon the scene from Peterborough, about 3 o'clock accompanied by Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, Mr. R. F. Kerr, of the firm of Kerr & O'Connell, who have charge of the defence; Mr. Wm. Mathieson, J.P., of Havelock; County Constable Cochrane, who had the prisoner, Alex. Sharpe, in charge; Dr. Holcroft, of Havelock, who conducted the post-mortem examination on the body of the late William Hull, was also present, and Constable Williams, of Havelock, who, on Thursday, accompanied Constable Cochrane in the search for the prisoner.

The jurors having all assembled, testimony was first given by Dr. Holcroft. His written report is as follows: —

THE POST-MORTEM.

The body of William Hull presented a healthy appearance. There was a hole in the right side through the third rib, near the shoulder. On examination, the brain, heart, liver, spleen, pancreas, stomach, bowels, kidneys, supra-renal capsules, and bladder, were in a normal condition. The cavity surrounding the lungs was full of blood. There was a hole through the upper part of the right lung. The main blood vessel from the heart was cut in two. There was a hole in the upper part of the left lung. The third rib on the left side had a hole in it. Also, there was a hole through the shoulder blade, and I found a bullet underneath the skin, behind the shoulder blade. In my opinion, death was caused by the bullet. I made the post-mortem on Sunday, February 24, 1901.

Dr. Holcroft had extracted the bullet, and had subsequently handed it to Constable Cochrane, who has two others which were doubtless in the rifle on the night of the murder. They are those of a 44-calibre Winchester, and the leaden messenger which caused Hull's death was flattened considerably.

ACCOMPAINED SHARPE

Robert Newell, who was one of the young men who accompanied Sharpe on the night of the murder, was next sworn. Upon being sworn, he said, in reply to the Crown Attorney's interrogations, I know Alexander Sharpe. Have known him for about a year. I saw him on Wednesday last, when he came to my father's house. I had no talk with him about William Hull. I drove him to Steve Davis' house on Wednesday, a little after dark. He asked me to do so, because he wanted to trade guns with Steve Davis, and see his woman. I had my father's horses. Sharpe said nothing to me about Hull on the way down. On arriving at the house, Sharpe went in and I drove on down to the barn, where I saw Steve Davis. When I was at the barn I heard a shot. Sharpe had brought a rifle with him. I had turned the rig round, and Sharpe had come out of the house and he got into the rig and we went home.

After meeting Sharpe, after the shot was fired. I don't know what first was said. George Dwyer was with us. I heard Sharpe tell Steve Davis that he had shot Bill Hull. On the way home or subsequently, Sharpe made no statement in my hearing in regard to the shooting. He came to our house and stayed all night. He talked to my father about the shooting, and said he had shot Bill Hull. He left our place next morning, when I drove him back to Drain's at the mica mines, to get his things. I then took him to Hubgel's, where he left his things, and then I drove him to Jas. Robb's the magistrate. It was at his wish I drove him to Robb's, where he intended to give himself up. Mr. Robb was not at home. I left Sharpe there and returned home.

DWYER'S TESTIMONY.

George Dwyer, a somewhat raw, unkempt-looking youth, and older than Newell, being sworn, said, I have known Alex. Sharpe for about two years. I have known his wife about three years —ever since she lived here. She came here with the deceased, Bill Hull. She lived with Hull until about November last, in Burleigh township, on the other side of Stony lake, and in a house by themselves. They had the reputation of living together as man and wife. She claimed to be Hull's wife. She told my mother and myself that such was the case and the neighborhood had that impression. In November Hull went away to the Soo. She had no where to go, and Sharpe took pity on her and married her. They both lived at Mr. Jas. Drain's for they had no house of their own. Mrs. Sharpe's little boy was with them. Drain's is a rather poor place to live. I am pretty well acquainted with Sharpe. He and his wife lived at Drain's for about two months and a half. They left there some-time this month, Mrs. Sharpe having first departed to get some groceries, but had never returned. I saw Sharpe a week ago Sunday, but did not talk with him. Sharpe left Drain's a week ago last Friday or Saturday, but I never saw him subsequently until Wednesday night last, when I saw him at Mr. Frank Newell's. I had no talk with him, either in regard to him or his wife. When Mrs. Sharpe left Drain's she came to Mr. Hank Hughes' She was not at my father's place since shortly after Christmas. Sharpe told us on Wednesday night that he was going to Davis' to trade rifles. Arriving there he got out, and we went down to the barn to turn around. He had in the meantime been in the house, and at the barn almost as soon as we were. I cannot say that there was a shot fired, as I had the mumps and could not hear. Arriving at the barn, Sharpe said to Steve Davis, who was at the barn with his wife: "I've fixed the man who stole my wife." Davis replied, "Maybe you have shot some of my children." Sharpe said "No, I did not," When Sharpe was driving back with us I said to him, "Now, did you not say you came down to trade rifles with Steve Davis?" Sharpe returned. "I don't tell everybody my business. Drive on." I came back as far as Munroe's and got out. I was so badly scared I told no one what happened. I mentioned it to Mr. Wallbridge in the cow stable and supposed he would tell it to the Munroe family. Sharpe said nothing on the way up from Davis'.

To Mr. Kerr witness said that while driving to Davi's Sharpe had said nothing about his wife, although she was the talk of the neighborhood. We were all pretty much excited after the shooting.

DAVIS TELLS HIS STORY.

Stephen N. Davis, at whose house the tragedy occurred, was next sworn, and said:—I live on lot 31, of the 10th concession of Belmont, and it was at my house that Hull was shot on Wednesday evening last. Hull came there on the Sunday evening previous between 10 and 11 of the afternoon. He came alone. Hull went away in the afternoon and returned in the evening with Mrs. Sharpe. He wanted me to take a load to Lakefield or Peterborough, but I could not. I did not know Mrs. Sharpe before the Sunday on which she came to my house. I had seen her before, and on one occasion last summer. I remember, she was referred to as Hull's wife, but I don't know whether Sharpe was present at the time. Hull said something to me about his wife coming to my house. He wished her to stay there until I could get an opportunity to drive her to Lakefield. My wife was ill and I found some use for her services at my house. Hull introduced her as his wife. I had heard some talk about the woman having been married to Sharpe, but paid no attention to it. Hull went away on Monday and returned on Wednesday evening. My wife and I were at the barn, and in the house were my father, my three children and the woman. While I was doing the chores a rig stopped at my gate, and I thought I saw a man get out and go into the house. The rig came on down to the barn, and one whom I afterwards recognized as Newell, said "Good-night." As we were talking I heard a sound that seemed like a shot or a door slamming. I asked who it was that went into my house, and Sharpe, who had arrived at the barn, said "It's me, Steve; don't be alarmed. "I've fixed the man who stole my wife." He said he came prepared to do it and had done it. I exclaimed, "You've killed my wife," I also heard some one exclaim, as I thought, "O, my little girl!" and I thought one of my children was shot. Mrs. Davis and I returned to the house, and the door was held I think Mrs. Sharpe was holding it shut. We told her who we were and she let us in. When we got in we found the children safe, and Hull was sitting upon the floor in the corner, the cupboard at the south wall supporting him. I went close to him and looked in his face. I spoke to him, but got no answer. There was blood all over him and upon the floor. I have had no talk with Sharpe since about the shooting, except on Friday last. I gathered from him that he had purposed to shoot Hull and the woman. He did not say he had a bullet for himself or anyone else.

WAS SHE HULL'S WIFE?

To Mr. Kerr witness said: — Hull told me that the woman was his wife, but I did not know whether they had been legally married. I heard that Hull had been married to some woman before and knew that the woman known as Mrs. Sharpe could not be his wife. I did not understand that Hull and the woman were the ones who were to compose the load to be taken to Lakefield to be placed on the train. I thought, perhaps, it would be furniture. Hull said nothing to me about leaving for Michigan or any other place. I heard no conversation between Hull and the woman as to what their plans were. Hull calculated going to Havelock on Friday with me, and I expected he would come back with me. Hull introduced the woman as his wife and they slept together as man and wife. In the second storey of the house also slept my father and the children.

STEPHEN NORMAN SPEAKS.

Witness denied that he had said that Mrs. Sharpe or Hull was to be the load mentioned by the latter to be taken to Lakefield or Peterborough. Granted that Hull intended sending Mrs. Sharpe to Lakefield or Peterborough, such supposition would give rise to the assumption that Hull upon arriving at Havelock on Friday, intended to take train and meet Mrs. Sharpe at Peterborough. The purport of his letter to Mrs. Sharpe would also bear this out.

The deposition of Stephen Norman was the last, and in addressing the jurors Coroner Gray told them to make the best use of the evidence at their disposal. They returned the following verdict in about half an hour.

"That the deceased, William Hull, came to his death by wilful murder premeditated by Alex. Sharpe, by shooting him with a rifle."

HAS GOT HIMSELF DISLIKED.

The people of the vicinity seem to have no good to say of the murderer, and regard his victim in quite as deprecatory a light. The awfulness of the crime, of course, marks Sharpe as the object of their condemnation.

The prisoner showed great interest in the proceedings of the inquest. He has been suffering from a severe cold and is not in the best of health. Sharpe chattered with many of the people present at the inquest, and such was his liberty during his day's outing that he appeared quite other than a prisoner, against whose account was a charge of murder.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

While the coroner's jury was considering the evidence, Mr. Wm. Mathieson, J. P., of Havelock, held court in the kitchen of the house. The evidence received was that of Stephen Davis, the venerable looking father of Stephen Norman. He it was who was one of the inmates of his son's log cabin at the time of the tragedy. His story has already been published, save the statement that he had never heard anything from the lips of Hull or Mrs. Sharpe as to the plan of their proposed flight. The depositions of Robert Newell, George Dwyer and Stephen Norman Davis, taken at the inquest, were also received in evidence. This concluded, the prisoner was asked if he wished to speak, and replied in the negative. He was charged with the awful murder of William Hull, and, upon being arraigned, pleaded not guilty. The Magistrate committed him for trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction. This will be the High Court of Justice, the sittings of which open on March 24th before Mr. Justice Lount.

Sharpe had a son, a little lad of about 13 years of age, in Havelock, with Terry Smith, the liveryman. The boy was at the train to meet his father, and upon his return from the country again greeted him. They spent many moments of conversation together and sealed their good-bye with a kiss. It was a pathetic spectacle.

"Copley kept his head this time. I was a very serious affair, and he saw the necessity of using all his wits.

"The faculty never did find out who was guilty. It was a most unsatisfactory investigation. Copley's innocence was clearly established, but a disagreeable suspicion of several first-year and second-year men also grew up. Copley, I ought to say, was in his fourth year.

"The story of the street arab who had been frightened nearly to death got into the newspapers and made a sensation. There was no doubt that it would injure the reputation of the hospital. The board of directors debated over the affair at a special meeting. and all the 700 students debated over it on all occasions.

"It was a nurse—of all possible people—who gave us the first hint of a way to put a stop to the persecution of poor Copley. She was chatting with him, myself and a senior student, all of us on night duty in her ward.

"'The thing is quite plain to me,' she said. 'In fact, I believe I could put my hand on the guilty party to-morrow morning, if I wanted to. But the scandal has nearly blown over now, and the young man has been badly frightened. So we might as well let well enough alone.'

"'And how about me?' says Copley.

"'Well, then,' she said, 'Mr. Copley has a double—yes, a double. Mr. Copley's double is a young limb of Satan in his first year. I have noticed the likeness over and over again, but, as you gentlemen never see anything of the first-year students—'

"Of course, now that she had mentioned it, we all saw just how it was. The nurse did not tell us the name of this young man, but we three quietly kept on the lookout for Copley's double among the first-year men, and in less than twenty-four hours we found the double of Copley in a youth by the name of Wixem. We all three pitched upon the same man. There was no room for the least doubt. The only difference between Copley and Wixem at ten yards' range was that Wixem was already serious and even grave in his demeanor, and Copley had a gay, ... way, in spite of his

Brimingham, England, is the only place in which manufacturing crowns is an industry that may be said to flourish. The trade is principally with Africa, where the numerous kings have come to regard a crown as a far more elegant emblem of royalty than the stovepipe hat which they formerly affected. A servicable crown, gaudily decorated with imitation precious stones, may be purchased for quite a small sum.

The Japanese apply one of their many pretty ways to the launching of ships. They use no wine but hang over the ship's prow a large pasteboard cage full of birds. The moment the ship is afloat a man pulls a string, when the cage opens, and the birds fly away, making the air alive with music and the whirr of wings. The idea is that the birds thus welcome the ship as she begins her career as a thing of life.

SEVENTY CASES OF SMALLPOX

Have Existed in Ontario Lumber Camps all Winter.

DANGER OF ITS SPREADING

Disease as yet Mostly Exists in the Unorganized Districts.

The Department of Public Health in Toronto, is now convinced that smallpox has existed in a malignant form in many of the lumber camps on the north shore all winter. It was introduced from the lumbering districts of Michigan, which are in close relations with the lumber camps of New Ontario. These cases are just now coming to light, and more may be expected in future.

The conditions are such that the utmost care must be exercised in all channels through which lumbermen distribute themselves in the spring.

Of the seventy or more known cases now existing in the province, the vast majority are in the unorganized districts, from which the lumbering population is chiefly recruited. In addition cases have cropped up at Toronto, Ottawa, Goderich, Penetang, and Renfrew The department is contemplating stringent measures to check the progress of this disease.

Beyond the case at Lindsay, which was imported from Sudbury, there is none in Peterborough district. But the utmost vigilance is necessary to prevent the disease from entering the town.

NO MORE CHINESE TO BE EXECUTED

The Allies Will Not Demand Further Punishments

Pekin, Feb. 26.—A crowd of fully ten thousand persons witnessed the execution of Chih Su and Hsu Cheng Yu, who were beheaded here to-day in accordance with the demands of the powers. The members of the various Legations were conspicuously absent, feeling that if they were present they might seem to be gloating over their fallen adversaries Every power, however, was largely represented by military officials and soldiers, There was also present a staff from each of the foreign powers. Besides these many missionaries witnessed the executions. The condemned men met death stoically. In each case one blow severed the head from the body.

At the time the execution was being carried out the Ministers held a meeting and determined on the part of the majority to draw a curtain over further demands for blood. United States Special Commissioner Rockhill sided strongly with those favoring humane methods, who are Sir Ernest Satow, and M. Komura, Cologan and De Giers respectively British, Japanese, Spanish and Russian Ministers. Others believed that China had not been sufficiently punished, and that men should be executed in every city, town and village where foreigners had been injured. The minority is composed of those who were not here during the siege, including Dr. Mumm Von Schwartzenstein, the German Minister, while those who were besieged here are of a more peaceable frame of mind, including M. De Giers and Senor De Cologan, both of whom are of the opinion that it was a mistake to leave those who had suffered like the besieged Ministers did to conduct the peace negotiations with the Chinese, It is safe to say, however, that little more bloodshed will be demanded.

BOTHA REPORTED TO HAVE SURRENDERED

And General Thorneycroft Following Closely the Retreating Army of Dewet

Hertzog Has Crossed the Orange River but is Still Within the Cordon

London, Feb. 27.

French's most recent success, combined with the other advantages gained by the British forces in South Africa have created a most hopeful feeling in the War Office here. Lord Raglan, Under Secretary for War, described it to-day as being "the thin edge of the wedge," and this also is the opinion of the military critics, who reiterate that while the war could not be expected to end with a sudden stroke, this constant capture of men, guns, supplies and horses meant that the operations would soon be reduced to a dacoit stage.

De Aar, Cape Colony, Feb. 26.

Thorneycroft's column when last heard of was a few hours' march behind De Wet. The other columns have seemingly lost touch with him. Hertzog, the Boer commander, is reported to have crossed the Orange River and appears to be still inside the rectangle formed by the railroads and the river.

London, Feb. 27.

The Daily Chronicle has received a report it believes trustworthy, though it has no means of verification, that Gen. Botha has surrendered to Lord Kitchener.

GENERAL FRENCH MAKES A CAPTURE

Three Hundred Boers Surrender,—Three Guns Captured

London, Feb. 27.—Gen. Kitchener, telegraphing from Middleburg, under date of February 27, says:

"The following additional captures are reported by French up to February 25. "Three hundred Boars surrendered; a 19-pounder Krupp, one Howitzer, a Maxim, 20,000 rounds of small arms, ammunition, 153 rifles, 388 horses, 834 truck oxen 5,600 cattle, 9,800 sheep and 287 wagons and carts. The Boer's casualties were four killed and five wounded."

A private message received at Port Elizabeth, Cape Colony, says Scheeper's Laager, near Willowmore, has been captured by the British. The main body of Boers was absent, but 40 burghers and the whole of the supplies were taken.

The Daily Chronicle this morning publishes, under reserve, a rumor that Lord Kitchener has met General Louis Botha to arrange terms for the surrender of the Boers, and that an armistice of 24 hours was granted the Boer commandant-general to enable him to consult with other commandants.

Military men are rather inclined to believe that Lord Kitchener is preparing a coup with the object of completely demolishing either De Wet or Botha, if not both, on the anniversary of Majuba, to-day, just as Lord Roberts crushed Cronje 12 months ago.

IRISH CANADIANS WARLIKE.

Montreal, Feb. 26.— Trooper Shea, whose bravery was so marked in South Africa, is going to Ottawa with Mr. Arthur Ayan, another resident of Prescott county, to make an offer to the Minister of Militia to organize four troops of horse of 160 men, all of whom will furnish their own mounts, and provide for their keep. They are to be called the Royal Irish Canadian Dragoons. Mr. H. J. Cloran will introduce the patriotic soldiers to Hon. Dr. Borden on Friday next.

NO MORE MEN ARE WANTED

Ottawa, Feb. 27.—Militia orders today contains an announcement that more than sufficient applications have been received to make up the number of recruits required for the South African Constabulary. There is consequently no object in forwarding applications for enlistment after this date District officers commanding are requested to send to headquarters immediately the names of all enlisted men who have not been vaccinated.

MUST BE TRIED IN THIS COUNTRY

Fugitives Denied a Writ by Supreme Court

Chicago, Feb. 28—The United States Supreme Court yesterday rendered a decision which holds that Fred Lee Rice, Frank Rutledge, and Thomas Jones, now confined in the Cook County jail, are subject to extradition to Canada. The men will be taken to Toronto, and will stand trial on the charge of robbing a bank a bank and apostoffice at Aurora, Ont., on May 23, 1900. They also are charged with robbing the Standard Bank of Toronto and with escaping to this country, having $1700 in their possession.

The Supreme Court's decision puts an end to the stubborn fight the men have made to escape extradition, but it also in effect settles several interesting points raised in connection with the broad question of extradition and the rights of American citizens who commit crimes abroad.

PORTRAITS OF THE PRESIDENTS

With Biographical Sketches by General Charles H. Grosvenor Title Page Designed by Tiffany.

This Inaugural year, when the public mind is aroused over Presidential questions, is a fitting time to issue General Grosvenor's book. Its sale is already tremendous, and will perhaps exceed that of General Grant's Personal Memoirs.

Every patriotic American desires to read what General Grosvenor has to say of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, President McKinley and the other Chief Executives of the Nation. Everybody desires to read what General Grosvenor, the staunch old Republican leader in Congress, will say of that staunch old Democrat, Andrew Jackson, the Father of the Democratic Party. General Grosvenor has thrown into his sketch of Jackson all the fire and energy of his nature. The biography of Thomas Jefferson is grand. The biography of Lincoln is as beautiful as a sunrise over the hilltops. General Grosvenor has personally known all the Presidents since the time of James Buchanan. The General's book will therefore contain history which has never before been published, written from his own personal observation of these great men. General Grosvenor has served in Congress for nearly twenty years, and he has served his country in war and in Congress for nearly forty years. The book contains twenty-four large Photogravure Etchings as fine as Steel Plates, printed by hand, on heavy plate paper made especially to order. These 24 Photogravure Etchings are in different tints, and are well worth $2 each. These Portraits are made from the Paintings endorsed by the family and near relatives of the Presidents. Two years' time and a fortune have been expended in securing these reproductions. The complete book is well worth $50, but the price has been placed so low, that the most humble American citizen can own it. The biographical sketches are printed in large open type in two colors; the work is so beautiful that when people see it they want it. The advance sale is very large. President McKinley was the first subscriber. There is one edition known as The President Edition de Grand Luxe, initial letters hand painted, Portraits hand colored, title page hand illuminated, registered and numbered; subscription price, $500. Orders and applications for territory are coming in rapidly. A high class man or woman of good social standing can soon make a small fortune taking orders in this community. Send references and apply for terms quick, as the territory will all be assigned soon.

INK AS A WITNESS

Results In One Case Which Amazed the Attorneys.

In a case in the supreme court it was alleged that interlineations had been made in the papers after they were filed, and the papers were submitted to expert chemists to decide whether the interlineations had been made after the papers were filed or at the time the paper was drawn. The process followed by the chemists was simple, though tedious.

Hypochloride of soda was the only chemical used by the expert, but the result was the same as that arrived at by the other experts. Tests were made on each line of the document. The soda bleached the ink, and, as the writing in some parts was done many years ago, the first drop of soda was placed on a line which was not in controversy. The writing slowly faded, and it was 51 seconds before it was bleached.

A drop on another interlineation faded the writing in 49 seconds, on another in 51 seconds, and the interlineations made when the paper was first written faded in about 50 seconds on an average. Suddenly the ink of one of the interlineations faded in 15 seconds, and the conclusion was at once reached that it was fresher ink than the others, as the ink had not had time to thoroughly permeate the fiber of the paper.

Several interlineations were found to fade in from 13 to 16 seconds, and these were marked as having been made at a more recent date.

After all interlineations had been so marked, the next step was to ascertain as nearly as possible at what date the interlineations were made, and for this purpose many manuscripts in which similar ink was used on the same kind of paper were taken. The exact date of the writing of each manuscript was known, and soda was dropped on each, beginning with the date of writing of the manuscript in controversy. The time necessary to fade the ink gradually decreased from 52 and 50 seconds as the soda was dropped on the manuscripts of more recent years.

When the fading took place in 20 seconds, manuscripts but a month apart in writing were used, and the fading in 14 and 15 seconds was thus fixed in a certain month. The examining chemists knew nothing of the points in the controversy, and the report was made that certain interlineations were probably made in the specified month. The attorneys in the case were amazed, as the month named was that in which they believed the more recent writing had been done.—Indianapolis Press.

Uses For Bicycles.

There are many uses to which an old cycle can be put. It is said that a theater manager has made rather an excellent chandelier out of his old wheel. He also uses an old tricycle for producing the effect of wind, hail and railway trains. A navvy is said to have made a clock almost all out of parts of an old machine. The bell strikes the hours, and a length of solid rubber tire holds the pendulum, which is a bicycle fork. At one small place a man has turned a discarded wheel into a kind of pump, and the tires do duty for the pipe hose. Another has made a treadle sewing machine out of his wheel. A grocer has turned part of a cycle into a coffee grinding machine, and a bell ringer, being rather feeble in the arm, has an old cycle which he has raised and fixed in one position, and so by a pulley arrangement he can when gently pedaling ring the bell vigorously. Many folks use their old wheels for flower stands, and there is a man who is making quite a decent living by turning old bicycles into conveyances on which washerwomen can take home the weekly load.—London Globe.

The Crusades and Embroidery.

The crusades had a marked effect on the demand for embroidery, as besides the decoration of their cloaks and pouches the kings and their followers wanted gorgeously worked hangings for their tents and heraldic blazons for their banners. The last were difficult of execution, and new stitches were invented, and applique work was introduced about this time. The Spaniards are said to have learned the use of spangles and other metal and head ornaments as applied to stuffs from the Saracens. Later precious stones and pearls were used, and in 1414 Charles of Orleans spent about £40 for 960 pearls which were to be used in ornamenting a great coat on the sleeves of which were embroidered the verses of a song beginning with "Madam, I am all joyous." The musical accompaniment of the words was also embroidered.—Spectator.

Worth Seeing.

A Newcastle laborer recently resolved to treat himself to a night at the theater, and, entering the pit by the back of the orchestra, he happened to see the double bass viol set up against a music stand.

Having never seen anything of the kind before, he leaned his arm on the orchestra rail and stood transfixed with amazement. The pit was filling rapidly, and an acquaintance, tapping him on the shoulder, said if he didn't take a seat they would soon be all occupied.

"Way, wey, hiany," he exclaimed excitedly, "neever heed a seat. Aal I want is a look o' the chap that's gaan to put that fiddle conder his chin."—London Fun.

KEEP THE OLD FRIEND.

Make new friends, but keep the old:
Those are silver, these are gold;
New made friendships, like new wine,
Age will mellow and refine.

Friendships that have stood the test,—
Time and change,—are surely best;
Brows may wrinkle, hair grow gray,
Friendship never knows decay.

For, 'mid old friends, tried and true,
Once more we our youth renew.
But old friends, alas! may die,
New friends must their place supply.

Cherish friendship in your breast,
New is good, but old is best:
Make new friends, but keep the old,
Those are silver, these are gold.

COPLEY'S EYEGLASSES.

We had been talking over a lively incident in the life of one of our friends—his name was Thwaites—which had led to a peculiarly strong development of that individual's nose. Three of us knew Thwaites quite well, and one of the three had told the story to the others. The fourth man did not know Thwaites personally, but he did know a story of another man of which he said, this story about Thwaites reminded him.

"You know that eyeglasses make a great difference in the looks of a man, don't they? Well, this is how Copley came to wear eyeglasses:

"His eyes? They may have suffered from the artificial help they have been getting from those glasses all these years, though I believe he has had the good sense all along to wear simple lenses that make not the least difference to his vision. But he certainly never took up with those eyeglasses for the good of his eyes. It began in a matter of policy with Copley.

"When I [illegible] were [illegible] that unfortunate child into the [illegible] courtyard,' said the dean. 'I saw you and wondered what you were doing with him.'

"Copley kept his head this time. It was a very serious affair, and he saw the necessity of using all his wits.

"The faculty never did find out who was guilty. It was a most unsatisfactory investigation. Copley's innocence was clearly established, but a disagreeable suspicion of several first-year and second-year men also grew up. Copley, I ought to say, was in his fourth year.

"The story of the street arab who had been frightened nearly to death got into the newspapers and made a sensation. There was no doubt that it would injure the reputation of the hospital. The board of directors debated over the affair at a special meeting, and all the 700 students debated over it on all occasions.

"It was a nurse—of all possible people—who gave us the first hint of a way to put a stop to the persecution of poor Copley. She was chatting with him, myself and a senior student, all of us on night duty in her ward.

"'The thing is quite plain to me,' she said. 'In fact, I believe I could put my hand on the guilty party to-morrow morning, if I wanted to. But the scandal has nearly blown over now, and the young man has been badly frightened. So we might as well let well enough alone.'

"'And how about me?' says Copley.

"'Well, then,' she said, 'Mr. Copley has a double—yes, a double. Mr. Copley's double is a young limb of Satan in his first year. I have noticed the likeness over and over again, but, as you gentlemen never see anything of the first-year students—'

"Of course, now that she had mentioned it, we all saw just how it was. The nurse did not tell us the name of this young man, but we three quietly kept on the lookout for Copley's double among the first-year men, and in less than twenty-four hours we found the double of Copley in a youth by the name of Wixem. We all three pitched upon the same man. There was no room for the least doubt. The only difference between Copley and Wixem at ten yards' range was that Wixem was already serious and even grave in his demeanor [illegible]

The Chicago Tribune

is a newspaper for bright and intelligent people. It is made up to attract people who think.

Is not neutral or colorless, constantly trimming in an endeavor to please both sides, but it is independent in the best sense of the word.

It has pronounced opinions and is fearless in expressing them, but it is always fair to its opponents.

Matters of national or vital public interest get more space in THE TRIBUNE than in any other paper in the West.

For these reasons it is the newspaper you should read during the forthcoming political campaign.

THE TRIBUNE'S financial columns never mislead the public.

Its facilities for gathering news, both local and foreign, are far superior to those of any other newspaper in the West.

It presents the news in as fair a way as possible, and lets its readers form their opinions.

While it publishes the most comprehensive articles on all news features, if you are busy the "Summary of THE DAILY TRIBUNE" published daily on the first page gives you briefly all the news of the day within one column.

Its sporting news is always the best, and its Sunday Pink Sporting Section is better than any sporting paper in the country.

It is the "cleanest" daily printed in the West.

A WONDERFUL

KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,

And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

I. A. HOPKINS.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 63 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. [illegible] Fourth [illegible], New York. Please mention this paper.

KEEP THE OLD FRIEND.

Make new friends, but keep the old:
Those are silver, these are gold:
New made friendships, like new wine,
Age will mellow and refine.

Friendships that have stood the test.—
Time and change,—are surely best;
Brows may wrinkle, hair grow gray,
Friendship never knows decay.

For, 'mid old friends, tried and true,
Once more we our youth renew.
But old friends, alas! may die,
Now friends must their place supply.

Cherish friendship in your breast,
New is good, but old is best;
Make new friends, but keep the old,
Those are silver, these are gold.

COPLEY'S EYEGLASSES.

We had been talking over a lively incident in the life of one of our friends—his name was Thwaites—which had led to a peculiarly strong development of that individual's nose. Three of us knew Thwaites quite well, and one of the three had told the story to the others. The fourth man did not know Thwaites personally, but he did know a story of another man of which he said, this story about Thwaites reminded him.

"You know that eyeglasses make a great difference in the looks of a man, don't they? Well, this is how Copley came to wear eyeglasses:

"His eyes? They may have suffered from the artificial help they have been getting from those glasses all these years, though I believe he has had the good sense all along to wear simple lenses that make not the least difference to his vision. But he certainly never took up with those eyeglasses for the good of his eyes. It began in a matter of policy with Copley.

"When I knew him first we were both students in a big London hospital, trying to become doctors.

"Copley was very much in earnest, you see. He may have been naturally disposed to have his larks in one way or another, but he always had a certain shrewdness which kept him from playing tricks calculated to bring the professor down on him. In particular he knew how good a thing it was to stand well with the dean of the faculty.

"I ought to explain, in case you do not know, that there the dean of the faculty is the professor who has held office longest, and at that particular hospital the statutes made him very much of an autocrat. For instance, there were three big 'exams' to pass in the five years, and no student could present himself at any one of these without a certificate from the hospital he belonged to that he had attended lectures and demonstrations duly and faithfully' for a certain number of terms. Those certificates were signed at our hospital by the dean of the faculty alone. He took the reports of the other professors, but in the last resort his signing or not signing might be very much a matter of his own personal estimate of the individual student. See? The dean could practically stop a man from getting his degree, even if that man knew as much about medicine as Galen.

"Fortunately our dean was a good old fellow, and he used his power not only with justice, but with mercy. Perhaps his botanical studies made him mild. I have noticed that people who have much to do with plants and flowers are mostly of a gentle disposition. He was professor of 'materia medica.'

"One day he seemed fidgety and distraced when he took his place to begin the lecture. He seemed to be looking over the class in search of some one. Presently his eye fell on Copley. The old man puckered up his brow and stared at Copley through his spectacles.

"Then he began in a nervous, irritable way: 'Yes, sir, you. I don't know your name, sir. You, sir. What is your name, if you please?'

"Copley made no pretense of not seeing that he was the person in question. He frankly answered, 'My name is Copley, sir.'

"'Copley? Ah, very well, Mr. Copley,' says the old man. 'Mr. Copley, I have to tell you in the presence of this class unless your character undergoes a change you will never be fit to practice the healing art. You have no humanity, sir. You are cruel, sir—cruel.'

"Copley had no idea what the dean was talking about, and none of his friends could enlighten him. Some of the class could guess, but they did not happen to know Copley well enough to volunteer a hint. The truth was that some student had been making an ass of himself that morning with the schoolboy trick of fastening walnut shells on the feet of a cat, and then turning the beast loose in the lecture room corridor. The janitor had at last been obliged to kill the cat with a shotgun. The dean thought he had found the perpetrator of this outrage, but he was wrong. Poor Copley had not even been in the college and he knew nothing about it.

"As Copley had no idea what the dean was driving at, he could only submit to a harangue, after lecture, go and ask the dean what it all meant. But the dean only stared at Copley as a particularly imprudent specimen of a normally impudent genus—the London medical student.

"'Go away, sir. Go away, Mr. Copley, and remember that I have my eye on you.'

"But after that the dean seemed to have it in for Copley. Twice again in that same term Copley was reprimanded for outrageous behavior of which he had no sort of knowledge. The second time he was threatened with expulsion for having willfully and deliberately intoxicated a little street arab and then put him to sleep in the dissecting room, where he afterward came to himself in a terrible fright and very nearly had a fit.

"Whoever was the perpetrator of this villainy, the dean had, as he thought, the evidence of his own senses as to the perpetrator's identity.

"'I saw you, sir, when you brought that unfortunate child into the inner courtyard,' said the dean. 'I saw you and wondered what you were doing with him.'

"Copley kept his head this time. It was a very serious affair, and he saw the necessity of using all his wits.

"The faculty never did find out who was guilty. It was a most unsatisfactory investigation. Copley's innocence was clearly established, but a disagreeable suspicion of several first-year and second-year men also grew up. Copley, I ought to say, was in his fourth year.

"The story of the street arab who had been frightened nearly to death got into the newspapers and made a sensation. There was no doubt that it would injure the reputation of the hospital. The board of directors debated over the affair at a special meeting, and all the 700 students debated over it on all occasions.

"It was a nurse—of all possible people—who gave us the first hint of a way to put a stop to the persecution of poor Copley. She was chatting with him, myself and a senior student, all of us on night duty in her ward.

"'The thing is quite plain to me,' she said. 'In fact, I believe I could put my hand on the guilty party to-morrow morning, if I wanted to. But the scandal has nearly blown over now, and the young man has been badly frightened. So we might as well let well enough alone.'

"'And how about me?' says Copley.

"'Well, then,' she said, 'Mr. Copley has a double—yes, a double. Mr. Copley's double is a young limb of Satan in his first year. I have noticed the likeness over and over again, but, as you gentlemen never see anything of the first-year students—'

"Of course, now that she had mentioned it, we all saw just how it was. The nurse did not tell us the name of this young man, but we three quietly kept on the lookout for Copley's double among the first-year men, and in less than twenty-four hours we found the double of Copley in a youth by the name of Wixem. We all three pitched upon the same man. There was no room for the least doubt. The only difference between Copley and Wixem at ten yards' range was that Wixem was already serious and even grave in his demeanor, and Copley had a gay, devil-may-care way, in spite of his troubles. Any one would have taken Wixem for a sober, earnest, ambitious student, which is just what he was not, and Copley was.

"Copley was so exasperated that he attacked Wixem on the sidewalk, just outside the principal gate of the hospital and gave him a terrible black eye. Copley was arrested by a passing policeman, but Wixem was too cunning to appear in court. He knew that people were still talking about the dissecting-room scandal.

"'Well, anyhow,' I said to Copley, 'that black eye will help the dean to distinguish between you and Wixem for some time to come.'

"But for several weeks Wixem did nothing that could get Copley into trouble. The dean looked at Copley very hard, with a puzzled expression, from time to time, and Copley bravely returned the stare.

"Then came Copley's eyeglasses.

"You see, we all, including the friendly nurse, agreed that Copley could not go on blackening Wixem's eyes periodically to keep from being mistaken for that young miscreant. So the nurse suggested that Copley would look very well, and immensely professional, in gold-rimmed eyeglasses. And after that there was no possibility of mistake."

"And so," one of the three asked "your friend Copley stuck to the identifying glasses for life?"

"Yes, but wait a minute. The funny thing was that the first day Copley appeared in the hospital with his new glasses—I was with him at the time—he also wore a dark frock coat and a high hat, and it happened that he had never before appeared there in such a sober get-up. Just as we entered the inner courtyard, which happened to be deserted, Mr. Wixem, looking very solemn, which meant that he had been up to some devilish pranks, met us as he was coming from the museum wing. Copley glared at him, as if he would like to black his eye just once more.

"Wixem stopped short and said: 'Why, sir, I had no idea you were in town!'

"'Hadn't you, sir?' says Copley. 'Then, sir, let me recommend you to bear in mind that I am in town.'

"Wixem only stared for a moment, said 'Oh!' in a manner that indicated both astonishment and relief, and passed on.

"'Copley,' I said, 'that young man took you for his father.'

"'I'll father him if he doesn't mind what he's about,' says Copley.

"The general effect of the eyeglasses was wonderfully effective for good in Copley's career. In the first place, the dean discovered that he had made a good man a victim of his own mistakes. He wanted to reopen the inquiry about the dissecting-room, only the board wouldn't let him. But he became a fast friend to Copley, and that fact helped him on considerably long after he had begun practice.

"No, it isn't merely as a souvenir that Copley continues to wear his glasses. The fact is that the friendly nurse wouldn't hear of his taking them off. She is Mrs. Copley now."

Friendly Assistance.

"Can I help you to anything?" asked Boarder No. 6.

"Yes," replied the newcomer at the foot of the table. "You might give me a clew to this hash."—Philadelphia North American.

The Kidneys and the Skin.

In the spring, the kidneys have much to do. If they are weak or torpid, they will not do it well, and the skin will be pimply or blotchy. That is telling the story in a few words.

Hood's Sarsaparilla strengthens and stimulates the kidneys, cures and prevents pimples, blotches and all cutaneous eruptions.

The ground-dog may predict cold chills,
And then glide to his earthy haunts.

GEMS

The native music of aboriginal tribe is regarded as of great importance in anthropology, and the recent British expedition to the Torres straits and New Guinea have taken steps to preserve some of them. Some of the songs heard on Murray island are already obsolete, and will, it is believed, die out with the old men of the tribes. "In savage life," says one of the members of the expedition, "the songs of a tribe are its chief heritage."

Brimingham, England, is the only place in which manufacturing crowns is an industry that may be said to flourish. The trade is principally with Africa, where the numerous kings have come to regard a crown as a far more elegant emblem of royalty than the stovepipe hat which they formerly affected. A servicable crown, gaudily decorated with imitation precious stones, may be purchased for quite a small sum.

The Japanese apply one of their many pretty ways to the launching of ships. They use no wine but hang over the ship's prow a large pasteboard cage full of birds. The moment the ship is afloat a man pulls a string, when the cage opens, and the birds fly away, making the air alive with music and the whirr of wings. The idea is that the birds thus welcome the ship as she begins her career as a thing of life.

COLLECTING SMALL ACCOUNTS

Retail Merchants Want the Police Court to Deal with Them.

The Retail Merchants' Association of Hamilton are petitioning for an amendment to the law which will enable small accounts to be collected through the Police Court. The object is set out in the following circular letter:

"One of the questions that has vexed the mind of the Retail Trade in general has been the collection—or rather lack of collection—of small accounts, the machinery of the Division Court being so costly and cumbersome that merchants could find no relief from that source. It has been felt however that if the Police Magistrate could hold a small debtor's court, a great many accounts could be collected with very little expense, and would also have a beneficial effect in causing a great many to pay up who now defy the merchant knowing that he is practically helpless. In order to accomplish this an act will have to be passed by the Legislature empowering the Police Magistrate to hold such a court. The Retail Grocers' Association have discussed the matter, and decided that the best way to bring strong influence upon the Government would be organized effort on the part of all the trades interested.

We understand that the Peterborough Retail Merchants' Association will meet at an early date and discuss the matter. It is a move in the right direction.

"BODY SNATCHER" IN POLICE COURT

Magistrate's Trial of Wm. Patterson

THE AMATEUR DETECTIVE

Tells His Blood-Curdling Tale—Patterson Was Rash

The case of William Patterson, the Queen's medical student who is accused of "misconduct with a dead human body," came up in Police Court yesterday morning before Magistrate Dumble. All of the evidence for the prosecution was taken, but no new light was thrown on the affair. The question who opened the grave is still unanswered.

Detective Rogers, acting under instructions from the Attorney General's department, was present to assist in the prosecution. He had the charge altered so as to accuse the prisoner of opening the grave, but no evidence was offered in support of this accusation.

Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, appeared for the prosecution, Mr. R. M. Dennistoun for the defense, and Mr. D. O'Connell was present in behalf of the relatives of the late Mrs. Sheehan.

There was some argument as to whether Mr. O'Connell should be permitted to examine witnesses. It was settled that either he or Mr. Wood might examine or cross-examine, but not both the same witness.

Dennis Sheehan, husband of the dead woman, was the first witness. His wife died on the 16th and was buried on the 18th. He saw the grave nearly filled up after the burial. On the morning of Thursday, the 21st, he again saw his wife's body, at Mr. Belleghem's. He had given no one permission to re-open the grave, nor did he know that it had been re-opened until he saw the body.

Frank Brown, caretaker of the cemetery, testified that he saw the grave closed and finished. Afterward there was a light fall of snow which covered up traces the grave robbers may have left. He helped to re-open the grave and found the body missing.

Undertaker Belleghem was the next witness. He identified the trunk in which the body was found and told of the re-interment in Little Lake cemetery.

Chief Roszel was called and told of his arrest of Patterson in Belleville. Patterson admitted that there was a woman's body in the trunk and gave him the key which opened it at Undertaker Belleghem's.

Mr. W. S. Strike, baggageman at the G.T.R., told of checking a trunk for Alex. Reid on the 20th, for the 8.10 train to Belleville. The trunk was checked to Kingston on the return portion of a Kingston ticket.

Alex. Reid, expressman, testified that he was employed by Patterson to get a trunk at Shortly's store and take it to the Smith street house and thence to the train. At the house Patterson took the trunk from the sleigh and carried it in and soon returned, dragging it. It was then taken to the station and checked. At the station George Clarke told witness there was a body in the trunk, and the witness told Patterson what Clarke said. Patterson laughed, but said nothing and boarded the train.

George Clarke, the G.T.R. section man and amateur detective who saw Patterson in the back yard with the trunk, was the most interesting witness. According to his story Patterson was very incautious. Clarke said:

I went up the Lakefield branch on Wednesday morning, and when passing along the track above Smith street saw Mr. Kennedy coming towards me, and I waited. Standing there I saw Mr. Reid drive up to the residence on Smith street, with Patterson. I saw him speak to Mr. Reid, then take a trunk out of the rig and go along the side of the house to the back yard. Then he laid the trunk down not far from a little low building at the back of the house. He then opened the trunk and took out the inside tray and threw it on the ground. Then he put his hand into this little building and drew from there what I thought was a dead body. He drew it into the trunk head first, bent over the legs and closed the trunk. Mr. Reid then came to the corner with a strap, and then they took the trunk out and put it into the sleigh. Mr. Kennedy was standing with me.

To Mr. Dennistoun—I was about 150 or 200 feet from the yard. There was nothing to prevent my seeing into the yard, or to prevent Patterson seeing me if he had looked up but I don't think he looked up. You wouldn't suppose that he cared whether any one saw him or not. I did not know Patterson. He did not seem to have any difficulty in putting the body into the trunk.

M. McFadden, undertaker, was called and testified to the burial of the late Mrs. Sheehan on Monday, February 18th, at the Roman Catholic cemetery.

This was all the evidence that the prosecution had to offer.

The Magistrate will announce his decision this morning.

SURPRISED.

Flavor of Food Won Her

"When the landlady told me that the new dish at my plate was the much talked of food, Grape-Nuts, I tasted it unluckily expecting the usual tasteless, insipid compound posing under some of the various names of 'breakfast foods.'

"I am a school teacher and board. Have usually been in good health, but last spring I had the much dreaded symptoms of spring fever set in with great severity. I could hardly keep at my work and headaches were almost constant. Food had become nauseating and I only partook of any sort of food from a sense of duty.

"My nights were spent in distress. The first taste of Grape-Nuts yielded a flavor that was new and attracted me at once. I arose from the table satisfied, having enjoyed my meal as I had not done for weeks. So I had Grape-Nuts food for breakfast every day, and soon found other reasons besides my taste for continuing the food.

"All of the spring fever symptoms disappeared, the headaches left, my complexion cleared up and after a supper of Grape-Nuts I found myself able to sleep like a baby, in spite of a hard day and hard evening's work. The food has never palled on my appetite nor failed in furnishing a perfect meal, full of strength and vigor. I know from my own experience, of the value of this food for any one who feels strength lagging under the strain of work, and it is evident that the claim made by the makers that it is a brain food is well taken. Please omit my name if you publish this." The lady lives in Hanover, Ind. Name supplied by Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek Mich.

FOR CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I would like to ask Mr. Brunfrette, the well known Christian Scientist the following:

If pain has no existence, as Christian Scientists teach, and it is the belief in pain that kills, then doubtless it is the belief in bullets that kills men on the battlefield, even when they die before knowing what hit them.

TORONTO BREAD.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I see that a considerable quantity of bread is being brought from Toronto and sold in town. How is this? Do our breadmakers charge too much, or what is the reason that home men are not patronized? I understand that the reason is, our local bread men charge too much. There must be something in it, how could Toronto compete with freight to pay?

CUE.

EUCHRE PRIZE AS A BET.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I notice in one of our churches recently a sermon was preached on "Amusements." I do not see any difference between a game of Pedro or Euchre and a game of Nations. For instance. Or, what is the difference between playing euchere for a silver cream pitcher and betting $5 on a card game?

Let us be honest about this matter, and not lay blame on those who see no more harm in a game of pedro than in a game of lost heir.

CONSISTENCY.

PETERBOROUGH HOME INDUSTRY.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I hear a good deal of talk among merchants and others in town about departmental stores and the residents sending their money to Toronto, for goods, because they fancy they can buy cheaper than at home. I see by signs at the hotels that they don't send their money away for beer, as it is sent here by outside brewers. The brewers of Toronto and other places are putting in fancy counters and fittings in the hotels here, and by those means binding the hotelkeepers to buy their ale and lager from them. Why not set a good example and patronize home manufacture? The very men that are the loudest about sending the money out of town are the first ones to ask for outside beer.

MRS. EDDY ON VACCINATION

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Will you kindly insert the following from the pen of Rev. Mary Baker G. Eddy, which appeared in the Boston Herald:

"To the Editor of the Herald: On the subject of reporting contagion I have this to say: I have always believed that Christian Scientists should be law abiding and actuated by this conviction I authorised the following statement, which appeared in The Boston Herald about one year ago:—"Rather than quarrel over vaccination I recommend that if the law demand an individual to submit to this process, he obey the law and then appeal to the Gospel to save him from any bad results. Whatever changes belong to this century, or any epoch, we may safely submit to the providence of God, to common justice, individual rights and Governmental usages." This statement should be so interpreted as to apply, on the basis of Christian Science, to the reporting of contagion to the proper authorities when the law so requires. When Jesus was questioned about obeying the human law, He declared "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's" even while you "render unto God the things that are God's". Mary Baker G. Eddy. Concord, N. H., February 17, 1901.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am yours etc,

WESLEY SPAULDING.

Butchering Deer in the Water

This Journal stood alone for years in its determined hostility to the shooting of deer in the water, and when the Legislature passed a law prohibiting the practice, we never imagined it possible that it would be revoked. Such, however, was the case, and through an answer to the circulars sent out by the Department the majority of the replies were opposed to the privilege being again granted the Minister saw fit to disregard the protest and again allow the pot-hunters their way.

There is no more sport in killing deer in the water than knifing lambs in the slaughter house. The writer of this has hunted deer for over twenty years, and during the time it was legal to kill deer in the water he has seen many a one clubbed to death by men who excused their action by saying there is no use wasting ammunition. The man who "still" hunts or shoots his deer ahead of the dogs in the woods fairly earns his venison, but the game has no fair chance when it can be driven to the water and killed there. Lots of men now go hunting who are actually afraid to go five hundred yards into the woods for fear of losing themselves; hunters of this stamp wouldn't kill a deer in ten seasons, but when these men are located in boats on a lake and experienced guides are hired to put out the dogs and run deer to the water—thus guarded they can butcher them at their leisure. If an amendment to the Game Protection Act prohibiting the killing of deer in the water is submitted to the Legislature this season it should be passed without a dissenting voice. No true sportsman will oppose it.—Toronto Canadian Sportsman and Live Stock Journal, February 15, 1901.

Stop Losing Money

You Cannot Guess Winners

Horse races are "MIGHTY UNCERTAIN" things to bet on, if you depend on a GUESS to win, a thousand miles from the scene. Thousands have tried before you and have failed. The chances are a thousand to one you will fail too.

You Cannot Handicap Winners

Horses are not machines. They rarely repeat performances. Many of them look at the odds in the betting ring before they go to the post—that is, their owners do it for them. Horses do not always "try." They run for the benefit of their owners, not the public.

Be Advised by Experts on the Spot

Do what the plungers do. "Stand in." Get the best inside information direct from the track every morning that a shrewd combine of horsemen can secure for you. That is what is given its subscribers daily by the

LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE

The LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE is a combination of horse owners and trainers, now racing horses at the New Orleans race track, who have united for the purpose of profiting by the exclusive information at their command. The syndicate aims to send to its subscribers by telegraph every morning the names of two or three horses that are entered in the day's races, which will win, barring accidents alone.

THIS BEATS ALL

Among our many winners recently were SARILLA, 10 to 1, Jan. 8; CALLEUR, 10 to 1, Jan. 14; and AZIA, 10 to 1, Jan. 15.

Within a week our subscribers won more money following us than they did for six months prior following their own selections, if indeed they were not heavy losers before they joined our army of winners.

Cut this out and use it as authority on the manager of the Postal Telegraph office, No 146 W. 42d street, New York, to examine copy of our telegrams to subscribers filed each day this month at noon. Verify our statement!

We hope this will convince all turfites that our subscribers are getting money, and that our sources of information are second to none in point of accuracy and reliability. We average two selections per day. Anything we send can be bet on with confidence that the horse will "try" and that the owner is betting on him.

BEET SUGAR AGITATION TAKES PRACTICAL SHAPE

The Board of Trade Appoints a Committee to Communicate With Capitalists

The attendance at the adjourned meeting of the Board of Trade last night was regrettably small. The Board has 72 members, and it was not until the meeting was half over that a quorum (11 members) was present. Mayor Denne, Reeve Adams, of Ashburnham, Warden Fitzgerald, Mr. Collins, of the Farmers' Institute, and a few others besides members of the Board were also present. The fact that the beet sugar question is a practical one and that there is a very reasonable probability of Peterborough having a factory is evidently not yet realized.

The President called the meeting to order and Secretary Quartermaine read a couple of communications received since last meeting—one from the manager of the Cold Storage Company of Toronto, re the erection of a plant in Peterborough, and one from Mr. H. Calcutt, saying that he would be willing to take a contract to keep the St. Lawrence channel and canals open during the winter.

MERCHANTS SHOULD WRITE RIGHT.

The following communication from Mr. Tiffin, General Freight Agent, Canadian Pacific Railway Co., and received from Mr. W. B. Bamford, local agent, was also read.

To the Secretary
Board of Trade, Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir,—I beg to enclose herewith a copy of a resolution passed by the Winnipeg Board of Trade relative to the necessity and advisability of all merchants addressing their packages in full instead of, as is frequently the case, by numbers or initials.

I should be pleased if you will kindly bring this matter before the sections of your Board interested, with a view of getting them to carry out as far as possible the suggestions made. You can readily understand that where packages are not addressed in full, both the consignees and destination, that the liability of the goods going astray is very much greater than if the packages were addressed in full. The system o fmarking packages by the initials of consignece or destination is misleading, more especially when there are so many stations commencing with the same initial, whereas if the destination is shown in full the liability of mistakes is greatly reduced. I would be pleased if you will kindly therefore, in order to bring about the much desired result, use your influence in this direction.

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) E. TIFFIN.

(Resolution) That this Board recognizes the necessity for, and recommends to all shippers that package freight should be addressed in full instead of, as is frequently the case, by number or initials, to assure its prompt and safe carriage to its intended destination by the Transportation Company to whom entrusted.

That a copy of this resolution be printed and distributed to its members, and to all Boards of Trade in Canada, with the request that similar action be taken by them to assist the transportation companies in the direction desired.

(Sgd.) CHAS. N. BELL,
Secretary.

WANT BETTER ACCOMMODATION.

The Board was requested to obtain signatures to the following petition:

To W. R. Tiffin, Esq., Superintendent "Grand Trunk Railway," Allandale, Ont:

We, the undersigned, patrons of the "G.T.R. System" lying east of the Town of Peterborough on the "Grand Junction Division," desire to lay before you and earnestly request your favorable consideration of the following:—

That a passenger coach be attached to the 2.40 p.m. freight from Peterborough going East, thereby relieving a disadvantage under which we now labor through the present arrangement; a train from the East reaching Peterborough at 7.55 a.m. and returning at 11.30 a.m., allowing us but the comparatively short time of 3 1-2 hours in Peterborough for the transaction of our personal business, which we find most inconvenient on Peterborough market days, Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Very Respectfully, &c.,

BEET SUGAR.

Mr. Wm. Collins, of the Farmers' Institute, was asked to address the meeting on the beet sugar question. Mr. Collins submitted reports from the Experimental Farm at Ottawa, showing results of experiments in growing the sugar beet. The experiments demonstrated that no soil is better adapted to the purpose than that of Ontario.

Mr Lawson Kennedy next spoke on the question. The Ontario Government is pledged to bonus the beet sugar industry, and he understood the Dominion Government also favored it. It was a mistake to suppose there would be only one factory in Ontario. The Province could support ten factories. There are ten in the State of Michigan. We can grow better beets here. The average of sugar in the Michigan beets is 9 per cent., as against 12 per cent. in Ontario. No other crop would give the farmer better results. Fifteen tons to the acre is an average crop; at $4 per ton this would be $60. The cost of labor would be about $25 per acre. He read a statement by Mr. Snyder, of Alvinston, Ont., who grows beets for export to Michigan. He has to pay $1 per ton duty and 50 cents per ton freight and after doing so realizes $3.20 per ton, which pays handsomely. His average crop is 15 tons per acre. In that neighborhood thousands of tons are sent to Michigan and the acreage next year will be increased fourfold. Speaking of the statement that a plant would cost half a million, Mr. Kennedy said such a plant would have a capacity of 600 tons a day. A much smaller plant would be suitable for this place—one to consume the product of 2,500 to 3,000 acres. It would require 30 factories to make the 300,000,000 pounds of sugar consumed annually in Canada.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, after commenting upon the opportunities so often lost by a town through the supineness and apathy of its citizens, moved that the following gentlemen be a committee to fully consider the beet sugar question and report to the Board of Trade in the near future: Warden Fitzgerald, Mayor Denne, Reeve Adams, of Ashburnham, Messrs. E. M. Elliott, Dawson Kennedy, Wm. Collins, T. E. Bradburn, W. F. Wilson and Mr. LeBrun. The motion was seconded by Mr. Peter Campbell and carried, the mover and seconder being added to the committee.

THE KING'S TITLE.

Mr. Burnham introduced the subject of the King's title, making some very interesting remarks on the relations of the colonies to the motherland, in leading up to the following motion, which was seconded by Warden Fitzgerald and carried:

That the King's title should express the fact that the colonies are an integral part of the Empire.

Mr. Burnham pointed out that the King has not yet said what his title shall be, that his latest proclamation refers to "my people over sea" for the first time in a royal proclamation. It is understood to be the King's wish that his title shall indicate the oneness of the Empire.

THE RAILWAY TO APSLEY.

Mayor Denne, at the request of Mr. Pearce, of Norwood, drew the attention of the Board to the proposed railway line to Apsley. The matter was referred to the Railway Committee of the Board with power to act.

The President, before declaring the meeting adjourned, announced that the annual meeting would be held on Tuesday, March 12th, and strongly urged a good attendance.

TO INTEREST CAPITAL.

The Committee on beet sugar met immediately after the meeting. During their discussion it was shown that there were two reasons why the movement in favor of this crop in Ontario a number of years ago came to naught—the high prices then prevailing for barley, and the fact that the duty on sugar was removed. The Committee decided that communication with capitalists and others interested in the industry should at once be opened.

RAILWAY TO THE NORTH

With Rights to Run Steamers on Stony Lake.

THE C. P. R.'S BIG SCHEME.

Bill of Incorporation Introduced into the Ontario Legislative.

The Times is pleased to see that the bill incorporating the Norwood and Apsley Railway has been introduced into the Ontario Legislature, and contains clauses which will give the company power to construct, own and operate steamers on the upper waters, as well as build and maintain hotels. The Canadian Pacific Railway which is at the back of the scheme, evidently realizes the importance of tapping our magnificent back lakes. The construction of a line of railway from Norwood to Apsley will open up an immense area of new country to the settler the miner and the tourist.

Yesterday we received a copy of the bill which was introduced into the Legislature by Mr. Blezard. The incorporators are; T. G. Eastland, P. W. C. Shewen, Wm. Gallon, Apsley, W. E. Roxbourgh, J. B. Pearce, Dr. Ford, P. W. Reynolds, John Finley, Norwood; Thos Rock, J. B. McWilliams Peterborough; E. Hawthorne, T. J. Drain, Dummer; John Monogue, J. W. Ratcliff, Candos, J. A. Sexsmith and W. T. Buck, Belmont;

The bill provides that the company shall be known as the "Norwood and Apsley Railway Company," and will have power to construct, maintain and operate a steam railway from the station on the C.P.R. at Norwood, and thence northerly to a point at or near the village of Apsley, and will have power to build, own and operate vessels on Stony Lake and other lakes on the line thereof, and also to build, own and manage hotels to the vicinity of said lakes, in connection with said railway.

The capital stock of the company is $500,000, with power to increase the same, and the head office shall be in the village of Norwood. The railway shall be commenced within three years and completed within five years after incorporation.

Peterborough should actively assist in promoting the scheme. Government subsidies will be needed and these can only be obtained by united action. We understand that a deputation from the company will, in all probability, wait on our Council and Board of Trade, at an early date, in order to secure active co-operation.

Although the railway begins at Norwood, it will nevertheless be of great benifit to Peterborough, as well as an inestimable boom to our friends north, who will thus be able to visit us more frequently and trade with us more generously.

BIG KLONDIKE STRIKE

Quartz Ledge Discovered Which Assay $84 to the Ton

Victoria, B. C. Feb. 28.—News was brought by the steamer Amur, which arrived today, of another big strike in the Klondike. Quartz ledges have been struck on Lepine creek, some fifteen miles from Dawson, which give assays of $84 to the ton, besides a small showing of silver and baser metals. Dispatches brought from Skaguay under Dawson dates of Feb. 17 say that quite a stampede from Dawson has resulted as the result of the discovery.

"Nigger Jim" Dougherty, one of the Klondike pioneers, has returned to Dawson from the Stewart river diggings with an adverse report. He says the ground on Clear creek is not worth staking.

A Dawson paper says that a curios custom of Northwest Indians was brought to light by Captain Cantwell at Rulate. The revenue cutter commander had arrived there and found a pow-wow going on as to whether a boy who had killed his companion by accidentally shooting him was to be enslaved for life by the parents of the dead boy or killed, the shaman of the tribe having declared this the proper course. Captain Cantwell interposed and released the boy. He so badly scared the saman in describing the punishments to which he was amenable for aiding in such a course that this man, who is virtually the head of the tribe, has disappeared.

PASSED THE SENTRY.

Thrilling Adventure of Three Little English Girls

From Koomati Poort I drove to Braberton, making forced marches, and reached it in two days, says an African correspondent of the London Chronicle. The whole country, cool after the rains, was green with the promise of spring. Little rivulets trickled where before had been dry sand, a parched arid desert had become a flower garden.

In the course of an evening saunter I came across three little mites, hand in hand, standing fearfully some ten to twenty paces from a picket. The sentry, a stalwart cavalryman, paced his beat smartly, and looked imposing, even in kharki. The eldest of the children was a girl, perhaps six years old; the other two clung to each side of her skirts. As I approached, the leader of the party said: "We want to go past, please" "Very well" I said "go on; no body will hurt you." "But" she said "won't the sentry stop us?" "Tell him you are a little English girl," I replied.

Three little figures moved timidly forward. The sentry had overheard the conversation and his eye twinkled grimly. "Halt. who goes there?" rang out in stentorian tone; then in childish treble, "Please, I'm a little English girl." "Pass, little English girl, all's well." The butt of a rifle clanked o nthe stone pavement and the sentry stood at ease with as much precision as if he had been on guard at Whitehall itself. The little party with beating hearts, but heads erect walked pastt the post, full of the pride of race and of conquest.

SHE CLAIMS TEN THOUSAND DAMAGES

Mrs. Nation Objects to the "Carrie Nation Cocktail."

Binghamton, N. Y., Feb. 28.— Mrs. Carrie Nation has demanded the abolition of the "Carrie Nation" cocktail, the invention of R. C. Willes, a cafe proprietor of this city and Scranton, and will institute a suit for $10,000 damages for the use of her name in advertising a cocktail that has become a favorite beverage in this part of the State. A few days ago Mr. Willes conceived the idea of christening a new drink the "Carrie Nation cocktail." He advertised it extensively and it became very popular. A temperance advocate sent Mrs. Nation a paper containing the advertisment, which from the contents of a letter received by Mayor Moir of Scranton evidently roused her indignation to the smashing point, and it was well for Willes that a thousand miles intervened between her and his cafe. She wrote a firm of Scranton lawyers, stating that she would bring action for $10,000 damages for the illegal use of her name and would defray the preliminary expenses if they would accept a percentage of the verdict as their fee.

"BOOTLEGGING" NOW IN KANSAS.

Topka, Kan., Feb. 28.—A reign of "boot-legging," follows the closing of saloons in the cities and towns of Kansas. Two hundred empty whiskey bottles can be picked up in the alleys of Topeka every morning. These, filled with vile liquor, are sold by bootleggers at night to the thirsty citizens. At Windfield this morning the police made a search of back alleys and bypaths and found over one hundred whiskey bottles ranging in size from a two-ounce one to those holding a pint. The shipment of empty bottles to Kansas towns shows a marked increase.

TWO VOTES IN TWO THOUSAND

Wichita, Kansas, Feb. 28.—The following resolutions, which repudiate the methods employed by the Joan of Arc of the Kansas whiskey war, have been adopted by an assembly of two thousand people, who gathered in the auditorium in answer to a call from the Wichita ministers:

"Believing that this is a time of crisis in our city, and desiring to aid by our moral support and personal influence and otherwise in suppressing the institutions known as "joints," and also desiring to avert violence in overthrowing the saloons, we the citizens of Wichita, call upon the Mayor, City Council, County Attorney and Sheriff, and pray them, according to the constitution of Kansas, to proceed at once in the execution of the law relative to the prohibition of the liquor traffic here.

"We also call upon every joint keeper to retire at once from this outlawed business. We condemn vioelnt means and pledge our support against mobs."

Only two men in the audience voted against these resolutions, and the ministers feel sure that they can make the officers enforce the law.

IT GROWS ALARMING.

There is a Great Deal of Smallpox in Michigan—Keep it out of Woodstock.

Smallpox is spreading at an alarming extent in Michigan and it behooves the authroities of Ontario to keep it out of Ontario as much as possible. Every once and a while this dread disease takes a sweep across the country. Fortunately, Ontario has been well spared. It was about 12 years ago that the plague raged in Montreal. It is hard to say just what the result of the Lindsay case will amount to.

The health authorities here should keep smallpox out of Peterborough, if earthly power can do it.

"Vaccinate" should be the war cry. There must be some reason for smallpox visitations. Remove the cause if possible.

IS THERE NATURAL GAS IN PETERBORO

We are in the Natural Gas and Oil Belt

SO SAYS AN OIL EXPERT

There is Little Doubt that Both Gas and Oil Abound Here

A good deal has been said of late in these columns regarding the probable existence of natural gas and petroleum in this locality. The fact that pockets of natural gas were opened during the excavation at the lift lock, which when lighted burned for days, is regarded as proof by many that gas exists.

A few days ago, Mr. E. J. Akers, of Pennsylvania, was in town, and dropped into The Times office. Mr. Akers claims to be an expert oil man, having spent all his life in the oil regions of that state. Mr. Akers says that there is not the slightest doubt as to the existence of natural gas or oil, and probably both in this neighborhood. "He is surprised that boring has not been done before this. For the benifit of those not familar with natural gas we would say that inflammable gas is formed in great abundance within the earth in connection with carbonaceous deposits, such as coal and petroleum; and similar accumulations not unfrequently occur in connection with deposits of rock salt,—the gases from any of these sources, escaping by means of fissures or seams to the open air, may be collected and burned in suitable arrangements. Thus the "eternal fires" of Baku, on the shores of the Caspian Sea, which have been known as burning from remote ages, are due to gaseous hydrocarbons issuing from and through petroleum deposits. In the province of Szechurn, in China, gas is obtained from beds of rock salt at a depth of 1500 to 1600 feet; being brought to the surface, it is conveyed in bamboo tubes and used for lighting as well as for evaporating brine. At a salt mine in Hungary, gas is obtained at a depth of 120 feet. Again in New York state gas was discovered in a bituminous limestone. In Erie, Pa., there are large number of gas wells, and gas escaping from one at a pressure of 200 pounds to the square inch.

In western Ontario numerous gas wells are in existance. The City of Windsor, Ontario, is entirely illuminated by natural gas, as well the fuel supply procured in this way.

The Times wrote a few days ago to Mr. J. L. Silcox, an expert, at Woodstock, in regard to coal oil and gas in Peterborough, and received the following reply:

(Editor Morning Times.)

Dear Sir,—Your letter of Jan. 28th, to hand, contents noted, would have answered sooner if I had been at home. It would be impossible for me to give you a treatise on your resources for natural gas and oil in your district without a visit to that locality. All I am prepared to say is that YOU ARE IN THE GAS BELT OF ONTARIO, and that at the formation is all O.K. as far as I can judge from the geological survey. I do not go with that class of gas and oil experts that use magnets or divining rods, for I think it is hardly likely that you can get a magnet strong enough to attract such things at the distance of twelve or fifteen hundred feet from the surface, and if gas is to be found in your locality it will be in deep wells, which will reach the Trenton Rock.

I would not care about saying any more on the subject without a visit to your city and have a walk over the district and study the formation.

Kindly send me a copy of your paper when this letter is published.

Yours Truly,
J. L. SILCOX

The Times has now done its duty in placing this important matter before its readers. The discovery of gas and oil would boom Peterborough as it never was boomed before. The Board of Trade should take the matter up without delay, and engage Mr. Silcox to inspect the ground as soon as the snow is off.

MAN'S HEAD LONG UNBURIED.

For Ten Years It Has Been Preserved Having Figured in Court.

Ravenna, Ohio, Feb. 28 — Eleven years ago a warrant was sworn out for the arrest of Frank Valentine on the charge of forgery. Officer Mason went to the Valentine home and placed him under arrest. Frank excused himself for a minute, went up stairs, and a pistol shot was heard. Valentine had committed suicide by shooting himself in the head When it came to the matter of insurance, the company refused to pay, and Mrs. Valentine entered suit, claiming that the doctors killed her husband by probing for the bullet

In order to prove this the head was brought into court. Mrs. Valentine won her suit, and the head was put in won her suit, and the head was put in alcohol. The jar which contains it has been in the court-house steeple all these years, and relatives are said to be making arrangements now to to have it buried.

WILL PATTERSON IS COMMITTED

The Magistrate Gives Out a Written Judgment

CASE TO BE TRIED IN JUNE

Evidence Considered Sufficient to Warrant a Commitment

At the Police Court yesterday morning Police Magistrate Dumble gave judgment in the case against Will Patterson, the medical student, who is charged with opening a grave and taking therefrom the body of the late Margaret Sheehan. The accused is committed for trial at the next session of the Court of General Sessions, and has been admitted to bail. This means that the case will be heard before His Honor Judge Weller at the sessions in June. The magistrate gave judgment in the following words:—

> The prisoner is charged with removing the body of Mrs. Sheehan from the Roman Catholic cemetery.
> It is objected that this is no crime in Canada, that the only crime is that made by sec. 206 of the Criminal Code, which makes one guilty of an indictable offence who "improperly or indecently interferes with or offers any indignity to any dead human body or human remains, whether buried or not."
>
> In England there are several statutory enactments regarding dealing with dead human bodies which are not in force in this country, but it has always been an offence at Common Law to deal indecently with a dead human body. Now Common Law is that usage which has been always in vogue which is fitting and suitable to the circumstances of the country, sanctioned by the common sense and the sentiment of the people, and has, without written enactment, been sanctioned by the Court as fitting, proper and legally binding.
> To bury the dead and to leave them buried is necessary and becoming, to respect the veneration of the people for their dead, and to hold a cemetery, God's acre, as sacred is characteristic of civilized as well as uncivilized people, and to offend by interfering with or removing the dead has under the Common Law of England ever been cognizable in a criminal court as being highly indecent and contra bonos mores.
> The Criminal Law of England posses with English people into all the colonies where the conditions for its application are not incongruous. Our conditions are such that it would be monstrous to hold that laws of health and decency should not here prevail. I hold that the sense of decency and the sentiment of our people will assume the existence in this country of a law which will prevent the interference with the dead.
> Our statutory law does provide that bodies of the friendless or of persons dying in charitable institutions not claimed by relatives or bona fide friends shall be, under the direction of the inspector of anatomy, delivered to the medical colleges, but in this case no such condition exists.
> I think that which was a Common Law offence, based upon decency, has been converted by sec 108 of, the Criminal Code into a statutory enactment, broad enough in language to cover this case, and that the use of the language used in an English indictment under the Common Law was not required but as the languages of the information herein only specifically sets out the fact which, in the language of the Code, would be an "indignity to a dead body" or an "indecent interference" with it, I think the information sufficient.
> It is clearly proved that Margaret Sheehan was buried on the 18th of February, and that on the 20th of February her body was found in a trunk in possession of the prisoner, and the grave was empty.
>
> I think, in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, I must conclude that the prisoner removed the body from the cemetery unlawfully, that his treatment of it wa san offence both at Common Law and under the Code.
> I commit him for trial at the next sittings of the Court of General Sessions of the Peace for the county of Peterborough. Bail for his appearance at the trial, himself in $1,000 and two sureties in $500 each, may be taken.

Present in the Court to hear the judgment were the County Crown Attorney, Mr. R. E. Wood; Mr. R. M Dennistoun, counsel for the accused; Mr. D. O'Connell, counsel for the relatives of the late Mrs. Sheehan. The accused was also present. A great crowd of spectators were outside of the rail, but the proceedings were brief.

SMALLPOX QUARANTINE.

The Simpson House Lindsay Closed to the Public.

The Simpson House, in Lindsay, has been temporarily closed, on account of smallpox. Our readers will remember that a traveller suffering from the disease recently stopped over night at this hotel, and in the morning went to Toronto, where he promptly gave himself up to the Medical Health Officer of that city.

With commendable promptness the Lindsay Board of Health closed the hotel, and insolated its inmates. We are pleased to say that there is little likelyhood any cases arising therefrom. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Simpson, in Peterborough, will sympathize with them in their confinement.

THE LATE MAJOR HOWARD.

The connection of Gatling Gun Howard whose death in South Africa is announced with the Canadian forces dates back to the Riel rebellion in 1855, when he was in charge of two Gatling guns sent off with the forces to the Northwest. Howard lived at Brownsville, sixty miles from Ottawa, and left home last year with the second contingent to assume charge of a Colt battery in the South African campaign. He remained in Africa on the departure of the Canadians for home to organize a corps of Canadian scouts, and was leading them when he met his death. Howard left Canada as a lieutenant and was subsequently promoted. In a recent letter from the front Howard said: "I have added to my battery a pom pom so we have quite a force, six Colt guns, three pom poms and one hundred scouts. We have had two brushes with the enemy since you left and made them hump each time. I may come back in July and recruit a regiment of half-breeds for service in the Transvaal. I will meet you in England next June."

TEMPERANCE QUESTION IN MANITOBA

At the taking of the plebiscite in 1898 Manitoba stood for prohibition very clearly, and on the eve of the provincial elections in 1899, Hon. Thos. Greenway and his government promised a large temperance delegation that they would, if sustained, pass as strong a law as the provincial authority would allow. The Conservative party in their ante-election platform promised the same thing. The Conservative party, being successful the Hon. Hugh John Macdonald and his government at once tackled the subject with the object of redeeming their pledge A bill was drafted but the temperance people did not think it was strong enough, and Mr. Macdonald, with the greatest frankness and desire for fair dealing, handed the drafting of the measure to the Manitoba alliance; and the bill thus drawn was unanimously passed. Before putting it into force, its legality was referred to the courts, and the full court has just decided unanimously that the act is invalid, as it encroached on the jurisdiction of the Dominion parliament. It is decided, in short, that the provincial authority extends only to the regulation, but not to the prohibition, of the liquor traffic.

What will the temperance people of Canada do in the matter? The Conservative party in Manitoba has redeemed its pledge, and has done all it could. If the Dominion government were to pass an act at the present session legalizing and ratifying the Manitoba act and declaring it to be in force in Manitoba, then that province would have prohibition. Will such an act be passed? If the temperance organizations wish to take a practical mode, it seems to us that they should at once ask the Dominion government to legalize the Manitoba act, so far as that province is concerned.

ENGLISH SPEAKING POPULATION.

Great Britain and its dependencies are accustomed to take a census of their population in the first year of each decade and preparations are now being made for a new count of heads in the United Kingdom. When this work is completed it will show some interesting changes in population In conjunction with the United States census figures of 1900 these new statistics will show the relative power of the two great branches of Anglo Saxon civilization. The exhibit will emphasize the fact that the United States contains by far the larger portion fo the English-speaking population of the world.

According to the estimate of the British Registar General, the population of the United Kingdom on April 1, 1901 will be 41,297,000 as againt 38,105,000 in 1891. This amounts to an increase of only 8.4 per cent during the decade. The low rate of increase is due in part to the continued loss of inhabitants in Ireland, estimated at 250,000 for the last decade. The population of Ireland has fallen from 8,000 000 to 4,000,000 in the last sixty years and the emigration still continues.

The population of Canada in 1891 wsa 4,833,000, and the new census is expected to place the total at about 5,3000, 000, but careful statisticans eexpress a fear that the authentic figures may be disappointing. Many believe there was a good deal of padd ing done in the last Dominion census, and that an accurate count this year will show a comparative shrinkage. Canada is also under the disadvantage of a constant stream of emigration to the United States. The population of Australia, according to the latest estimates, is close to 6000,000.

The United Kingdom, Canada and Australia together constitute over nine-tenths of the white population of the British Empire, but their united census figurees will probably not exceed 51,500,000. The population of the United States, as shown by the twelfth census is 76,295,000. The rate of increase in this country was 25 per cent, as against 8 or 9 per cent in Great Britain. Whether the total English-speaking population of the world prove to be 130,000,000 or 140,000,000, in any case the United States will be in the majority and is destined to gain an increasing preponderance in numbers and strength decade by decade.

The Pen in the Hand is worth two in the Mind.

If you have "a good mind to write to Dr. Pierce" take pen in hand and begin. Then you'll avoid the experience of Mrs. M. P. Davis, of Honaker, Russell Co., Va. She writes:

"For seven years I was confined to bed most of the time. I had ulceration of internal organs and female weakness. I had four doctors and they said I could not be cured.........After the doctors said I could not be cured I wrote to Doctor Pierce for advice.........I followed the advice he gave.........I feel better than I ever did. My friends say I do not look like the same woman. I am sorry I did not take Dr. Pierce's medicine when I first began to have poor health. I could have saved what I paid to humbugs."

No one ever regretted writing to Dr. Pierce for advice. Many have regretted not writing sooner.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free, and so obtain the opinion and advice of a specialist in diseases peculiar to women. All correspondence private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, is sent free on receipt of stamps to defray cost of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for paper covers, or 50 stamps for cloth. Address as above.

Sir,—At the request of the makers I gladly write a line to tell what Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills did for me. For over 15 years I was a sufferer from eczema and although treated by the best doctors in the country. I got no relief. After taking 9 boxes of the pills, I am, thank God, entirely well. WE CURE STRICTURE

Thousands of young and middle-aged men are troubled with this disease—many unconsciously. They may have a smarting sensation, small, twisting stream, sharp cutting pains at times, slight discharge, difficulty in commencing, weak organs, emissions, and all the symptoms of nervous debility—they have STRICTURE. Don't let doctors experiment on you, by cutting, stretching, or tearing you. This will not cure you, as it will return. Our NEW METHOD TREATMENT absorbs the stricture tissue; hence removes the stricture permanently. It can never return. No pain, no suffering, no detention from business by our method. The sexual organs are strengthened. The nerves are invigorated, and the bliss of manhood returns.

WE CURE GLEET

Thousands of young and middle-aged men are having their sexual vigor and vitality continually sapped by this disease. They are frequently unconscious of the cause of these symptoms. General Weakness, Unnatural Discharges, Failing Manhood, Nervousness, Poor Memory, Irritability, at times Smarting Sensation, Sunken Eyes, with dark circles, Weak Back, General Depression, Lack of Ambition, Varicocele, Shrunken Parts, etc. GLEET and STRICTURE may be the cause. Don't consult family doctors, as they have no experience in these special diseases—don't allow Quacks to experiment on you. Consult Specialists, who have made a life study of Diseases of Men and Women. Our NEW METHOD TREATMENT will positively cure you. One thousand dollars for a case we accept for treatment and cannot cure. Terms moderate for a cure.

The Chicago Tribune

is a newspaper for bright and intelligent people. It is made up to attract people who think.

Is not neutral or colorless, constantly trimming in an endeavor to please both sides, but it is independent in the best sense of the word.

It has pronounced opinions and is fearless in expressing them, but it is always fair to its opponents.

Matters of national or vital public interest get more space in THE TRIBUNE than in any other paper in the West.

For these reasons it is the newspaper you should read during the forthcoming political campaign.

THE TRIBUNE'S financial columns never mislead the public.

Its facilities for gathering news, both local and foreign, are far superior to those of any other newspaper in the West.

It presents the news in as fair a way as possible, and lets its readers form their opinions.

While it publishes the most comprehensive articles on all news features, if you are busy the "Summary of THE DAILY TRIBUNE" published daily on the first page gives you briefly all the news of the day within one column.

Its sporting news is always the best, and its Sunday Pink Sporting Section is better than any sporting paper in the country.

It is the "cleanest" daily printed in the West.

HOUSES YOU MIGHT PREfer waiting until Spring to buy, but we have many good bargains to offer, and for your sake and ours we want to sell you now. ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 68 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts (none free); four for 80 cts; $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.25; 60 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00 Write to day for a dozen and make money. A WONDERFUL
KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

I. A. HOPKINS.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY, And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right. I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 58 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev W B Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder disease, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. [illegible] Fourth [illegible], New York. Please mention this paper.

SHE NEVER WAS A BOY.

When I came home the other night
With an ugly looking eye
That I had got into a fight
Poor ma commenced to cry.
But when I told pa how it was
He clapped his hands for joy
And told ma I'd done bully, 'cause
Once he had been a boy.

"Boys will be boys," I heard him say;
"They won't be otherwise,
And the one that learns to fight his way
Is the one that wins the prize;
When I was his age fightin' was
My greatest earthly joy—"
But ma, she kept on cryin', cause
She never was a boy.

My golly, but I'd hate to be
A girl with fluffy hair,
And always prime as A. B. C.,
With clothes too clean to wear!
When ma was small I s'pose she was
Red cheeked and sweet and coy—
But, oh, the fun that missed her, 'cause
She never was a boy.

PAYING OFF.

I'll pay him off! I'll pay him off first chance I get, if 'tisn't till I'm old as Methuselum, now!"

Tony's two brown fists came together with a thump. His eyes flashed and his face was like a flame. Mamma looked up, surprised and grieved at the outburst, but she didn't say a word; she only waited for what would come next.

"I will!" cried Tony. "I'll have to, mamma! He's the worst boy that ever lived! He's—he's—I'd like to pound him all black and blue, so!"

Whack! came his fists together again, poor Tony; and the fire in his eyes was all at once put out by tears. Mamma spoke then.

"Tell mother all about it," said she.

And Tony sat down on a little cricket at mamma's feet, and laid his head against mamma's knee, and told: which was just what he wanted to do.

"He's kept plaguing me even since I began to go to school, mamma Johnny Spratt has and he's the biggest too. I wouldn't plague a boy littler than I was would you mamma?"

"No, dear; I don't think I would."

"But he does, and calls names, too." Tony went on, beginning to grow rosy again. He calls me 'Tony George' because I always lift my hat to old aunty Dinsmore—and that's right, isn't it, mamma?" as he thought he saw a little twinkle in mamma's eye.

"Quite right, Tony," she answered, quietly.

"'Cause it pleases her so much, you know. And sometimes I carry her basket for her ways. And he makes fun. And this morning"—Tony's breath came fast and he doubled his fists—"this morning I was the least bit late to school, and when I went in they all commenced to laugh, easy, of course, so Mr. Blake wouldn't hear, and look at the blackboard. And I looked, too; and there was a picture of a boy lifting a hat bigger'n he was and bowing real low—an awful-looking boy, mamma, and 'Tony George' was right under it. I knew who made it quick enough, and my face got hot as fire; and just then Mr. Blake saw it, too, and he said, 'John, rub that thing out!' cross as anything. He knew who made it, too, you see. Mamma, if I was big enough I'd—I'd thrash him all to pieces. I'd just like to pay him off so he'd stay paid one while. Mamma!"

Mamma didn't even smile. She felt that this was a serious matter.

"I don't blame you a bit," she said, soberly, "I think I would want to pay him off if I were you. I think, dear, I would kill him."

Tony jumped from his cricket, he was so astonished.

"Why, mamma Welters!" he cried "Why—mamma—Walters!"

Mamma smiled then—she couldn't help it. But she was quite in earnest.

"It would be a great deal better than thrashing him all to pieces, Tony," she said; and Tony hung his head and blushed. "Suppose you try it."

"I don't know how," said Tony.

"I think you can guess, dear. And now we won't say another word about it for a week."

"I s'pose," said Tony, slowly, with his face puckered into a dozen wrinkles over this new idea. "I 'spose, mamma, you mean the way that old Quaker man did that grandpa used to tell about. But I can't be kind to Johnny Spratt, mamma—how can I after the way he's acted? 'Sides, I wouldn't have any chance."

"Make one," said mamma "Now—no more for a week, my son, and then——"

Tony knew what that meant. It meant that at the end of the week he would be expected to tell mamma just how much he had done toward killing Johnny Spratt with kindness.

"I'm 'fraid it won't be much," he thought, with a little discontented pucker between his eyes. "It'll be pretty hard, I s'pose."

And so it was. Why, it did seem as if Johnny Spratt grew worse every day. Tony had to bite his tongue hard a good many times to keep from telling tales out of school about him. And as for being kind to him—that seemed quite out of the question, though Tony honestly did his best and didn't get angry more times than he could help.

At the end of the week his birthday was coming, and Washington's; and the night before, he rushed home from school all out of breath with his hurry and delight.

"O mamma!" he cried, eagerly. "We're going to have the best time, to-morrow! We're all—all of our class you know—going to put in twenty-five cents apiece and hire Mr. Baker's great big cutter, and Mr. Blake's [illegible] take us to—to some kind of a lake that the last of it's 'guntic' and his sister lives right close side of it, and we're going to skate, and fire at a mark, with just arrows, you know, mamma, and eat dinner at his sister's house. And we've got to meet at the schoolhouse real early, and—won't it be grand, mamma?"

Mamma smiled, and kissed both glowing cheeks; for though Tony was a good deal more than half past nine, as he would have told you, he hadn't grown away from his mother's kisses yet.

"I hope you will have a very nice time," she said.

She said it again, next morning, when she had helped him into his ulster, and tied his muffler carefully, and settled his fur cap on his brown head.

"And now, Tony," she said, looking down into his clear, brown eyes, "I want you to remember whose birthday this is—and all about it, dear."

"Yes'm, I'll try," said Tony. And then he darted off to join the merry little crowd at the schoolhouse.

Johnny Spratt was there, too, but somehow he didn't look so merry as the rest. His eyes looked almost as though he had been crying.

But before Tony had time to wonder much about this, Mr. Baker's big, four-seated cutter was at the door, the bells jingling and the horses breathing out little puffs of steam on the clear, frosty air. Then what a scramble there was! It didn't seem longer than a minute before all of the laughing, merry company had piled in, and were tucking the robes around themselves.

Not quite all. There was one lonely little figure left on the platform.

"Come Johnny!" called Mr. Blake, kindly.

But Johnny Spratt shook his head and looked down at his feet. There were tears in his eyes, and he didn't want to cry before them all—a great big boy, almost eleven years old!

"I—I ain't going," he said. "I only came to see you off. I ain't got no—no twenty-five cents."

There was a stir in Tony Walters' heart just then, and he felt a funny little warm rush all over him. He thought of mamma—he remembered whose birthday it was. His cheeks grew cherry-red and his eyes grew misty. In a flash he was out of the cutter, pressing his silver quarter into Johnny Spratt's hand.

"Here, Johnny, take this," he cried. "You—you want to go more'n I do."

Poor Johnny Spratt! He looked at Tony and then at the sleigh-load of boys, and then at Tony again, and his face turned very red.

"I—I'd look pretty," he said, "a-taking your money after I've—— O Tony Walters! I won't!"

But the more he wouldn't, the more Tony insisted.

"Because it's my birthday as well as George Washington's, you know," he said, with a little laugh; "and I'd 'most as lieves stay to home with my mother. Come, Johnny!"

And then Mr. Blake, who understood all about it, said, "Come, Johnny, jump in," and Johnny obeyed, nearer to crying now than he had been before.

But all at once there came a voice from the driver's seat.

"Crowd in yourself, little chap," it said. "I don't believe you'll weigh half of twenty-five cents' worth. All aboard, now! Off we go-o!"

And off Tony went with the rest—if he hadn't I think I couldn't have told the story with half so good grace. And he never was so happy, and never had so good a time in all his life before as he had that day. It was a good time all around, and as for Johnny Spratt——

"Why, mamma," cried Tony, when he told his mother the story of the day's fun, "I b'lieve he's going to be one of the very best boys you ever saw—one of the very best ones!"

Bismarck and the French.

Bismarck had no great opinion of the French. He believed that they are too easily swayed by popular catchwords. "Talk to a Frenchman about liberty, equality and fraternity, tell him that his nation is the greatest in the world, and you can do anything with him. You can impress the French more than any other people if you tell them it is done in the name of freedom."

Asked his opinion in the case of a certain French spy, he said: "It's a sad case. You've got to hang him, but do it with the utmost politeness, so as not to hurt his feelings."

Ready for the Sun.

An Unexpected Answer.

Parent—Who is the laziest boy in your class, Johnny.

Johnny—I dunno.

"I should think you would know. When all the others are industriously writing or studying their lessons, who is he that sits in his seat and watches the rest, instead of working himself?"

"Why, the teacher."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Strength and Endurance.

Are factors of the greatest success.

No person can do full justice to himself without them.

In no season of the year are they more easily exhausted than in the spring.

We need not discuss the reason for this here. It's enough to say there is one, and that Hood's Sarsaparilla gives strength and endurance, as thousands annually testify.

Two Points of View.

A farmer drifted into a hardware store at Mulhall and was asked by the manager. "Don't you want to buy a bicycle to ride around your farm on? They're cheap now. Can give you one for $35."

"I'd sooner put $35 into a cow," said the farmer.

"But think," said the manager, "how foolish you would look riding around town on a cow."

"Oh, I don't know" said the farmer; "no more foolish, perhaps, than I would milking a bicycle."

Out of the Ordinary.

The two old friends, as has been narrated before met again, after years of separation.

"By the way, Gagster," said Throggins, "do you remember that snub-nosed, cross-eyed little Tilbury girl, with a face on her that would ditch an express train? She used to live somewhere in your neighborhood, I thing."

"Oh, yes, I remember her perfectly," replied Gagster.

"What ever became of her?"

"I am sorry to disappoint you, Throggins"—here is where the variation comes in—"but I have not the slightest idea. I didn't marry her."

Wonderfully Made.

Sister—When you called to see George was he wearing those slippers I made him for Christmas?

Brother—No. He was using one of them as a laundry bag.

This claim occupies an imposing position on a mountain just north of the city; and last, but by no means least, the Sunshine, located two miles east of Salida at Cleora station, on the main Trunk line of the great Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, also on the Arkansas river, which in length is one of America's greatest streams.

A Quiet Wedding

A quiet wedding took place at the Methodist parsonage on Wednesday, when Rev. Mr. Wilson united in marriage Miss Elizabeth Stuart, daughter of Mr. John Stuart, of Norwood, and William Albert Bowins, son of Mr. William Bowins, of Manvers.

HELLO, 371!

A Good Appointment

Mr. Samuel Clegg has been appointed superintendent of slides and booms on the Trent Valley Canal. The duties were heretofore performed by Mr. R. B. Rogers, the efficient Superintendent, but it was doubtless thought with the near approach of the completion of the canal, that the work was getting more than could properly be handled by one person. Mr. Clegg is very popular, and will make an exceptionally good superintendent.

The Engineering Club

The Engineering Club met last night in the parlor of the Y.M.C.A. The paper for the evening was read by Mr. C. F. McGill, mechanical superintendent of the General Electric Company's works, and was on "The progress of some branches of mechanical engineering in the last century." Mr. McGill, who has had large experience, is thoroughly conversant with his subject.

Not a Holiday

Sir Wilfrid Laurier declared in the House of Commons, in reply to a question, that the Government did not intend asking Parliament this session to pass legislation making May 24th a statutory holiday. This means that the matter will be in the hands of the civic authorities of the country. It is fairly certain, however, that a holiday will be observed, even without the authority of the Dominion Parliament.

Arrested in Toronto

William Metcalfe, a harness maker, who has lived in Peterborough all his life, was arrested in Toronto yesterday, at the instance of his wife, who resides here, charged with unlawfully omitting to provide for his child, Herbert Metcalfe, who is under 18 years of age. Metcalfe left his home here about a year ago, without any apparent excuse, and his subsequent attitude to his kith and kin here has been rather indifferent. P. C. Stewart left for Toronto last night, for the prisoner.

The Gymnasium Banquet

Arrangements are being rapidly completed for the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium banquet, which promises to be a most successful affair. Invitations have been sent to all gymnasium members and all full members or sustaining members of the Association. If any of these have been overlooked they are invited to be present in any event. The toast list has been arranged and includes a number of leading business men. Mr. J. Howard Cavern, Physical Director of the Central Y. M.C.A., Toronto, will be present and speak on "Indoor Athletics."

Captain Martin Heard From

A private letter received by the Times from Mr. James Regan, of Atlin, states that Capt. Jack Martin, who has valuable properties in Atlin, had a very successful season last year. He cleared $5,000, after paying all expenses. This is considered very good, under the circumstances, as Capt. Martin is without proper machinery to mine on a large scale. He left Atlin in October, and is now in Seattle, Wash., where he will remain until navigation opens in the spring, when he will return to his mine.

JOTTINGS ABOUT TOWN.

—Mr. J. F. Clarke, of Port Hope, is visiting Mrs. Dr. McCullough.

—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Bradley, whose marriage took place in Toronto on Tuesday, have gone to Sarnia, Ont., to reside.

—The Times yesterday had a pleasant call from Mr. P. W. Shewen, the well known clerk of Burleigh, who is also vice-president of the Norwood and Apsley Railway Company. Mr. Shewen speaks hopefully of the prospects of the almost certainty of railway connection. Mr. Shewen left for home yesterday.

Pill Sense.—It stands to reason that Dr. Agnew's Little Liver Pills will crowd out of the market many of the nauseous old-timers. A better medicine at less than half the price is all the argument needed to keep the demand what it has been—phenomenal—40 doses 10 cents. They cure Sick Headache, Biliousness, and allay all stomach irritations.—5

THE ART OF DANCING.

Wonderful Progress Being Made by Prof. Sheet's Class.

A Times' representative was invited the other day to visit the Oddfellows' Hall on George street, where Prof. Sheets is instructing a class in dancing and calesthenics. There are about 20 children in the class, boys and girls, ranging from six or seven to fourteen or fifteen years of age.

Prof. Sheets has had a long experience in the work in which he is engaged, and has many complimentary letters from the heads of prominent families who have received their instruction from him.

The children, although having only had about half a dozen lessons all told, showed in a remarkable manner, wonderful progress. The dancing of the Sailors' hornpipe, and Highland fling, was remarkably clever, the whole class seeming to "catch on" to the various movements.

In calesthenics the Professor has good reason to be proud of his class. This drill expands the lungs, and brings into play many of the dormant muscles of the body.

Prof. Sheets has taken up his permanent residence in Peterborough, and may be consulted at his residence, 29 Queen street by those who desire to join any of his classes.

NORWOOD.

C. H. Wissler, of Norwood, appeared before County Magistrate Edminson on Monday at Norwood village on a charge of breach of the by-law respecting transient traders. It appears that Wissler went to Norwood in December, purchased a legitimate stock of boots and shoes, and, with the intent of becoming a citizen leased a stand for a term of three years. As his name did not appear on the assessment roll for personal property last year Wissler was not considered as a fixture, hence the action. The question to be decided is, whether or not the by-law is valid, Mr. Sharry, for defendant claiming that it was not drawn up according to statute in that behalf, and therefore could not be enforced.

Judgment was reserved. Mr. Sherry in the meantime was to file his objections to the by-law, and Mr. Campbell, village solicitor, will reply. If the validity of the law is proven, further evidence will be taken, and if not the action falls through.

It was a narrow escape for both eyes, and fortunately resulted in only a painful flesh wound. Under the skillful treatment of Dr. J. R. Frazer, the wound is rapidly healing.

A NECESSARY EVIL.

Interest in vaccination is waning. Smallpox is required to keep it going.

THE WOMAN BEAUTIFUL

Bernice: One of the best things for the face is a whiskey bath, which is all the go now. Twice a week take two fingers of bourbon and turn it into your face, being careful not to spill any on the outside. For a chaser I would recommend a little pure spring water, or Calcutts lager.

Latest war news from South Africa would seem to indicate that Oom Paul has lost his rubbers, as De Wet is getting closer to defeat every day.

Pekin, Feb. 25.—(Special from our own correspondent)—The head choppers have been at work, and Christianity is avenged at last. It is a holy terror how these Germans have been ripping things up the back of late. They knock the spots off all the other nations for taking strong ground against the natives. There is not a bit of limburger cheese left in the country. Expect to be over in time to take in the Olympic excursion in June.

Municipal Insurance.

In last week's issue of the Sentinel-Star it advocates municipal insurance in the following item:—The Fire Underwriters' Association held its quarterly meeting in Toronto, on Wednesday, and it was decided to raise the rates in congested districts and on hazardous cases. This will effect towns like Cobourg, and as the rates are now exceedingly high, it would not be a bad idea to consider the formation of civic insurance association. The fire losses in Cobourg are exceedingly small, and with a good fire brigade, it would pay the business people of Cobourg to do their own insurance. Let us hear from our business men, and let action be taken at once.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES

HOCKEY.

It was the surprise of the hockey season when the news arrived last night that the young Napoleons of the ice had met a Waterloo. The Colts were defeated in Stratford by the score of 7-0. At half time the score was 3-0. The defeat was due in part to a most regrettable occurrence. Elmer Smith was unwell when he started and by the time the train reached Toronto he had grown worse and a physician was called, who found that he had pneumonia and ordered him to bed. He is receiving the best of care and a speedy recovery is hoped for.

Few particulars about the game were received last night. It was said that the Stratford's played their seven men against the Peterborough six, and that a post in the center of the rink was a stumbling block to the Peterobrough players, who are accustomed to a clear field.

The Colts at any rates are the Junior champions of Ontario. Their score of 12-8 against Stratford on Monday night leaves them 5 in the majority.

Stop Losing Money

You Cannot Guess Winners

Horse races are "MIGHTY UNCERTAIN" things to bet on, if you depend on a GUESS to win, a thousand miles from the scene. Thousands have tried before you and have failed. The chances are a thousand to one you will fail too.

You Cannot Handicap Winners

Horses are not machines. They rarely repeat performances. Many of them look at the odds in the betting ring before they go to the post—that is, their owners do it for them. Horses do not always "try." They run for the benefit of their owners, not the public.

Be Advised by Experts on the Spot

Do what the plungers do. "Stand in." Get the best inside information direct from the track every morning that a shrewd combine of horsemen can secure for you. That is what is given its subscribers daily by the

LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE

The LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE is a combination of horse owners and trainers, now racing horses at the New Orleans race track, who have united for the purpose of profiting by the exclusive information at their command. The syndicate aims to send to its subscribers by telegraph every morning the names of two or three horses that are entered in the day's races, which will win, barring accidents alone.

THIS BEATS ALL

Among our many winners recently were SARILLA, 50 to 1, Jan. 8; CALLEUR, 10 to 1, Jan. 14; and AZIA, 10 to 1, Jan. 15.

Within a week our subscribers won more money following us than they did for six months prior following their own selections, if indeed they were not heavy losers before they joined our army of winners.

Cut this out and use it as authority on the manager of the Postal Telegraph office, No 144 W. 42d Street, New York, to examine copy of our telegrams to subscribers filed each day this month at noon. Verily our Statement!

We hope this will convince all turfites that our subscribers are getting money, and that our sources of information are second to none in point of accuracy and reliability. We average two selections per day. Anything we send can be bet on with confidence that the horse will "try" and that the owner is betting on him.

SMALL LOSSES ARE TELLING ON THE BOERS

They are Gradually Being Weakened by the Continual Captures by the British

London, March 1.—Leonard Courtney's Conciliation Committee concedes that the Republicans are in a much worse condition than they were afew months ago. This committee has given out the following view o fthe present status of the war in South Africa:—

"Kitchener's strategy is proving effective. He acted wisely in abandoning the pretence of occupying the whole country. He evacuated the out'ying towns and devoted himself, so far as negative operations were concerned, to protecting his lines of communication. This enabled him to launch a tremendously increased force against the burghers, and thus change the British campaign from the defensive to the offensive.

"De Wet's and Botha's losses of men, horses, small guns, and ammunition must count vitally against them. Their losses in sheep, cattle and artillery are not so serious. Many able soldiers hold that they should have abandoned their big guns as soon as they began their present type of warfare.

"Their food just now consists of other things that fresh meat. They live chiefly on dried meat, so that their losses in cattle and sheep will affect them only ultimately. Meanwhile they may succeed in obtaining some kind of terms. Nobody here knows where De Wet is or precisely how much he has recently suffered. In a word, the South African situation is still full o funcertainity."

KITCHENER MAULING BOERS.

"Ther eis a rair flow of spirits in the War Office over the South African situation," said a prominent official tonight. "Kitchener is fast mauling the life out of the Boer resistance. He is showing the same relentless temper that marked his advance on Khartoum. He gives little attention to despatch-writing and none to strategical or tatcical hair-splitting. Only one consideration weighs with him—that of pressing, day and night after the fleeing enemy, and smashing him wherever overtaken.

"It is doubtful i fany other officer of the British army, could have grappled with the peculiar problems of the South African war in its latest phases, as Kitchener is doing. The immense area of the fighting zone and the high mobility of the Boers having made necessary feats of endurance such as only a commander of the ex-Sidar's stamp could have compelled his troops to perform. We are happy to believe that the struggle is rapidly nearing its end."

MORE BOER PRISONERS.

Gen. Smith-Dorrien has captured east of Amsterdam a large number of cattle, 60 horses, 40 wagons, and 80 prisoners. Gen. French has taken 50 more prisoners in addition to a quantity of stock and a number of wagons.

£95,309,153 ALREADY VOTED.

The third supplementary estimate of £3,000,000 for the expenses of the war was issued to-day. Transport and purchase of remounts swallow up £2,000,000, and provisions and forage cost £1,000,000. This brings the total voted for the fiscal year up to £95,309,153.

GAT HOWARD NOT IMMUNE.

New Haven, Feb. 28.—The killing of Major A. L. Howard, or "Gatling Gun" Howard, as he was sometimes called, formerly of this city, in South Africa on Feb. 17, has recalled an incident of the farewell dinner tendered him at the Union League Club here just previous to his departure. At the dinner Major Howard was very light hearted. During the conversation at the table, former Police Commissioner Marcus P. Smith said: "Major, you've been pretty lucky in battle, but let me tell you that the bullet that is going to kill you has already been cast. You'll not live through the Boer war." Major Howard laughed away the remark, and then becoming serious, said in reply: Mark, the bullet never was nor can be made that will kill me." I'm immune from death by a bullet." Some Boer marksmen proved the contrary last week.

76,632 HORSES AND MULES.

Washington, Feb. 26.—Secretary Gage to-day submitted to the House a reply to the resolution of enquiry as to whether United States ports or waters have been used for the exportation of horses, mules or other supplies for use in South Africa. Mr. Gage states that between October, 1899, and January 31, 1901, horses, mules and other supplies to the value of $26,595,692 were exported to South Africa. The number of horses and mules shipped during the period was 76,632.

INSPECTION OF LUMBER CAMPS.

Legislation that has Long Been Needed to Prevent Disease.

The Provincial Secretary has introduced a bill into the Legislature that is a move in the right direction, and is of the greatest importance to those employed in lumber, mining and construction camps. The object of the bill is to give the health authorities control of these camps, with a view of establishing sanitary regulations and consequent improved condition of these camps. There are many instances of the water supply for both the men and horses of camps of 500 or 600 men having been taken from the ice of the frozen lake below the camps. In such cases it was inevitable that this source of supply should be dangerously polluted and poisoned by the daily offal etc., from the camp above. Under the proposed act an officer of the Public Health Department may be authorized to visit lumbering, mining and railway construction camps in unorganized districts, to inspect, cleanse and place such camps in the best possible sanitary condition. The act also provides for the inspection of houses and premises occupied by workmen, with a view to providing the breathing space for each required by proper sanitary conditions. There is also provision for the employment of a duly qualified medical practitioner for these camps, and also for the erection of temporary hospitals for the accommodation of the sick. It shall be the duty of the Provincial officer to see that the camp arrangements are in accordance with sanitary requirements. The cost of carrying out the requirements of the act shall be borne by the persons, firms or corporations answerable for the health of those in their employ.

Sudden Death in Otonabee

Miss Martha Robinson died very suddenly on Tuesday morning at the residence of her brother, Mr. John W. Robinson, of Otonabee. The deceased was taken ill on Wednesday night with a pain in the region of the heart, and in an hour the end came. She was a native of Cavan and was fifty-five years of age. She was very highly respected and her sudden demise was a sad shock to her relatives and friends.

A Close Call

A delivery team belonging to Messrs. F. F. Mason & Co., grocers, was struck by a shunting engine at the G.T.R. crossing on Simcoe street on Thursday, and one of the horses is so severely injured that it is not expected to live. There were a driver and another in the rig, but both escaped. It was a close call.

RECORD MARCH OF THE WAR

Royal Irish Rifles March 42 Miles in 16 Hours

THREE HOURS A DAY SLEEP

An Interesting Letter From a Trooper on the Field

London, March 2.—One of the most interesting letters from the seat of war was lately received from a trooper of the Denbighshire Hussars. The following is an extract from it: "Still alive, although it is not the fault of the British Government. We've really been having a very thick time of it since we left Edenburg, and on an average all the sleep we have had for the past ten days is three hours per diem and what we could snatch during the day whilst the column halted for a few moments' rest. I have several times nearly fallen out of the saddle through going to sleep whilst on the march.

The Royal Irish Rifles, who are with us, made the record march of the war, forty-two miles in sixteen hours. They were nearly dead with fatigue, and when they arrived in camp dropped down just as they were and slept until the cold morning air woke them, without food or covering. They had slept the sleep of the just. From Smithfield we have been chasing De Wet, halting only when he halted, and fighting his rear-guard all along. He was very hard pressed. He left hundreds of horses on the veldt, which were dead beat. We followed him, via Helevita, past Dewetsdorp and Reddersburg, but not entering these towns until finally, last night being nearly surrounded near Thaba N'Chu he only managed to escape with the loss of nearly all his wagons and two guns, besides over a hundred prisoners.

AN EXCITING EPISODE.

We had a most exciting time with their rearguard of 460 men under Commandant Havorooke on the left flank. It happened this way: we had gone into laager about 6 p.m., after a hard day's march, when information came in from our scouts that the rearguard had saddled off about five miles away, and the 29th, 30th, and 31st Imperial Yeomanry, under Col. Forbes, rode out of camp along with sixty of the 16th Lancers, a company of Colonials (we were outnumbered three to one) to attack them. After a long gallop we sighted them, just crossing our front at full speed, having sighted us coming over a rise. Then ensued the most exciting episode I have experienced during the war. With a wild war whoop we put spurs to our jaded steeds and dashed upon them, pulling them out of their saddles by their coat collars, and shooting some point blank. If the Lancers had only had their lances with them, they would have been totally annihilated. Colonel Forbes, himself pulled one chap by the scruff of the neck out of the saddle and flung him on the ground. Revolvers were freely used. Oh, it was glorious; only two of our chaps were wounded, one we could not find last night, but he was found on the veldt along with a wounded Boer and brought in this morning.

STRINGENT ACTION TO STEM SMALLPOX.

Government Decides on Reconcentrado Policy.

RAILWAY WILL CO-OPERATE.

Alien Labour Law Likely to be Strictly Enforced in Regard to Michigan Peterborough Should Prepare for the Worst.

The Ontario Government is about to take stringent action with regard to the smallpox epidemic. Steps will, of course be taken through the Provincial Board of Health, of which Dr. P. H. Bryce is the chief officer.

The plans contemplated is the establishment of a hospital camp or headquarters at some point of concentration in the unorganized districts at which sufferers from the disease and suspects will be detained for treatment. The location has yet to be selected.

There are 07 lumber camps on the north shore, which will break up shortly, and many men are believed to be infected. It is obviously impossible to have a physician at every man's door, and therefore the reconcentrado policy with regard to victims and suspects has been decided upon.

The Canadian Pacific railway, which is vitally interested in the matter, has offered to co-operate. It has already placed a "smallpox car" at the disposal of the Government for the transportation of patients to be isolated. As the railway taps most of the lumber camps this proposal is a valuable one.

There is another serious condition to be faced also. Smallpox has been raging in the Michigan lumber camps with even greater virulence than in Ontario. The year's cut has almost been completed, and there is little doubt that the Michigan lumber men after being paid off will go to Sault Ste. Marie to seek work on railroad construction, which is very active in West Algoma. Only yesterday Dr. Bryce received word of such a case. A man who came to work on the Algoma Central, with a number of other men, was found to have the smallpox, and was sent to the Sault for treatment.

In Dr. Bryce's opinion it will be necessary for the Dominion Government to enforce the quarantine law with regard to Michigan if matters grow worse.

A member of the Legislature has a bill prepared to neutralize the law of compulsory vaccination with a "conscience clause." It is probable that, in view of present conditions, the Legislature will sruch such a proposal with a heavy heel.

Peterborough may escape, yet at the same time it would be well to provide against any contingency that may arise. An isolated house chould be in readiness to be occupied as a hospital, and arrangements completed for medical attendance. Should an outbreak occur, prompt measures could be taken to isolate the patient or patients, and the risk of spreading the disease greatly lessened.

The Board of Health should act at once.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM ATLIN, B. C

Mr. James Regan Writes the Times From The Far North.

COSTLY COUNTRY TO LIVE IN.

How the Gold Fields were Discovered and the Big Stampede that Followed—A Poor Country for Doctors.

(Editor Morning Times.)

No doubt many of your readers would like very much to hear the news from the far off Atlin gold fields. A little over two years ago the Atlin gold fields were unknown. In August 1898, Fritz Miller and a party of prospectors from Alaska discovered gold on Pine Creek, the only creek that was known at that time. They staked the discovery, and all that they could hold at that time. They thought they were in the North West Territories, but later found they were in British Columbia. They had to go a distance of 120 miles to record their claims, being the nearest recording office at Lake Bennett. The news soon became known that the second Yukon had been discovered. Sam. Miller's logging camps shut down, in fact scarcely any one was left that did not start out to seek their fortune. There was not steamers enough to carry the people. Those that could do so bought boats, paying a high price for them, but the greater number built rafts. There was at that time some two thousand men employed on the White Pass and Yukon Railway. Two thirds of these men quit and a general stampede began. I have seen men stand in a line for three days in order to take their turn so that they could get there. If a man did not get his turn one day, he would come back early next morning and take his place in the line so as to get the necessary authority to go. There were a number of new creeks discovered, when the rush began, but the greater number of people went back to work, as in all stampedes, those that got in on the "ground" floor did well, and a great many men, to use the western word went "broke." The Atlin gold fields are not a poor man's mining camp, but are a good field for hydraulic plants, as colours can be found almost anywhere.

This is a very expensive country to live in, freight can be brought in from the first of June to the first of November, at one hundred dollars a ton, but when hauled on dog teams or by horses on the ice, costs two hundred dollars a ton. A good dog is worth from $50 to $75, while a horse is not worth much more. Horses are often sold for $10. Dog meat, hay and oats are worth $200 a ton; flour $10 per hundred; choice cuts beef 40 c. lb., old eggs 75c. per doz.; ham 30c. lb.; fresh potatoes 12 1-2c. lb., and every thing else accordingly. Wages are $5 a day and board yourself, carpenters 60 to 70c. per hour; meals 50c. to $1.00; beds 50c. to $2.50.

Atlin is the most northerly part of British Columbia, and is ten thousand five hundred feet above the level of the ocean. Nothing grows here, as there is frost every month in the year. The summer months, are from the first of June to the first of September, and the climate for this period cannot be beaten. The sun rises at 3 a.m. and sets at 9.30 p.m. You can read a newspaper at midnight. The winter is very long, the shortest days being five hours. The coldest we have had this winter is 48 below. We can see the Northern lights in the winter so plainly you could almost reach them with a fishing pole. There is from three to four feet of snow in winter. Sickness is unknown except a man gets frozen or injured. Two or three doctors tried to make a living, but had to give it up. Game is abundant, such as mountain sheep, mountain goats, moose and caribou, grouse etc.

I get the Times regularly, and the paper is read not only by myself but many others here. Wishing you all kinds of good luck, and with regards to my old Peterborough friends, I am, etc.

JAMES REGAN,

Atlin, B.C., Feb. 2, 1901.

DEWET FORCED OVER THE ORANGE RIVER

Two Hundred Prisoners Captured by the British in the Engagement.

The War Office has received the following from Lord Kitchener, dated Pretoria, March 1:

"De Wet has been forced north over the Orange River and is now clear of Cape Colony. Two hundred prisoners have been taken, others who were stragglers, being captured.

"Eighty men of Kitchener's Fighting Scouts were attacked by superior numbers and after a prolonged fight, and sustaining twenty casualties, surrendered."

TESTS OF FOOD FOR ARCTIG USE

Mr. Baldwin Getting His Menu Ready for a Trip North

Chicago, Ill., March 1.—The private apartments of Evelyn B. Baldwin, who will lead an Arctic expedition, were converted into a chemical laboratory early this morning. Before he got out of bed experts with their alcohol stoves and various contrivances moved around his rooms and mixed mysterious preparations.

Some were busy boiling coffee made from the concentrated essence in a little black tablet, while others prepared from contents of cans, which had been hermetically sealed, varieties of interesting concentrated meat mixtures made by secret processes at the stock yards. Some were cooked, some uncooked, some were in liquid form and others were dry and by the time that Mr. Baldwin was ready to leave bed there was spread out on a table a sumptuous collection of "delicacies," which, he says, would be very appetizing in the popular regions.

He ate a hearty breakfast, consuming several hours testing a little of each preparation and pronouncing his judgment. When he had played the part of an epicure as long as his "inner man" would permit, Mr. Baldwin took a few hours off. He resumed his test about noon, and continued them throughout most of the afternoon. As a result of his experiments to-day Mr. Baldwin placed an order for 40,000 rations of specially prepared concentrated coffee. He has not entered into any contracts for condensed meats, and will continue his experiments through the rest of the week.

Mr. Baldwin also closed a contract for the construction of a gasoline launch for his Arctic expedition. It is to be built according to his own specifications. It will be sent to New York for shipment to Tromsoe, Norway, early in April.

TO LEAVE ABOUT MARCH TWENTIETH

Men Being Fitted Out at Ottawa For B.-P. Police

Ottawa, March, 1.—The transport Montford, on which the Canadian recruits for the Baden-Powell Police will sail for South Africa, has left Liverpool, and is expected to reach Halifax on the 8th inst. It is not expected she will sail from Halifax before March 20th.

The Canadian recruits will be provided here with sufficient equipment to make them a uniform body and also make them comfortable. The equipment is being looked after by the stores branch of the Militia Department, Colonel Macdonald giving the work his personal attention. It has been arranged that the recruits who contract at Ottawa will be marched from the train to the transport, and will not have any stay in Halifax.

The Militia Department is having considerable difficulty in getting recruits for the third provisional regiment in garrison at Halifax. Nearly all the young men are offering their services for the Baden-Powell Police. When the regiment was organized last year the recruits expected they would by enlisting secure a chance to get to the war, believing there would be a call for another contingent. Now, of course that incentive does not exist.

GORE'S LANDING.

—On Wednesday evening of last week at the residence of the brides father the marriage of Miss Mary Smart to Mr. Joseph Hawken took place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. F. Hunter of Baltimore in the presence of a numbeer of friends and relatives. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Katie, while Mr. Thomas Hawken supported the groom. Numerous presents testified to the popularity of the bride, who with her husband will leave shortly for their future home in Manitoba.

The Temperance Question.

It will be interesting to Peterborough temperance people to learn that Premier Ross was interviewed by a representative of the Toronto News and asked how the Manitoba coury judgment would affect the temperance cause in Ontario. The Premier expressed his sorrow at the apparent defeat of the law, but said it was evident that the matter would be carried on to the Privy Council and Ontario would have to wait the decision of that body. That was the answer that he had given the recent deputation which asked for prohibition in Ontario, and the Government's programme had not changed. They felt that Manitoba's position should be clearly shown before the Province took action.

NO INTENTION OF PROVOKING WAR

But German Papers Think Policy Towards Uncle Sam Too Easy

Berlin, March 1.—The Cologne Volks Zeitung, the leading centrist organ, argues to-day in favor of Germany's maintaining a good understanding with England "in order to have a freer hand against the United States," adding:

"We have hitherto shown the gentlemen in Washington too much readiness to yield. We can make them feel the full weight of our power only when England does not stand in the way.

"Of course, nobody in Germany intends to provoke war with the United States. We should have nothing to gain; but the interests of our agriculture absolutely demand a more energetic assertion in Washington through the imperial Government than they have hitherto had.

"The United States surround themselves with a tariff wall ever growing higher. Nevertheless, they continually demand easier conditions for the agricultural exports to Germany."

The newspaper explains that "the yielding attitude of the Imperial Government to the Yankees" is due to consideration for England; and it hopes that Count von Bulow will "use the present opportunity to test the honesty of England's new friendship for Germany."

The Vorwaerts, socialist, denounces the present approchment with England, declaring that it is leading Germany deeper and deeper into a useless "weltpolitik of adventure."

MURDERER SHOT BY MASKED MEN

Death of a Full Blooded Creek Indian, Johnson Miller

Holdenville, I. T., March 1.—Johnson Miller, a full blood Creek Indian, was shot to death yesterday by a masked body of men. Miller was under arrest for murder. Early in the night before the officers fearing trouble secretly conveyed the prisoner some miles out of town, and lodged at the farm house of Robert Stewart. Soon after midnight about forty armed and masked men forced an entrance into the house, disarmed the guards and began shooting at the prisoner at short range. He escaped from the house by jumping through a screen door, and fled across the yard, leaping a four-foot picket fence and running 300 yards before he was overtaken and his body filled with lead. Miller was a desperado, and had committed three cold-blooded murders within six months, besides numerous robberies.

LAWLESSNESS IN GEORGIA.

Burroughs, Ga., March 1.—Last night John Moody, colored, was shot and hanged until dead by whitecaps in the country near here. At the same time another negro was beaten so severely that he may die. So far as can be learned, the trouble arose from the fact that the negroes had run away from contract labor after having got into debt.

WEATHER NOTES.

Probs: Fair and mild.

The Northwest mild wave is now moving into Ontario and Quebec, where the temperature is likely to rise above the freezing point generally; however there are indications that the weather will turn somewhat colder again on Sunday night.

Removal of Express Office

The Dominion Express agency was transferred yesterday from the market building to their new office, 138 Hunter street, third door west of the Post Office. The office furnishings are elaborate in every particular, and the enterprise of the Dominion Express will be much appreciated by the public, who may have business transactions with the newly appointed agent, Mr. E. J. Salisbury, who for the past fifteen years has filled the position of Inspector for the company on lines east of Toronto. The Dominion business has developed under the efficient management of Mr. Tom Boddy to such proportions that the old office could not accommodate the combined business of express, tickets, and telegraph.

It was found necessary for the Dominion Express to seek new and more commodious quarters. They have gone about it in a manner that their patrons will feel some pride in when stepping into their office to transact business in one of their best equipped offices in Canada. They have added an extra wagon, driver, and two fine bay horse to their town service. We predict an ever increasing business with such improvements.

A diet of nothing but celery is said by some physicians to be a sure cure for both rheumatism and neuralgia. Free use of this vegeatble is always recommended to rheumatic patients.

Baked potatoes are digested more easily than boiled potatoes, and should therefore be preferred by dyspeptics.

In case of anaemia, cabbage and spinach are distinctly beneficial. Spinach is also almost as valuable as lithia water in its effects on the kidneys.

Just after the battle of Fort Donaldson General Grant is said to have telegraphed to Washington that he would not permit the army to move till forty wagon loads of onions that had been promised to him had arrived. Onions are essential to the army mess, to make pork and beef palatable. But they are also an admirable cure for sleepless and indigestion everywhere.

Garlic, leeks and olives stimulate the circulation of the blood.

Too much meat and too few vegetables make up the average diet. Health depends on continuous variety.

To Win a Graceful Walk.

The following exercises are said to develop the lines of the figure and make walking a graceful performance.

1. Walk on tip-toe, toes slightly outward, with the knees straight, the hands clasped tightly behind the head, elbows as far back as possible. The more tightly the hands clasp the back of the head and the further back the elbows are held the better the result.

2. When tired of this exercise use the old goose step—that is, walking on tiptoe with knees straight.

3. Hold the head erect and as far back as possible—not tilted up, but drawn back. Nothing else will so effectually raise the upper part of the chest.

4. Balancing articles on the head, after the fashion of the Southern negroes, is said to insure a graceful carriage, but the trouble with this exercise is that the tendency is to bend the body and incline the head slightly forward, as this assists in the balancing

School Teacher's Headache.

It's not a new variety of headache. It's the old pain consequent on conditions which result from study, confinement, and careless eating. It is only one symptom of a derangement of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures headaches by curing the diseases which cause them.

"I was troubled with very frequent headaches, often accompanied by severe vomiting," writes Miss Mary Belle Summerton, of San Diego, Duval Co., Texas. "Bowels were irregular, and my stomach and liver seemed continually out of order. Often I could eat almost nothing, and sometimes absolutely nothing, for twenty-four hours at a time. I was entirely unfit for work, and my whole system seemed so run-down that I feared a severe sick spell and was very much discouraged. I was advised to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and did so with such satisfactory results that before finishing the third bottle I felt perfectly able to undertake the duties attending public school life, and contracted to do so. I most heartily advise those suffering with indigestion, and its attendant evils, to give this great medicine a fair trial."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets keep the bowels healthy.

The Chicago Tribune

is a newspaper for bright and intelligent people. It is made up to attract people who think.

Is not neutral or colorless, constantly trimming in an endeavor to please both sides, but it is independent in the best sense of the word.

It has pronounced opinions and is fearless in expressing them, but it is always fair to its opponents.

Matters of national or vital public interest get more space in THE TRIBUNE than in any other paper in the West.

For these reasons it is the newspaper you should read during the forthcoming political campaign.

THE TRIBUNE'S financial columns never mislead the public.

Its facilities for gathering news, both local and foreign, are far superior to those of any other newspaper in the West.

It presents the news in as fair a way as possible, and lets its readers form their opinions.

While it publishes the most comprehensive articles on all news features, if you are busy the "Summary of THE DAILY TRIBUNE" published daily on the first page gives you briefly all the news of the day within one column.

Its sporting news is always the best, and its Sunday Pink Sporting Section is better than any sporting paper in the country.

It is the "cleanest" daily printed in the West.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. A WONDERFUL
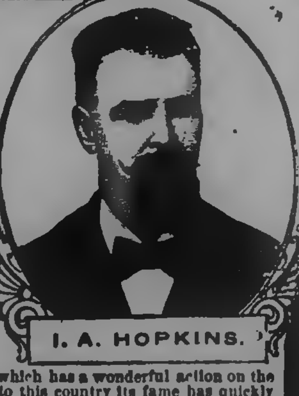
KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.



I. A. HOPKINS.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,
And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right, I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 53 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address the Church Kidney Cure Co., No. [illegible] Fourth [illegible], New York. Please mention this paper.

THOU'RT NOT AFAR.

Thou'rt not afar! thy face is still before me
With all its light— its loveliness divine;
The south winds blow thy dark, deep tresses o'er me
And still the gray eyes shine!

Thou'rt not afar! No distance, dear, can sever
Hearts that in hearts all faithfully abide.
Love that is love forever and forever
No oceans can divide!

Thou'rt not afar! But oh, to feel the living
Clasp of thy hand! to kiss the tears away
From those dear eyes—the tender and forgiving—
And hear the dear lips say:
"I love you!"—as in moments long departed!
Yet this is still my solace and my trust:
There shall be rest, dear, for the broken hearted,
Beyond God's daisied dust.

—Frank L. Stanton.

Little Vidette of Lombardy.

In the year 1859 during the war for the liberation of Lombardy a few days before the battle of Solferino and San Martino, won by the French and the Italians, united aginst the Austrians on a beautiful morning in the month of June a little troop of cavalry of Saluzzo was moving slowly through a solitary path, toward the enemy, reconnoitering the country as they went. The troop was commanded by an officer and a sergeant, and all spied into the distance before them with eager eyes, silent, expecting every moment to see the white uniforms of the advance post of the enemy shimmering through the trees. They came to a hut surrounded by ash trees, in front of which was a boy about twelve years old, standing alone removing the bark from a small branch with a knife. From the window of the house floated a large tri-colored flag, but no one was inside. Having hoisted the flag, all had run away fearing the Austrains. As soon as the boy sow the cavalry men, he threw away his stick and took off his hat. He was a fine-looking lad with a brave face, large blue eyes, and long blonde hair. He was in his shirt sleeves and his shirt was unfastened, showing his bare chest.

"What are you doing here?" asked the officer, stopping his horse. "Why did you not run away with your family?"

"I have no family," answered the boy. "I am a foundling. I work a little for every one, and I remained here to see the war."

"Have you seen the Austrians pass?"

"Not for the last three days."

The officer sat thinking a moment, then dismounted from his horse, and, leaving the soldiers turned toward the foe, he entered the house and went up on the roof. The house was low and from the roof only a little stretch of the country could be seen.

"It is necessary to climb the trees," said the officer, and he came down. Just in front of the yard there was a lofty, slender ash tree, which was rocking its top in the sky. The officer stood lost in thought for a moment, looking now at the tree, now at the soldiers, then, all of a sudden, he asked the boy:

"Have you good eyesight, you rag-a-muffin?"

"I?" said the boy. "I can see a sparrow a mile distant."

"Can you climb to the top of that tree?"

"I can do that in a minute."

"And could you tell me what you see down below from the top, whether there are any Austrian soldiers, clouds of dust, guns glimmering, or any horses on that side?"

"Surely, I could."

"What do you want me to pay you for this service?"

"What do I want?" said the boy, smiling; "nothing, of course. If the Austrians asked me, I would not do it at all, but for my own people—I am a Lombard!"

"Well, then, climb up."

"Wait just a moment for me to take off my shoes."

He took off his shoes, tightened the strap around his trousers, threw his hat on the grass, and clasped the trunk of the ash tree.

"But, look out!" exclaimed the officer, making a gesture as if to hold him back, as though seized with a sudden fear. The boy turned around to look at him with his fine blue eyes, as if to question him.

"Never mind," said the officer; "go up."

The boy went up like a cat.

"Look in front of you," cried the officer to the soldiers.

In a few moments the boy was at the top of the tree, with his legs around the trunk among the leaves, but with his breast uncovered, and the sun shining on his blonde head made it look like gold. The officer could hardly see him, he looked so small from the ground.

"Look straight in the distance," cried the officer.

The boy in order to see better took his right hand from the tree and put it over his forehead.

"What do you see?" asked the officer.

The boy bent his head forward, and, making a speaking tube of his hand, answered: "Two men on horseback on the white road."

"What distance from here?"

"Half a mile."

"Do they move?"

"They are standing still."

"What else do you see," after a moment's silence. "Look to your right."

Then he said: "Among the trees near the cemetery there is something which glitters like bayonets."

"Do you see any people?"

"No, they must be hidden under the wheat."

At that moment the sharp whiz of a bullet passed high through the air and died away, far off, behind the house.

"Come down, boy," cried the officer, "they have seen you. I do not want anything more, come down."

"I am not afraid," answered the boy.

"Come down," repeated the officer. "What else do you see at the left?"

"Yes, at the left."

The boy pushed his head to the left, and another whiz, sharper and lower than the first, cut through the air. The boy shook all over.

"Confound them!" he exclaimed, "they are aiming at me." The bullet had passed very near him.

"Down!" cried the officer in an imperious and irritated way.

"I will come down directly. The tree, however, will protect me, do not fear. To the left, you wish to know what I can see?"

"To the left," answered the officer; "but, come down."

"To the left," said the boy, turning his head that way, "where there is a chapel, it seems as though I can see—

A third raging whiz was heard and almost at the same time the boy was seen coming down, holding for a moment to the trunk and to the branches, and then falling down head first, with open arms.

"Curse them!" cried the officer, running to him.

The boy struck the ground with his back and lay there stretched out with his arms open; a stream of blood was flowing from his left side. The sergeant and two soldiers jumped from their horses, the officer bent down and opened his shirt; the bullet had entered his left lung. "He is dead," exclaimed the officer. "No, he lives," answered the sergeant. "Our poor, brave boy!" cried the officer.

"Courage! courage!" But while he was saying this and pressing his handkerchief over the wound, the boy rolled his eyes wearily, and let his hand fall back. He was dead. The officer turned pale and looked at him fixedly for a moment, then laid him with his head on the grass; and, for awhile he remained looking at him. Also the sergeant and the two soldiers stood motionless and gazed at him; the others were turned towards the enemy.

"Poor boy," sadly repeated the officer, "Poor and brave boy."

Then he approached the house and took from the window the tri-colored flag and stretched it out like a funeral pall over his body, leaving the head uncovered. The sergeant picked up the boy's shoes, cap, the little stick and the knife.

They stood in silence a moment, then the officer turned to the sergeant and said: "We will send the ambulance for him. He died like a soldier, and we will bury him like a soldier." Having said this he threw a kiss to the dead and cried, "To horse." They all jumped to their saddles, the troop formed again an followed up its route; but a few hours later the little dead boy did receive the honors of war.

Towards sunset all the lines of the Italian advance post were marching toward the enemy over the same road which had been taken in the morning by the troop of cavalry.

The large battalio of bersaglieri, which a few days before had valiantly stained with blood the hill of San Martino, proceeded in two files. The news of the death of the boy had spread through the army before the soldiers had left their encampment. A stream ran along beside the path a few paces distant from the house. When the first officers of the battalion saw the little corpse stretched at the foot of the ash tree and covered with the tri-colored flag, they saluted him with the sword, and one of them bent over the edge of the stream, which was bordered with flowers, plucked two flowers and threw them over him. Then all the battalion, as they were passing, picked flowers and threw them over the dead. In a few moments the boy was covered with flowers, and officers and soldiers all gave him a salute as they passed by. "Brave little Lombard!" "Good bye, boy!" "Honor to you, little blonde!" "Hurrah!" "Glory!" "Goodbye!" One officer threw a medal of valor on him; another kissed his forehead; the flowers continued to shower on his bare feet, upon his wounded chest, and upon the blonde head. And he slept there in the grass wrapped in his flag, with a white but almost smiling face, poor boy as if he felt the honor paid him, as though [illegible] were content to have given his life for his Lombardy.

Very Considerate.

Mr. Suburb—What on earth are you trying to do, neighbor?

Mr. Neighbor—Merely taking down a little of the paling so that I can move my chicken coop over into your yard.

"Eh! My yard?"

"Yes. I like to be neighborly and considerate of other people's feelings, you know."

"But—er—"

"Yes, you shan't have any more cause to complain about my chickens scratching up your yard!"

"But you are moving your whole coop over on my property!"

"That's the idea. Quick as the chickens find their coop in your yard they'll fancy that you own them, and will spend the rest of their natural lives scratching in my yard, you know."

"Um!" said the head of the firm as he surveyed the applicant. "So you'd like a job as porter, eh? Well, we need a good, strong porter here; but you don't look quite heavy enough for the—by the way, why did you leave the job you had before?"

"Well, you see," said the applicant, "I licked the boss, and so they——"

"E—excuse me; now that I come to think of it, we hired a man to fill this place day before yesterday."—Chicago Times Herald.

A warning.

To feel tired after exertion is one thing; to feel tired before is another. Don't say the latter is laziness—it isn't; but it's a sign that the system lacks vitality, is running down, and needs the tonic effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It's a warning, too— and sufferers should begin taking Hood's at once. Buy a bottle to-day.

—A large plate glass window in the Oriental was accidently smashed yesterday.

The stove industry in the Philippine Islands has made not the least progress during the last three or four centuries. Heating stoves are practically unknown there, and the cooking stoves are of the most primitive and at the same time peculiar construction. They consist of a large bowl of unglazed clay, resting upon a foot shaped like a smaller bowl turned upside down. Part of the upper rim of the large bowl is raised and turned upward. At the ends of the two flaps are conical projections, and a third one extends from the raised rim, half way between the two flaps. These three projections form a rest for the kettle, which is also made of burnt clay, and is unglazed. The fire is built in the large bowl, and there being a space of over an inch between the kettle and the sides of the bowl, the flames can freely play around the bottom and the sides of the kettle. In excavating for the foundations of a new building to be erected by the United States government in Manila the workingmen found many stoves of the same construction, and in the ruins of the former city, which was destroyed by an earthquake in 1600. The stove was brought to Chicago from Manila by a United States army surgeon and presented to the Art Institute. It probably will be turned over to the Field Museum.

To fully realise the folly of superstition you have only to sleep on a piece of wedding cake and then dream of snakes.

Making Good Progress.

Yesterday The Times had a call from Mr. J. Alex. Culverwell, who stated that the Burleigh Falls power scheme was sure to go through. Port Hope and Cobourg business men and capitalists had seen the practicability of the undertaking, and were pushing it along with all their might.

A Hard Winter

This has been a hard winter for those wise people who delight in telling us that the climate is growing milder, and who offer very plausible theories for the disappearance of the "old-fashioned winters" of their youth. The cold has been so intense, especially during February, that this g.f.j. has always taken it hot.

He Has Him

Mr. F. J. Daly, of Orillia, formerly of Peterborough, last week captured in the far end of North Orillia a monster lynx measuring about six feet from tip to tip, and is having the animal stuffed. This is the same lynx which is supposed last year to have killed two men, five horses, and numerous cattle. Mr. Daly is justly proud of his capture.

Y. M. C. A Banquet

The banquet at the Y.M.C.A. last night was a great success. The affair was open to all senior members of the gymnasium. The gymnasium, in which the banquet took place, was beautifully decorated. The Ladies' Auxiliary looked after the supper, and are to be congratulated on the result of their efforts. The evening was spent in happy speeches, songs, etc.

A Will

A paragraph in the Toronto papers states that Mr. Robt. K. Connell left $27,000. To his brother, John Connell, he bequeaths $3,000 and certain mortgages he held on his property. Henry Connell, another brother, gets $4,000, and the discharge of mortgages held against his property in Manitoba. May Belcher, a god-daughter, daughter of John Belcher, Peterborough, gets $500, and the residue goes to Kenah Connell, a brother.

Died at Cardinal

Yesterday Mr. John Law, moulder, received the sad intelligence of the death of his young sister, Elizabeth, at Cardinal, Ont. Deceased had only been a short time ill and her death was quite unexpected. She was only nine years of age and was very bright. The remains will be brought to town and buried in the Little Lake cemetery to-morrow at 2.30 p.m. The Times extends its sincere sympathy.

Death of a Pioneer

By the death of Wm. S. Graham on Thursday Peterborough lost another of its old residents, one who had lived here for nearly eighty years, and had seen the days and faced the trials and privations of pioneer life. The deceased was a victim of pneumonia, which followed an attack of la grippe. The late Wm. S. Graham was born in the county of Fermanagh, Ireland, in 1814, and was within a few days of his eighty-eighth birthday when he died. With his parents he came to Canada in 1824, settling in Otonabee. He continued to reside in that township and was one of its well known residents until 1875, when he came to town to reside. Here he continued to reside until about two years ago, when he went to live with his daughter and son-in-law, Mrs. and Mr. John Moore, at Auburn, where he died. In religion deceased was a Methodist, and in politics a Reformer. The funeral takes place from the residence of his son-in-law, near Auburn, this afternoon at two o'clock.

THE LATE W. J. YOUNG

Demise of One of the County's Most Popular and Esteemed Citizens

It is a painful duty that forces us to record the death of W. J. Young, Esq., of Young's Point, which sad event occurred yesterday morning, after a brief illness. Mr. Young was one of the most popular men in the county and was not only highly esteemed, but was beloved by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. His death, therefore, will be deeply regretted.

Mr. Young was 43 years of age and was a son of the late Francis J. Young, of North Smith. In 1873 he embarked in business at Young's Point, where he conducted a general store with remarkable success. He was a school trustee for many years and was also salesman for the Young's Point Cheese Factory at the Peterborough Cheese Board. He took ill a week ago Saturday and a diagnosis of the symptoms resulted in all hopes of his recovery being abandoned, as it was apparent that he was a victim of Bright's disease in an advanced stage and he slowly sank until, as stated, he died yesterday morning. Mr. Young, at the time of his death, was unmarried. His surviving brothers and sisters are Edward, Walter and Frank Young; Mrs. Francis Young and Miss Ellen Young. The funeral will take place to-morrow morning at eleven o'clock from his late residence at Young's Point, to St. Mary's Church and thence to the Young's Point Roman Catholic cemetery.

The Times extends its sincere sympathy to the sorrowing family.

Sunshine Society.

Below is a statement for the months of January and February of work in connection with Y.W.C.A. Sunshine Society. We are pleased to report an increasing interest in our Society, many new members are added to our list. The members held a social evening on 11th instant, at which Rev. Mr. Potter kindly favored the society with his presence and gave a helpful talk. An opportunity was given for young men to become associate members and it is pleasing to note that a number of names were added. It is an individual effort that the most work is done, and with the ever present thought that the members are pledged to do "Sunshine" labour, it is pleasing to obey the calls when opportunities present themselves. The following contributions were made to deserving people by the Society: A comb, jacket and hat to a young girl; dress waist and under garments to a mother, nine pieces of clothing and two pieces of meat to a poor family; one dress and two bars of soap to a mother; three articles of clothing to a little girl. Some of the garments above named were made by the girls at their regular meetings on Friday night.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES

HOCKEY.

Stratford, March 1. — Peterborough Colts are junior O.H.A. champions. Playing six men to the full team of the Stratford Midgets they put up such a sturdy defence that the westerners could not pull down the long lead the Colts assumed in the first game, when the score was 12—0. Last night's score was 7—0 in favor of the Midgets.

Smith, one of the Peterborough forwards, was ill, and the Stratford captain was not sportsman enough to equalize the forces.

Over 2,000 people saw the match. The Peterborough men used their bodies to good effect in staving off the innumerable rushes which the extra man gave Stratford opportunity to make, and, considering the disadvantage they were working under, put up a lively game. Brundrette, the Peterborough goal-keeper, played an excellent game. To his remarkable work in goal the Stratford team attribute their failure to win out on the round. They bombared the goal steadily all the evening. The half-time score was 3—0.

Four minutes from the call of time the Colts took a hand in the shooting and rained in shots upon the Stratford goey. Woods was lucky, however, and managed to stop all the straight ones.

There was considerable rough play off, Forbes taking a rest for the locals and Morgan and Armstrong for the visitors. The visiting team was banqutted at the Albion. The teams were:

Peterboro (0): Goal, Brundrette; point; Cavanagh; cover point, Armstrong; forwards, King, Morgan, and Whitecroft.

Stratford (7): Goal, Woods; point, Edmonds; cover point, Forbes; forwards, Edmunds, Hern, Fraser nand Schweitzer.

Referee Hubert Jack says: "I regard the Peterboro Colts as playing hockey quite up to intermediate form. The team is the most remarkable juvenile aggregation I have ever seen. The Upper Canada seven, 1898 junior champions, cannot compare with the champions. Harold Armstrong is the equal of any player in his position playing under Ontario Hockey Association jurisdiction.

HUMORS

Spring's Inheritance from Winter.

Waste matters which the kidneys, skin and other organs were too torpid (in the cold days) to take care of, and cannot take care of now without help, there is such an accumulation of them.

They litter the whole system.

Pimples, boils and other eruptions, loss of appetite, that tired feeling, bilious turns, fits of indigestion, dull headaches and many other troubles common in Spring are due to them.

Hood's Sarsaparilla removes all humors, overcomes all their effects, strengthens and tones the whole system.

Don't deny yourself its benefits this Spring.

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla as a Spring tonic for several years and have derived great benefit from it. I recommend it to all who have that tired feeling, loss of appetite or impure blood." FANNIE FISHER, 2018 High St., Des Moines, Ia.

Stop Losing Money

You Cannot Guess Winners

Horse races are "MIGHTY UNCERTAIN" things to bet on, if you depend on a GUESS to win, a thousand miles from the scene. Thousands have tried before you and have failed. The chances are a thousand to one you will fail too.

You Cannot Handicap Winners

Horses are not machines. They rarely repeat performances. Many of them look at the odds in the betting ring before they go to the post—that is, their owners do it for them. Horses do not always "try." They run for the benefit of their owners, not the public.

Be Advised by Experts on the Spot

Do what the plungers do. "Stand in." Get the best inside information direct from the track every morning that a shrewd combine of horsemen can secure for you. That is what is given its subscribers daily by the

LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE

The LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE is a combination of horse owners and trainers, now racing horses at the New Orleans race track, who have united for the purpose of profiting by the exclusive information at their command. The syndicate aims to send to its subscribers by telegraph every morning the names of two or three horses that are entered in the day's races, which will win, barring accidents alone.

THIS BEATS ALL

Among our many winners recently were SARILLA, 10 to 1, Jan. 8; CALLEUR, 10 to 1, Jan. 14; and AZIA, 10 to 1, Jan. 15.

Within a week our subscribers won more money following us than they did for six months prior following their own selections, if indeed they were not heavy losers before they joined our army of winners.

Cut this out and use it as authority on the manager of the Postal Telegraph office No 146 W. 42d street, New York, to examine copy of our telegrams to subscribers filed each day this month at noon. Verify our Statement!

We hope this will convince all turfites that our subscribers are getting money, and that our sources of information are second to none in point of accuracy and reliability. We average two selections per day. Anything we send can be bet on with confidence that the horse will "try" and that the owner is betting on him.

BEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM IN EASTERN ONTARIO

VOL. 27 NO 51 PETERBOROUGH ONTARIO MONDAY MARCH 4 1901 PRICE TWO CENTS

TO INCREASE TRADE OF THE WEST INDIES

A New Imperial Service of Steamships Has Been Lately Inaugurated

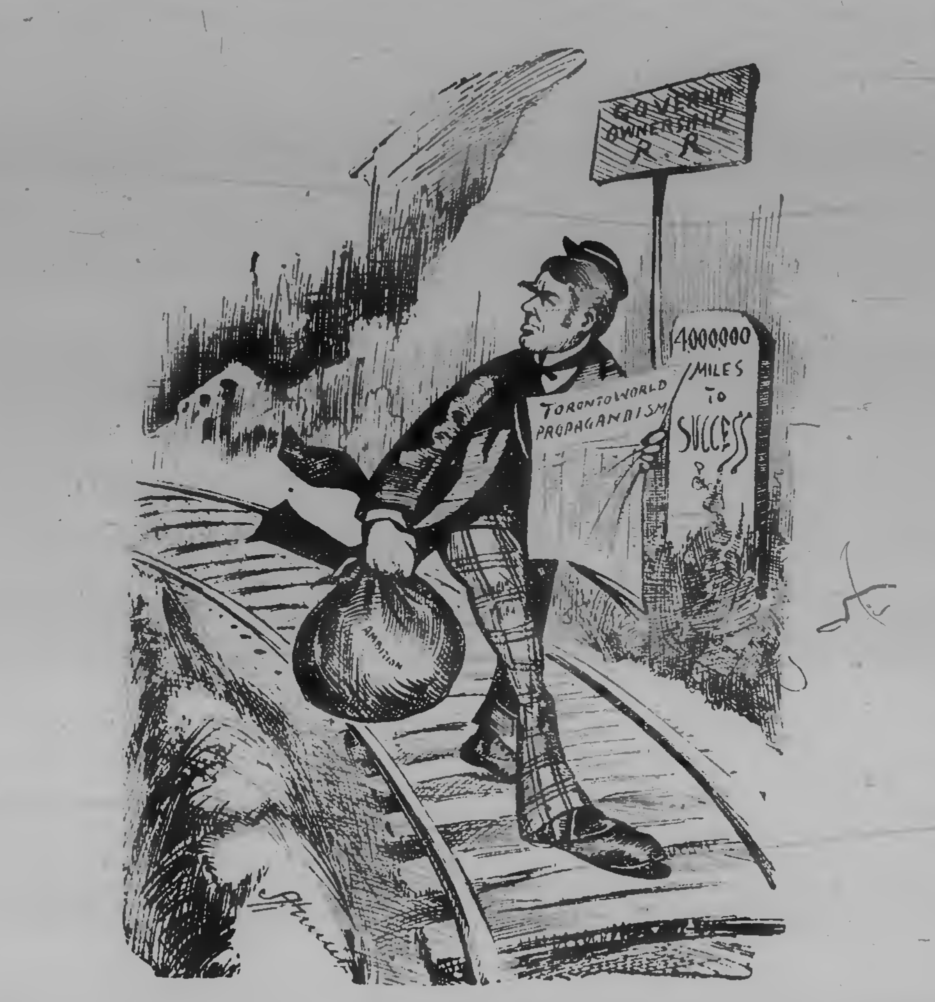
London, March 2 — A happy conjunction of effort on the part of Mr. Chamberlain, as the head of the Colonial Office, and of Messrs. Elder, Dempster & Company, which has resulted in the establishment of the new Imperial direct West India mail service between England and Jamaica, bids fair to draw on the dawn of a new era in the chequered commercial career of the Isles of the West Indies. The recent inauguration of that new service is an event of national moment. Of late years the sugar planters of the West Indies have been experiencing very hard times, owinglargely to the system of European bounties on beet sugar. Many of them have turned their attention to fruit cultivation as an auxilary cane raising. The carrying facilities from Jamaica to this country, however were not in any sense adequate to a large export fruit trade from the Isles of the Indies. Recognizing the possibilities inherent in the fruit trade as a medium for rehabilitating their moribund prosperity, Mr. Chambertain, with that quickness of perception for which he is remarkable concieved the idea of subsidising a new fast dirrect line of mail steamers to the West Indies.

Hence it comes about that the steamer Port Morant left Bristol recently for Kingston, Jamaica, on the inaugural run of the Imperial direct West India line. The new service which will be mantained by four new steamers. It is hoped and not without good show of reason that within a short time, with the advent of the new service, there will spring up in the Indies a great export trade in fruit, which will fan into fresh life the dying embers of commerce which of late years has all to sadly languished. One advantage which is is hoped the new service will confer on this side of the ocean is the cheapening of fruit, as well as the multiplication of thevarieties of fruit having a vogue in this country. From the West Indies will be imported under the new order of things all the orthodox fruits to which we have been accustomed for generations, such as oranges, bananas and pineapples, but besides these we are promised other varities, which though delicious and popular in the United States and other perts of the world are comparatively little known in the British Isles. For instance it is proposed to bring over such rare and luscious things as the grape fruit, the shaddock, the custard apple, and the Mango.

At the same time—and this after all is the primary objec sought to be attained by Mr. Chamberlain—the people of Jamaica will be encouraged to build up an industry which, in a commercial sense, will save their country from further impoverishment. For the purpose of thorougly carrying out the idea in an organized businesslike way, a fruit company has been formed with a capital of a quarter of a million.

another advantage which will accrue will be the throwing into closer touch the native people of the West Indies with those of the mother country. Mr. A. L. Jones of the Elder-Dempster Company has arranged a scheme for bringing over native West Indians, who may be educated at low rates in the universities of this country.

NO HARROWING DOUBTS.



W. F. MACLEAN—It may prove to be a long, weary road—but I'm on the right track.

FOUR LIVES LOST ON LAKE ERIE YESTERDAY

Seventeen Other Fishermen Have Very Narrow Escape from Death.

Silver Creek, N. Y., March 3. Twenty-one fishermen were carried out on Lake Erie off Silver Creek this afternoon, 17 of whom have been rescued. The other four probably perished. The names are Henry Turner, John George, James McIlrattie and Julivus Ludwig.

The last seen of the four men they were still on the ice, but a high wind was blowing up a big sea and the ice was fast breaking. They were about four miles out and there was a mile of open water between them and the shore. When it was found that the men were cut off from shore this morning, a message was sent Dunkirk by the Mayor asking for assistance. A special train was made up and a party of rescuers brought a boat on a flat car. The rescuers worked heroically all day. The 17 who were rescued were taken off the floating ice with great difficulty. They say their comrades probably perished as they were in a perilous position.

Colesburg, Cape Colony, March 1. Fifteen hundred Boers, with whom it is alleged were Gen. De Wet and former President Steyn moved to Lilliefontein, near Colesburg, where the Orange River winds and the current is slow, and they all crossed yesterday, both men and horses by swimming.

SUBMARINE BELLS HEARD FOR 12 MILES

Important Invention in Submarine Signalling Tested at Boston.

MAY SOLVE NAVAL PROBLEM.

By Means of Submarine Sounding Bells, Warships May be Warned at Approach of Submarine Vessels.

Boston, March 2—Arthur J. Mimday has just perfected and tested an invention for submarine signaling, which is as interesting as wireless telegraphy, in it's way. The system is based on the use of water as a medium for conveying sound long distances. The apparatus consists of a bell and a receiver, both of which are submerged, and a machine for ringing the bell.

Last week the system was given it's first semi-public test, a party of fifteen prominent men, representing the United States Navy, shipping interests, and the merchants of Boston going down the harbor to watch the experiments. A boat built like a scow had been fitted with a large bell and ringing apparatus The boat was towed to a point on the coast off Winthrop, about eight miles below Boston, when it was anchored and the bell was lowered into the water through a well in her bottom. Then several of the party were taken off shore in a steamer a distance of twelve miles, and were invited to listen at intervals at a receiver for sounds of the bell rung under water from the scow.

At one and one-half miles the sound of the bell was heard very loudly and very distinctly: at four miles the sound was quite as distinct and almost as loud as at one and one-half miles: at eight miles the sound was quite as distinct as at one and one-half miles and almost as loud as at four miles; at twelve miles the sound was heard at times quite distinctly, and at times somewhat feebly. Even at twelve miles the sound received was sufficient to give a practical warning signal.

If the receivers used, which are suspended over the ship's side and submerged, can be made sufficiently sensitive to respond to ordinary distant sounds, such as might be produced by the propeller of a submarine vessel, then the greatest problem of naval warfare of to-day will be solved.

By the assistance of this system one warship can hear the approach of another in thick weather or at night and communicate with each other. Vessels at sea in thick weather can be made aware of each other's proximity, and danger of collision can be avoided.

The receiver, used in the new system is a wonderful instrument, inasmuch as it shows not only what the sound is but whence it comes. On a coast equipped with bells at intervals of, say, 20 miles, any mariner can pick out his position on the chart by taking the two angles from which the sound comes. When the system is installed along the coast for warning and guidance to navgators bells will be buoyed and anchored wherever their services are required.

It is proposed to establish a practical working station outside of Boston Harbor, so that vessels may learn by practical use the great value of this invention.

ALEX SHARPE COMES OF GOOD FAMILY

The Man who Shot Wm. Hull Has Titled Relatives.

WAS BORN IN ASHBURNHAM

The Family Afterwards Moved to Lakefield where he Owned Considerable Property which was all Lost.

Alex. Sharpe, the man who is in prison, charged with the awful crime of murder, comes of good family. His father was W. A. Sharpe, who came to Canada shortly after the Robinson emigration in 1821. He took up his residence in Ashburnham, where Alex. was born. Subsequently the family removed to Lakefield, where they resided until the old man's death, about 25 years ago. W. A Sharpe built and occupied the house now the residence of Mr. John Hull, an uncle of the murdered man. The elder Sharpe had a brother who was a Colonel in the Marines, and another brother who was a Major in the Hussars. He owned considerable property, but lost it all one way or another and died a poor man. Alex at this time was about 27 years of age, and took to hunting and trapping for a livelihood, which he followed more or less ever since.

During the later years of old man Sharpe's life he received an income of fifty pounds per annum from his sister, Lady Alexandra, who was the widow of an English peer.

On December 23rd Sharpe was married to the woman who is figuring so conspiquously in the present case. The marriage license was issued by Mr. W. C. Shewen, of Apsley, the woman giving her name as Annie Siboins.

It is said that previous to this Hull, with whom the woman was living, decided to go to the States, and handed over the woman to Sharpe, who was to pay him $5 for her. This money, it is said, was never paid, and Hull, after changing his mind about going away, tried to get the woman back. Sharpe in the meantime had been married to her. The public know the rest.

PAINTED THEIR EMBLEM ON CARS

Princeton Freshmen Out For Some Fun

SOPHOMORES AFTER THEM

The Freshmen Use Brillant Orange Paint in Liberal Quantities on Railroad Property

New Brunswick, N.J., March 2. Pennsylvania railroad detectives are hot on the trail of a band of Princeton freshmen, who painted all sorts of railroad property between Princeton and Newark, a vivid orange on Wednesday and Thuesday nights. On Tuesday some of the freshmen painted their class numerals, 1904, in orange figures on the steps of Blair Hall, Princeton, and placed a similar decoration on a Pennsylvania passenger coach which lay alongside the station during Tuesday night. Wednesday they paid for their fun. Sophomores set gangs of freshmen to work with all kinds of scouring implements and kept them at it until every trace of paint was effaced. In this the sophomores were supported by the university proctors.

Fourteen Princeton freshmen alighted from a late train Wednesday night at Deans Station, armed with paint and brushes, and all the way from that station to Milestone Junction painted their class numerals on stations, cars, locomotives, signs and all sorts of railroad property. At Milestone Junction they ran short of paint. The railroad officials there telegraphed to the Pennsylvania railroad headquarters at Jersey City. The police of this city were notified and Officers Van Duersen and Campbell met the students had thrown away their empty paint cans and brushes the police did not molest them. Thursday night the lads continued their work east along the Pennsylvania line toward Newark and finished up there early Friday morning.

THE BOBCAYGEON RAILWAY

The Work of Building the Line Progressing Favorably

A run over the line of the Bobcaygeon railway shows that very good progress is being made, says the Independent. The roadway, sixty-six feet wide is now cut out for a distance of about five miles from Little Bob., and reaches Mr. Morgan Johns farm or nearly to Eureka Point, the pretty summer residence of Mr. Nasmith. In some places the timber is thick and at one point in a cedar swamp, it is remarkably so, the quantity of wood, ties, posts and telegraph poles that are cut and piled being astonishing. The grading will be an easy matter, the ground being level as a prairie. A little ballast to hold the ties is about all that will be necessary, and the rails can be strung along. The lake shore is touched at a few places, and again long points are cut off, that will in the near future furnish the summer playgrounds of hundreds of city people and Mr. Humphreys will reap a fortune in his Jersey milk, gilt-edged butter, Leghorn eggs and fresh vegetables. For a summer ramble Mr. Hickson's forest clad hill will be a delightful spot overlooking the lake and commanding a view of twelve miles of bright sparkling water. Mr. Kennedy has made good progress so far and when he gets his help increased to the number anticipated he will push along more rapidly.

HIS LIFE FOR A SIX CENT MEAL

George Gaia Savagely Attacked by Restaurant Waiters

New York, March 2.—George Gaia, a laborer from Providence, R.I., lost his life in a cheap Bowery restaurant this morning, because he could not pay six cents for food he had just eaten. Gaia went into the place about 7 o'clock, and ate ravenously, and then told the cashier that he had no money. It is the custom on the Bowery to beat a man severely when he fails to pay for his food, because, according to the restaurant people, there are so many hungry wretches in that thoroughfare all the time that the eating houses would have to go out of business unless the "Welchers" were severely punished. In accordance with this rule, so soon as Gaia said he could not pay he was set upon by several waiters, and roughly handled. One man hit him in the face, knocking him against a counter, which his head struck with great force. He fell unconscious and was dragged to the sidewalk, where a policeman found him. An ambulance was sent for, but when it arrived Gaia was dead. Four waiters employed in the restaurant, Jas. Francis, Wm. Dennis, Israel Spellman, and William Allen, were arrested.

KILLED HIS SON AND COMMITTED SUICIDE

German Farmer in Iowa Enacts a Terrible Tragedy

Denison, Iowa, March 2.—Henry Warn, a German farmer living six miles south of Denison, killed his son William, cremated the body in the house, which he fired; set fire to his cattle sheds, corn cribs, barn and every building on the place, and then shut himself in the burning barn, where his remains were found by searchers yesterday afternoon. No motive for the tragedy is known, and it is supposed that it was done during temporary insanity. Neighbors saw the smoke of the burning buildings, and rushed to the rescue, but Warn drew a revolver, drove them away, and went on his work of destruction. Coils of wire were heaped against the hog house to make sure of the hogs being burned. Wagons were backed against the barn doors to keep the horses in. The hydrant of the farm waterworks was broken and the key thrown away. The body of the son has not been found and the house was so completely burned that had he been in it his body would have been burned to ashes.

CATCHING FISH WITH PITCHFORKS

Fish Crowding Round Airholes in Varty Lake

Napanee, March 2.—Owing to the long continued and severe cold weather this winter the ice of Varty Lake, north of Napanee, has formed so solidly that the fish have great difficulty in getting breathing air. Some few holes in the ice have been formed, where there are springs and below these the fish gather in shoals to get air. Fishermen have taken advantage of the necessity of the fish, and are now industriously fishing around these holes, the fish with which the lake is well supplied being caught by hundreds.

At times the fish so crowd each other around the air holes that they are easily caught with scoop nets or spears. Some have even been caught with ordinary pitch forks. A few days ago one man caught in a short time enough fish to fill a sleigh box. The fish was taken to market at Napanee, and a handsome profit realized. The people in the neighborhood of the lake have all gone into the fish business for the time being.

THE BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY

What an Expert Says of the Growth of the Industry in Canada

The Beet Sugar Gazette contains an interesting article on the history of beet sugar in Canada, extracts from which may be of interest during the present discussions.

The writer of the article in question is Alfred Musy, sugar expert, who during the period of 1890 to 1895 when efforts were being made to establish the industry in eastern Canada, managed a couple of the factories established in Quebec, and consequently is in a position to speak with some degree of authority on the subject.

Mr. Musy sets out with the declaration that Canadian soil and climate are well adapted to the growing of sugar beets, and he declares that the Canadian sugar beet belt extends practically from Halifax to Vancouver and he gives as the reason why the industry failed in Canada that it was because the duty was not high enough.

That he also says is the reason why American capitalists are slow to invest money to give the industry a fresh start in Canada. Under equal conditions he points out that the American capitalist would still prefer to put his money in factories in the other side because of the larger market. To offset this he argues for more protection. In part this is what he says:—

"It may be interesting to make a comparison between the Canadians and the American beet sugar industries. Both of them had to overcome many difficulties before reaching industrial sucess. Nine years ago after the 1891 beet season at Farnham, Quebec, the results of which had been very satisfactory, the Canadian beet sugar industry was considered an unquestionable success, at least in Quebec, when the American sugar industry, then represented by two factories in Nebraska and two or three in California, was considered almost a failure.

At that time the direct or indirect protection granted to the home sugar industry was about the same in both countries and was estimated at about two cents per pound of granulated sugar. Since 1891 the protection in the United States has been maintained, and its amount is now $1.95 per 100 pounds of sugar. But the Canadian protection, measured by the duty on imported sugar, has been reduced nominally to $1.25 per 100 pounds, and practically to 94 cents per 100 pounds on account of the preferential tariff granted to the English sugar-producing colonies.

It was easy to forsee the results of the different policies. There are at present forty beet sugar factories in successful operation in the United States. The Canadian factories have been dismantled. The only kind of sugar now made in Canada is maple sugar.

It is a well demonstrated fact that in no country in the world except, perhaps a few countries like Mexico and Egypt, where the cost of labor is almost a negligible question, can the beet sugar industry be established without being largely protected, at least during the time necessary to its full development.

The present protection of 94 cents per 100 pounds of sugar is not sufficient to encourage capitalists to develop the Canadian sugar industry. No capitalist would invest his money in a beet sugar factory in Canada as long as there will be room for more new factories in the United States.

And there is room for a few hundred more factories in the United States, which would be able to use all the sugar capital at hand in the world for that purpose."

That summarises Mr. Musy's argument. Protection is what the beet suger industry wants in his opinion, but he doubts if sufficient protection will be forthroming. If it isn't he says the only result of the present agitation will be some more talk about annexation, when the Canadian farmers, unable to get the much desired beet sugar industry in their country, will compare their situation with the wonderful prosperity of the Michigan beet farmers.

Good English.

The Filipinos are not as yet very expert in the English language, but they are learning. The Manilla El Commercio contains an advertisement of a property to rent, the text being given in Spanish, accompanied with this "translation".

"The ruined church of that town" would be the literal translation of the phrase that strikes out so boldly in the advertisement.

PORTRAITS OF THE PRESIDENTS

With Biographical Sketches by General Charles H. Grosvenor—Title Page Designed by Tiffany.

This Inaugural year, when the public mind is aroused over Presidential questions, is a fitting time to issue General Grosvenor's book. Its sale is already tremendous, and will perhaps exceed that of General Grant's Personal Memoirs.

Every patriotic American desires to read what General Grosvenor has to say of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, President McKinley and the other Chief Executives of the Nation. Everybody desires to read what General Grosvenor, the staunch old Republican leader in Congress, will say of that staunch old Democrat, Andrew Jackson, the Father of the Democratic Party. General Grosvenor has thrown into his sketch of Jackson all the fire and energy of his nature. The biography of Thomas Jefferson is grand. The biography of Lincoln is as beautiful as a sunrise over the hilltops. General Grosvenor has personally known all the Presidents since the time of James Buchanan. The General's book will therefore contain history which has never before been published, written from his own personal observation of these great men. General Grosvenor has served in Congress for nearly twenty years, and he has served his country in war and in Congress for nearly forty years. The book contains twenty-four large Photogravure Etchings as fine as Steel Plates, printed by hand, on heavy plate paper made especially to order. These 24 Photogravure Etchings are in different tints, and are well worth $2 each. These Portraits are made from the Paintings endorsed by the family and near relatives of the Presidents. Two years' time and a fortune have been expended in securing these reproductions. The complete book is well worth $50, but the price has been placed so low that the most humble American citizen can own it. The biographical sketches are printed in large open type in two colors; the work is so beautiful that when people see it they want it. The advance sale is very large. President McKinley was the first subscriber. There is one edition known as The President Edition de Grand Luxe, initial letters hand painted, Portraits hand colored, title page hand illuminated, registered and numbered; subscription price, $500. Orders and applications for territory are coming in rapidly. A high class man or woman of good social standing can soon make a small fortune taking orders in this community. Send references and apply for terms quick, as the territory will all be assigned soon.

EX-EMPRESS WAS PRESENT.

Eugenie of France Was Present at the Queen's Funeral.

London, Feb. 26—Some comment having been excited by the absence of the of the name of Empress Eugenie from the list of those who took part in the obsequies of Queen Victoria and who sent messages of sympathy, it may be mentioned that the widowed Empress was present at the funeral, which she viewed from behind the curtains of what is known as the royal closet —that is to say, a species of screened gallery in St. George's Chapel. Moreover, one of the most beautiful floral offerings laid beside the coffin was a wreath of lilies of the valley and Neapolitan violets, to which was affixed a card with the following pathetic expression of sorrow, in the handwriting of the sadly broken and infirm Empress: "Souvenir d'un long passe affecteux l'amie desolee et devouee Eugenie" (Souvenir of long years of affection from the heart-broken and devoted friend, Eugenie.)

RABBIT AND RAREBIT

The Barbarous Collocation of the Words al Used by the Majority of People.

It is high time that all lovers of English should unite in common protest against that barbarous collocation of words, "Welsh rarebit." Every now and then in the past some good man has raised his voice in a plea for the right phrase, "Welsh rabbit," and has then disappeared. Such staccato protests have proved unavailing. The word rarebit has now insinuated itself upon ninety-nine per cent of all the menus in New York. The smaller hotels caught the habit from the greater ones. The French and German hostelries imitated their American contemporaries. Nor is this the worst. Owners of chop houses and restaurants flaunt the offensive word on their gilded signboards in the very faces of the public at large.

Now, why is this? Not a dictionary of today sanctions the use of "rarebit," though in a temporary abberation of judgment Worcester and Webster once did. Perhaps hotel men are too busy to consult dictionaries. Then let them hearken to the indirect reproof they are continuously receiving from their customers.

I have been in many, many places where the menus announce "rarebits." I have never heard any one order anything else than a rabbit. Nay, the very waiter who repeats the order to the cook says "Welsh rabbit."

That is, indeed, one of the most curious of all philological feats—that by which some amateur etymologist of the past forced the wrongful substitution of "rarebit" for "rabbit" upon the world. It has ever been a common habit with the etymologist of this breed, when the meaning of a word

In our own country, in New England, codfish is frequently known as "Cape Cod turkey."

Similar examples abound in the language of every country. Yet in the face of all these analogies the amateur etymologist refuses to accept the common sense explanation that the name "Welsh rabbit" is simply a humorous recognition of Taffy's fondness for toasted cheese.

Catarrh.

Called an American disease, is cured by an American medicine, originated and prepared in the most catarrhal of American countries.

That medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It cures radically and permanently, in that it removes the cause, cleansing the blood of scrofulous and all other impurities. It overcomes all the effects of catarrh, too, and builds up the whole system.

Farmers and Furrows

A farmer is known by his furrow as "the carpenter is known by his chips." It takes a firm hand and a true eye to turn a straight furrow. No wonder the farmer wears out, spite of exercise and fresh air. One day's work on the farm would tire many a trained athlete. And the farmer works hardest of all. The first up and the last to bed, feeding his team before he feeds himself, his work is practically never done. Why does not the farmer treat his own body as he treats the land he cultivates? He puts back in phosphate what he takes out in crops, or the land would grow poor. The farmer should put back into his body the vital elements exhausted by labor. If he does not, he will soon complain of "poor health." The great value of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is in its vitalizing power. It gives strength to the stomach, life to the lungs, purity to the blood. It supplies Nature with the substances by which she builds up the body, just as the farmer supplies Nature with the substances that build up the crops.

"I write to tell you of the great benefit I received from the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mr. G. B. Bird, of Byrnside, Putnam Co., W. Va. "It cured me of a very bad case of indigestion associated with torpid liver. Before I began the use of 'Golden Medical Discovery' I had no appetite; could not sleep nor work but very little. The little that I ate did not agree with me, bowels constipated, and life was a misery to me. I wrote to Dr. Pierce giving the symptoms, and asked for advice. He advised me to try the 'Golden Medical Discovery' so I began the use of it and after taking four bottles I felt so well that I went to work; but soon got worse, so I again began the use of it and used it about eight weeks longer, when I was permanently cured."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Use them when you require a pill.

ATTACK of ROYAL CANAdians at Paardeberg

The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 68 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts (none free); four for 80 cts; $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.25; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00 Write to day for a dozen and make money. No. 1 and Le Roi No. 2. Four properties. All
Crown granted.

THE LeRoi No. 1 once sold for 2 cents and went to $45 per share; and the Le Roi No. 2 £5 shares went to £23, or $110 per share in a few months.

Our memorandum of association contains a provision, provided by Section 56 of the Companies Act, 1897, that the shares are issued as Fully Paid Up and Non-Assessable, and that no further liability beyond the amount actually paid upon shares shall attach to the holders thereof. Capital $250,000.

Our properties are now proved (both above and below ground) to have the same continuous ore veins as the LeRoi Companies, and have the same identical ore and our shares are well worth TWENTY FIVE CENTS now, and will surely bring fifty cents. And we can, with a very small capital, develop our property to such an extent that it can also be placed on the London market, where it belongs—and small investors will make a good profit by buying now.

Our assays have averaged from $5 to $800 in gold, copper and silver and the shipping facilities are the best. The Great Northern Railway runs three times through the ground, three smelters close at hand, and reduced charges of $4.50 per ton for shipping and smelting, and we are now getting ready to start shipping ore.

Irrespective of the merits of the BIG FOUR, we have now over 570,000 shares in our treasury and free from all incumbrance. We are amongst the few local companies that has complied with the law in every particular, and we venture to say have

A WONDERFUL

KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

I. A. HOPKINS.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,

And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right. I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 58 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours,
I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev W. B Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, Collyer, Trego Co., Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-[illegible] compound)—cure all forms of Kidney and b[illegible] diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. 103 Fourth Av., New York. Please mention this paper.

ART OF SINGING.

Some Advice If Good Results are to Be Attained.

It is not sufficient to proclaim "I will be a singer." An attractive appearance, the gifts of the musician quickness of conception, and the power of representation, together with requisites of relatively minor importance, a good ear, a sound and rich voice of extended compass, added to an ardent desire to become an artist—such is the essential equipment of those who would travel the fair, if thorny, road that stretches out before them. From the very inception of one's studies, vanity, false ambition and greed must be set aside, and divine art only must inspire the pupil with zeal, compel industry and illumine the distant goal. If good results are attained, distinction honors and substantial reward will not be lacking.

How, now, shall the education of a child be conducted who from infancy has revealed the possession of an acute ear, a vivacious temperament and valuable gifts—a sweet voice and one true of pitch; of a child who from morn to eve sings with faultless intonation the melodies it overhears and prefers sitting at the piano and fingering the scales to busying itself with dolls? With due consideration for the bodily health of this gifted little creature, its parents after it has learned the alphabet and is between seven and eight years of age, may give it piano instruction, without, however, constraining it to too constant practice. I blame parents who, through pride over their children's accomplishments, summon them from play to sing an air for the entertainment of an aunt or cousin or to play for them the piano piece they have just mastered. How often has such embittered children toward their studies? Now—always with regard for their physique—solfeggio (do, re, mi) can be commenced, but with the greatest caution; only a compass of ten tones (from C to E) should be allowed —Harper's Bazaar.

Ready Made Oratory on Tap.

Oratory nowhere flourishes as it does on the east side, and that is how the dealer in speeches thrives at his trade. He has a little shop in Grand street, which bears the sign, "Speeches of all kinds sold and taught. Banquets, weddings, christenings, debates, all occasions."

The seller of speeches is a wizened little old man who has for years conducted a profitable trade. He observed early in life that the east side liked to talk, and frequently had nothing to say. He immediately took steps to supply the demand. He is not a finished English scholar himself, but he speedily found persons of education who, for a comparatively small sum, were anxious and willing to help the residents of Grand and Essex streets, and of Poverty Hollow, to find expression for their thoughts. Sometimes they had no thoughts, yet he was able to supply every deficiency.

He extended his market to politics, and many a district leader of the eastern part of the city is able to deliver orations which his admirers regard as inspired flights worthy of Cicero and Demosthenes. Frequently the speaker has nothing of "Demosthenes but his stutter or nothing of Cicero but his wart," but the east side, in matters of eloquence, is not critical, provided the sound of speech is continuous and loud.

At weddings the fond father of the bride or some other person thinks it necessary to make a speech. He buys a suitable package of oratory, as he would buy cheese or sausage, and, under the instruction of the dealer, he speaks it until he is able to retain it with passable fluency. The felicitous addresses for the christening or for the silver wedding feast can both be found at the Grand street dealer's in great abundance.

If the election captain feels that at a meeting of the local political club he should have a few words of denunciation for his rival, he carefully memorizes a choice creed.

It is at the meetings of the literary societies, which flourish on the east side, that the demand for ready made oratory is often frequent. With a given subject in mind, the aspirant for forensic fame can get a supply of material which would be space filling and satisfying. He can then devote his full attention to the more important part of east side oratory—sound.

The Decline of Sunday Schools.

One of the most startling phenomena of the time is the great decrease in the number of children attending Sunday schools. A safe estimate shows a falling off of 32,000 scholars in one year. The shrinkage is not marked in one body more than in another. The Church of England equally with the other Protestant churches has to lament a loss, and the loss is greater in reality than the mere numbers show, for the population naturally increases every year and the increase ought to contribute its ever-growing quota to the Sunday school. That it fails to do so suggests an inquiry probably of greater moment than many social questions that make much noise in the world. Why should the Sunday schools have ceased to attract? The most obvious answer is that the days of what was practically compulsory attendance are over. That means, of course, that the churches are losing some of their moral hold upon the parents. The inference seems to agree with the facts. In ceasing to be dogmatic and to wield pains and penalties, social and eternal, the churches have laid aside one weapon without attempting to replace it by another.

Frogs Domesticated.

According to a frog farmer who is at the Waldorf-Astoria selling the crop of this season, the frog has taken his place among domesticated animals, says the New York Mail and Express.

"There are now wild frogs and barnyard frogs," said he today. "The wild frog is a thin-legged rascal who can only sit and sing—the barnyard frog sings a few months, then goes to market. Frog farming has been reduced to a science, and the business is one of the most profitable in the country. The demand for frogs is growing, for the meat is clean, beautiful and delicious and easily digested. It is the ideal meat for invalids. Spring chicken is gross compared with its delicate flavor. Besides, a frog is a cleanly beast, and one may eat him with assurance. Millions of the swamp warblers are eaten in the city every year and prices are good now."

GRAINS OF SENSE

Courage and endurance are the alphabet of success.

SOME WISE DON'TS

Don't "howl," "roar" or "explode." To laugh heartily is better.

Don't pose. Affectation is a bar to respect, let alone confidence.

Don't use superlatives. Few things require them, and they weaken description.

This claim occupies an imposing position on a mountain just north of the city; and last, but by no means least, the Sunshine, located two miles east of Salida at Cleora station, on the main Trunk line of the great Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, also on the Arkansas river, which in length is one of America's greatest streams.

Nearly a Conflagation

What might have been a very serious conflagation was narrowly averted on Saturday afternoon, when a fire broke out in the second story of Mr. Thos. Barrie's fur store on George street. The brigade responded promptly, but considerable damage was done to the stock beofre the blaze was extinguished. The loss is fully covered by insurance.

Victoria Day

The Government has very wisely reconsidered the decision announced the other day by Sir Wilfrid Laurier that it would not make Queen Victoria's birthday a permanent statutory holiday. Mr. Horsey having introduced a bill respecting "Victoria Day," Mr. Mulock made the gratifying announcement that May 24th would be made a statutory holiday by an amendment to the existing act. The suggestion has been made that the holiday should always be kept on the nearest Monday to May 24th. An arrangement of this kind would give thousands of people a chance to spend three days in the country, instead of one.

CHURCH NOTES

Yesterday evening Mr. W. P. Crombie, the well-known evangelist, spoke in St. Paul's church. After a few days visit he will begin evangelistic services in the Stewart Settlements.

Commodore Calcutt Writes to the Board of Trade on the Subject

The following letter was received a few days ago by the secretary of the Board of Trade, and speaks for itself. It will be seen that Mr. Calcutt has got something that is well worth investigating. The following is the letter:—

"I see by the papers that all the grain is to be carried through the United States to be shipped from American ports.

"I do not consider that necessary if they will only keep open the river St. Lawrence and the lakes, which can be done with an ice-breaker.

"If you could draw the attention of the Government to the matter I feel so sure that it can be done that I would be willing to take a contract for keeping the locks open. I have applied for a patent for a plan I have to keep the locks from freezing. Am sorry I cannot attend your meeting.

Yours Truly,

H. CALCUTT.

OUR POPULAR BANDMASTER

A Tribute to Mr. Rupert Gliddon From a Well-Known Paper

The following recently appeared in Canadian Music and Trades Journal, and speaks for itself:

"The Canadian Music and Trades Journal of a recent date contains the appended very interesting article concerning Mr. Rupert Gliddon, the popular and efficient bandmaster of the 57th Regimental Band; — Mr. Rupert Gliddon, bandmaster of the band of the 57th Regiment, Peterborough, Ont., is a young man of much musical talent and ability. He will be remembered as solo cornetist of the Grand Opera House and the Academy of Music for several years. He led his first band at Ingersoll, Ont., playing with the Oddfellows' Band there. Some years he spent in Detroit where he studied harmony and counterpoint with Heberlein of that city Coming to Toronto he joined the forces of the Grand Opera Orchestra. Here he studied under Dr. Albert Hartman, in whose band he was solo cornetist, while Walter H. Robinson, now of New York, was clarionetist. After leaving Toronto he studied in Germany; from there Mr. Gliddon went to Peterborough about three years ago, and increased the strength of the band from 15 to 45 players, importing several soloists. They use Besson instruments and the make-up is as ofllows:—

One piccolo, two flutes, one oboe, one Eb clarionet, four 1st Bb, four 2nd Bb and three third Bb clarionets, one alto and two bass clarionets, four horns, four trombones, two Eb and two double Bb basses nad traps.

The band gives two popular price concerts monthly in the opera house and a syndicate may take it on a tour.

Mr. Gliddon has a large class of piano pupils, is a busy man and is to be complimented on his excellent band.

IN TENNESSEE

People Know Something About Coffee

A little woman in Rita, Tenn., ran up from 110 pounds to 135 pounds in a few months by leaving off coffee and taking up Postum Food Coffee. She had been sick for a long time; subject to headaches and a general nervous condition with stomach trouble caused by coffee drinking, and when she left it off and took on Postum Food Coffee she made the change that cured her and fattened her quickly. She says; "I can now do as much work in a day as I want to, have no more headaches, and feel like a new person.

People comment on how well I look and want to know what I am doing. I always say, 'drinking Postum Food Coffee.'

My husband has been cured of rheumatism by leaving off coffee and using Postum, and his mother, who was always troubled after drinking coffee, has abandoned it altogether, and now uses Postum three times a day. She sleeps sound, and says she never expects to taste coffee any more." Mrs. L. M. Edmondson, Rita, Tenn.

Scrofula

Is a disease as old as antiquity, and as young as the newest born infant.

It has infested the blood of humanity from ancient times down to the present minute.

It is hereditary or may be acquired.

It appears in swollen glands, scrofulous sores, hip disease, boils, pimples, eruptions, and, as believed by high authorities, even in the forms of catarrh and rheumatism.

It can be cured by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla faithfully and persistently.

We know this, because Hood's Sarsaparilla has done it.

It will cure you if you give it a trial.

You should begin to take it today.

Hip Disease—"I suffered from hip disease; had 5 running sores; used crutches and each winter I was confined to my bed for weeks at a time. Hood's Sarsaparilla has accomplished a perfect cure—saved my life. I have a good appetite and feel strong and well." ANNIE ROBERT, 49 Fourth St., Fall River, Mass.

In Her Eyes—"My little girl had scrofula and sores appeared in her eyes. A few bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla entirely cured her and she has never had scrofula since." MRS. HOWARD POPE, Alpha, Oregon.

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy any other.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES

Bud Snyder is the name of a bicycle rider who is just now creating a furore in England. He is an Englishman, and he is now showing the Londoners sensational feats, which, before his advent, were unknown. It has been said that he can almost fly on his wheel, but he can actually do so, if leaping into the air with his wheel and clearing a space of 22 feet is flying. Snyder's most marvelous prank consists in starting from one end of the state, jumping his machine upon an ordinary table, riding down some steps at the other end, doing a clean somersault over another table, landing on the other side, still riding his bicycle, and up a diving board, on which he jumps off his machine while it is in motion, plunging into a tank of water ahead.

Stop Losing Money

You Cannot Guess Winners

Horse races are "MIGHTY UNCERTAIN" things to bet on. If you depend on a GUESS to win, a thousand miles from the scene. Thousands have tried before you and have failed. The chances are a thousand to one you will fail too.

You Cannot Handicap Winners

Horses are not machines. They rarely repeat performances. Many of them look at the odds in the betting ring before they go to the post—that is, their owners do it for them. Horses do not always "try." They run for the benefit of their owners, not the public.

Be Advised by Experts on the Spot

Do what the plungers do. "Stand in." Get the best inside information direct from the track every morning that a shrewd combine of horsemen can secure for you. That is what is given its subscribers daily by the

LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE

The LEHMAN RACING SYNDICATE is a combination of horse owners and trainers, now racing horses at the New Orleans race track, who have united for the purpose of profiting by the exclusive information at their command. The syndicate aims to send to its subscribers by telegraph every morning the names of two or three horses that are entered in the day's races, which will win, barring accidents alone.

THIS BEATS ALL

Among our many winners recently were SARILLA, 50 to 1, Jan. 8; CALLEUR, 10 to 1, Jan. 14; and AZIA, 10 to 1, Jan. 15.

Within a week our subscribers won more money following us than they did for six months prior following their own selections, if indeed they were not heavy losers before they joined our army of winners.

Cut this out and use it as authority on the manager of the Postal Telegraph office, No 146 W. 42d street, New York, to examine copy of our telegrams to subscribers filed each day this month at noon. Verify our Statement!

We hope this will convince all turfites that our subscribers are getting money, and that our sources of information are second to none in point of accuracy and reliability. We average two selections per day. Anything we send can be bet on with confidence that the horse will "try" and that the owner is betting on him.

Canada Life

54th Annual Report.

The 54th Annual Meeting of the Canada Life Assurance Company was held on the 27th of February. The meeting was harmonious, and the following report shows the Company to be in a sound and flourishing condition:

THE QUEEN'S DEATH.

The 54th Annual Report of the Directors is submitted beneath the lingering shadows of the death of our late beloved Queen, under whose long reign this company has grown from its foundation, in 1847, to its present strong position.

THE YEAR'S BUSINESS.

The number of policies with first premiums actually paid for in cash during 1900 was 2895, representing assurances of $6,397,918.53. This was $868,242.58 larger than the new business paid for in the previous year. Of the above amount $4,415,510.33 represents the Canadian business. Coming now to business originating strictly within the past year, the number of applications received was 2210, for $5,108,354. The number of policies issued and revived was 2170, and the amount of assurances granted (including new reversionary additions), was $5,566,635.55 It is gratifying to be able to announce that a satisfactory increase in our business has been shown for the first two months of the current year over the corresponding period of the last and previous years. The total assurances now in force amount to $81,039,083.

THE INCOME

A substantial increase has taken place in our premium income, which amounted to $2,951,687.33, or including considerations for annuities, to $3,055,905.33. The income from interest amounted to the large sum of $906,426.27. These figures exceed the highest point yet reachd by the Company, both as to premiums and interest.

THE PAYMENTS.

For the first time in the Company's history, the claims by death exceeded the million dollar mark, the payments amounting to $1,112,367.43, which however was well within the amount expected. Including bonus additions, the death claims and endowments paid amount to $1,291,480.28, while the dividens to policyholders reached the large sum of $865,880.75.

The total payments to policy-holders and annuitants amounted to $2,282,840.56.

Omitting all annuity transactions, the actual expenses of management for the year (including taxes and Government fees) amounted to 14.93 per cent off the income from premiums and interest. This percentage is less than the corresponding one for the previous year. In this connection, a respectful protest should be entered against the unfair measure of taxation which life insurance companies are subjected to by some Provinvial and State enactments.

THE ASSETS.

Owing to the temporary stringency in the money market during the past year, little difficulty was experienced in securing desirable investments. The assets of the Company increased during the year by $1,284,142.02, notwithstanding the large payments of policy-holders. The total assets now amount to $22,648,204.08, being more than double the amount reported ten years ago.

THE LIABILITIES.

The valuation basis at present adopted is Actuaries 4 per cent. for old business Hm. 3 1-2 per cent for new bonus additions and annuities, and Hm. 3 per cent. for policies issued since 31st December, 1899. After providing for these liabilities and for the Special Reserve towards the new standard, as well as for all other liabilities to policy-holders, there remains a surplus on policyholders' account of $1,005,513.36. At 31st December last, the paid-up capital stood at $383,900.00.

In view of the strength of the Ordinary and Special Reserves, and of the amount of surplus alloted at the recent Quinquennial Division, it is a matter of satisfaction that the Company is thus shown to be such a strong and prosperous condition. The lapse of twelve months has only served to strengthen the opinion of the Directors as to the wisdom of the action taken a year ago in reference to the Reserve Fund.

A RETROSPECT AND FORECAST.

With a valuable accumulated experience of nearly 54 years; with a long-established reputation for solidity, integrity and economy; with assets revalued and held upon a conservative basis; with reserves largely in excess of Government requirements; with new plans of assurance and liberal policy contracts; the Company enters upon the new century with renewed energy, and resources and equipment requisite to meet the strain of a financial crisis, if it appears, or to reap the advantages of prosperous periods as they recur.

GEO. A. COX, President,
R. HILLS, Secretary.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

The President, Hon. George A. Cox, in moving the adoption of the report, said:

The Report of the Directors is so comprehensive as to render unnecessary any very lengthy remarks from me on this occasion.

I venture to think that our Financial Statement this year is one that will command the confidence of the public in the sound and prosperous condition of the Company. Indeed, the Balance Sheet does not, perhaps, fully reveal the strength of the Company. To do this, it is necessary to see in what position the Company would stand were our liabilities measured upon the same basis as that adopted by Canadian and American standards of valuation. As most of you are aware, the Directors of this Company, as far back as 1890, commenced to look forward to a change of valuation basis from a 4 1-2 per cent. rate of interest, and the progress we have made from that time to this is best illustrated by showing what surplus margin the Company would now have, if its policy liabilities were valued first, upon the usual American standard; and, secondly, upon the Dominion Government standard.

THE STRENGTH OF THE COMPANY

As will be seen from our financial statement, the surplus upon policy-holders' account, according to the Company's standard, is now $1,005,513.53. Now if we adopted the usual American valuation standards (Actuaries 4 per cent.), and had set aside no special reserve fund towards a higher standard, our surplus upon policy-holders' account would have been $1,673,415.00.

Similarly, upon the Dominion Government standard (Hm. 4 1-2 per cent. and 3 1-2 per cent. for new business), our corresponding surplus would have been approximately $2,674,000.00. The relative positions are thus shown to be as follows;

Surplus on policyholders' account, as per Company's standard	$1,005,513.53
Surplus on policyholders' account as per American Government standard	1,673,415.00
Surplus on policyholders' account as per Canadian Government standard	2,674,000.00

While our position is thus shown to be a strong one, I do not believe it errs on the side of being too strong, in view of the transformations that are now taking place in the financial world generally, and, by many leading companies in particular. The great benefits that will accrue to our policyholders on account of the increased earning power now established will become more and more manifest as time elapses.

The above figures also indicate how much ground would now have to be made up had the Directors been content during the past ten years to await legal requirements before preparing to meet the signs of the times, but I do not suppose any intelligent person would now maintain that that would be a desirable position for so prominent a company to be placed in.

The large benefits that are now conferred upon the holders of the Company's policies are shown by the report, from which it will be seen that $2,282,840.56 was distributed to policyholders by way of death claims and matured endowments, profits, surrender values and annuities.

THE COMPANY'S GROWTH

The present magnitude of the Company and its growth from small proportions is shown in the following table, by quinquennial stages:

	Assurances in Force (Gross).	Annual Income (Gross).	Total Assets.
1850	$ 814,903	$ 27,333	$ 41,873
1855	2,349,609	83,908	217,768
1860	3,545,467	133,446	664,527
1865	4,013,268	141,968	717,279
1870	6,404,437	272,728	1,000,008
1875	13,430,027	582,725	2,413,362
1880	21,547,759	836,854	4,297,862
1885	34,390,890	1,336,681	7,044,944
1890	54,006,801	2,003,831	11,032,440
1895	70,541,395	2,721,271	16,813 634
1900	81,039,081	3,063,241	22,648,204

The business in force on 31st December last was $81,039,083.

About $1,300,000 of business was cancelled by death or maturity. Considering the age and size of the Company, we must naturally expect large terminations in this way. It is satisfactory to be able to state that the death claims incurred were materially within the amount provided for and expected. It is also pleasing to note that the amount of policies surrendered was only about four-fifths of 1 per cent. of the business in force, a percentage that will be recognized as very small indeed for a progressive Company.

The premium income of the Company showe a substantial natural increase besides a material addition from single premiums growing out of the Quinquennial Division, as well as larger annuity considerations than we could perhaps expect for the current year.

During the past year the Company resumed the transaction of annuity business. The continued fall in interest rates and the increasing difficulty experienced in obtaining desirable investments has turned the attention of many persons with means in this direction, and it is hoped that a substantial business will be done in this way.

THE CAPITAL

Since our last Annual Meeting, the shareholders, acting quite within their own rights, and in what they believed to be the best interests of both the policyholders and shareholders, decided to pay up in cash their $875,000.00 of subscribed capital. This action upon the part of the shareholders has been misrepresented, chiefly by persons interested in rival companies, and the impression has been conveyed to the public that it was for the purpose of enabling them to allot to themselves a larger proportion of the profits; but the untruthfulness and absurdity of this will be apparent when it is remembered that the Company's charter definitely and clearly enacts that not more than one-tenth of the profits can, under any circumstances be allotted to the shareholders, the remaining nine-tenths going to the policy-holders, who cannot, therefore, suffer in any way whatever by the calling-up of the capital: while, on the other hand, their security is enhanced by an additional $875,000.00, making, in all, $1,000,000 of cash capital, every dollar of which stands between the policyholder and any possible loss.

The Company has been criticized in the past because of its insignificant capital of $125,000, receiving a dividend of 30 per cent., and we must now expect that it will be criticized by its opponents because it has a cash capital of $1,000,000, notwithstanding that the dividend has been reduced to 8 per cent., and will not exceed that rate.

It is well to remember that nine-tenths of the profits secured to the policyholders by the Act of Incorporation will be found quite as favorable as those of any other company—stock or mutual—doing business on this continent, while the shareholders place their million dollars of capital at stake as a guarantee of efficient, economical and conservative management.

UNFAIR TAXATION

A reference is made in the report to the unfair measure of taxation imposed upon life insurance companies, and, I may mention that last year we were required to pay, in taxes and Government fees, over $27,000, and this sum is classified among the expenses of management, although uncontrollable in its nature, and for which the Company derives but little benefit. In Ontario, life insurance companies are required to contribute to the Province taxes out of all fair proportion to other financial institutions, and it is sincerely to be hoped that some relief will be granted by the Legislature at an early date.

OFFICIAL AUDITS AND GOVERNMENT INSPECTION

Attached to the Report is the Auditors' Certificate, as well as that of the Investment Committee, and I may add that our accounts, covering the present report, have also been passed upon by the Government Inspector.

I have much pleasure in moving the adoption of the report.

Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, said:

In rising to second the adoption of another Annual Report, I do so with no small degree of satisfaction. Year after year, I have had this pleasing duty to perform, and each added year seems to find the Company growing stronger as it grows older. It is now 43 years since I was first elected a Director, and 24 years since the added honor of Vice-President was conferred on me. I have thus been privileged to see this Companny rise from small proportions to its present commanding position, and I do not think that the Company was ever in a sounder financial condition than it is to-day, nor do I know of one that should have as strong claims upon intending insurers as the Canada Life. At the present time, established life assurance com'panies are passing through a transition period due to the necessary readjustment of their policy liabilities. Each company must work out this problem in its own way, according as the particular circumstances may warrant; As the oldest Company in the Dominion, it has fallen to our lot to lead the way in the solution of this problem. In the performing of this necessary duty, we have in some instances been misunderstood, and in other instances grossly misrepresented by designing parties, but on the whole we are satisfied with the many evidences of appreciation of what has been done during the past year in the permanent interests of the policyholders. As has been frequently pointed out, the Company's policyholders will themselves reap the advantage of this readjustment, through the greater dividend-earning power of the Company, thus created, as well as the added security established.

Owing to the unusually large volume of business written two years ago, in anticipation of increased premium rates, it was not to be expected that last year would be specially noted for the number of new policyholders secured; but considering all the existing conditions, I think we have made very good progress in this respect, and evidences are not wanting that the current year will be even better than the last. After all, quality is better than quantity, and a satisfactory profit-earning power is of more importance than a large new business.

There is one phase of life insurance in Canada to-day that I would like to allude to. Judging from a long experience, as well as from existing conditions, I believe that a word of warning should be sounded as to the danger of investors, as well as to the community, that exists on account of the disposition to establish new life insurance companies. Because a few companies successfully established themselves a few years ago, under conditions very different from the present, it is now too readily assumed that this process can be repeated, notwithstanding the large number of companies now striving to secure the limited population of this country. The keen competition now existing and the insurmountable obstacles to the successful flotation of a new company should make intending investors cautious of lending their names and capital to an enterprise whose success is, at the best, very doubtful. I think there can be no doubt that great benefit would accrue to the community if a consolidation of some of the smaller interests were the order of the day, in place of an unwise ambition to establish new companies. That there are now too many companies is beyond question.

Mr. Chairman, I second the adoption of this Report, with great pleasure, and, before sitting down, perhaps you will allow me to say that, while it would be presumptuous in a person of my age to hope to see much of this new century, upon which we have entered, I have every confidence that the Canada Life Assurance Company will continue successfully on its way, firm in its foundations, tried in its principles, and distributing its invaluable benefits to future generations.

Owning Big Horn Mountain Tunnel and Veneta Vein, 200 acres situated on the Western Slope of Pike's Peak, in the famous Cripple Creek Gold Mining District.

THE SAFEST OFFER EVER MADE TO INVESTORS.

100,000 Shares Preferred Stock at 25c. Per Share.

It is printed on each certificate that subscribers to the above Preferred Shares will be entitled to receive in Dividends the full amount of money invested, before other stockholders receive any returns, signed by the President of the Company.

This district produced more Gold in 1900 than any other in the United States

This property consists of 3000 by 3000 feet, or 200 acres, of gold land. The mine has been worked. The feature of this mine is the Veneta Vein, 30 to 40 feet in width, and is certainly one of the strongest veins in this famous district. There are some fifteen openings on this vein, the ore from which assays in gold from $12 to $100 per ton. The property is advantageously located for development by tunnel, which will make it possible to produce an enormous amount of ore daily, the quantity varying from 200 to 500 tons per day. The development by TUNNELING is the most economical and advantageous manner of working this property.

At a distance of 800 feet the Tunnel will intersect the Veneta Vein at a depth of about 680 feet, and will also intersect several other veins. The tunnel will cut the Big Horn Mountain 2100 feet deep, and will give this company 2,000,000 tons of ore, worth over $20 per ton.

The new railroad, now practically completed from Colorado Springs, called the Colorado Springs and Cripple Creek road, passes within 2000 feet of this Tunnel.

Adjoining this property is the Colorado Springs TUNNEL Company. In this property at a depth of 400 feet, the Veneta Vein was cut. At this point the vein was fully 20 feet in width, and its value from $20 to $1000 per ton.

There are already in operation mills and smelters sufficient to treat the output of his property, which gives at once cash returns.

Capital Stock $1.000,000. Par Value $1.00 Per Share. 100,000 Shares Preferred Stock at 25c. Per Share.

In buying this stock the purchaser owns a direct title in the Company's property. This Company offers you no watered stock, but a legitimate high-grade gold-mining investment in the Cripple Creek District.

The above offer of Preferred Dividends is an assurance of early returns. After additional machinery is erected, this property will be earning dividends almost equal to its Capital Stock.

PROPOSED NORWOOD AND APSLEY RAILWAY

The Town Council Will Actively Assist in Promoting the Scheme

At last night's meeting of our Civic Fathers, Mr. J. B. Pearce, President of the Norwood and Apsley Railroad, who has so energetically engaged in negotiating for the opening up of the northeastern portion of the County of Peterborough, that the construction of an iron road from Norwood to Apsley is all but assured, asked the Council for active cooperation in the matter. Mr. Pearce explained that, as published in the Times of Saturday the C.P.R. is behind the scheme, and hotels will be erected in the vicinity of our back lakes, on which a splendid line of steamers will operate, thus opening up a large section of country to the settler, miner and tourist. An interview with Mr. McNichol, General Manager of the C.P.R., had resulted in the Company's engineer being despatched to survey the territory; he had reported very favorably on the scheme, and now nothing remains but to secure a charter and a grant of the usual subsidies to colonization roads. This road, Mr. Pearce argued, will induce settlement, as much of the territory is suitable for farming, while the rougher portions may be utilized for stock raising; then there are large quantities of valuable timber, mica, copper, marble, etc., all of which will undoubtedly be worked when a ready means of transportation is at hand. From a tourist standpoint, this railroad cannot be surpassed by any in Ontario, as it will, in Mr McNicholl's own words, convey pleasure seekers in three hours and a half from the city of Toronto to a veritable eldorado—our back lakes. Mr. Pearce next alluded to the exceedingly satisfactory results from working the Belmont mines, in which much capital has already been expended. As to stone, he assured Council that a large quarrying firm of New York are prepared to put in and operate a costly plant as soon as this railway is completed. In conclusion, he urged that the Council appoint a deputation to accompany the Provisional Directors of the Norwood and Apsley railway, who with representatives from the County Council and Peterborough Board of Trade will on March 13th memoralize the Provincial Legislature to give a charter and grant the usual subsidy for colonization roads—$3,000 per mile.

Ald. Roger moved, seconded by Ald. Shortly,—That this matter be referred to the Manufacturers' Committee, with power to send a deputation to Toronto.—Carried.

Council met at 8.15, when there were present Mayor Denne and Aldermen Rush, Weir, Sawers, Roger, Shortly, Clinkscale, Batten, Corkery and Best.

The minutes of the two preceding meetings were read and confirmed.

The Auditors, Messrs. Jas. A. Hall and A. N. Clark submitted their report for 1900, in which the statement of the Commissioners of the Town Trusts showed a liability of $243,318.58, against which should be placed property assets amounting to $379,594.83, thus an adverse balance of $243,318.58 was converted into a substantial visible credit of $136,276.25.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Town Solicitor E. B. Edwards, to the effect that having at Council's request, considered the question of cutting trees by employees of telephone, telegraph or electric companies, he is of the opinion that none of these companies have the right to cut trees upon the highway without consent of the owners of adjacent property. And further, that if the removal of such trees is deemed necessary for any purpose of public improvement, Council may pass a by-law authorizing the same, but any owner of adjoining property shall be entitled to ten days' notice of the intention of Council to remove such trees, and shall be entitled to recompense for his trouble in planting and protecting same.

From the Town Solicitor as follows: "The appeal of Mr. Henry Best against assessment for sidewalks came before the County Judge and after evidence was taken and the matter argued the appeal was dismissed. The Judge, however, ordered that Mr. Best's cost for witness fees of George Rose should be paid by the town. The fees will come to $1.50. This account was ordered to be paid.

"DAY WORK VS. CONTRACT

Ald. Best submitted a lengthy statement in the cost of public work, in which he claimed the town was a loser in constructing granolithic walks by day labor.

While the average assessed rate on debentures for the sidewalks built by contractors was 17c, that of the work done under Mr. Geo. Rose's supervision came 18 per cent higher, and that under Mr. F. Bartlett's inspectorship showed an increase of 50 per cent.

Ald. Best also took exception to the town paying $6.00 a yard for crushed stone which contractors purchased at $1.25. He also understood that on the canal, stone was being crushed for concrete purposes at the small figure of 8cts. per yard. He also read a letter from Lindsay's town clerk to the effect that contract work on granolithic walks in that town only cost from 14 to 15 cents as against 10 and 11 cents for day labor. When asked what he proposed doing in the matter, he replied that it should be the engineer's duty to look after the town's interest in the matter of public works, and report them. This he had not done. He proposed to dispense with Engineer Hay at the end of this month, and would move a resolution to that effect.

Ald. Roger explained that the first thing last year's Council did was to call on the heads of the several departments to report to Council, and Engineer Hay had been the first one to respond, submitting a very full and satisfactory report in detail. Had this year's Council done likewise, Mr. Hay's report would no doubt have been sent in as last year.

Ald. Sawers thought the town suffered from more mistakes prior to Engineer Hay's appointment than under his supervision. He did not think Lindsay's estimate for sidewalks included the curbing, which was very expensive.

Ald. Sawers moved, seconded by Ald. Roger,—That the Town Clerk write Lindsay with reference to the cost of granolithic walks in that town, and that the whole question be referred to a committee of the whole Council.

Ald. Clinkscale moved, seconded by Ald. Batten,—That the Fire, Water and Light Committee be authorized to purchase the necessary supply of oats for the fire team.

Council then adjourned to the Oriental, where an excellent oyster supper was enjoyed at Mayor Denne's expense

DOWN IN MARYLAND.

Interesting Letter from Mr. Harry Lindley, the Actor.

How the World Wags Down in Dixie's Land A Poor Country says Mr. Lindley.

(Editor Morning Times.)

Sir,—Here we are located pro tem. in Crisfield, Maryland, the oyster capital of the great Chesapeake Bay. It cannot be disguised, for the bivalve is perpetually visable to the eye, constantly preceptible to the nasal organs, and is almost audible to the ear, whilst we feel, his outer covering peretually at our feet. Since my first visit to this country, some eighteen years ago, the town has almost changed its base. The shells of the oysters as they are chucked have formed a new terra firma, and buildings have sprung up everywhere with no stronger foundation.

Shell roads, as they are termed, are the best in the country for driving bicycle riding and railroad ballasting "Love adores contrasts," comparisons are odious, are contradictory axioms, but when one compares this section of the United States with Canada, the palm of superiority must be conceded to the younger From an educational standpoint this is undoubtedly so. The percentage of whites who cannot read and write is appalling. The colored man is of a necessity ignorant, but what excuse is there for the whites? Politics are a curse to the State. They intrude everywhere. Somerset county is Republican, and as a sequence the Public Schools are closed for three months as the county cannot afford to pay for them; but when we look into this, we find that it is not the poverty of the county, but the plurality of officials, who, on account of their political pull, have to be provided with offices. North Carolina, finding itself unable to cope with the nigger vote, has gone back from the shot-gun policy and introduced a novel measure of voting reform, in the Legislature. They miscall it the Australian system. In some respects they may be right, for it is scarcely palatable to find the colored vote outweigh the white, so they are trying to disfranchise them. By this new arrangement no person is allowed a vote unless he can read and write. This would strike hard on the uncultured white men, as they are almost as numerous as the darkey element, but they have devised and added a special clause which reads, "Unless the voter's father or grandfather shall have cast his vote on some previous occasion." The grandfather clause, it can readily be seen, disfranchises the nigger community. In North Carolina, South Carolina and Virgina this is not of so much moment, as they must of a necessity be Democratic, white, as against the negro, Republican, but in Maryland it is different. The two parties are close. But an extra session of the Legislature has been called, with the express purpose of framing a similar law, and giving the Democrat a big preponderance.

It is the germ of trouble for the whole South. In Congress recently it has been mooted to reduce the Southern representation to its numerical voting population, which, however, was shelved temporarily as a conciliatory move, but any interference on what the South thinks are its State rights would anger the Southerner and bring on a feeling of sectional bitterness or worse. Taxation in Maryland is high; everybody is taxed—their household goods are taxed, jewelry is taxed, and there is more than anywhere else in the wide legal practice to the square inch world. Lynch law is, however, becoming a lost art; yet, in Denton, a colored man was recently lynched, and by a peculiar turn of fate, one of the principal lynchers, a white, committed a similar crime and narrowly escaped lynching, but received a sentence of 20 years instead, and the townspeople say that of the principal participants, each one has died, been imprisoned, or met an ignominious end. The oyster business has so many drawbacks in the way of licenses, official supervision and unwarrantable dredging, that it is decreasing, whilst the supply is becoming smaller, and the owners of the boats neglect entirely what will soon be a necessity—seeding. Chincoteague Island this season has outstripped all in its wonderful catch, but there they have been seeding or propagating the species for a few years. Cambridge, Maryland, is another port where an immense business is done, but it is said Crisfield is the third port of entry in the United States. This is, of course, in number of vessels, not in tonnage. The soft-shell crab is another source of revenue, but he flourishes best when the mosquito is in season. I must now relate a setback to hypnotism. In Preston, Ont., last year there was a young gentleman who had made hypnoitsm a study. He had previously been a subject of McEwen. He thought oyster towns a good field, forgetting that oyster men are the roughest mixtures of humanity. He advertised largely—brought two special subjects from Baltimore, together with vocalists, etc., to improve the show.

He started—elaborated his lecture, talked flippantly of tests, materialism, mind and matter and as a special feature, placed his subject to sleep for 48 hours. In a window, on the main street, might be seen the sleeper. Visitors looked in, finally walked in. He slept on. Little boys stuck pins in him — he slept on. Ladies poked him with fans and needles—he slept on. It was marvellous, they said. A burly blacksmith pinched him—he slept on. "Wait five minutes," said the blacksmith. They waited. He returned with a sledge hammer and a sixinch spike. "Give me room," he said. "I'll wake him," and he did, for before the hammer could fall, the subject arose, and, with clenched fist, exclaimed. "You hit me with that and I'll brain you." Hypnotism is a dead issue in this district, and the blacksmith has returned to his own vocation. Well, we are now enroute for Pennsylvania, and soon hope to sing, "God save our Gracious King" under the old flag.

—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Johnston, seconded by Mr Sheridan,—That Messrs. Pollock and Smith be a committee to get prices for the construction of a new watering cart for street watering purposes and report at next Council meeting. Council adjourned.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

The annual meeting of the Board of Health took place immediately after the council adjourned.

Mr. Smith was re-elected chairman and Dr. J. Bingham medical health officer read his report for the year 1901.

In congratulating the village on the fact that only one red card was displayed during the year, Dr. Bingham said the congratulations would hardly be applicable at present as children's diseases were very prevalent.

There were 37 deaths during the year of which 12 occured at St. Joseph's hospital, most of the patients being from other places. The causes of the 27 deaths were 20 in number, running from cholera infantum to old age, and including one killed by train. Yards and wells were in fair condition. The doctor spoke of the importance of pure water and of pure air and sunshine in dwellings and in conclusion said: „It might also be added that many diseases which now afflict the human race would be avoided by a more sparing use of animal foods. It is a significant fact that vegetarians, such as the rice-eating natives of India are almost altogether free from cancer, and it is only fair to infer that many other diseases might be avoided by the same means. If we make our stomachs a cemetry we can hardly hope to escape the consequences.

AN OLD PIONEER GONE

Death of Mr. L. S. McCarthy, the Oldest Resident.

Was in Peterborough in 1825 and Helped to Row the Boat up the Otonabee Containing the Robinson's Emigrants.

There died in the township of Hamilton, near Gore's Landing, on Tuesday, February 19th, Mr. Lyman S. McCarthy, who was not only the oldest resident of the district, but probably was the oldest Canadian born citizen.

Mr. McCarthy spent a few weeks in Peterborough a couple of years ago, visiting his son, Mr. Allan McCarthy, of Ashburnham.

The deceased gentleman was born in the Bay of Quinte District in 1807. He was a son of the late Callahan McCarthy and a grandson of the late Rev. Charles Justin McCarthy, who died a martyr to the cause of Methodism, near Kingston, in the early days of the history of our Province. The house in which Mr. McCarthy first lived was the only one between Gore's Landing, on Rice Lake, and Cobourg. Railways or even good roads were unknown in this vicinity, and when the time came for him to secure a deed of his farm he walked to Belleville for it. Mr. McCarthy helped haul the timber to town that was used to construct the first wharf at Cobourg. His residence became a stopping place for new comers and a home for the Methodist itinerant as he rode on horseback. In 1834 Mr. McCarthy purchased the farm upon which he resided until his death. In 1837 he shouldered his musket and went forth to serve in the rebellion as a volunteer. In 1839 he was married to Elizabeth Lacey, who, after nearly 50 years of wedded life, preceded him to the better land. Four sons and two daughters were born of this union. They are:—Mrs. Jennings, Toronto; Allen, Peterborough; Alfred, Toronto; Jason and Callahan, on the homestead, and Sarah, who died in 1869. In religion Mr. McCarthy was a Methodist and in politics a staunch Liberal. Very seldom was there held a Liberal convention in West Northumberland without Mr. McCarthy being there, and his presence, enthusiasm and interest were an inspiration to the party. Although 94 years of age, he went to the poll at the Federal election last November to cast his vote for Mr. J. B. McColl, the successful Liberal candidate.

Mr. McCarthy was one of a number of young men who were employed by Hon. Peter Robinson, to assist in bringing his 2,000 emigrants to Scott's Plains," now Peterborough, in May 1825, and not only assisted in building the large flat bottomed boat used to transport the people and their goods up the Otonabee River, but pulled on oar on the voyage up. He assisted in the election of 1287, and as the only polling place for the northern district was at Gore's Landing, the boat propelled by oars, had to be used to convey the voters back and forth. On this boat each party had a barrel of whiskey, and voters were permitted to help themselves. In those days whiskey was unadulterated, and could be had for 6 pence per gallon.

Say a kind word and richer is your store;
Try a Times Want Ad and as days go by You'll praise your judgment for it more

WEATHER NOTES.

Probs: Decidedly colder.

A storm of importance which has travelled rapidly over Canada, is now centred in the Lower St. Lawrence Valley. A pronounced cold wave has spread over the Territories and Manitoba, and a change to considerably colder weather is again indicated for Ontario and Quebec.

Rheumatic Joints.—Mrs. George Smith, 62 Charron street, Point St. Charles, Que., says: "Rheumatism in my joints caused me sufferings that words cannot describe how terrible. I took four bottles of South American Rheumatic Cure and am a well woman. I have recommended it to others with as good results. Think the treatment nothing short of a wonder."—10

Shaving on Sunday.

That there is really no reason for apprehension that the sanctity of the Sabbath is in danger in Canada is shown by a recent incident in Hamilton... Some barbers in that city were summoned for shaving on Sunday. The cases came up in the police court and the police magristrate held that shaving was a work of necessity and dismissed the charges. Now the Barbers' association of Hamilton is petitioning for the amendment of the Lord's day act to prohibit Sunday shaving.

"To think that I have worried so,
And tramped and trod the public way
To get a job, when one Times Ad
Would bring it to me any day!"

GENESIS OF THE "JOINT.

As to how the "joints" in Kansas now the object of Mrs. Nation's crusade, came to be so much in evidence is told by a writer in the New York Independent. Most of the towns were in a bad way financially during the hard times of the early and middle '90's. Taxes were high: valuations were falling off; the population was decreasing, and interest on bonds issued in flush times was becoming a heavy burden. In this financial crisis the joint keeper went to the rescue of the taxpayer, "not for the approbation of Allah, but for gold." The joint keepers were fined, but kept their places open. Then the city councils began to hold executive sessions and decide what fine should be imposed. Usually it was either $60 a month, or $50 every other month. This lowered taxes. But Kansas is no longer suffering in a financial way, and people do not need the revenue'any longer people do not need the revenue and longer and the moral sense of the community refuses to be "insulted" unless it needs money. Kansas is prosperous enough to reverence the law, and the saloons must go. The only hope of the "joint" keepers seems to lie in a return to hard times, grass-hopper plague, or something of

EDITORIAL NOTES.

And it really begins to look as though Uncle Sam would have trouble in Cuba before long. Things are shaping that way. In the Cuban Parliament the other day two members spoke of the "time coming when it would be necessary to fire on the Americans." When they get a Cuban, as well as a Philippine, war on their hands the Yankees may find the White Man's Burden a heavy one.

Dr. Sproule told the House of Commons the other day that "no country produces sugar beets containing as large a percentage of sugar as does the Canadian product. The average percentage of sugar in the German beets is 11.70 per cent., while the Canadian beet reaches 16 per cent. sugar." If this be correct the beet sugar industry should be a success.

A PLEASING EVENT.

Marriage of Mr. Waddell, of Norwood, and Miss Percival.

A happy social event took place in Merrickville on Tuesday 19th, the occasion being the marriage of Mr. J. Belle Waddell, manager of the Union Bank at Norwood, and Miss Jean Percival, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Percival, of that place. A Merrickville correspondent to the Rideau Record gives the following particulars:

On Tuesday afternoon of this week, Feb. 19, 1901, the home of R. C. Percival, Esq., was the scene of a pretty wedding, the contracting parties being Mr. John Belle Waddell, manager of the Union Bank, Norwood, Ont., and Miss Harriet Jean Percival, one of the best known and most highly esteemed young ladies of Merrickville. While the wedding march was played by Mrs. T. H. Percival the groom entered the parlor, in company with his friend, Mr. J. M. Church, of the Union Bank, Carleton Place. In due time the bride entered leaning upon her father's arm and attended by her little niece, Marion Percival, who as maid of honor carried a basket of flowers. The bride was beautifilly attired in a gown of cream silk grenadine, handsomely trimmed with applique lace, and carried a large bouquet of roses. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. S. Jamieson, M. A. in the presence of a small circle of relatives and friends. After the nuptial rites the company retired for luncheon to the dining hall which was very artistically arrayed. The presents were numerous unique, and costly. The happy couple took the afternoon train for Montreal and Boston followed by the sincere wishes of true friends that their future may be bright and prosperous.

MUTINY AMONG RECRUITS IN TEXAS

Soldiers Leaving for the Philippines Placed Under Guard

Chicago, March 2.—A special to the Tribune from Annis, Texas, says:

The mutiny among recruits en route to the Philippines has been quelled. The volunteers left for San Antino last evening, under a guard of six recruits from Fort Sam Houston. The car doors were locked, and guards were placed on the platforms.

The trouble was caused b ysome men who were intoxicated.

It is said several men were badly hurt before they were subdued. The recruits arrived here on Wednesday night. They were given their liberty for a few hours while a flaw in their transportation was being arranged. While enjoying themselves, several drank too much liquor, and became unmanageable. The officer in charge attempted to use his authority, but most of the men refused to obey, and fell to fighting among themselves.

Assistance from the local authorities was secured, and the more obstreperous of the soldiers were put under guard.

The authorities at Washington were then notified, as well as Department Head quarters at San Antonio, and the latter was asked to despatch troops.

You answered my letter, advised me to use your valuable medicines, viz.: Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and 'Pleasant Pellets,' also gave advice about injections, baths and diet. ATTACK of ROYAL CANADIANS at Paardeberg
The present is a time when war pictures are in greater demand than ever. The conduct of the British soldiers on the battlefield has won the plaudits of admiring nations. We have at great expense published four large, beautiful pictures size 20x24, on heavy, superfine calendered paper. A picture that will commend itself and send a thrill to the heart of every true Canadian is the one called Attack of Royal Canadians at Paardeberg, there are literally hundreds of figures on this picture, the mountains or kopjes stretching out into the distance are swarming with men, while here and there a prostrate figure speaks only too well of the Boer rifleman. It was on this battlefield the gallant Major Arnold met death unflinchingly. Indeed, it is only too true that many of those gallant hearts that beat so high when the cheering thousands bade them Godspeed as they sailed from Canada's shores now lie still forever in lonely graves on the other side of the world under African skies. To every Canadian heart, to every Canadian home, the deeds of their brave soldier boys speak with an irresistible thrill of patriotism and pride. Gordon Highlanders at the Battle of Belmont, Charging the Boer Guns at Elandslaagte and the Charge of Gen. French's Cavalry on the Retreating Gen. Cronje's Army. These are all stirring pictures and cannot fail to commend themselves to anyone who will examine them. They are RED HOT SELLERS! Agents coin money. Big profits. Enormous success. One agent sold 68 in one day. Sample and terms 25 cts (none free); four for 80 cts; $1.75 per dozen; 25 for $3.25; 50 for $6.00; 100 for $11.00 Write to day for a dozen and make money. Mines one mile west of Rossland, directly west of the Le Roi No. 1 and Le Roi No. 2. Four properties. All Crown granted.

THE LeRoi No. 1 once sold for 2 cents and went to $45 per share; and the Le Roi No. 2 £5 shares went to £23, or $110 per share in a few months.

Our memorandum of association contains a provision, provided by Section 56 of the Companies Act, 1897, that the shares are issued as Fully Paid Up and Non-Assessable, and that no further liability beyond the amount actually paid upon shares shall attach to the holders thereof. Capital $250,000.

Our properties are now proved (both above and below ground) to have the same continuous ore veins as the LeRoi Companies, and have the same identical ore and our shares are well worth TWENTY FIVE CENTS now, and will surely bring fifty cents. And we can, with a very small capital, develop our property to such an extent that it can also be placed on the London market, where it belongs—and small investors will make a good profit by buying now.

Our assays have averaged from $5 to $800 in gold, copper and silver and the shipping facilities are the best. The Great Northern Railway runs three times through the ground, three smelters close at hand, and reduced charges of $4.50 per ton for shipping and smelting, and we are now getting ready to start shipping ore.

Irrespective of the merits of the BIG FOUR, we have now over 570,000 shares in our treasury and free from all incumbrance. We are amongst the few local companies that has complied with the law in every particular, and we venture to say have

A WONDERFUL

KIDNEY and Bladder CURE

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, tells how ALKAVIS cured him after Doctors and all other Remedies had Failed.

I. A. HOPKINS.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, GRAVEL, DROPSY,

And Rheumatism Mastered at Last.

One of the most remarkable medical discoveries of the century is the Kava-Kava Shrub, found on the Ganges River, East India, which has a wonderful action on the kidneys and bladder. Since its introduction into this country its fame has quickly spread, because of its seemingly impossible cures. Prominent men and women have testified to its great curative powers, and hospital tests prove its infallibility even in advanced stages of Bright's Disease. Among the more recent recoveries is that of Hon. I. A. Hopkins, Chairman Board of County Commissioners, Ellsworth, Kansas, who says:

GENTLEMEN:—I will say that I believe and know that I owe my life to Alkavis. I had been troubled with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for years. Two years ago I was sick for six weeks with Malarial Fever which left me in a bad condition. My limbs were swollen with Rheumatism so that I could hardly walk; I was troubled with Indigestion from taking Medicine for my Urinary troubles which had become very much worse. I had to get up every hour of the night to urinate. I passed great quantities of blood on account of hemorrhage of the Kidneys and Bladder. I tried and had been trying everything in the shape of Medicine for Kidney Trouble that I could think of or that the Doctors recommended, but nothing helped me for I kept getting worse. I suffered great pain continually in my Kidneys. I made up my mind unless I could get relief that I only had a short time to live. About this time my attention was called to an advertisement of Alkavis. As a drowning man will grasp at a straw, I was ready to try anything for relief. I sent to you for three bottles. I began to take it, and before I had taken it one week I began to feel the good effects of Alkavis. My Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism were soon gone, my digestion became all right. I found myself in better health than for ten years and I am in good health now. I know that Alkavis saved my life. What more can anyone say for a medicine? Unlike most medicines it is good for indigestion. It gives the person taking it a good appetite. I have recommended Alkavis to a great many people and all have been benefited by its use. I am 58 years of age, and am very grateful for what Alkavis has done for me.

Respectfully yours, I. A. HOPKINS.

Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., Washington, D. C., Editor Religious World, writes that after trying all known medicines for kidney and rheumatic diseases he was permanently cured by Alkavis. Mrs. Wm. H. Hardy, East Rush, Pa., writes that Alkavis cured her after six doctors failed. Rev. J. W. Hickman, [illegible], Kansas, cured of liver, kidney and bladder trouble, of many years' standing, from which he could only get temporary relief and had given up all hope of a cure. Thus the grand work goes on. A new book, entitled "A Thousand Living Witnesses," sent with the free case of medicine, tells of the wonderful cures performed in every state.

Not only does this great discovery—Alkavis (the Kava-Kava Compound)—cure all forms of kidney and bladder diseases, but by expelling from the blood all poisonous deposits, excess of lime, uric acid, urates and lithiates, it banishes gravel, torpid liver, rheumatism, pains in back, difficult and too frequent urination, etc. The cure is complete. No phase is neglected, and the stomach, heart and nerves are toned and invigorated. No other medicine in the world will perform the work of Alkavis. To enable sufferers to get well and spread the glad tidings we have arranged to send a Large Case of Alkavis FREE by mail to all who write us. The case goes entirely FREE.

If you are a sufferer, write to-day and secure at once a Free Case of Alkavis and Book of "A Thousand Living Witnesses." Address The Church Kidney Cure Co., No. [illegible] Fourth Ave., New York. Please mention this paper.

MAUDE AND THE JUDGE.

The ex-judge sat in his rustic chair,
Dreaming of days when prospects were fair;

When he was a clerk in a grocery store,
Reading law at night for an hour or more.

Then politics gave him a playful nudge
And set him up on the bench as a judge.

While on his vacation one summer's day
He met Maude Muller at work in the hay.

Now, Maude was as shy as a turtle dove,
So the judge fell heels over head in love.

"Maude, dear," said he, "for pity's sake
Come, be my bride, and give up that rake!"

But Maudie answered and said, "Oh, no;
The chap for me is the man with the hoe."

Pulling off his coat, the judge said "See,
For your sake, Maude, I'll a farmer be."

So the lovesick judge gave up his job
And became a granger—alas! poor slob!

They married and bought a farm on time
And settled down to a life sublime.

For eighteen hours they toiled each day,
Trying the mortgage on the farm to pay.

This happened some forty-odd years ago,
But still the ex-judge wields the hoe.

He is getting stiff in elbow and knee,
For he isn't as young as he used to be.

But he often dreams of what might have been,
For the mortgage is bigger now than then.
—Chicago News.

Nevil's Uncle Jerry.

As the junior partner of the old-established firm of solicitors, Gale, Tempest & Hopkinson, of Lincoln's Inn Fields, I was brought up in closest touch with the office staff.

One old clerk, who had started as office boy to the firm named, was called S. Nevil, but his baptismal patronymic was generally shortened by his confreres into Snivel, a name which described his temperament to a fine point. How he had been kept on so long was a mystery to many, but it was mainly through my instrumentality. The fact is that Nevil fell ill with influenza, and during his absence his daughter called for some wages due him. I saw and was greatly impressed by her. Her manners were those of a woman of gentle birth and breeding, but her face, which was more than beautiful, had those lines of patient suffering which plainly told her story. There was no need to ask her it, for it was plainly enough written. I really guessed that by domestic tyranny he found an outlet for his petty nature which his own sex would not allow him to exercise on them.

After seeing his daughter I resolved that Nevil's place in our office was to be permanent so long as I could use my influence in his behalf, and at Christmas I—but that is outside the story.

One morning as Nevil came into my office with some letters for signature I was struck with his woful appearance, and, as I have foreshadowed my interest in his family affairs, it was natural that I should ask what was the matter with him.

"A dreadful and shameful 'oaks has been played on me, Mr. 'Opkinson, sir," he said. Nevil was always erratic with his h's when "put out."

"Sit down, my man, and tell me all about it," I said, for, much as I disliked the man, I could not help feeling sorry for him, so distressed did he seem.

"You know," he continued, "that I have always looked forward to Uncle Jerry leaving some of his wealth to us when the end came."

"Well, Nevil," I interrupted, "has he died?"

"No, sir; worse than that. I am afraid I would not be so cut up about that, but he has played a dirty trick on me and mine that I am as much disgusted as disappointed."

As I saw he was bursting to tell me his sorrow I told him to proceed with the story of his wrongs.

"You must know that Uncle Jerry last Christmas, as was his usual custom, invited all his poor relations to dine with him.

"The night passed smoothly, excepting that two cousins got excited in a political argument. These evenings wound up with a speech from our host, and then, after singing 'Auld Lang Syne,' we would separate. The speech last Christmas was a memorable one, and I remember each word burnt itself into my memory as it fell from Uncle Jerry's lips.

"'My dear relatives,' he commenced, 'you will be sorry to learn, as I am to announce it, that this gathering, which it has been my pleasure as well as my duty to hold at this season of good-will toward all men, is to be the last.

"'Yes, the last, I grieve to repeat. You are all, I think, aware of the sudden collapse of the company which promised to be one of the greatest and most successful undertakings of modern time. I will be brief, as the subject is to me a painful one. In that company I was foolish enough to invest my money, not so much for myself as for the benefits I could bestow upon my kith and kin. That dream has ended as dreams do—suddenly. My riches have taken to themselves wings. I remember with pleasure the many professions of affection from you all—yes, all—without a single exception. Those presents which you see on the sideboard'—here every one mentally totted up what his own contribution had cost.

"'Those presents are, as you know souvenirs of your affectionate regard and remembrances on my birthdays. I will treasure them as they deserve to be treasured. I am about to try the experiment, a painful one at my age, of existing on £70 per annum, instead of nearly as many hundreds. But I feel confident that such affection as you have always shown me, and such solicitude for my health, was not prompted by mercenary motives. My declining days will be solaced, even under my grievously altered circumstances, by my relatives, who will, I am sure, entertain me, instead of their being entertained.'

"The assembled relations gasped with astonishment at the first few sentences, but before Uncle Jerry concluded his speech, and he was in no hurry, I assure you they had recovered themselves sufficiently to applaud in the right places and to utter platitudes at the end.

"As to myself," continued Nevil, "I was as mad as any of them, but as my daughter and I were walking along our street I was suddenly struck with the notion that it might be a 'plant.' You see, sir, I am a great reader, and in novels and those short stories which one reads in the evening papers rich old uncles have a habit of springing these surprises on their poor relations at such festive gatherings in order to test the genuineness of their professed affection."

"Well, sir, I stopped and danced on the pavement until my daughter caught hold of my arm and said: 'You'll have a crowd 'round us in a minute, father.'

"Next morning I called to see Babblecombe of the Northern Shires Bank, where Uncle Jerry has his account, and told him my suspicions. Babblecombe is under an obligation to me, which I need not specify, and, although this made him inclined to answer my questions, the fear of the bank act prevented his going into details. At last, after a lot of consideration, he said: 'Nevil, you place me in an awkward predicament; you know as well as I do that your questions are irregular. But as I wish to do you a turn I will tell you that I think there is every probability of your being right in your surmises.'

"I could not get anything more definite from him than that, although I tried hard enough. The upshot was that I farmed Uncle Jerry for all I was worth, and more. For I had to borrow money to cover increased expenditures. I first had him to stay with us at Brixton, and then took him as part of the family to Margate, when we went for our holiday, paying all his expenses and keeping him supplied with tobacco, and he smokes no small amount.

"Under proper circumstances, that is, according to novelists and story writers, I should have been rewarded with a handsome check and ultimately been his sole heir when he died, but no such luck for me.

"Suddenly, one morning, about a month ago, Uncle Jerry said he was going to town, where he intended to take cheap lodgings and look out for some work. From that day to this I have ever seen him, much as I have tried.

"To-day the final blow has been dealt to me. I read in this morning's paper of the marriage of Jeremiah Joskins to Susan Hobbs. No cards. No cake. No presents. Susan Hobbs is a buxom wench about twenty-five or thirty, and is certain to have a squad of children."

Poor Nevil! I could not help laughing at him, for all he looked such a picture of misery. I proposed to the beautiful daughter the next day.

Ate the Holy Ghost.

The old blackened weather beaten church among the pines stood on the summit of the hill. It was during the semi-annual revival. The preacher had been at the business of calling sinners to repentance for many a year and was acquainted with all the little arts known to the profession in catching them both ways, going and coming. But his plan for this spring was the greatest he had ever practiced and was the talk of the neighborhood.

For nights he had worked it, with the aid of a very young member of the church, the son of one of his deacons and a very sturdy, reliable young fellow. To mystify and rouse his hearers to a frenzy of religious emotion he had thought of the novel plan of having the Holy Ghost descend in the form of a white dove every night.

His co-workers manipulated the Holy Ghost, which was a white pigeon, from the old loft of the church. Before dark John, with the Holy Ghost for company, crept up in the loft and waited patiently for the congregation to assemble. At a certain time in the sermon, John let fly the white pigeon, and the preacher dwelt dramatically upon the Holy Ghost descending upon the people. That always moved his hearers to violent demonstrations and brought many to the foot of the cross.

But one fateful night John had forgotten and left the pigeon in the loft, where it was devoured by a lank, hungry cat. The misfortune was not discovered until too late for John to warn the preacher about bringing in act the third and last.

When the thrilling and intense moment arrived and the preacher cried with a loud voice, saying, "And the Holy Ghost descended on the people," he held out his hands and closed his eyes, as if waiting for the "Peace that passeth all understanding" to rest on his devoted head.

At that trying time the hearers were aroused from their keen expectancy by the agonized whisper of John from a crack in the loft directly over the waiting preacher's head: "Uncle Joe! Uncle Joe! De cat's done eat up de Holy Ghost! Must I let down de cat?"

Humors.

Come to the surface in the spring as in no other season. It's a pity they don't run themselves all off that way; but in spite of pimples and other eruptions, they mostly remain in the system. That's bad.

Hood's Sarsaparilla removes them and cures all the painful and disfiguring troubles they cause. Nothing else cleanses the system and clears the complexion like Hood's.

GEMS

The native music of aboriginal tribe is regarded as of great importance in anthropology, and the recent British expedition to the Torres straits and New Guinea have taken steps to preserve some of them. Some of the songs heard on Murray island are already obsolete, and will, it is believed, die out with the old men of the tribes. "In savage life," says one of the members of the expedition, "the songs of a tribe are its chief heritage."

Brimingham, England, is the only place in which manufacturing crowns is an industry that may be said to flourish. The trade is principally with Africa, where the numerous kings have come to regard a crown as a far more elegant emblem of royalty than the stovepipe hat which they formerly affected. A servicable crown, gaudily decorated with imitation precious stones, may be purchased for quite a small sum.

The Japanese apply one of their many pretty ways to the launching of ships. They use no wine but hang over the ship's prow a large pasteboard cage full of birds. The moment the ship is afloat a man pulls a string, when the cage opens, and the birds fly away, making the air alive with music and the whirr of wings. The idea is that the birds thus welcome the ship as she begins her career as a thing of life.

Colds and Sore Chests

Save Your Children.—When your little one's chest aches and her throat is sore you should take prompt measures to obtain relief and prevent any after weakness of the lungs. Give her a tumbler half full of hot water, to which has been added a tablespoonful of Powley's Liquified Ozone and then cover her up warmly in bed. This condensed oxygen treatment opens the pores, relieves the inflamed parts of the throat and stops the cough right soon. It's mighty seldom that this simple treatment fails to make a complete cure, because the oxygen builds up the system. You can't afford to be without Powley's Liquified Ozone in your house a single day. It is a superb preventive.

This claim occupies an imposing position on a mountain just north of the city; and last, but by no means least, the Sunshine, located two miles east of Salida at Cleora station, on the main trunk line of the great Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, also on the Arkansas river, which in length is one of America's greatest streams.

Another Old Settler Gone

Mr. Gabriel Learmour, of town, received a telegram yesterday informing him of the death of his father, William Learmouth, at the old homestead in Otonabee. He was in the 84th year of his age, thus being one of the oldest settlers in the country.

Mr. Fortye's Condition

Yesterday morning Dr. Boucher, the attending physician, amputated a portion of the third and little fingers of Mr. Fortye's left hand. It was at one time feared that the left foot would have to be amputated, but we are pleased to learn that this will not be necessary. Dod's many friends in town will sympathize with him in his affliction.

A Difficult Job

The Chief of Police has issued a warning to those living within the snow by-law limits, that all slush, water and ice must be removed at once. This is an impossible task in many places, as the sidewalks are lower than the streets. On Water street for instance, yesterday, the walks were flooded opposite Victoria Park.

Laid at Rest

The funeral of the late Mr. W. J. Young, which took place on Sunday from his late residence, Young's Point, to the Roman Catholic cemetery there, was very largely attended, many driving out from Peterborough and other distant points. Many beautiful floral offerings were laid on the casket, testifying not only to the high regard in which deceased was held, but also to the sincere affection which was bestowed upon him.

Well Known Buyer Dead

Mr. Alexander J. Johnson, buyer for the Wyld-Darling Company, Toronto, died Sunday in New York Hospital of heart and lung trouble. He was crossing the Atlantic on his way home when he was taken down. Word was sent to Mrs. Johnson a week ago that her husband was in the hospital, so she started for New York immediately, and was there when her husband died. Mr. Johnson was well known to the woollen trade of Canada, and was highly respected, almost every merchant tailor of the Province knowing him as one of the experts in wool materials. He was 50 years old, and was employed by the old firm of Wyld, Grasset & Darling about 30 years ago.

Treated as Criminals

Talking about law reforms, The Times would like to know if anybody can give a good reason why jurymen should frequently be treated as though they were criminals and kept locked up in jail? We all know of course, that the theory is to prevent them being approached by interested parties. Then why not imprison the judge likewise? It is not fair to assume that the "twelve good men and true" will respect their oath? If there is any reason to doubt that, why should a suspected man be allowed on the jury at all? Imprisoning jurors is a physical outrage and a slur on the moral character of men.

How Mr Cochrane Does It.

Toronto Star,—The press of the United States will please notice that in the murder case at Havelock, Ont., although the shooter got into a building with a rifle and threatened to fight to the death, nobody got excited. The rural constable just walked up to the house armed only with a blue paper warrant and ordered the man to come out and go to jail, and he came. If armed men had gone fooling around there, half a dozen lives might have been lost.

Smallpox Cases.

Sault Ste. Marie asks the provincial and dominion governments to bear two-thirds of the cost of a smallpox hospital at the Soo, because the disease is brought there by outsiders. If the request is granted it will serve as an excuse for other towns to formulate similar petitions. Peterborough for instance, had two outbreaks of smallpox in the past, and put up every dollar of the cost without aid from outside.

The following Provincial appointments have been made;—M. L. MacKinnon of Tiverton, J. C. Milligan of Cornwall, and Geo. E. Buchanan. Toronto, to be notaries public: J. S. Jones Gravenhurst, to be bailiff in the Second Division Court of Muskoka.

A CRAVING.

Nature Hints to Us of Food that is Needed

It is interesting to know that food alone, if of the right kind, will surely cure most diseases.

A young lady in Corry, Pa., was seriously ill as the result of two serious falls, and from overwork, was an invalid for 5 years. She says: "It was impossible to gain strength. I had to lie down most of every afternoon whether I had company, work or pleasure I wanted ever so much to enjoy.

"Two months ago I began using Grape Nuts Food and experienced a gain in strength at once. In less than a week I did not require more than an hour's rest, and now when I have eaten my dinner, of which Grape-Nuts forms the most part, I am not obliged to go to bed, but go to work or play instead. I am always hungry for Grape-Nuts, for they satisfy some craving I can scarcely define.

"A friend of mine is nursing a 6 months old baby, she is inordinately fond of Grape-Nuts Food but found it necessary to forego the luxury of the usual amount because it increased the flow of milk so much as to cause discomfort."

ARE YOU OPEN TO CONVICTION ?

The Use of One Package of

Malt Breakfast Food

Will Prove Its Superiority Over All Other General Foods.

The large majority of intelligent people are always open to conviction when the important subject of food values is discussed.

Many breakfast grain foods now in use serve only to appease the feelings of hunger for a brief time; these foods are not satisfying or healthful; in many cases they are injurious to health because they contain starchy and indigestible ingredients that tax and retard digestion; such foods are feeders of Bright's disease, diabetes, constipation and indigestion.

The use of one package of the now popular Malt Breakfast Food (sufficient for 25 or 30 meals) will convince the most skeptical of its wondrous deliciousness, its satisfying properties, its vim-imparting and strength-giving virtues and its marvellous power to correct disordered digestion. Malt Breakfast Food builds, braces and energizes. It is the Health Food par excellence for young and old. Your Grocer will recommend it.

A Good Move.

There has long been a demand for a bill such as Mr. Smith, M. P., for Wentworth and a practical fruit grower, has introduced in parliament providing for the establishment of a uniform berry box. A WIDESPREAD TROUBLE IN SPRING TIME.

Pain's Celery Compound the Only Remedy that Cures and Saves life.

One of the most prevalent and fatal of troubles at this season is Kidney disease.

It comes on as silently as a cat steals upon its prey, and too often wrecks life before the victims are fully aware of their danger.

Do not disregard the early symptoms of Kidney disease, some of which are backache, constipation, indigestion, with headache, and a constant call to make water which has abundant sediment of a bricky color.

The prompt and honest use of Paine's Celery Compound will quickly banish every symptom of disordered Kidneys. The great medicine has cured and given a new life to thousands in the past; it will do the same work for all sufferers to-day.

Mr. M. Maher, Hairdresser, St. John's, Nfld., says:

"I suffered terribly for two years from Kidney trouble and Dyspepsia. I was completely rundown and could not eat or sleep One of the ablest city doctors attended me, but no good results followed his work. Happily, a friend advised me to use Paine's Celery Compound. I procured a supply, and the first dose relieved me. I have used eight bottls, and now sleep well, appetite is good, and I am as strong as ever before. I recommend Paine's Celery Compound to all."

Canada Life

54th Annual Report.

The 54th Annual Meeting of the Canada Life Assurance Company was held on the 27th of February. The meeting was harmonious, and the following report shows the Company to be in a sound and flourishing condition:

THE QUEEN'S DEATH.

The 54th Annual Report of the Directors is submitted beneath the lingering shadows of the death of our late beloved Queen, under whose long reign this company has grown from its foundation, in 1847, to its present strong position.

THE YEAR'S BUSINESS.

The number of policies with first premiums actually paid for in cash during 1900 was 2895, representing assurances of $6,397,913.53. This was $868,242.58 larger than the new business paid for in the previous year. Of the above amount $4,416,510.33 represents the Canadian buisness. Coming now to business originating strictly within the past year, the number of applications received was 2210, for $5,108,354. The number of policies issued and revived was 2170, and the amount of assurances granted (including new reversionary additions), was $5,556,635.55 It is gratifying to be able to announce that a satisfactory increase in our business has been shown for the first two months of the current year over the corresponding period of the last and previous years. The total assurances now in force amount to $81,039,083.

THE INCOME.

A substantial increase has taken place in our premium income, which amounted to $2,951,687.33, or including considerations for annuities, to $3,055,905.33. The income from Interest amounted to the large sum of $906,426.27. These figures exceed the highest point yet reachd by the Company, both as to premiums and interest.

THE PAYMENTS.

For the first time in the Company's history, the claims by death exceeded the million dollar mark, the payments amounting to $1,112,367.43. which however was well within the amount expected. Including bonus additions, the death claims and endowments paid amount to $1,291,480.28, while the dividens to policy-holders reached the large sum of $865,880.75.

The total payments to policy-holders and annuitants amounted to $2,282,840.56.

Omitting all annuity transactions, the actual expenses of management for the year (including taxes and Government fees) amounted to 14.93 per cent off the income from premiums and interest. This percentage is less than the corresponding one for the previous year. In this connection, a respectful protest should be entered against the unfair measure of taxation which life insurance companies are subjected to by some Provinvial and State enactments.

THE ASSETS.

Owing to the temporary stringency in the money market during the past year, little difficulty was experienced in securing desirable investments. The assets of the Company increased during the year by $1,284,142.02, notwithstanding the large payments of policy-holders. The total assets now amount to $22,648,204.08, being more than double the amount reported ten years ago.

THE LIABILITIES.

The valuation basis at present adopted is Actuaries 4 per cent. for old business Hm. 3 1-2 per cent for new bonus additions and annuities, and Hm. 3 per cent. for policies issued since 31st December, 1899. After providing for these liabilities and for the Special Reserve towards the new standard, as well as for all other liabilities to policy-holders, there remains a surplus on policyholders' account of $1,005,513.35. At 31st December last, the paid-up capital stood at $383,900.00.

In view of the strength of the Ordinary and Special Reserves, and of the amount of surplus alloted at the recent Quinquennial Division, it is a matter of satisfaction that the Company is thus shown to be such a strong and prosperous condition. The lapse of twelve months has only served to strengthen the opinion of the Directors as to the wisdom of the action taken a year ago in reference to the Reserve Fund.

A RETROSPECT AND FORECAST.

With a valuable accumulated experience of nearly 54 years; with a long-established reputation for solidity, integrity and enconomy; with assets revalued and held upon a conservative basis; with reserves largely in excess of Government requirements; with new plans of assurance and liberal policy contracts; the Company enters upon the new century with renewed energy, and resources and equipment requisite to meet the strain of a financial crisis, if it appears, or to reap the advantages of prosperous periods as they recur.

GEO. A. COX, President,
R. HILLS, Secretary.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

The President, Hon. George A. Cox, in moving the adoption of the report, said:

The Report of the Directors is so comprehensive as to render unnecessary any very lengthy remarks from me on this occasion.

I venture to think that our Financial Statement this year is one that will command the confidence of the public in the sound and prosperous condition of the Company. Indeed, the Balance Sheet does not, perhaps, fully reveal the strength of the Company. To do this, it is necessary to see in what position the Company would stand were our liabilities measured upon the same basis as that adopted by Canadian and American standards of valuation. As most of you are aware, the Directors of this Company, as far back as 1890, commenced to look forward to a change of valuation basis from a 4 1-2 per cent. rate of interest, and the progress we have made from that time to this is best illustrated by showing what surplus margin the Company would now have, if its policy liabilities were valued first, upon the usual American standard; and, secondly, upon the Dominion Government standard.

THE STRENGTH OF THE COMPANY

As will be seen from our financial statement, the surplus upon policy-holders' account, according to the Company's standard, is now $1,005,513.53. Now if we adopted the usual American valuation standards (Actuaries 4 per cent.), and had set aside no special reserve fund towards a higher standard, our surplus upon policy-holders' account would have been $1,673,415.00.

Similarly, upon the Dominion Government standard (Hm. 4 1-2 per cent. and 3 1-2 per cent. for new business), our corresponding surplus would have been approximately $2,674,000.00. The relative positions are thus shown to be as follows;

Surplus on policyholders' account, as per Company's standard	$1,005,513.53
Surplus on policyholders' account as per American Government standard	1,673,415.00
Surplus on policyholders' account as per Canadian Government standard	2,674,000.00

While our position is thus shown to be a strong one, I do not believe it errs on the side of being too strong, in view of the transformations that are now taking place in the financial world generally, and, by many leading companies in particular. The great benefits that will accrue to our policyholders on account of the increased earning power now established will become more and more manifest as time elapses.

The above figures also indicate how much ground would now have to be made up had the Directors been content during the past ten years to await legal requirements before preparing to meet the signs of the times, but I do not suppose any intelligent person would now maintain that that would be a desirable position for so prominent a company to be placed in.

The large benefits that are now conferred upon the holders of the Company's policies are shown by the report, from which it will be seen that $2,282,840.36 was distributed to policyholders by way of death claims and matured endowments, profits, surrender values and annuities.

THE COMPANY'S GROWTH

The present magnitude of the Company and its growth from small proportions is shown in the following table, by quinquennial stages:

	Assurances in Force (Gross).	Annual Income (Gross).	Total Assets.
1850	$ 314,903	$ 27,338	$ 41,973
1855	2,349,609	83,905	217,758
1860	3,565,407	133,446	664,627
1865	4,013,248	141,948	717,379

The business in force on 31st December last was $81,039,083.

About $1,300,000 of business was cancelled by death or maturity. Considering the age and size of the Company, we must naturally expect large terminations in this way. It is satisfactory to be able to state that the death claims incurred were materially within the amount provided for and expected. It is also pleasing to note that the amount of policies surrendered was only about four-fifths of 1 per cent. of the business in force, a percentage that will be recognized as very small indeed for a progressive Company.

The premium income of the Company shows a substantial natural increase besides a material addition from single premiums growing out of the Quinquennial Division, as well as larger annuity considerations than we could perhaps expect for the current year.

During the past year the Company resumed the transaction of annuity business. The continued fall in interest rates and the increasing difficulty experienced in obtaining desirable investments has turned the attention of many persons with means in this direction, and it is hoped that a substantial business will be done in this way.

THE CAPITAL

Since our last Annual Meeting, the shareholders, acting quite within their own rights, and in what they believed to be the best interests of both the policy-holders and shareholders, decided to pay up in cash their $875,000.00 of subscribed capital. This action upon the part of the shareholders has been misrepresented, chiefly by persons interested in rival companies, and the impression has been conveyed to the public that it was for the purpose of enabling them to allot to themselves a larger proportion of the profits; but the untruthfulness and absurdity of this will be apparent when it is remembered that the Company's charter definitely and clearly enacts that not more than one-tenth of the profits can, under any circumstances be allotted to the shareholders, the remaining nine-tenths going to the policy-holders, who cannot, therefore, suffer in any way whatever by the calling-up of the capital; while, on the other hand, their security is enhanced by an additional $875,000.00, making, in all, $1,000,000 of cash capital, every dollar of which stands between the policyholder and any possible loss.

The Company has been criticized in the past because of its insignificant capital of $125,000, receiving a dividend of 30 per cent., and we must now expect that it will be criticized by its opponents because it has a cash capital of $1,000,000, notwithstanding that the dividend has been reduced to 8 per cent., and will not exceed that rate.

It is well to remember that nine-tenths of the profits secured to the policy-holders by the Act of Incorporation will be found quite as favorable as those of any other company—stock or mutual—doing business on this continent, while the shareholders place their million dollars of capital at stake as a guarantee of efficient, economical and conservative management.

UNFAIR TAXATION

A reference is made in the report to the unfair measure of taxation imposed upon life insurance companies, and I may mention that last year we were required to pay, in taxes and Government fees, over $27,000, and this sum is classified among the expenses of management, although uncontrollable in its nature, and for which the Company derives but little benefit. In Ontario, life insurance companies are required to contribute to the Province taxes out of all fair proportion to other financial institutions, and it is sincerely to be hoped that some relief will be granted by the Legislature at an early date.

OFFICIAL AUDITS AND GOVERNMENT INSPECTION

Attached to the Report is the Auditors' Certificate, as well as that of the Investment Committee, and I may add that our accounts, covering the present report, have also been passed upon by the Government Inspector.

I have much pleasure in moving the adoption of the report.

Mr. F. W. Gates, Vice-President, said:

In rising to second the adoption of another Annual Report, I do so with no small degree of satisfaction. Year after year, I have had this pleasing duty to perform, and each added year seems to find the Company growing stronger as it grows older. It is now 43 years since I was first elected a Director, and 24 years since the added honor of Vice-President was conferred on me. I have thus been privileged to see this Company rise from small proportions to its present commanding position, and I do not think that the Company was ever in a sounder financial condition than it is to-day, nor do I know of one that should have as strong claims upon intending insurers as the Canada Life. At the present time, established life assurance companies are passing through a transition period due to the necessary readjustment of their policy liabilities. Each company must work out this problem in its own way, according as the particular circumstances may warrant. As the oldest Company in the Dominion, it has fallen to our lot to lead the way in the solution of this problem. In the performing of this necessary duty, we have in some instances been misunderstood, and in other instances grossly misrepresented by designing parties, but on the whole we are satisfied with the many evidences of appreciation of what has been done during the past year in the permanent interests of the policyholders. As has been frequently pointed out, the Company's policyholders will themselves reap the advantage of this readjustment, through the greater dividend-earning power of the Company, thus created, as well as the added security established.

Owing to the unusually large volume of business written two years ago, in anticipation of increased premium rates, it was not to be expected that last year would be specially noted for the number of new policyholders secured; but, considering all the existing conditions, I think we have made very good progress in this respect, and evidences are not wanting that the current year will be even better than the last. After all, quality is better than quantity, and a satisfactory profit-earning power is of more importance than a large new business.

There is one phase of life insurance in Canada to-day that I would like to allude to. Judging from a long experience, as well as from existing conditions, I believe that a word of warning should be sounded as to the danger of investors, as well as to the community, that exists on account of the disposition to establish new life insurance companies. Because a few companies successfully established themselves a few years ago, under conditions very different from the present, it is now too readily assumed that this process can be repeated, notwithstanding the large number of companies now striving to secure the limited population of this country. The keen competition now existing and the insurmountable obstacles to the successful flotation of a new company should make intending investors cautious of lending their names and capital to an enterprise whose success is, at the best, very doubtful. I think there can be no doubt that great benefit would accrue to the community if a consolidation of some of the smaller interests were the order of the day, in place of an unwise ambition to establish new companies. That there are now too many companies is beyond question.

Mr. Chairman, I second the adoption of this Report, with great pleasure, and, before sitting down, perhaps you will allow me to say that, while it would be presumptuous in a person of my age to hope to see much of this new century, upon which we have entered, I have every confidence that the Canada Life Assurance Company will continue successfully on its way, firm in its foundations, tried in its principles, and distributing its invaluable benefits to future generations.

It is printed on each certificate that subscribers to the above Preferred Shares will be entitled to receive in Dividends the full amount of money invested, before other stockholders receive any returns, signed by the President of the Company.

This district produced more Gold in 1900 than any other in the United States

This property consists of 3000 by 3000 feet, or 200 acres, of gold land. The mine has been worked. The feature of this mine is the Veneta Vein, 30 to 40 feet in width, and is certainly one of the strongest veins in this famous district. There are some fifteen openings on this vein, the ore from which assays in gold from $12 to $100 per ton. The property is advantageously located for development by tunnel, which will make it possible to produce an enormous amount of ore daily, the quantity varying from 200 to 500 tons per day. The development by TUNNELING is the most economical and advantageous manner of working this property.

At a distance of 800 feet the Tunnel will intersect the Veneta Vein at a depth of about 680 feet, and will also intersect several other veins. The tunnel will cut the Big Horn Mountain 2100 feet deep, and will give this company 2,000,000 tons of ore, worth over $20 per ton.

The new railroad, now practically completed from Colorado Springs, called the Colorado Springs and Cripple Creek road, passes within 2000 feet of this Tunnel.

Adjoining this property is the Colorado Springs TUNNEL Company. In this property at a depth of 400 feet, the Veneta Vein was cut. At this point the vein was fully 20 feet in width, and its value from $20 to $1000 per ton.

There are already in operation mills and smelters sufficient to treat the output of this property, which gives at once cash returns.

Capital Stock $1,000,000. Par Value $1.00 Per Share. 100,000 Shares Preferred Stock at 25c. Per Share.

In buying this stock the purchaser owns a direct title in the Company's property. This Company offers you no watered stock, but a legitimate high-grade gold-mining investment in the Cripple Creek District.

The above offer of Preferred Dividends is an assurance of early returns. After additional machinery is erected, this property will be earning dividends almost equal to its Capital Stock.

WINNING OF THE VICTORIA CROSS

Details of a Brave Deed Performcd by one of the Strathcona Horse

The first Canadian to win the Victoria Cross was Sergt. Arthur Herbert Lindsay Richardson, of the Strathcona's Horse. The winning of the Cross is one of the most thrilling escapades in the war. The story of the gallant deed is just coming to light.

At Walverspruit, near Standerton, on the 5th of July last, thirty-eight members of Strathcona's Corps were pursuing some Boers. Before proceeding very far, they found themselves in an ambush, with two hundred of the enemy on two sides of them at the uncomfortable close quarters of three hundred yards. Hopelessly outnumbered there was nothing for the small party to do but fly back to camp and shelter. They wheeled round and were off, but Corporal McArthur, wounded was left behind. Sergeant Richardson noticed this, and rode back alone to aid his comrade. He dismounted and lifted the wounded man to his horse.

The Boers were quite close and felt sure of capturing him "Throw up your hands," they said. For answer Sergeant Richardson jumped on his horse and galloped off.

A volley of bullets whistled past him as he did so, and the Boers came out of their hiding and pursued the flying man.

Richardson rode straight for camp but a barb wire fence crossed the path and it was impossible for the horse, with it's double burden, to jump it. Turning his horse sharply, Richardson rode by the side of the fence with the object of finding a gap The Boers were now gaining rapidly, and the foremost of the party was only 100 yards away. Others came up and a continuous fire was directed at Richardson.

After racing for 300 or 400 yards the sergeant came to a gap in the fence. The two upper strands of wire were broken, but the bottom line about a foott from the ground, remained intact. Richardson turned his horse toward the opening, and spurred it for a final effort. The animal, tired by thee pace, and the weight it bore, refused. Nothing daunted, the sergeant turned his horse for another attempt. He would have failed again but for a Boer bullet, more accurate than the rest, which missed the rider but hit the horse. The animal gave a sudden plunge and galloped madly forward. The Boers gave up the chase and Richardson and his comrade reached the camp in safety, but the horse paid the penalty of their rescue, for it dropped dead an hour later. He was a popular man in the corps before his rescue of McArthur made him a hero.

KING EDWARD TO GIVE HIM A PEERAGE

Son of the Duke of Cambridge Will Receive Honors

London, March 4.—The first batch of honors bestowed by King Edward are likely to be published before the departure of the Duke of Cornwall and York for Australia. These include the recognition of the old and faithful servants of the late Queen's household as well as personal friends and kin. The most sensational of all is likely to be in the Royal house itself. This refers to Colonel Augustus Charles Frederick Fitzgeorge, son of the Duke of Cambridge, and Mrs. Fitzgeorge.

It was long a sore point with the late Queen how to dispose of the difficulty of a proper recognition of the family of her cousin, the Duke of Cambridge. Although, according to the old law, his marriage to Mrs. Fitzgeorge was not considered other than a morganatic one, yet the Queen always recognized the lady as her cousin, and to the children, Windsor, Balmoral and Buckingham Palace were wide open.

The Duke felt keenly the implied slight on the lady who was lawfully his wife, but who never was able to take her position as Duchess. Colonel Fitzgeorge, the third surviving son, has won his way by sheer ability, in addition to his royal connections. After thirty-five years' service in the army, and accompanying Lord Napier, of Magdala, and the Prince of Wales on their Indian tour, he now acts as equirry to his father.

The King has been known to object to the perpretation of what he considers a wrong done to an immediate relative, and will mark as one of his first official acts of his reign by applying the only remedy in his power, Colonel Fitzgeorge will probably be created a peer of the highest rank.

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL WORK

Some Interesting Information From the Annual Report.

WORK OF CONSTRUCTION

What Has Been Done During the Past Year—The Superintendent Engineer's Annual Report.

The appended report on the Trent Valley Canal covering the work done during the past year has been submitted to the Department of Railways and Canals by Mr. R. B. Rogers, Superintending Engineer:—

Superindending Engineer's Office
Peterboro' August 24, 1900.

Sir,—I have the honor to submit the annual report on the works on the Trent canal under my charge for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1900.

The Trent canal is a term applied to several water stretches lying for the greater part along the valley of the Trent river, between the Bay of Quinte, on Lake Ontario, and Georgian Bay, on Lake Huron, which, however, in their present condition do not form a continuous line of navigation. The object of the works at present going on is to connect these several water stretches by short canals so as to form a continuous line of land-locked navigation from Lake Huron to Lake Ontario. A glance at the map of the district will show how comparatively small the length of waterway to make or improve the length already provided by nature in the way of its beautiful and deep lakes and rivers, The total distance between Lake Huron and Lake Ontario is about 200 miles. By utilizing the numerous lakes and rivers, and taking advantage of the natural features of the land to make flooded reaches it is hoped that not more than 15 or 20 miles of the total length will be actual canal. The Imperial Government as far back as the year 1833 chose this route as being the most natural and feasible to make a water communication between Lake Ontario and Lake Huron and they spent considerable sums accruing out this project, and in fact a sufficient sum of money was voted by the Government at the time to construct that part of the work lying between Lake Ontario and Balsam Lake. The works then constructed have ever since been used for local traffic.

When the two divisions at present under construction are completed, a continuous line of navigation between Heeley's Falls and the ports on Lake Simcoe, a distance of about 160 miles, will then be available. Though a draught of six feet is provided on all the sills the lands necessary to flood for a draught of eight feet has been purchased on the new sections at present under consideration, so that if required a draught of eight feet could be provided at a comparatively little extra cost.

Maintenance—Navigation closed on the upper reach December 2, 1899, and opened April 24, 1900. On the lower reach navigation closed November 27, and opened April 24, 1900.

The height of water on the mitre sills of the locks are very fair throughout the season, though there is still room for much improvement in regard to the regulation of the water on the different reaches. The regulation of the water is under three different managements, namely, the Dominion Government, the Ontario Government and the lumbermen, consequently it is not surpriaing that there are complants regarding the management of the water during the dry season. Owing to the immense country drained, and the country being every year more cleared, the proper regulation of the water becomes more difficult. The regulation of the water laso between Peterborough is, under the present circumstances very unsatisfactory. Owing to the mills at Lakefield using all the surplus water, any temporary stopage in the mills almost stops the entire flow, in consequence of which the mills below are often stopped for a time. If the mill-owners at Lakefield were to notify the caretaker of the dam at Lakefield when it was necessary to stop temporarity for repairs the cause of complaint would be removed.

With reference to the water supply it is not generally known that such a vast system of reservoirs exists as there are in the country to the north of the direct route of the canal. From a recent survey of these reservoirs it was ascertained that there are over 60 dams at present constructed which control about 70,000 acres of water in which over 25 million cubic feet of water can be stored, not considering the large quantity that can also be stored by many dams which could be constructed but which do not at present exist. The proper storing and regulating of the large quantity of water above referred to is a most important matter, not only to navigation but to the vast commercial interests that are located along the valley of the Trent.

The total number of lockages for the season was 4,491, being about 20 per cent. of an increase over those of last year, though this does not fairly represent the traffic on the canal, as owing to many of the longer routes of the steamers not passing through a lock no record of the traffic is kept. There are 23 steamers engaged in commerce on the reach between Lakefield and Balsam Lake, besides a like number of small steamers belonging to private individuals.

There are 7 steamers on the reach between Peterborough and Heeley's Falls and several on Lake Simcoe. Many of the larger steamers are of considerable size; some of them carry as many as 150 passengers.

REPAIRS.
